The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made for general use, having batteries that generate a strong current of electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Hundreds of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Loss of Manhood, etc., that the old methods of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of means is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply the body with the missing nerve force or power, and restore vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It is most assuredly cured.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 8 1906.

A MAN OF TO-DAY.

Eighteen years ago an almost impecunious young Oxford undergraduate, troubled with incipient consumption, went to South Africa. With but little money and poor health he scarcely seemed fitted for the rough colonial life of those days. The man was Cecil Rhodes, to-day a multi-millionaire, Prime Minister of the Cape of Good Hope, the dominating figure among colonial statesmen, a member of the Privy Council and a personal friend of the Prince of Wales. His first care after arrival at the Cape was to make a fortune. He went to Kimberley and plunged there until old-time speculators stared aghast and prophesied ruin of the man who ventured his all in every speculation. The reverse happened. In few years Rhodes was worth $5,000,000. Then he went in for politics and carried Kimberley, the scene of his speculations, by a large majority. He was as successful in politics as in money-making. He had the confidence of the progressive English faction he gained that of the Afrikaner element opposed to British domination. Once this was done he boldly declared that the Cape should be ruled by her own people and not by "the old stagers" of Downing street, who knew nothing of the needs, the capacities and the people. His stand made him the idol of the colony and he became Prime Minister.

His first trait of administrative capacity was the organization of a gigantic gold and diamond syndicate. With the aid of Barney Barnato and Henry J. King, chairman of the Kimberley Stock Exchange, he consolidated four of the biggest mining companies of the district into one huge concern known as the Consolidated De Beers Mines. The shares jumped from par to 200 and Rhodes became the "Diamond King." Then gold was discovered in the Transvaal Republic and Rhodes & Co. put some sixty mining companies on their feet to work the section. They coined money. Rhodes did not stop here. He organized the South Africa Company and gathered in Mashonaland. This brought him into conflict with the Portuguese, who had an eye on that fair country. The Portuguese Governor of the Zambesi district insulted the British flag and instigated Lobengula to break the agreement to allow a free road through Matabeleland. The Portuguese Governor was taken prisoner, conveyed to Cape Town and shipped off to Portugal, and Lobengula was thrashed. The South Africa Company was reviled in the British press, Lobengula was declared a martyr and Rhodes a bloodthirsty tyrant. The company paid a handsome dividend and Rhodes became more powerful than ever.

What is Rhodes' ultimate object? The man is a man of action, not of theory. He studies history by the light of events and facts. He has put this question to himself: What race has proved itself the most capable of carrying out the work of progress and civilization not only in South Africa but the world over? Not the Dutch, not the Portuguese, but the Anglo-Saxons. Having satisfied himself of this, Cecil Rhodes is painting the map of South Africa a British red.

There are others who say that he will some day throw off the yoke and found a South African republic. That is a question of the future. Physically, Cecil Rhodes is a big, broad shouldered man with a very striking face lit up by blue eyes. He is a fearless horseman, a first-class shot, a capital swimmer, and one of the best wrestlers and runners of war men in the Cape. As a public speaker he is very simple but

ADVANCED WOMEN.

THEY ARE ABLY DEFENDED FROM A SENSELESS ATTACK.

Healthier Than Their Indolent Sisters and Possessors of the Beauty of Intellectual—Shining Examples of Persons and Performances.

There are many people of otherwise excellent intelligence who take an insane or maudlin delight in attacking women. They turn up about once a year, as the hares do in March, and with a cacophonous howl pour out the few minims of their vial of wrath upon her devoted head. Then, with a melodramatic chuckle, they vanish into the obscurity of their alleged thought and hibernation for an indefinite period.

This time the offender is a woman, and the offense appears in the columns of The Sun in the form of what purports to be an argument that advanced women advance and agitating women agitate merely because they are not beautiful.

The cleverness and charming diction of the lady's screed render it enjoyable for the moment and sweeten the sting which it contains. It well illustrates the old saw "of serving the devil in heaven's liver." It is bad enough for men, especially those who have never been married and who are brought up by a stepmother, to decry the sex, but it is much worse when an able woman indulges in a tirade embodying the platitudes of old fogies, the opinions of dullards in whose brute brain no new idea ever burst into being, and the poetic but somewhat florid tergiversation of her own intellect. Still, however, there is a certain force to the lady's letter. Just as the temperance orator likes to have a drunkard in his audience to point out as a terrible example and to illustrate the exceeding sinfulness of gin, so the fact of the attack shows that there are women of some mentality who cannot be and will not be advanced, and to whom such things as a thorough education, a broad culture and a high moral purpose are either meaningless terms or something, like the measles, to be avoided.

There are advanced women and advanced women. Dr. Mary Walker and Miss Mary Johnson represent one type in their own esteem, and the correspondent of The Sun represents another, very different from the first, but equally objectionable and discordant. The true advanced woman is one who develops her intellectual nature as far as she can and wants society to do the same with all womankind by the same means as they employ in converting the boy from the farm and the forest into the university graduate, the scientist and the statesman. The advanced woman believes that life is not a mere course of enjoyment, had or pursued, but an existence which should contain some lofty moral or spiritual purpose. She believes in the efficiency of intellectual and moral effort, no matter where it is applied, whether in establishing a ragged school or a club for political study; in making a mineralogical collection or in pleading the cause of temperance; in starting a Chautauque circle or in instructing poor young women in embroidery, drawing or technical design; in founding kindergartens where little folks may be rationally developed, or in conducting trade schools where men can be made into skilled workmen. It is not a new type. There have been hundreds and thousands of such women the world over. The only thing is that these St. Johns were isolated individuals, while today their name is legion, and they are endeavoring to so improve the social world as to make their type universal. It is against this type that The Sun's correspondent kicks, with the usual accompaniment of much noise and a leveling of long ears.

There is a small amount of argument in her article, but it is buried beneath a wilderness of piousness, mixed metaphor and alliteration sentences. Her opening premise that all advanced women are ugly to hideousness is as false as it is foolish and could have been made only by one who recklessly fits facts to a theory, or who has never been admitted across the threshold of literary and intellectual society.

The truth is that advanced women are as a class handsomer and healthier than any other, no matter whether it be the Ford Hundred or the mad army of authors of erotic literature. Beyond mere physical comeliness they possess the beauty of intellectuality and of a finely developed moral character. These indefinable charms have always been regarded as the greatest attractions of the individual possessing them. They appeal to the world, whether it be from the face of a Goethe, a Webster and a Hawthorne or Mme. Recamier, Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Harriet Beecher Stowe. It must be admitted, however, that there are men and a few women to whom these things are unintelligible, who vote intellectually a bore, treat culture and pedantry as one and prefer the voluptuous graces of a courtesan to the spiritual loveliness of a saint or a Madonna.

That the advancement of woman does not involve any physical deterioration, but, on the contrary, tends to develop the body, may be seen by anybody who will visit Vassar, Oberlin or the other institutions of learning whose doors are open to her sex. The scholars, and especially those in the senior year and among the alumnae, are usually splendid specimens of vigorous young womanhood. The "sweet girl graduates" of Tennyson's poem are turned out by thousands every year in our land. They are larger, stronger and more symmetrical than are the girls who have staid at home, "come out" at 16 and been through three seasons.

They are also healthier as well. Dr. Sargent, who is the best authority on the subject and has taken the measurements and other statistics of thousands of women, asserts that college bred women are physically superior to all others of the same social class and stand far better the strain of either married or professional life.—Margherita Arlino Haman in New York Sun.

Veda.

It is quite as important to wear clean vells as fresh under linen. But clean vells be washed some one asks. Most vells can, but when you own a mesh that will not bear cleansing discard it when it shows the least signs of soil. In certain parts of Switzerland they use the following method of washing lace vells: If the veil is white, it should carefully be washed in lukewarm water, loosely wrung out and rinsed in cold water. It should then be half dried by being clapped between the hands and finally hung out to dry completely. If the veil is black, mix a little oil of gall in warm water and pour this over the veil, afterward rinsing in cold water. For stiffening purposes a weak solution of gum called "gum water" is used in place of starch, and the drying process is the same as for the white veil.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

ALL ABOUT THE CHOR TROUBLES OF COOKE'S CHURCH.

There was no Choir Singing in the Church yesterday. The Soloists & Co. of the Choir were absent. The Choir Choked Out.

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—There will be choir in Cooke's Church tomorrow. The choir will not be re-organized until a new choir can be got together. A letter to the press says that the lady who was expected to lead the choir, the elder and trustee, would state the facts of the case and remove the blame which has been upon her shoulders. She has found out, however, that those who praise her singing, shake her hand and say all manner of nice things about her, have made a scapegoat of her, and the writer of the letter relates the following in order that the lady's story may be known:

OBJECTED TO HER ABSENCE.
The choir practice on Friday for Sunday services and a vocal members objected to Miss McCutcheon's absence from these practices, even when she had engagements to fill. They passed a resolution that anyone not present on Friday should not sit in the choir on Sunday. On the following Friday Miss McCutcheon had an engagement which prevented her from attending practice and in accordance with the resolution, sat in the family pew on Sunday morning. Her absence was noticed by the pastor who enquired as to the reason. In the afternoon two of the Soloists called at her residence and told her not to mind the resolution as it had not the sanction of the Session, but to take her place. They further told her that they knew her engagements would keep her from practice but that was not to prevent her from taking her seat on Sunday in the choir.

AT THE REQUEST OF OFFICIALS.
The choir is under the control of the Session, and it was at the request of the controlling body that Miss McCutcheon had been in opposition to the resolution. As the officials have not deemed it necessary to come forward and exonerate her from the blame, Miss McCutcheon has determined that she will not give them another opportunity of placing her in an invidious position. She has filled the position of soloist in Cooke's church, without any remuneration for three or four years, and now she is asked to visit a certain competent teacher to see if she is capable of filling that position. She has refused to comply with this request, which means that the young lady will not sing in Cooke's church choir any more.

CARS TOO BIG.
There has been a stoppage of work on the street car loop line at the Union Station owing to a difficulty which was not taken into account when the new building was erected. The idea in the first place was to obviate the necessity of passengers walking from the tracks in the old station through the entire building to Front street and vice versa. The cars would run along Station street, which is virtually in the centre of the station, and with this end in view an archway was built of sufficient height, it was thought, to admit of the passage of the street cars. Assistant City Engineer Rust was at the station yesterday, when he noticed that the archway did not seem to be quite high enough. Measurement proved that Mr. Rust was right. It was about three inches short. The new cars now being used by the Street Railway Company could not get through and accordingly Mr. Rust ordered work on the road to stop.

The G. T. R. does not show any disposition to lower the road so as to avoid the difficulty. They claim that if they did they would greatly inconvenience themselves, as all baggage will have to be transferred from the southern to the northern part of the building across this passage. Local Superintendent Wragge is looking after the Grand Trunk's interest and Mr. Rust will notify President Mackenzie, of the Street Railway Company, to watch out for his. The city is not interested at all.

Lost His Head.
OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—Mr. Albert Hudson, C.P.R. engineer, while riding a motive at Backingham, Ont., today had his right head smashed to a jelly by one of the driving wheels and it was amputated. Hudson recently came into notice by accepting the nomination for the House of Commons of the Labor party in this city.

INGERSOLL, Ont., Oct. 5.—As George Forbes, an old gentleman of 80 years, was crossing the C.P.R. track this morning about 8.15 driving his cow to pasture the cow stopped on the track and the old gentleman went forward to urge her on, when the approaching train struck and instantly killed both man and cow.

Shot His Wife.
CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Edward Moe, a prosperous tradesman, shot and fatally injured his wife today, at a North Market street hotel, to which she had gone with Peter Nelson, a supposed friend of her husband. Moe had been informed of the intended meeting of the couple and followed the couple to the hotel. Breaking down the door of their room, he immediately began firing, emptying his revolver at his wife. Nelson meanwhile made his escape.

Mr. Wm. Goat—
“I had a very narrow escape from death to-day, my dear. I ate one of those lawn mower signs and in process of digestion it cut me several times.”

NANNY GOAT—
“Gracious! William, you always were careless and imprudent in eating. What did you do for it?”

Mr. Wm. Goat—
“Just swallowed a Pond's Extract sign. You know Pond's Extract is the best thing for cuts and lacerations.”

Good substitute.

Chairman.

Councillor Best said the committee couldn't agree as to which should get the contract. He moved, however, that the contract be given to the lowest tender.

Councillor Denne seconded the motion. Councillor Dawson wanted to know where the money was coming from.

Councillor Cahill said there was no appropriation for this extension, nor authority to raise money. He wanted to know where it was to come from.

There was only two ways to raise money. One way was to put it on the roll under current expenses, and that couldn't be done this year. The other way was to get the consent of the citizens to raise it by debentures. He didn't oppose the sewer, but he wanted to know where the money was coming from.

Councillor Dawson asked Councillors Cahill and Sayers for not bringing up this objection three weeks ago before the tenders were advertised for.

Councillor Mason moved in amendment that the contract be given to Messrs. J. J. Hartley and W. L. Innis, and Councillor Cahill seconded this motion, when he made the remarks credited to him above.

The town solicitor was heard and said the Municipal Act empowered the corporation to raise money for such purposes by borrowing from the bank and after borrowing this money can raise the same by debentures.

Councillor Sayers said the Town Solicitor with numerous questions regarding the provisions of the extension by law. He doubted if that by law was any good.

Mr. Edwards said the by-law followed the provisions of the Municipal Act, offering the several alternatives. After the sewer was constructed the cost would be assessed against the property a reasonable fee for it to the whole amount with the exception of street frontage, public buildings or exempted property. In other words the town could build the sewer extension at once, borrow the money now and collect the cost from the property owners who are assessed for it afterwards.

After hearing Mr. Edwards' explanation the council thought everything was satisfactory.

Councillor Stone was in favor of leaving the awarding of the contract over until a special meeting which would be called within a week. He favored giving the contract to Messrs. Hartley & Innis. They deserved some consideration, and as there was no considerable amount between the tender and that of the lowest, Contractor Grant, he favored Hartley & Innis. Mr. Grant had acted childishly in regard to his other contract, because the town saw fit to award a contract to Rutherford & Hogue.

Mr. Winch who is now associated with Mr. Grant, was given a hearing. He said he would have to stand or fall by the tender submitted. He thought he was a pretty old townsmen himself, if it came to a question of giving contracts to townsmen.

Councillor Best said there was a principle involved in the matter. The town should either bar outside contractors from tendering, or award them contracts where their tenders were lowest.

Councillor Cahill expressed himself in favor of the local men, when only $150 stood in the way. Citizens had expended $170,000 in Peterborough in patriotic purposes, to build up the town.

Councillor Best said that Rutherford & Hogue were employing the Toronto men who worked for Grant. The 10 hour a day system was in effect on their contract. They were glad to get Toronto men, and employed whom they liked regardless of local men.

Councillor Dawson said he would vote for Messrs. Grant & Winch. He thought it was to the best interests of the town for them to get the contract.

Councillor Dawson said he was surprised when he learned that Rutherford & Hogue made their men work 10 hours a day at $1.25 per day. Mr. Hogue had told him that they were willing to have the 9 hour a day clause put in the contract. He wanted it scattered broadcast that Rutherford & Hogue were working their men 10 hours a day at $1.25 per day.

Councillor Stone said Mr. Hogue had told him that his men had only worked three days 10 hours, and that was because they got half a day off to go to the show. The men had never to this.

After an extensive discussion the contract was awarded to Messrs. Grant and Winch.

Mr. Martin, does not wish to hold that position, Robert Clinkscales be appointed Street Inspector at a salary of $850 a year, to take effect on Nov. 1st next.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
E. B. STONE,
Chairman.

Councillors Phelan and Stone moved in amendment that the name of Mr. Richard Sheehy be substituted for Mr. McCadden. The amendment was lost and the report was adopted as read.

A REGULAR DEATH TRAP.

The foundation of the building extended about ten feet above the bottom of the basement and on this was erected the platform where the ceremonies were being held. Over 1000 people were struggling on the floor when a section of it containing about 300 people sank under its burden precipitating them into the pit. The section which gave way was in two wings and as it sank it formed a death trap for the people from which there was no chance to escape. The pit resembled an inverted roof of very steep slant, the ends being closed up by stone walls and into this were crowded men, women and children, in one struggling heap. Those at the top of the mass escaped easily but when the pit was partly emptied, those still entombed could not clamber up the steep sides and they trampled on each other like so many wild creatures, the stronger getting on top and the weaker being crushed beneath the great weight.

The old Catholic church was turned into an hospital. The contractors are said to be responsible for the accident. Notwithstanding the disaster the priests completed the ceremony as soon as order was restored.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 8 1896.

IMPORTANT TO LUMBERMEN.

A case of importance and interest to lumbermen has been tried during the past two weeks before his honor Judge Dean, and is now pending judgement says the Lindsay Post. It is an application by Messrs. Mossom Boyd & Co., under the Rivers and Streams Act, to compel all lumbermen running saw logs down the Bob river and over the slide there to pay tolls. The other lumbermen contend that the ownership of the Little Bob channel is in the Dominion government, and that the stream is therefore not one of those effected by the Rivers and Streams Act, which is a provincial statute; also that the dam of Messrs. Mossom Boyd & Co., is a mill dam built for milling purposes and is within the Mill Dam Act, which allows no tolls; also that the Rivers and Streams Act applies only to dams built by lumbermen in the course of their river driving expressly for the purpose of floating logs, so that all using such dams for the same purpose should contribute rateably, and that this dam was not so built, but was built for an ulterior purpose, namely, a mill dam, and for which the applicants hold their consideration the power to drive their mill. The lumbermen contend further that the stream was floatable with the government dam before the Boyd dam was built, and also that the Boyd dam did not improve the floatability of the stream, but rather by reason of this dam being built in the wrong place for saw-log driving the long stretch of dead water, the slide being too narrow, and the Boyd mills occupying the greater portion of the stream—the dam is an obstruction rather than a benefit. The lumbermen contend also that the stream was floatable during freshets in a state of nature, and that now, with the stored freshets which are brought down with their drives, the stream could be run by all their drives, and in any case there being no doubt they could run the Big Bob channel, that now where the government has turned them into Little Bob to keep the big river clear for navigation, they are entitled to a free right of way down the Little Bob. The lumbermen say that any dams and locks which the government has built on the main highway of these waters, while a benefit to steamboat navigation, are no benefit to saw-log driving. The trial occupied five days; a great deal of evidence was given by men expert at saw-log driving and men who had driven logs down the stream, some of them as long as forty years ago. Mr. A. J. Wickham appeared for Messrs. Mossom Boyd & Co., Mr. Walter Cassels, Q. C., and Mr. Thomas Stewart appeared for Messrs. Gilmour & Co. and the Rathburn Co. the lumbermen chiefly interested.

Quebec Mercury—One of the curiosities on board a recent incoming steamship was a professional gentleman, whose wife was an intermediate passenger, while his own precious carcass occupied a first cabin berth. Here's a good solid case for the Council of Women to tackle.

In his after-dinner speech before the Massachusetts club last Saturday Congressman Walker said that the silver issue was dead, and that the only practical issue before the people will be the tariff, and this as a question of principles, rather than of schedules. Congressman Walker has had a great deal to do with the slaying of the silver issue if it is dead. His opinion concerning its status is valuable.

ADVANCED WOMEN.

THEY ARE ABLY DEFENDED FROM A SENSELESS ATTACK.

Healthier Than Their Indolent Sisters and Possessors of the Beauty of Intellectual—Shining Examples of Persons and Performances.

There are many people of otherwise excellent intelligence who take an insane or maudlin delight in attacking women. They turn up about once a year, as the hares do in March, and with a cacophonous howl pour out the few minutes of their vial of wrath upon her devoted head. Then, with a melodramatic chuckle, they vanish into the obscurity of their alleged thoughts and hibernate for an indefinite period.

This time the offender is a woman, and the offense appears in the columns of The Sun in the form of what purports to be an argument that advanced women advance and agitate women agitate merely because they are not beautiful.

The cleverness and charming diction of the lady's screed render it enjoyable for the moment and sweeten the sting which it contains. It well illustrates the old saw "of serving the devil in heaven's livery." It is bad enough for men, especially those who have never been married and who are brought up by a stepmother, to decry the sex, but it is much worse when an able woman indulges in a tirade embodying the platitudes of old fogies, the opinions of dullards in whose brain no new idea ever burst into being, and the poetic but somewhat florid tergiversation of her own intellect. Still, however, there is a certain force to the lady's letter. Just as the temperance orator likes to have a drunkard in his audience to point out as a terrible example and to illustrate the excommunicatedness of gin, so the fact of the attack shows that there are women of some mentality who cannot be and will not be advanced, and to whom such things as a thorough education, a broad culture and a high moral purpose are either meaningless terms or something, like the measles, to be avoided.

There are advanced women and advanced women. Dr. Mary Walker and Miss Mary Johnson represent one type in their own esteem, and the correspondent of The Sun represents another, very different from the first, but equally objectionable and discordant. The true advanced woman is one who develops her intellectual nature as far as she can and wants society to do the same with all womankind by the same means as they employ in converting the boy from the farm and the forest into the university graduate, the scientist and the statesman. The advanced woman believes that life is not a mere course of enjoyment, had or pursued, but an existence which should contain some lofty moral or spiritual purpose. She believes in the efficiency of intellectual and moral effort, no matter where it is applied, whether in establishing a ragged school or a club for political study; in making a mineralogical collection or pleading the cause of temperance; in starting a Chautauque circle or in instructing poor young women in embroidery, drawing or technical design; in founding kindergartens where little folks may be rationally developed, or in conducting trade schools where men can be made into skilled workmen. It is not a new type. There have been hundreds and thousands of such women the world over. The only thing is that these St. Johns were isolated individuals, while to-day their name is legion, and they are endeavoring to so improve the social world as to make their type universal. It is against this type that The Sun's correspondent kicks, with the usual accompaniment of much noise and a leveling of long cars.

There is a small amount of argument in her article, but it is buried beneath a wilderness of pleonasm, mixed metaphor and alliteration sentences. Her opening premise that all advanced women are ugly to hideousness is as false as it is foolish and could have been made only by one who so recklessly fits facts to a theory, or who has never been admitted across the threshold of literary and intellectual society.

The truth is that advanced women are as a class handsomer and healthier than any other, no matter whether it be the Four Hundred or the mad army of authors of erotic literature. Beyond mere physical comeliness they possess the beauty of intellectuality and of a finely developed moral character. These indefinable charms have always been regarded as the greatest attractions of the individual possessing them. They appeal to the world, whether it be from the face of a Goethe, a Webster and a Hawthorne or Mme. Recamier, Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Harriet Beecher Stowe. It must be admitted, however, that there are men and a few women to whom these things are unintelligible, who vote intellectuality a bore, treat culture and pedantry as one and prefer the voluptuous graces of a courtesan to the spiritual loveliness of a saint or a Madonna.

That the advancement of woman does not involve any physical deterioration, but, on the contrary, tends to develop the body, may be seen by anybody who will visit Vassar, Oberlin or the other institutions of learning whose doors are open to her sex. The scholars, and especially those in the senior year and among the alumnae, are usually splendid specimens of vigorous young womanhood. The "sweet girl graduates" of Teanyon's poem are turned out by thousands every year in our land. They are larger, stronger and more symmetrical than are the girls who have staid at home, "come out" at 16 and been through three seasons.

They are also healthier as well. Dr. Sargent, who is the best authority on the subject and has taken the measurements and other statistics of thousands of women, asserts that college bred women are physically superior to all others of the same social class and stand far better the strain of either married or professional life.—Margherita Arlina Hamm in New York Sun.

Vells.

It is quite as important to wear clean vells as fresh under linen. But can vells be washed? Some one asks. Most vells can, but when you own a mesh that will not bear cleansing discard it when it shows the least signs of soil. In certain parts of Switzerland they use the following methods of washing lace vells: If the veil is white, it should carefully be washed in lukewarm water, loosely wrung out and rinsed in cold water. It should then be half dried by being clapped between the hands and finally hung out to dry completely. If the veil is black, mix a little ox gall in warm water and pour this over the veil, afterward rinsing in cold water. For stiffening purposes a weak solution of gum called "gum water" is used in place of starch, and the drying processes are the same as for the white veil.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment. When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

THE TRUTH.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 24, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

FOUND A WATERY GRAVE.

One of the Rathburn Company's Men Drowned in the Bay of Quinte.

Special to The Times.
Kingston, Oct. 8.—At Deseronto last night John Prickett, foreman of the Rathburn Co.'s blacksmith shop, went out with his sons in a sail boat to the Prince Edward shore. His dog remained on the shore and he did not return for a considerable time. The sons procured a boat and went over to see what was wrong when they found the boat, which had apparently drifted on shore, with the dog in it. The body of the unfortunate man was subsequently found in about twelve feet of water. Deceased was an Englishman, 55 years of age, who came to this country many years ago. He was very popular and a skillful mechanic. He was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters and was to have attended the High Court at London this week.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

September Cheese Sales Well—Nearly all Factories Sold.

The Cheese Board met yesterday afternoon in the Town Council chamber. The buyers present were Messrs. Cook, Wrighton, Spence, Madden, Fitzgerald, Hodgson, Jones and Claxton.

There were 5,774 boxes of September boarded and Brooklyn had 80 of August for sale. The highest price received was 81¢. The following factories were boarded: Keene, 100; Warmaster, 110; Shearer, 200; Central Smith, 90; North Smith, 180; Cherry Grove, 124; Warsaw, 230; Westwood, 200; Oakdale, 120; Missing Link, 170; Norwood, 175; Melrose Abbey, 221; Lakefield, 115; Pine Grove, 75; Peterborough, 146; Otonabee Union, 130; Maple Leaf, 275; Myrtle, 117; Ormiston, 225; Young's Point, 85; Lanes, 180; Fraserville, 94; North Dumfries, 73; Bobcaygeon, 250; Lakeview, 100; Trewern, 150; Bensford, 247; Cedarvale, 90; Stony Lake, 58; Ida, 108; Millbrook, 58; Mount Pleasant, 175; Perrytown, 70; Blackstock, 100; Daisy D., 110; Fleetwood, 213; Brooklyn, 125; Orono, 65; Newtonville, 40; Hope, 70.

Mr. Fitzgerald started at 710¢; Mr. Wrighton raised it to 720¢; Mr. Jones lifted it to 730¢; Mr. Fitzgerald to 80¢; Mr. Wrighton went up to 81¢ and Mr. Jones increased it to 81¢. Lakefield, Central Smith, Peterborough, North Smith and Fraserville accepted the offer.

Mr. Fitzgerald started again at 80¢, Mr. Wrighton increasing it to 1-10 and taking Bensford, Trewern, Lakeview, Pine Grove and Missing Link.

Mr. Fitzgerald offered 81-100 and succeeded in securing Otonabee Union, Myrtle, Millbrook, Mount Pleasant, North Dumfries, Ormiston and Cherry Grove.

Mr. Cook bid 81-100 for further selections, Westwood and Norwood being named and accepted.

Mr. Wrighton commenced the offering again at 81-100, and this was not accepted by any of the factories named.

Mr. Fitzgerald started at 730¢, Mr. Jones raised it to 73-100; Mr. Fitzgerald brought it up to 74-100. The latter offer was taken by Stony Lake.

Mr. Hodgson offered 80¢ for further selections, Melrose Abbey, Daisy D., Cedarvale and Ida accepted.

Fleetwood went to Mr. Wrighton at 81-100. Oakdale was taken by Mr. Cook at 81-100.

The factories unable to sell were allowed to sell off the Board and the Board adjourned for two weeks, the whole month of October to be offered.

WITH THE SPORTS.

Imperfect Legislation Furnishes a Loop-hole for the Prize Fighters.

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 8.—If those who have come from Dallas tonight to witness the Corbett-Fitzsimmons will take place in that city. They say work on the big arena was renewed as soon as the news came over the wires that the Legislature had adjourned.

Julian, the representative of Fitz, has reconsidered his determination, and will be at the conference Tuesday night, when the conclusion will be reached. The reliance of the interested parties upon Dallas as the location for the fight is based upon the fact that it is claimed the anti-prize fight law, for which the special session of the Legislature was called, is, in fact, defective, in that its caption only prohibits prize fighting, while the law itself prohibits bull fighting as well as prize fighting. This is in direct contravention of an article in the constitution of Texas, which requires that the subject matter of each bill shall be plainly set forth in the title.

The Chickasaw offer still holds, in the event that the managers decide to pull off the fight at some other place than Dallas. It will be a great contest for supremacy between Angus McLeod and Harry Davidson, who they come together for their attempt at the records at Hamilton the latter part of this week. Both men will go after all the records, and the best man will get them. McLeod refused to divide with Davidson, having determined to attempt to break them all.

Harry Clarke of Denver, a class A rider, rode two miles, unpaired, last Friday at that place in 4:30 4-5, breaking the class A record by 20 seconds and the class B mark by 11 seconds. It is 4-4-5 seconds better than the paced record for Canada, made by Angus McLeod the other day.

Shabel, the Frenchman, who made the attempt to establish a new 1,000 mile record at the Island, did not get any farther than the chestnuts in his effort. He was arrested at that place for stealing a wheel, on a charge laid by John Hoefler, who alleged that last spring Shabel got a wheel from him on the installment plan, and after making a few payments left the city, taking the wheel with him. Shabel says that he will restore the machine, which is in Chicago, providing that they will let him continue his ride.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact is medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. T great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." Mrs. DALTON, 66 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 8 1894.

CHEAPER LIGHT.

Recently the ratepayers of Toronto voted down the proposal to install a civic electric lighting plant. This was no doubt largely due to the fact that the new illuminant, acetylene will soon be introduced for general use. Philadelphia is making arrangements to use this light, which is said to be superior to the ordinary gas, and less hurtful to the eyes than electric light. It is proposed to supply the gas in steel cylinders which can be attached to the present house services at little or no expense. These cylinders will contain a quantity sufficient to light a house of ten to thirteen rooms from three to six months, and the price will be 25 per cent. less than that of gas, which is only $1 a thousand in Philadelphia where the gas works are owned by the municipality.

It would be impossible to select a more suitable city on the continent in which to test the efficiency of the new agent, as it will have to compete with the cheapest gas in America and come into competition with civic control of gas works. If it proves a success in Philadelphia—and the promoters predict 300 per cent. dividends—it should be a success in every city on the continent.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, referring to a test made in that city, says:

"The acetylene light is as far superior to the electric light as the electric light is to the old gas light, and while in appearance it is now a matter of private inspection and wonderment, it will no doubt sweep its way into common use so rapidly that the eyes of man will again hardly be able to account for the transformation going on about him."

It has been demonstrated that the measure of illumination that now costs one dollar will, with the new gas, cost only sixteen cents.

Under these circumstances it would be well for our citizens not to be in too great a hurry in transferring their gas fixtures into electric light fixtures. Peterborough will not be long behind Toronto in securing this new light.

The blowing of a few British and American guns and the crash of a few bursting shells would create in China a wholesome understanding of the principles of civilization and a fine regard for human life.

Tunnelling through the Simplon will begin early next year. There will be two parallel tunnels, each 66,000 feet, or about 12½ miles long, 57 feet apart, and connected at intervals of 225 feet. They will be 15,000 feet longer than the St. Gotthard and 21,000 feet longer than the Mont Cenis tunnels, but will be 1,500 feet lower than the two others, which will diminish the working expenses. It is expected that the work will be completed in five years and a half, three years less time, that is, than was required for the St. Gotthard. The estimated cost is $11,000,000.

The Chicago Tribune says of the epidemic of typhoid fever in that city that nearly 100 patients are now in the hospital, and that the number of persons smitten with the disease is swelled to not far from 1,000 by those under treatment at their homes. The death rate is increasing. Furthermore, it is claimed that the cause of this is traceable to the dumpings of dredgings from the river into the lake near the crib, which contaminates the drinking water of the people; that the attention of the Commissioner of Health was called to this fact weeks ago, and that he did not at once take measures to prevent a continuance of the wild practice.

ADVANCED WOMEN.

THEY ARE ABLY DEFENDED FROM A SENSELESS ATTACK.

Healthier Than Their Indolent Sisters and Possessors of the Beauty of Intellectuality—Shining Examples of Persons and Performances.

There are many people of otherwise excellent intelligence who take an insane and maudlin delight in attacking women. They turn up about once a year, as the bards do in March, and with a cacophonous howl pour out the few minutes of their vial of wrath upon the devoted head. Then, with a melodramatic chuckle, they vanish into the obscurity of their alleged thought and hibernate for an indefinite period.

This time the offender is a woman, and the offense appears in the columns of The Sun in the form of what purports to be an argument that advanced women advance and agitate women agitate merely because they are not beautiful.

The cleverness and charming diction of the lady's screed render it enjoyable for the moment and sweeten the sting which it contains. It well illustrates the old saw "of serving the devil in heaven's liver." It is bad enough for men, especially those who have never been married and who are brought up by a stepmother, to decry the sex, but it is much worse when an able woman indulges in a tirade embodying the platitudes of old fogies, the opinions of dullards in whose brute brain no new idea ever burst into being, and the poetic but somewhat florid tergiversation of her own intellect. Still, however, there is a certain force to the lady's letter. Just as the temperance orator likes to have a drunkard in his audience to point out as a terrible example and to illustrate the exceeding sinfulness of gin, so the fact of the attack shows that there are women of some mentality who cannot be and will not be advanced, and to whom such things as a thorough education, a broad culture and a high moral purpose are either meaningless terms or something, like the measles, to be avoided.

There are advanced women and advanced women. Dr. Mary Walker and Miss Mary Johnson represent one type in their own esteem, and the correspondent of The Sun represents another, very different from the first, but equally objectionable and discordant. The true advanced woman is one who develops her intellectual nature as far as she can and wants society to do the same with all womankind by the same means as they employ in converting the boy from the farm and the forest into the university graduate, the scientist and the statesman. The advanced woman believes that life is not a mere course of enjoyment, had or pursued, but an existence which should contain some lofty moral or spiritual purpose. She believes in the efficiency of intellectual and moral effort, no matter where it is applied, whether in establishing a ragged school or a club for political study; in making a mineralogical collection or pleading the cause of temperance; in starting a Chautauqua circle or in instructing poor young women in embroidery, drawing or technical design; in founding kindergartens where little folks may be rationally developed, or in conducting trade schools where men can be made into skilled workmen. It is not a new type. There have been hundreds and thousands of such women the world over. The only thing is that these St. Johns were isolated individuals, while today their name is legion, and they are endeavoring to so improve the social world as to make their type universal. It is against this type that The Sun's correspondent kicks, with the usual accompaniment of much noise and a leveling of long ears.

There is a small amount of argument in her article, but it is buried beneath a wilderness of piousness, mixed metaphor and alliteration sentences. Her opening premise that all advanced women are ugly to hideousness is as false as it is foolish and could have been made only by one who recklessly fits facts to a theory, or who has never been admitted across the threshold of literary and intellectual society.

The truth is that advanced women are as a class handsomer and healthier than any other, no matter whether it be the Four Hundred or the mad army of authors of erotic literature. Beyond mere physical comeliness they possess the beauty of intellectuality and of a finely developed moral character. These indefinable charms have always been regarded as the greatest attractions of the individual possessing them. They appeal to the world, whether it be from the face of a Goethe, a Webster and a Hawthorne or Mme. Recamier, Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Harriet Beecher Stowe. It must be admitted, however, that there are men and a few women to whom these things are unintelligible, who vote intellectually a bore, treat culture and pedantry as one and prefer the voluptuous graces of a courtesan to the spiritual loveliness of a saint or a Madonna.

That the advancement of woman does not involve any physical deterioration, but, on the contrary, tends to develop the body, may be seen by anybody who will visit Vassar, Oberlin or the other institutions of learning whose doors are open to her sex. The scholars, and especially those in the senior year and among the alumnae, are usually splendid specimens of vigorous young womanhood. The "sweet girl graduates" of Tenneyson's poem are turned out by thousands every year in our land. They are larger, stronger and more symmetrical than are the girls who have staid at home, "come out" at 16 and been through three seasons.

They are also healthier as well. Dr. Sargent, who is the best authority on the subject and has taken the measurements and other statistics of thousands of women, asserts that college bred women are physically superior to all others of the same social class and stand far better the strain of either married or professional life.—Margherita Arlino Hamm in New York Sun.

It is quite as important to wear clean vells as fresh under linen. But can vells be washed? Some one asks. Most vells can, but when you own a rash that will not bear cleansing discard it when it shows the least signs of soil. In certain parts of Switzerland they use the following methods of washing lace vells: If the veil is white, it should carefully be washed in lukewarm water, loosely wrung out and rinsed in cold water. It should then be half dried by being clapped between the hands and finally hung out to dry completely. If the veil is black, mix a little ox gall in warm water and pour this over the veil, afterward rinsing in cold water. For stiffening purposes a weak solution of gum called "gum water" is used in place of starch, and the drying process is the same as for the white veil.

FOUND A WATERY GRAVE.

One of the Rathbun Company's Men Drowned in the Bay of Quinte.

Special to The Times.

Kingsport, Oct. 8.—At Deseronto last night John Prickett, foreman of the Rathbun Co.'s blacksmith shop, went out with his sons in a small boat to the Prince Edward shore. His dog remained on the other shore and Mr. Prickett started alone to get it. The father not returning for a considerable time, the sons procured a boat and went over to see what was wrong.

When they found the boat, which had apparently drifted on shore, with the dog in it. The body of the unfortunate man was subsequently found in about twelve feet of water. Deceased was an Englishman, 55 years of age, who came to this country many years ago. He was very popular and a skillful mechanic. He was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters and was to have attended the High Court at London this week.

Belshazzar's Feast.
NEWARK, Oct. 9.—Mr. C. J. Blake's black ally Belshazzar, won the Casarwits stakes here today.

ALL THE EVIDENCE IS IN.

THE GENERAL BELIEF IS THAT SHORTIS IS A FREAK.

But Was He Sans on That Night?—This is the Point Which the Jury Will Have to Decide. A Sympathy for Prisoner's Parents Manifest—French Translation of the Commissioner's Report.

Beauharnois, Que., Oct. 9.—Practically speaking, the whole of the evidence in the celebrated Shortis case is now in. For the Crown the story of that awful night's work in the cotton mill at Valleyfield has been graphically re-told by John Lowe and Hughie Wilson, while for the defence the important evidence collected in Ireland has not been impressively read. It is not too much to say that the facts disclosed by witnesses heard before Judge Dugas have caused a decided sensation.

It was expected crazy pranks would be enumerated, but that half-a-dozen witnesses would tell of occasions upon which the prisoner discharged the revolver in a reckless and wilful manner, careless alike of human life and natural decency, was not. Who would have expected that one witness would swear that, had it not been for a tree that intervened, he would not have been alive to tell of the shot which had been fired in anger and with felonious intent, or that a father would appear to state that his little child scarcely out of long clothes had her arm scorched by the powder from a pistol discharged at short range?

HOW KNOWN IN VALLEYFIELD.

Shortis, "le grand fou," was the name by which the prisoner was known among the French people of Valleyfield, and Shortis "the idiot," and Shortis "the fool," Shortis "the cracked," were the names by which the same young man was known in Waterford, Ireland. Add to all this the testimony regarding the insanity in the Shortis family, the evidence of the medical faculty of Clonmel concerning uncles and aunts who were mentally irresponsible and confined in asylums, in some cases even dying when insane, and it must be conceded that the defence has opened a big surprise package in cutting the tape which bound the voluminous record of the work done by the Irish commission.

A POINT TO BE DECIDED.

But it must be borne in mind that after all, this evidence may be of no avail, for the fact must not be lost sight of that the question which the jury will have to decide is not whether Valentine Francis Cathbert Shortis exhibited signs of mental aberration while at home in Waterford but whether the young man who was considered sane enough to be employed by Mr. Simpson the manager of the Montreal Cotton Mills at Valleyfield, was in full possession of his mental faculties on the night that John Loy and Maxime Leboeuf met their death.

DISCUSSING THE EVIDENCE.

When at a quarter to seven last evening the evidence of James Cronin was finished, and the last of the fifty depositions taken in Ireland was at an end, the court rose from the most interesting as well as the most lengthy of its sittings. Not only had the evidence been of absorbing interest, but the element of Irish wit and repartee had not been lacking. Here is the manner in which one of the lawyers came to learn that it is scarcely worth the candle to press an Irish witness to the utmost limit:

"And I suppose when that shot was fired you thought you were killed?"

"Faith, and I'd have had better reason to think I was if that tree hadn't been in the way."

SAMPLES OF EVIDENCE.

The following may be lacking in wit, but the coarse philosophy of the epicure rather took the point off the scornful sarcasm of the lawyer:

"And you mean to tell us that the day that you heard that your daughter had been shot at, you went and got drunk?"

"You are not ashamed to stand there and tell me that you went and got beastly drunk?"

"No, shure I got drunk many a time before that, and many's the time since that I did that same."

What wonder that the learned counsel for the Crown forbore to go further into the doings of this self-satisfied one.

IT WAS A WASP.

Valentine Shortis, the phlegmatic prisoner, who had remained unmoved while John Lowe and Hughie Wilson told their stories; Valentine Shortis, who has remained impassive while evidence which meant that his chances of being hanged were lessening was being delivered, became suddenly and violently disturbed yesterday. Was it those memories of a happy boyhood spent in the Christian Brothers' school that moved him, or was it the fact that the fond and too indulgent mother was lying seriously ill, that agitated him?

Neither; it was a wasp!

He had come in at the open window and came buzzing and humming around the dock, plainly asking what manner of man this was, who could maintain such a stolid front under such trying circumstances. But Shortis was not in the humor to be interviewed, and for five minutes there were lively times in the dock, the prisoner striking out right and left in vain attempts to kill the intruder. Slight as was the accident, it appeared to unsettle the prisoner, who shortly afterwards availed himself of the chair placed for his accommodation in the dock, and remained seated for about two hours.

SYMPATHY WITH MR. AND MRS. SHORTIS.

There is no circumstance in connection with the evidence of nearly every witness heard in Ireland that cannot fail to strike even the most casual listener. This is the unanimous sentiment, not only of sympathy, but also of high respect and esteem expressed by the various witnesses towards Mr. and Mrs. Shortis. The condition of Mrs. Shortis remains unchanged to-day. She is still unable to leave her bed, and complains bitterly that she cannot accompany her husband to the court and remain near her only child in the hour of his trial. She is unable to realize how much sleep she has dispensed with, and how the worry has broken her down, but feebly protests that she would still have been able to be near her boy if the ventilation of the court room on Saturday last had been less stifling.

From the convent the doctors this morning paid a visit to the prisoner's cell and remained some time with the accused, who talked to them of the weather, the condition of his finger nails and other subjects equally relevant to the great question at issue.

All day to-day the jury has been listening to the French translation of the evidence gathered in Ireland.

300 CARS A DAY.

Being Loaded with Wheat for Transhipment in Manitoba.

Special to The Times.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9.—The capabilities of the C.P.R. are already found inadequate for the enormous traffic which has sprung since wheat began to move. Engines are kept constantly on the go and yet they cannot haul away the grain, stock and other freight cars as fast as loaded. Three hundred cars were loaded with wheat in the province yesterday, which is the largest number ever loaded in one day. It is expected this record will be broken before the end of the week. Prominent C.P.R. officials state that they expected to get ten million bushels of wheat of Fort William before navigation closed. In cattle shipments it is calculated that the total for the season will be 40,000 head, against 30,000 last year.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

The Charges Made by Merchants of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Special to The Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Deputy Attorney General Kisselberg has been sent to Niagara Falls at the request of Governor Morton to investigate the charges made by the Mayor of Niagara Falls, Ont., to the effect that American contractors are destroying property by making heavy blasts. The Governor has received many complaints and is very angry over the matter.

BIG PRINTERS' STRIKE.

The Compositors of the New York World Quit Work at Midnight.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Promptly at 12 o'clock last night the entire force of compositors, pressmen, stereotypers and other attaches of the mercantile department of the New York World, went out on a strike, causing a sensation in the management, and at 12:45 this morning, work in the building was at a standstill.

PERFIDIOUS MAN!

Alfred Marshall Will Have to Pay His Cousin Dorothy $800.

Special to The Times.

HAMILTON, Oct. 9.—At the Civil Assizes here today the first case tried was Lampier vs. Marshall, and undenied suit for damages for seduction, brought by Geo. A. Lampier, of Saltfleet, against Alfred Marshall. Marshall is Dorothy Lampier's cousin, and it is alleged he caused her ruin under promise of marriage. Lampier asked for $2,000 damages and the jury brought in a verdict for $800.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS: Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very painful. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, hastens cure, and in most cases removes the tumor. At drug stores, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

Tried to Cremate a Family.

MIDLAND, Oct. 9.—Last night while a gale was blowing a firebug fastened the outside door of a dwelling here, owned by John Jackson, and then fired it. The children were in bed and he and his wife and son. They could not open the doors and had to jump through the windows. Young Finch is severely burned and cut.

A Canadian Arrested for Stabbing.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A man named Arthur Kinsley, recently a member of the Canadian militia was arrested here today for stabbing a chorister of the Palace Theatre at Charing Cross, this city.

Hanged Himself.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9.—Laurent Gauthier, a farmer of Longueuil, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn this morning. The man is the uncle of Azarie Gauthier, the murderer of Celine Cousigny, now awaiting trial here.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. T. Hood's great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 55 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

THE MASON CASE.

Editor Morning Times.

SIR,—Mr. Edwards, as would appear from the letter which was read at the Council meeting on Monday night, is anxious to have the Town carry the Mason case to the Supreme Court. He pretends to say that the learned judges were really in favor of the Town, notwithstanding that their judgement was directly the opposite. If the court could not review its own decision, why in the name of common sense did Mr. Edwards bring the matter before them at all? He is a lawyer, and should know what he is doing. This last trial has cost the people hundreds of dollars, which might surely have been saved had our solicitor known his business. In view of all this would it not be wise for our Council to go a little slow in the matter of again appealing this case? People are sick and weary of paying useless law costs, and the sooner the Council puts a stop to it the better.

Peterborough, Oct. 9, 1895.

CHANDOS.

Correspondence Morning Times.

Mr. Bancroft, held a missionary meeting on Monday evening. Although the evening was unfavorable a large gathering responded to the call and a goodly number contributed their tenth for the enlightenment of the heathen.

Mr. Dan Doocey had a logging bee on Tuesday.

Mr. George Terrill was the guest of his brother last week.

Diphtheria has left our midst.

Messrs. Geo. Winter and Henry Hubbs returned home last week after a summer's absence on the drive.

Several of the residents propose attending Picton fair on the 3rd inst.

Coe Hill fair was a greater success than ever. Two train loads of visitors arrived from Picton and Trenton. All seemed to enjoy their outing and pleased with the charming scenery of Coe Hill and vicinity.

Threshing is just commencing. The summer will soon be able to tell of the enormous yield of some piece of soil.

The record of the Leonard case, the other muddle and the Mason case does not indicate that our corporation solicitor is infallible.

Mr. Clinkscales, the newly appointed Street and Bridge Inspector, should be instructed to prepare estimates for paving the business streets of the town. A man, who is a competent street overseer, should be able to gather this information.

In the past Cuba has been made a dumping ground for the worthless sons of the Southern States. Now it is being turned into a graveyard for the shattered remnants of an army that once was the terror of all Europe. Spain would have made money by pensioning off the army's young parasites whom the Cubans have grown tired of supporting. Thus a situation which she cannot now suppress has been prevented.

The Government at Ottawa has broken its pledge. The Liberal press should say that it is properly and promptly retracted. Mr. Foster in his budget speech promised a deficit of $4,500,000 and now the best he can do is a paltry $1,000,000. Even Sir Richard Cartwright could get a bigger deficit than that any time without any trouble.

The French have captured the capital of Madagascar and the expedition is, therefore, a success. It is a long step towards occupying the chief town and pacifying and ruling the country.

The lovers of the climate, which were the French most relied on by the Home Government, may yet compel the invaders to leave the land.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

"THE LOVELY CHILDREN."

The delightful study of children which has been christened "Nature" and engraved under various other titles must be considered Sir Thomas Lawrence's masterpiece in this direction. The painter himself held that his fame must be justified by this and three or four works of similar quality. The pronouncements of those who have written upon the artist and his works point to the same conclusion.

son, and beyond the testimony of literary and artistic criticism stands the evidence of the engraver's art to prove that the reproduction of no picture of childhood has probably ever reached the popularity attained by "The Lovely Children," "Nature," "The Daughters of Mr. Charles B. Calmady," "The Calmady Children," or whatever title this work has reapportioned under.

F. C. Lewis, who was evidently a friend of the family, had often assured Mrs. Calmady, the wife of Captain Calmady of Woodcoote, near Alresford, Hants, that her children, "ere their loveliness as babes should fleet into beauty of a more advanced childhood," would be admirable subjects, and that if Lawrence were to see them he would be glad to paint them on any terms. The eventuality—a lucky one for all concerned—occurred. Sir Thomas saw the children in July, 1823. This must have been at his painting room in Russell square. Captivated by the loveliness of the children, he asked a price lower than his current fee, which would have been 250 guineas. "I suppose," said Mrs. Calmady, "I must still have looked despairingly, for he immediately added, without my saying a word, 'Well, we must say £150 for merely the two little heads in a circle, and some sky—and finish at once.' The next morning the sittings commenced with zest and pleasure. During the progress of the painting we find the artist deeply interested and showing himself the sympathetic friend of childhood. He was already so enthusiastic over his work that he continually assured the happy parents "that he had the best piece of the kind he ever painted." He retained the children the entire day, kept them entertained with stories, fed them himself, and when, by food and sport refreshed, they were again placed in the "sitter's chair," and the portraits proceeded with, Lawrence seemed to be rivaling Reynolds, as far as concern his aptitude for making friends with youth. The children caught his humor, played with him as la bonne nourrice, and at one long sitting the little cherub, with her fat, rosy cheeks, relieved her own ennui and supplied him with a fund of laughter by her nursery tales of "Dame Wiggins" and "Pied Mice and Raspberry Cream." At another sitting, after Lawrence had had little Emily Calmady's shoe often taken off and had attempted to catch her playful attitudes and expressions, he could not help exclaiming, "How disheartening it is, when we have nature before us, to see how far—with our best efforts and all our study—how very far short we fall of her!"

The little anecdotes concerning the progress of the Calmady picture, including how Sir Thomas was, with his servant, found, instead of painting, washing the face of one of the fair infants, who had got at the artist's palette and paints and bedaubed her countenance grotesquely, represent Lawrence in a familiar light.

A Spider at Home.
The invitations sent out to a child's party had each in the corner a golden web, in the center of which was entangled a brown spider. They were invitations to "a spider at home," an English substitute for a Jack Horner pie, or, it might be, for a Christmas tree. On their arrival at the house of their hostess the little guests were shown into a good sized room, where an immense glittering spider seemed to have spun a web that stretched across the room. The web was composed of many webs, each started from a spider in the center and extended to many nails and projections, where each one terminated in a little wooden winder. After choosing a winder each child followed its wanderings to the spider in which it terminated. Inside these spiders were concealed small gifts. Instead of spiders, beetles or other insects might be used. A variety of insects for such a party could be found at the large Japanese stores or could be fashioned at no very great expense at home. While white cotton threads can be used, a much prettier effect would be gained by using tinseled cord like that used by confectioners for tying boxes of bonbons.—Kansas City Times.

The notes sound brother Impatient, I fear.
He looks very cross,
I am sorry to see,
Not looking at all
As a brother should be.

He'd think it quite hard,
I must certainly say,
If you stopped up your ears
To his noisy play.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Bells, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

THE WALLED HERD.

STRANGE STORY OF AN INACCESSIBLE BAND OF CATTLE.

A Pyramid of Bones Marks the Spot Where Their Ancestors Fell Over a Precipice. Twenty Years Ago—Dwell in Safety Where Man Has Never Tread.

In the wildest portion of the west, 71 miles northwest of Meeker, where, in 1875, the Utes massacred the Meeker family and every one at the agency, is the most wonderful cattle ranch in the world. Within a space of five miles in length and three miles in width roams a band of whose sides the branding iron has never been placed and around whose horns the lariat has never tightened. But a score or even fewer of them have ever been seen by man or horse or other animal of their kind, and, in fact, their kin except at a distance of nearly 600 feet high above them. The Indians call them "P'check-up," or red buffalo. And yet if an Indian who has seen them should be asked about it he would laugh and shake his head, and all the information obtainable would be, "P'check-up," am red; no ketek 'am." There are more than 1,000 of this herd, and yet no man owns them, nor is there a man, white or black or copper colored, who has ever been able to possess a single hoof of these fat and tempting herds.

The cattle are in a prison. Out of it there is one method of escape, but to travel that road means death to the adventurous ones. There is no way to get in except to be by use of a rope 1,000 feet in length. As the Indians say: "Hoop so 'em; no ketek 'em; no come away." On the two long sides of the oblong space in which these cattle roam rise precipitous and even concave rocks for 500 or 600 feet—yawning, black and insurmountable. At either end and sooties and rushes the Yampa or Bear river. For miles above and miles below it plunges and stumbles on in its headlong haste to reach the gulf of the parent, the scarcely less tumultuous but deeper Green river. Like the wonderful flat top mountain of Colorado, this home of the imprisoned herd has no likeness in the world. It resembles in its inaccessibility the marvelous stories of the valley of verdure, into which Mayne Reid's adventures only found their way by the assistance of the butterfly.

The story of the way in which these cattle came there is as strange as their existence is curious. Over 20 years ago, when the government troops were pursuing the Mormon movement of the Indian, the Danites, or Avenging Angels of the Mormons, fled for their lives into what was then literally the wilderness. A few of those who had been the blindest followers of Lee, the Mormon blind incarnate, whose hands were red with the blood of women and children, found in their flight a pretty valley, or at least, which flows from the Wasatch range into the Green river. They stuck their stakes, built their campfires and during the night their sagacious leader had a vision, which told him there to stay. They could hardly have chosen in all Utah a more fertile or more isolated spot. They called it Ashley, and about them have since gathered more of their sect until where the refugees posted their pickets on the lonely nights of the first summer has grown a thriving village. It is 140 miles from the Union Pacific railroad south and 145 miles north of the Rio Grande Western. Until within a few years past it has been isolated entirely, but now it is but 80 miles from the Ute reservation, and furnishing supplies for the agency forms quite a business for the community.

It is a tenet of the Danites that robbing or theft from a gentile is no crime. So it was thought to be only a cunning trick when John Wyckliffe, one of the Mormon settlers of the new town, and his three sons made a night sortie on Henry's herd in Wyoming and carried away 800 head of cattle ranging there. This was in 1874. The owners of the cattle discovered their loss a few days after they were gone and started in pursuit.

The thieves and the stolen herd had reached a point of inviting grass and run down one day and baited to camp for the night. A terrific storm arose. The lightning flashed incessantly, and the thunder pealed and crashed with intermitting fury. The four men desperately held the terror-stricken cattle by riding around them constantly and obtaining some weird tune. But the wild ferocity of the furious storm excited the brutes beyond measure. They surged and ground, every moment growing less subject to control. All at once, as if by one mad impulse, they stampeded.

John Wyckliffe and his sons met their fate amid the lightning's glare and the thunder's roar. They endeavored to head off the stampeding herd, instead they and their horses were swept on and driven in the terror to escape the charge of the mad-demon animals over the brink of the awful precipice which drops as from the waters of the Bear. After them plunged the whole fright-stricken herd down to the bottom of the fearful fall were horses, oxen and horned creatures. Out of this strange plunge of life to what was seemingly certain death to all a few of the herd were not killed. Those which had gone ahead formed a cushion of death. Mainly, stunned, but still invested with a spark of life, when the dead animals were over the living cattle crawled out from the mass beneath them and formed a nucleus for the herd which now roams at will within its rocky confines. On the bank of the river, stretching back a few hundred yards, grow scattered grass and, upon this the cattle have prospered and multiplied. In looking over the edge of the precipice one can see that they are small and as wild and agile as deer. They have been shot at to see the effect and have learned to regard the appearance of a man, whether Indian or white, as a menace from which they flee, clambering over rocks and through underbrush in the chase to a point of concealment.

The place where the thieves and their horses and the herd fell is plainly marked by a pyramid of bones, which rises to the height of 30 feet. The ghastly reminder and memento of the human and animal victims of the terrible leap shines forth and gleaming when the sun is high and catches that spot with its full glare. The bones of the surviving animals from the fall are fat and sleek, though, and have many bony, dentition, whose teeth are for the most part in the wisdom, and to them the movement of skeletons is no source of terror. There is no fence mountain, nor more dangerous barrier, nor, in fact, any other animal thing within this cow garden of Eden. As yet, too, no man has been able to reach or domesticate them.

According to Miller, the total number of cattle, on either side, numbered by the thousands in 1893.

HIS LORDSHIP'S TROUBLES.

The Estates Pass Away from Him for a Consideration—The Hope Diamond.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The financial troubles of Lord Francis Pelham Clinton Hope, only brother and heir presumptive of the Duke of Newcastle, his fair to be cleared up satisfactorily. Lord Francis some time ago married Miss May Yohs, an American actress. After considerable negotiation an arrangement, the terms of which are now almost complete, has been entered into by which a certain life assurance company will take over all the estates of Lord Francis, giving her a sum of money that will be sufficient to liquidate all the unsound debts at the rate of ten shillings in the pound. Part of the Desdemona property in Surrey, which came to Lord Francis through his mother, will be sold for building lots, the present tenant, the Duchess of Marlborough, consenting to surrender her lease.

Among Lord Francis' property is the famous Hope diamond, upon which is placed a value of $120,000. This is an heirloom, but the trustees desire to sell it. It is rather an ugly blue stone, about the size of a hen's egg. An American recently offered $100,000 for it, but his offer was refused. The stone is supposed to be the same one that Louis XIV. at one time owned, and which was lost in 1792.

DANGEROUS BLASTING.

A Too Reckless Foreman Discharged—Damages Settled for.

Special to The Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The danger to life and property in Niagara Falls, Ont., has about ended, according to Deputy Attorney-General Kisselberg, who returned here today. As a result of his investigations he reports that the work of preparing the roadbed for the railway along the Niagara River on the American side is about completed, and that but little blasting remains to be accomplished. The foreman who had charge of the blasting in August which sent large pieces of rock across the river gorge into Niagara Falls in Canada, was discharged at the time, and so was the foreman who had charge of the blast on Saturday last, which buried a rock through the Niagara Falls, Ont., custom house from the roof to the cellar.

Mr. Kisselberg says that there will be no more trouble, and that the railroad company has settled all damages occasioned on the Canadian side as a result of their blasting operations.

LEFT A TRAIL OF BOOTY.

Cool Burglars Operate in the Village of Shelbourne.

Special to The Times.

SHELBOURNE, Oct. 10.—The jewelry store of J. W. Raston, of Main street, was burglarized and $300 worth of goods taken. The robbery was a daring one, as the burglars jumped over a wire screen in front of the door, and entered in a space from which there was no escape in case of discovery, coolly drilled forty eight holes in the door panel, making an aperture about eighteen inches every way. Through this they crawled, ransacked the store and went out through the back door. They missed $100 which was in a drawer behind the counter and did not touch the safe. The spoils they carried off in a waste paper basket through the crevices of which many trinkets dropped, leaving a trail by which they were traced to a stable near a church. There all traces of them ceased.

NO CONTEST AT OSAGOUE.

Mr. Lamont Likely to be Named President by Acclamation.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—It is not likely there will be any election in the Osage Literary and Debating Society this year. Last Saturday night was nomination night, but only one candidate was put up for president, W. Lamont, B. A., LL. B., who last year ran against Leighton McCarthy and was defeated. Mr. Lamont is organizing a ticket and is understood to have several places filled already. If the ticket is ready by Saturday night it will probably be nominated and go in by acclamation the week after. The McCarthyites of last year are not organizing any opposition to the Lamont ticket, and there is little probability of a fight.

CHATHAM, N.B., ABLAZE.

Great Conflagration in the Town—Fears That It Will all be Consumed.

Special to The Times.

CHATHAM, N. B., Oct. 10.—A terrible fire has been raging here for the last three hours. Over 20 houses have already gone and it is feared that the town will be burnt out.

Suing the Canadian Government.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 10.—The Arion Fish Company has begun suit against the Canadian Government to recover heavy damages. Sometime ago Canadian officials confiscated a lot of fish belonging to the company at Lake Namokim and dredged out some of the employees on the ground that they were trespassing in Canadian waters. The waters in which the trouble took place are disputed by the United States and Canada.

The Des Moines Tribune says: The management of the Des Moines Cheese and Butter factory are now making butter from whey, and that in considerable quantities. Experts declare that there is not the slightest difference between it and the usual butter. There should not be because both are made from the same constituents of milk. Thus another economical feature is secured. This factory is said to be now the most methodical and the most economically managed in this district.

It is not generally known that the Canadian Pacific Railway for years past has refused to sell its lands immediately adjoining its stations except upon conditions which preclude the sale of liquor thereon. A clause in each deed provides that the title shall become invalid and the property revert to the company in the event of its being used as a place of liquor.

Trapping is not alone confined to the northern districts. A man who follows this employment told us a few days ago, that last year he captured along the creeks of Seymour township a great number of muskrats and minks whose skins, together with three foxes netted him $50.00.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature an act was passed, which is now in force, providing that where the husband dies without will with property less than $1,000 everything goes to his widow. Where he dies with more than $1,000, in the administration the widow will get $1,000 anyway. Thus the widow will no longer be made to suffer through her husband's carelessness in not making a will.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." Mrs. DALTON, 55 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probe: Winds becoming fresh to strong from southeast and southwest; fair weather and rising temperature.

An Aged Lady's Death.

The death of Mrs. Robinson, an old lady in her 94th year, a resident of Auburn, occurred Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Trenouth, Ontario. The remains will arrive in Peterborough today for burial.

Graduating Ceremonies.

The Nicholas hospital graduating ceremonies will take place in the Oddfellows hall on the evening of October 15. The graduating class consists of Miss Flora M. Bolter, Mrs. Ada M. Finney, Miss Edith F. Robinson and Miss Seale Barnett.

The Artists in Cork.

G. V. Bros', Miniatures, prime favorites in Ontario and especially in Peterborough, will give one of their premier performances in the opera house tonight. This year the G. V. Bros. have a splendid aggregation of artists, new scenes, new jokes, new farces and new specialties. Nobody should miss the G. V. Bros' minstrel show tonight.

St. Andrew's Brothers Gather.

The provincial convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be held in Toronto on October 25, 26 and 27. Prominent among the speakers will be Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky; Mr. Silas McEneaney, of Philadelphia; and Mr. John W. Wood, general secretary of the Brotherhood, and editor of the St. Andrew's Cross.

Opening of the Bensford Bridge.

The opening of Bensford Bridge will take place on October 23rd, and it is proposed to make the opening the occasion of a gathering where speeches will be made, etc. The members of both Houses, the Town Council and the County Council have been invited to be present and will be conveyed to the bridge by the City of Peterborough which will leave the C. P. R. wharf at 1 o'clock.

Dangerously Insane.

The police were called upon last night to place in custody William Irwin, of Farnell street, who is out of his mind. While Irwin had not committed any acts of violence, his relatives were afraid of him, and asked the police to lock him up. He spent the night in the cells and will likely be committed to the asylum where the tramps were sheltered at the police station last night.

Traces of Oil.

We are informed that while the treadmill men were employed digging a well upon the premises of Mr. John Dunning, in Seymour street, about two miles south of Trent Bridge, last week, they came across salt and a very strong indication of the presence of coal oil. Just fancy what a prosperous locality this would be if a bed of salt and oil were discovered. A Pittsburgh well spring up at the Narrows is a month.

Flavor in Bread.

Says Dr. Goodfellow in an English Exchange: depends largely on the fermentation, the more malt used the sweeter the bread and the more easily digested. There can be no doubt that it pays a baker to give his careful attention to the production of bread, giving a pleasant and acceptable flavor. If you want this kind of bread ask for Boston and take no other, it is the only bread in Peterborough containing malt or malt extract, for sale at all reliable grocers.

Committed Suicide.

We are informed that Mr. Frank Closs, a young man who for a number of years resided on the Oak Hills, in Perry township, about four miles from Warkworth, shot himself in the head with a revolver early on Sunday morning last. Mr. Closs was a farmer in good circumstances, and no special reason can be assigned for the rash act. He was about 35 years of age, unmarried, and lived with his widowed mother. The deceased was a man of good character, always cheerful and friendly, and was highly respected.

A Policeman Married.

Geo. Sackett, one of the most genial members of the police force, was married last night to Miss Alice Closs, of 312 Gerrard street east. The ceremony, which took place at the bride's home, was performed by Rev. H. C. Dixon, of the church of the Assumption. Alexander Gunn, of Lombard street, was best man and Miss Beattie Sutherland and Miss Ruth Sackett the bridesmaids. The bride was arrayed in white silk, the maids in dotted muslin. Commensal guests were present from London, Port Hope, and Peterborough. Harry Oak, of the latter place being among the guests. —Toronto Telegram.

A Splendid Concert.

The audience which greeted Master Michael Young, the famous boy soprano, and his support at the Opera House last night, was not large, but thoroughly appreciative, and they were delighted by the excellent manner in which they were entertained. Through the kindness of Rev. Ernest Wood, who was instrumental in having the concert given in Peterborough, citizens were afforded the opportunity of attending a refined and pleasing entertainment. The singing of Master Young was a surprise. He possesses a sweet voice, of wonderful range, pureness and flexibility, and the ease in which he rendered the most difficult compositions was wonderful in one so young. Mr. Allan Fairweather is gifted with a splendid tenor voice and his numbers were enthusiastically received. Mr. Ernest Wood has a good voice and last night he rendered in a pleasing and artistic manner several delightful songs. Miss Young's pianoforte solos were well executed and well received. In his comic and musical recitations, Mr. Michael Young was not much below the equal of the famous Grossmith himself. The concert was of a refined nature and the audience was well pleased.

INTO THE RIVER

Did the G. T. R. - Belleville Passenger Train Dash Last Night.

THE BRIDGE WAS OPEN.

ENGINE AND BAGGAGE CAR WITH CREW ON BOARD WENT OVER THE LOCKS BRIDGE PIER INTO 15 FEET OF WATER. —THE INJURED.

The engine and baggage car of the Belleville train, which left the G. T. R. station here shortly after 9 o'clock last night, now lie in the river at the Locks bridge, nearly submerged by water. The Belleville train dashed through the open bridge at 9:30 last night, the engine and baggage car plunging into the river with an awful crash. The engine dropped and sank almost instantly and the baggage car crashed through it, landing in the river on the north side of the bridge. The passenger car hung half way over the embankment trembling on the brink, so evenly balanced that the weight of one man on the end protruding over the water, would have plunged it down on top of the engine. The front trucks left the car and rolled down the embankment. With the engine and baggage car Fireman Haines, Baggageman Gardner, and brakeman Brown went into the cold icy water. They had a miraculous escape from instant death as did the rest of the train hands and the eight passengers in the rear coach. The latter were badly shaken up and bruised and some of them escaped from the car by means of the windows, when they got outside and saw how nearly they had been to injury or death, the shock was more than the actual injuries they had received.

THE BRIDGE WAS OPEN.

The regular 9:35 train, No. 10, for Belleville, was two minutes late as it steamed out of the depot last night. It stopped at the Locks bridge semaphore, and then at the rate of six miles an hour headed for the bridge. The bridge was open and the train plunged into the river. Haines, Gardner and Brown went down with the engine and baggage car, swam ashore, and were sent to town to change their clothes and receive medical attendance. The bridge tender was on the bridge swinging it, when the baggage car struck the side and end of it and swung it wide open. This undoubtedly saved the passenger car and the lives of the passengers, for it shunted the coach back on the track and broke the couplings between it and the baggage car.

THE BRIDGE TENDER'S STORY.

Archie Jackson, a young man, is bridge tender and has charge of the signals. He has only been in the employ of the G. T. R. Company about 10 days. He made the following statement of the accident to Agent Hayden. "I went out to swing the bridge for Gilmore's alligator, which was whistling to get through. Before getting on the bridge I put up the danger signal at the semaphore. As I got on the bridge I heard the whistle of the Belleville train and it came up to the semaphore and stopped. It stopped there about two minutes and then pulled out for the bridge which was nearly closed, but not close enough for me to jump off. The engine plunged right down into the water, and the baggage car struck the bridge swinging it open. The semaphore red light was up against the train and it has not been changed since. I did not lower the signal, nor was it lowered. The engineer simply ignored the signal and came right on. I did my duty and do not see how any blame can attach to me. The engine went over at 9:30 or a minute or two later.

HIS SISTER'S STORY.

Jackson's sister, a young woman, said she was out watching the alligator. She saw her brother put up the danger signal and step on the bridge. The bridge was pretty nearly closed when the train plunged into the river. The semaphore had not been changed since. The engineer stepped off the cab just before the engine went over. Her brother could not have changed the semaphore as he was on the bridge.

EYE WITNESSES' STORIES.

Wm. Kempf, who lives near the bridge, says he was within two rods of the semaphore when the train came up and stopped. The red light was against the train and the red light also showed on the bridge. The train pulled out for the bridge without waiting for the white lights. T. McWilliams told the same story as Kempf and the Jacksons. The signals showed danger. He heard one of the train hands tell the engineer that the white lights were showing and then the train pulled out.

THE ENGINEER'S VERSION.

Conductor Stanton was in charge of the train and Engineer Andrews, of Belleville, was driving, taking the place of the regular driver, Engineer Taylor. He was seen at the G. T. R. station last night and made the following statement to THE TIMES representative: "It was 9:30 when I stopped at the bridge and the two red lights were showing. After waiting 10 minutes I saw the white lights show on the bridge and remarked the fact to my mate who was standing on the bridge of the tender with me. The brakeman was standing on the platform on the first car. The signal was lowered and I pulled ahead. When within 15 yards of the bridge I could see by the glare of the headlight that the bridge was nearly closed, and I stepped off, and the engine went down. We were going at the rate of 6 or 7 miles an hour. My mate and I saw the white lights and all the crew saw the signal lowered. They will corroborate my story. The semaphore is all I had to go by, and certainly at a bridge, I would not dare pull ahead until it showed everything clear."

Driver Andrews is an old employee of the road, and from all that could be learned from the train hands last night, is a careful man, and one whose word can be relied upon. He is strictly temperate as well.

THE PASSENGERS.

The passenger coach, which was damaged to the extent of $300, having the heater broken, windows smashed and seats wrenched, contained eight passengers. They were:

Mr. Hoar and wife, of the Narrows, near Campbellford.
Mrs. K. Lancaster, Hastings.
Daniel R. Wright, Hastings.
John Welsh, tanner, Hastings.
Robert Harston, merchant, Warkworth.
W. J. McMillan, Westwood.
Mr. Feltwell, Campbellford.
The eighth man's name could not be learned.

Mr. McMillan climbed through the window and sustained injuries to his right leg of a painful but not serious nature. He told THE TIMES representative that the sensation was a queer one, although none of the passengers appeared to be frightened until afterwards. "The car swayed and jolted," said Mr. McMillan and then came to a sudden stop which threw us all off the seats, when we got outside and saw how near we had been to going in the river, we were more frightened than when in the car.

ONE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Mr. A. A. Mark, a traveller for the J. D. King & Co., boot and shoe manufacturer, Toronto, was writing in the baggage car of the train when it went over the bridge, and had a narrow escape from death. Mr. Mark was seriously injured on the left hip and spine, his hands and face badly cut and he is otherwise badly used up. Mr. Mark was taken to the Oriental hotel and Dr. King dressed his wounds. He was seen by THE TIMES representative and gave the following account of his narrow escape:

"I was writing in the baggage car, when I felt it plunge down and the next thing I knew I was completely under water. It was the most terrible experience I ever had. When I rose to the surface there was barely room for my head above the level of the water and the top of the car. I kicked open the window, which was under water and one of the train hands helped me to dive down and crawl out. A board was shoved to me and I got on it and was shoved to the shore. It was a narrow escape, and I don't want to go through it again." Mr. Mark is suffering from his bruises and cuts and will be laid up for some time.

WHO TOUCHED THE SIGNALS.

If the stories told by the bridge tender and the engineer are true, and there is no reason to doubt them, the semaphore was meddled with by some outsider who saw the white lights on the bridge, concluded it was closed and pulled down the signals. The question now is, who meddled with the semaphore. Jackson could not have pulled down the signals as he was on the bridge when the engine and car went over, and his orders were implicit that he was to change the semaphore signals personally. Some one evidently meddled with the signals. There was a number of people around the signal house at the time, and it is probable that the signals were lowered by one of them.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

It is little short of a miracle that the four men who went over with the engine and baggage car were not killed. Had the passenger coach followed the baggage car over the embankment nothing could have saved them. It was a close shave for the passenger coach.

The cab of the engine sticks out of the river about two feet, and the top of the baggage car can be seen about a foot above the surface. There was considerable damage in the car, which will be pretty thoroughly water soaked. The engine is a complete wreck.

An auxiliary pulley the passenger car off the track this morning, and the track will be open by the time the first train is scheduled to cross the bridge. It could not be ascertained last night whether the bridge was injured by the baggage car. If it is, the line will be blocked until repairs can be made.

Should Be Registered.

Business men who are in partnership but whose partnership has not been registered have reason to fear trouble. It may be severe to some that they are liable to a fine of $100 for doing business without having their declaration of partnership registered in the county registry office, and this applies not only to the firm but to each partner therein. For this a partnership or dissolution can be registered, and in the case of the dearest business men it is probable they are ignorant of the law in respect to the penalty. There are no saving clauses in the act, which distinctly states the fine is $100 for those firms whose partnerships are not registered within six months of their formation.

ANOTHER HORSE STOLEN.

Mr. Robert Gibbs the Victim This Time — A Slick Trick.

A slick horse thief got in his work last night and drove off with one of Mr. Robert Gibbs' best horses and rigs. About 8 o'clock last night a well dressed young Englishman called at Gibbs' livery stable and asked for a horse and buggy for an hour. He told Mr. Gibbs that a friend of his had had both legs broken in Ashburnham and he wanted the rig to drive him to the hospital. He added that he had just been up to Dr. Halliday's and that the doctor was over in Ashburnham attending to the injured man. Although the fellow was a total stranger, Mr. Gibbs let him have one of his best horses. The man's story was very plausible, he was dressed respectably, and no suspicion crossed Mr. Gibbs' mind. So the young man drove off with the horse and is now doubtless many miles away.

Along about 10 o'clock Mr. Gibbs began to get uneasy when the stranger did not return the rig, but still he thought the man might be staying with his sick friend. At midnight Mr. Gibbs telephoned Dr. Halliday and learned that he had not been called upon to attend anyone in Ashburnham. It then dawned on Mr. Gibbs that he had been cleverly tricked. The police were notified, and have sent out notices to police throughout the country to be on the lookout for the horse thief.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

The Daughters of England Score a Success Last Night.

One of the most successful dinner and concert ever held by the Daughters of England took place last evening in the S.O.E. hall on Hunter street. Fully 400 people sat down to a sumptuous repast, which was under the direction of a competent committee.

The concert, which commenced sharp at eight was both refined and suited the audience. Bro. A. G. McKinnon acted in the capacity of chairman. The feature of the evening was a fan drill under the direction of Lieut. Ames, of No. 1 Company, 57th Battalion. The drill was composed of the following young ladies who were elegantly attired in the richest of Japanese costumes, and who executed the movements in a precise and graceful manner: Misses Ballow, Stithen, Samers, Eves, Rush, Lundy, White, Riskey, Bell, Rush, Ackerman, and Green.

The band, under the leadership of Mr. Pennington, is making rapid progress and opened the program with one of their best selections. The program which was well rendered was as follows:

Musical selection..... Gibson Taylor
Vocal Solo..... Mr. Martin
Recitation..... Miss Rose Taylor
Quartet..... Misses Huebeck and Shulotte
Solo..... Messrs. Squires and Steers
Club singing..... Miss Florence Hall
Instrumental Trio..... Miss Wilson

MYRTLE EXPRESS ROBBERY.

Statements Made by the Operator, Agent and Trainmen.

Provincial Detective Rogers and C.P.R. Detective Ross, after having spent five days in investigating the Myrtle express robbery, have returned to Toronto. The officers made a thorough investigation, and the statement of Courtney, the night operator, was taken in full. The robbery had been attacked about a quarter after one, while he was in the act of lowering a semaphore. He was struck twice, and remembers nothing further until aroused by the trainmen at a quarter after three, when his hands were tied behind his back, his feet tied together and a wooden gag in his mouth.

George Schomerborn, the agent of the Dominion Express Company, admitted to Detective Rogers that he had no very distinct recollection of having locked the safe after depositing the money in it. He left the station at 10:30, and claims to have no knowledge of the robbery until he was awakened by the train hands who liberated Courtney.

George Carson found Courtney lying on the floor of the baggage room bound as described and in an apparently semi-conscious condition. The train hands deny Courtney's statement that he was gagged.

The cords with which the operator was bound were taken possession of by Detective Ross. The officers are at a loss to understand how any persons could conceal themselves around the station and give Courtney no warning of their approach. The operator when at the lever, stood within two feet of the steps of the platform on the one hand, and the same distance from the baggage room wall on the other. His face shows no signs of a scratch inflicted by the fall.

Both the night operator and agent are married men, and well spoken of in the community. Courtney resumed his regular duties last evening.

A Workman Almost Buried.

Last Wednesday, says the Campbellford Herald, while Fraser Dunn was excavating a place for a woodshed at Mr. T. J. Horne's dwelling on the "Oldville" hill he met with an accident which nearly closed his mortal career. He was handling a pick under an overhanging mound of earth, and although warned of his danger, he continued to strike at the earth, with his pick and run from under it. Presently the mound fell upon him and buried him nearly to his armpits. He was quickly dug out, when it was discovered that he had been struck on the head by a stone, causing him a severe cut which required stitching by a physician. He was also bruised on one arm and leg. His injuries were not serious, however, as he was able to resume his work in a few days afterwards.

Mr. J. N. McCrory, of Napanee, spent yesterday in town. Mr. Jas. Irvine, of Dunblair, is registered at the Hoffman House.

Oak Hall

IS TENDERED

A PUBLIC OVATION

THANKS!

MOST ASSUREDLY

We have nothing but gratitude to offer the citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding country for the very hearty reception accorded to Oak Hall on its Opening Day.

It was the right kind of a welcome—open-armed, cordial enthusiastic.

It was a phenomenal success from start to finish. Type can scarcely give expression to the heartiness of our thanks to the hundreds of citizens, from town and county-side, for miles around, who participated in the ovation to Oak Hall.

We had modestly looked forward to receiving some extra attention and recognition on account of the good clothes we had to show, our handsome store, and our novel attractions on the street—but never contemplated anything like the sensation that was produced on Saturday last.

Even our neighbors—the other clothing dealers—caught the contagion of the excitement, and turned out to do us honor, or to imitate our example.

THANKS again, kind friends. We now dedicate OAK HALL to the service of the Men, Young Men and Boys of the Town and County of Peterborough.

PROSPERITY

Is not only already in the air, but it is percolating, permeating, honey-combing everything associated with Oak Hall's opening, and as "Much of success depends on a good start" we can look forward encouragingly—for we have had a good start.

Much has yet to be added to make our store complete in stock fittings, furnishings, etc., in order to bring it up to the standard of Oak Hall's ideal. These have all been arranged for, and will be added in as rapidly as they come forward.

RECEPTION DAYS

Will be continued all this week, and the best opportunities for handshaking and inspection are yet to come.

Oak Hall souvenirs for every lady and gentleman.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 21, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

LILLY.

AN OLD TRUE TALE.

"Tis not alone where belching canons roar,
And forceful streams of leaden missiles pour,
Death laden, into scurried rank and file;
As 'courage,' 'forward,' 'read the air the while';
Or trumpet bray, incite the faithful charge,
And chargers rideless scour free, at large;
Nor in the square where lance and bayonet
Thrust the brave line to which our flag we trust;
Nor in the horrors of the busy day
Which well might make the boldest scurry—
For there our seamen find a fitting home
When fate or fortune tempts them forth to roam.

It is not there alone that heroes shine,
That we must seek the placid harp;
No! by the side of fever'd pain-tormented bed,
Sweet gentle hands caress the sobbing head,
Sweet soothing tones allay sharp agonies,
And breathe a maid's, wife's, mother's melodies.
What rest contagion! What of rest! Death risk!
Woman's heart is there, active, willing,
To prompt supply each fancied want or claim:
God's ministering angel all her aim Ah! Well man knows—no matter who the sought!
Without a woman's smile his gains are naught.

Now to my tale! But how maintain the thread
Of human life! It falls e'en while 'tis read.
Each stirring change, nay, every action treads
To out the Gordian Knot of calm, of gods.
September here. Nature still bright and gay.
But what, what this, upon the broad highway!
A man! Alive! Right! Face to earth!
Frown!
And what is this and who! A babe!
Alone!
Fingers entwined in grasp of grey,
Seeking a glance, perhaps a smile, a ray
Of love, to charm its solitude away.

Thus "wait for mother" till the close of day.
Ah! grim death is there, no answering smile.
Can ever move those pallid lips the while.
Thou babe doth seek for wonted fond carress.

Alas! No smile, but sorrow, want, distress,
Twas Lilly, of local parentage, of Keena.
And the poor wail, sweet innocent, Lillian.
Lilly had loved, as 'tis the way with man,
True love ne'er dreams that poortith is a ban.

Soon holy bonds united two fond hearts,
More potent bonds than those of monied marriage.
Long years roll by. The sterile carae of life.

Sit lightly on the minds of man and wife,
Dear children came, return to Heaven's care.

Thrice leave bereaved the calmly hopeful pair.
Tis said "misfortunes seldom come alone."
A slip, a sudden fall, a broken bone,
And Lilly lost a leg, but gained a crutch.
Sad was the loss, the gain not much.

Yet here he, by anomaly 'twould seem,
Had of prospective happiness a gleam.
The fates decreed to keep the golden mean.
For compensation sent him sweet Lillian.
For near two years he watched her growing charms:

She, gleeful, crowned and nestled in his arms.
Alas! Alas! the cupboard off was bare,
The trio sought their couch on meagre fare.

The boy Rosinante got lost on rest,
Though air was free and water of the best.
Truth must be told. Hide it I do not dare.
Disensions rose, unbidden as they were,
Word followed word, envenomed word at last:

"Tis hard for hungry souls to keep at rest,
She said what was. His conscience prick'd him sore,
Its twinges later sent him to the door.

"Twas August then. The harvest moon was bright,
His horse was harnessed in the night.
And Lillian smuggled while the mother slept.

Awake! Awake! In agony she wept.
But not for long. A mother's love—unrest—
Gave all her energies a two fold zest.
A fringed search evoked kind help,
sweet pity:

So, on to Peterborough's bright city Where news was gained. Toronto was the goal.
The haven refuge of that troubled soul.

On, on in sweltering heat, faint, athirst, Oh! throbbing brow—seems that the brain will burst!

On, on. O weary frame clinging to the plan
Till Heaven send some good Samaritan
To ease thy pain. Risk might be,
Yet blessed chance to risk for woman, thee;
That conductor's aid should many faults retrieve.

Toronto's steeples meet her view at eve.
Now on the pave, sad, penniless, forlorn,
"Where is my child? Oh God! My child!
Lorn, lorn,

"Where turn I, ah, a guardian of the night,
"Perchance some inkling of my dear one's flight."
He lists her tale—sob broken—tale of woe.
He gave her shelter, help and hope, that day.
The morning sun might find her strong and hale
To seek the Justice Court, relate her tale.

Yes, Hope, that e'er the morning's sun has set
He might find traces of her darling pet:
Locate the home the babe was sheltered in.
Law does not banish innocence but sin.

The morning dawns—long taught in prayer to kneel—
Abandon free—a simple wholesome meal.
Refreshed she found herself in court.
Amazed,
Saddened and fearful, shyly round her gazed.

Silence! In stentorian tones, THE JUDGE Silence! nor hands, nor tongues, nor eyelids budge.
But on the right an open guarded door Whence issue, stumbling, stamping on the floor

A posse whose sour aspect, awe, wholemen,
Laid reproach to the proud, serene, Anon, a well known sound from wooden stamp
Rings resonant with cadenced bump, bump bump.

A startled gaze, a gasping breath, a scream—
No baseless fabric of a dream—A SCREAM Rings from vault to roof. "Lilly! Oh Lilly!
Where is my babe, my child, my child!"
Oh Lilly!

With frenzied gestures and with sudden spring,
Mouth open, glaring eyes, her thin arms cling around his neck. "Where is my babe!
Oh! Give!

"Don't say she's dead! My God! Oh, she must live!
"Tell, tell me quickly, where, O, where the place!
"I die, Oh, God, I die. No—not one—embrace.
She faints, she falls, she suffers sorrow's doom.

"Let in fresh air! Haste! Get Assistance!
Haste!
"Grief is the potent cause of nature's waste."
Suffice to say before the court adjourned,
The spasm o'er, they fore the judge returned.

He heard her plea, decreed in accents mild
To let her briefly see her dear lost child.
He held doubts. "Twas a scheme, perchance, Madam,
To 'scape the pang and pains of Lilly's ways."

No need the legal caution. "To beware."
A mother's instinct wailed "My child is there."
"O mother! mother! a loving long embrace."
"O mother! Kiss my eyes, my lips, my face,
"Babe wants you. Stay! We guess the mad report.
Nor need to doubt the genuine report.
All eyes were gleamed with listening gleam,
"Good-bye! Good-bye! My darling dear Lillian!

Suspicion vanished Lilly was set free;
She claimed her child by law's authority;
Then reconciliation, pardon, peace,
Full hope now happiness would never cease.

A modest sum was raised, though poor the friend,
To smooth their journey on the hallowed tread.
His horse succumbed when Lilly was enroute.
His wild sloopment bore some bitter fruit.
Removes embittered freedom's charms,
The tender infant burdened weary arms;
Its weight, innocent wants, his crippled state.

A retribution seemed, ordained by fate.
Now his for home. Ah, sweet the sound,
Home! Home!
Perpetual charm where'er our steps may roam.

Rough are the roads, the sun shines
flecked hot,
Temptation strong to court a shady spot.
On, on, the couple plod their weary way,
And share their burden all the live-long
day.

Tis off they ask, as oft receive, a meal,
For well they knew God's law, "Thou shalt not steal."
Hard was their couch altho' their sleep was sound.
"Twas ever crouched beside a grassy mound.
"Stop, how is this! We've left the proper road.

"And there is Wentworth, far from our abode.
"September's suns are hot. I—I—am faint."

"So thou my babe but patient as a saint.
"What say you Lilly! Shall we go forward still!
She turned to listen. "What! Say! Art thou ill!"

"Your face is pale—as death. What tremors! Foam!
"God help me! Help me! I, so far from home!"

"Oh, what say you! Speak, speak, I cannot hear.
"What shall, what can I do! How help,
Her cry dear!

"Delirious. Mad. Mad. I must seek aid.
"But my poor babe! I dread! I am afraid."

"Oh, keep me, Lord! for I must up, away."
One look, one wild caress, fleetly she sped:
Nor once looked back, tho' full of fear and dread.

Two men enquired the reason of her flight.
Told where the doctor lived—no time to waste—
Said they would by her child and husband
And guard from harm while on her quest away.

Lightly fly her footsteps o'er the hot stones,
Brain aches, poor heart bursting with deep moans.

"Where is the doctor! Tell me quick, I pray.
"My husband lies, dies, on the public way,
"Not at home, I grieve to say, I, his wife.

"Will go with you. God grant, may save him."
"Come on, come on, together let us try;
"In any case I prize your sympathy."
Ah, sympathy is woman's forte. A prize,
A passport for her dwelling in the skies.

On, on, quickly on. Spare that throbbing head,
Stricken on the ground the stricken man lay dead.

While at his side the innocent Lillian,
In simple place abhor to the scene,
Her fingers deftly twined in Lilly's hair,
"Father, wake, wake up, why sleep, sleep, head bare!"

Sad, sad, his fate, so sudden, reft of life,
But sadder still the now bereaved wife.
Alone, the earth, the sky, the prostrate form,
The spirit flown, awaits decay, the worm.
Twas said that weak, dying nature's law.

A sunstroke was the sure resultant cause.
"Twas vain to raise the brows and moral-ize,
Assume to teach the world, be unco-ntent,
Sunstroke oft claims a victim to its blow,
For men must work and risk where'er
they go.

Kind hearts abound in Wentworth—Good is rare—
Money flowed to help the sorrowing wife;
To place dead Lilly's heath the grassy sod;
There to await the summons. "Meet thy God!"

Her passage paid to Peterborough—Well some dollars yet remained to buy them bread.
Raise one cheer "Honor to whom honor due."
That cheer shall ring for ages clear and true.

Temptation came in gentle guise, 'Tis said.
A worthy dame desired the little maid,
Whose beauty, bright intelligence combined,
Attracted all eyes, appeals to every mind.
"I thank you from the bottom of my heart,"
"But I cannot, now or ever, part."
"Part! I would like a thunderbolt, sleazebitten,
"End at once my life and hope of Heaven."
"Forgive my tears, my sobs, my broken speech."
"One more, I thank you, and if I ever reach
"The sweet calm religion holds to view.
"I shall, still grateful, think of you.
Adieu!

The experience of the past two seasons
has taught us that there are many men who expect Ready-made Clothing to be as good as clothes made to order, and who are willing to pay a fair price when they get what they want. The Winter
Suits and Overcoats are here in abundant, taking up every inch of space on our two floors.

$8.00 or $10.00 buys an Overcoat that is away up in every respect, except price.
The colors are light tan, dark brown black and navy blue. $6.00 or $8 will buy an All-wool Frieze Ulster that would require an expert to tell it from the

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true

We have given more than ordinary attention to the selection of our

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING

The experience of the past two seasons

has taught us that there are many men who expect Ready-made Clothing to be as good as clothes made to order, and

who are willing to pay a fair price when they get what they want. The Winter

Suits and Overcoats are here in abundant, taking up every inch of space on our two floors.

$8.00 or $10.00 buys an Overcoat that
is away up in every respect, except price.
The colors are light tan, dark brown
black and navy blue. $6.00 or $8 will buy an All-wool Frieze Ulster that would require an expert to tell it from the genuine Irish Frieze. Colours are the same as our other Ulsters. Our suits comprise everything to be found in a first-class store from $5 up. Be sure and give us a call.

Friday we followed up our reduction of Bedroom Set prices by marking down the figures on a large number of Sideboards,

China Cabinets and Dinner Waggon.

We are constantly adding new designs to our display, which is already larger and more attractive than ever before.

If you have any idea of furnishing, see our stock. You will probably buy at once.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 12 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

An Aged Lady's Death.
The death of Mrs. Robinson, an old lady in her 94th year, a resident of Auburn, occurred Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tremblay, Orléans. The remains will arrive in Peterborough today for burial.

Graduating Ceremonies.
The Nicholas hospital graduating ceremonies will take place in the Oddfellows hall on the evening of October 15. The graduating class consists of Miss Flora M. Boulton, Miss Ada M. Finney, Miss Edith F. Robinson and Miss Susie Barnett.

St. Andrew's Brothers Gather.
The provincial convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be held in Toronto on October 25, 26 and 27. Prominent among the speakers will be Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky; Mr. Silas McBee, of Philadelphia; and Mr. John W. Wood, general secretary of the Brotherhood, and editor of the St. Andrew's Cross.

Opening of the Bensford Bridge.
The opening of Bensford Bridge will take place on October 23rd, and it is proposed to make the opening the occasion of a gathering where speeches will be made, etc. The members of both Houses, the Town Council and the County Council have been invited to be present and will be conveyed to the bridge by the City of Peterborough which will leave the C. P. R. wharf at 1 o'clock.

Dangerously Injured.
The police were called upon last night to place in custody William Irwin, of Parnell street, who is out of his mind. While Irwin had not committed any acts of violence, his relatives were afraid of him, and asked the police to lock him up. He spent the night in the cells and was taken to the hospital. Five tramps were sheltered at the police station last night.

Traces of Oil.
We are informed that while the treadmill men were employed digging a well upon the premises of Mr. John Dunning, on Bayview street, about two miles south of Peterborough, they came across a very strong indication of the presence of oil. Just fancy what a prosperous locality this would be if a big find of oil was made. A few days ago a Pittsburgh would spring up at the Narrows in a month.

Committed Suicide.
We are informed that Mr. Frank Clow, a young man who for a number of years resided on the Oak Hills, in Peterborough, shot himself in the head with a revolver early on Sunday morning last. Mr. Clow was a farmer in good circumstances, and no special reason can be assigned for the rash act. He was about 35 years of age, unmarried, and lived with his widowed mother. The deceased was a man of good character, always cheerful and friendly, and was highly respected.

A Policeman Married.
Geo. Sockett, one of the most genial members of the police force, was married last night to Miss Katie Oak, of 312 Gerrard street east. The ceremony, which took place at the bride's home, was performed by Rev. M. C. Dixon, of the church of the Ascension. Alexander Gunn, of Lombard street, was best man and Miss Beatrice Sockett was maid of honor. The bride was dressed in white silk, the bridesmaids in white. Congratulations were received from London, Port Hope, and Peterborough. Harry Oak, of the latter place, being among the guests. —Toronto Telegram.

A Splendid Concert.
The audience which greeted Master Michael Young, the famous boy soprano, and his support at the Opera House last night, was not large, but thoroughly appreciative, and they were delighted by the excellent manner in which they were entertained. Through the kindness of Rev. Ernest Wood, who was instrumental in having the concert given in Peterborough, citizens were afforded the opportunity of attending a refined and pleasing entertainment. The singing of Master Young was a surprise. He possesses a sweet voice, of wonderful range, purity and flexibility, and the ease in which he rendered the most difficult compositions was wonderful in one so young. Mr. Allan Fairweather is gifted with a splendid tenor voice and his numbers were enthusiastically received. Mr. Ernest Wood has a good voice and last night he rendered in a pleasing and artistic manner several delightful songs. Miss Young's pianoforte solos were well executed and well received. In his comic and musical recitations, Mr. Lincoln Ouellet was not much below the equal of the famous Grousehill himself. The concert was of a refined nature and the audience was well pleased.

A Workman Almost Buried.
Last Wednesday, says the Campbellford Herald, while Fraser Dunn was excavating a place for a woodshed at Mr. T. J. Horne's dwelling on the "Oldville" Mill he met with an accident which nearly closed his mortal career. He was handling a pick under an overhanging mound of earth, and although warned of his danger, he concluded to strike at the earth, with his pick and ran from under it. Presently the mound fell upon him and buried him nearly to his armpits. He was quickly dug out, when it was discovered that he had been struck on the head by a stone, causing him a severe cut which was bleeding profusely. He was also bruised on one arm and leg. His injuries were not serious, however, as he was able to resume his work in a few days afterwards.

Should Be Registered.
Business men who are in partnership with those whose names have not been registered have reason to fear trouble. It may now be some that they are liable to a fine of $100 for doing business without having their declaration of partnership registered in the county registry office. This applies not only to the firm but to each partner therein. For $50 a partnership or dissolution can be registered, and in the case of the delinquent business men it is probable they are ignorant of the law in respect to the penalty. There are no moving clauses in the act, which distinctly states the fine is $100 for those firms whose partnerships are not registered within six months of their formation.

They Beat the Old Man.
A young woman and a young man from the north-west of Rice Lake decided to get married last week, and as the young man's father was "dead set" against the marriage, they decided to elope. In a cab they were driven to the station, where they were met by a young man and a young woman, who were waiting for them. They were driven to a hotel, where they were met by a young man and a young woman, who were waiting for them. They were driven to a hotel, where they were met by a young man and a young woman, who were waiting for them. They were driven to a hotel, where they were met by a young man and a young woman, who were waiting for them.

INTO THE RIVER

Did the G. T. R. Belleville Passenger Train Dash Last Night.

THE BRIDGE WAS OPEN.

ENGINE AND BAGGAGE CAR WITH CREW ON BOARD WENT OVER THE LOCKS BRIDGE PIER IN-TO 15 FEET OF WATER.

—THE INJURED.

The engine and baggage car of the Belleville train, which left the G.T.R. station here on Thursday evening, now lie in the river at the Locks bridge, nearly submerged by water. The Belleville train dashed through the open bridge at 9.30 last night, the engine and baggage car plunging into the river with an awful crash. The engine dropped and sank almost instantly and the baggage car crashed through it, landing in the river on the north side of the bridge. The passenger car hung half way over the embankment, teetering on the brink, so evenly balanced that the weight of one man on the end protruding over the water, would have plunged it down on top of the engine. The front trucks left the car and rolled down the embankment. With the engine and baggage car, Fireman Haines, Baggageman Gardner, and brakeman Brown went into the cold fog water. They had a miraculous escape from instant death as did the rest of the train hands and the eight passengers in the rear coach. The latter were badly shaken up and bruised and some of them escaped from the car by means of the windows, when they got outside and saw how nearly they had been to injury or death, the shock was more than the actual injuries they had received.

THE BRIDGE WAS OPEN.

The regular 9.05 train, No. 10, for Belleville, was two minutes late as it steamed out of the depot last night. It stopped at the Locks bridge semaphores, and then at the rate of six miles an hour headed for the bridge. The bridge was open and the train plunged into the river. Haines, Gardner and Brown went down with the engine and baggage car, swam ashore, and were sent to town to change their clothes and receive medical attendance. The bridge tender was on the bridge swinging it, when the baggage car struck the side and end of it and swung it wide open. This undoubtedly saved the passenger car and the lives of the passengers, for it shunted the coach back on the track and broke the couplings between it and the baggage car.

THE BRIDGE TENDER'S STORY.

Archie Jackson, a young man, is bridge tender and has charge of the signals. He has only been in the employ of the G.T.R. Company about 10 days. He made the following statement of the accident to Agent Hayden.
"I went out to swing the bridge for Gilmore's allotment, being whistling to get through. Before getting on the bridge I put up the danger signal at the semaphores. As I got on the bridge I heard the whistle of the Belleville train and it came up to the semaphores and stopped. It stopped there about two minutes and then pulled out for the bridge which was nearly closed, but not close enough for me to jump off. The engine plunged right down into the water, and the baggage car struck the bridge swinging it open. The semaphores red light was up against the train and it has not been changed since. I did not lower the signal, nor was it lowered. The engineer simply ignored the signal and came right on. I did my duty and do not see how any blame can attach to me. The engine went over at 9.30 or a minute or two later.

HIS SISTER'S STORY.

Jackson's sister, a young woman, said she was out watching the allotment. She saw her brother put up the danger signal and step on the bridge. The bridge was pretty nearly closed when the train plunged into the river. The semaphores had not been changed since. The engineer stepped off the cab just before the engine went over. Her brother could not have changed the semaphores as he was on the bridge.

EYE WITNESSES' STORIES.

Wm. Kempt, who lives near the bridge, says he was within two rods of the semaphores when the train came up and stopped. The red light was against the train and the red light also showed on the bridge. The train pulled out for the bridge without waiting for the white lights.
T. McWilliams told the same story as Kempt and the Jacksons. The signals showed danger. He heard one of the train hands tell the engineer that the white lights were showing and then the train pulled out.

THE ENGINEER'S VERSION.

Conductor Stanton was in charge of the train and Engineer Andrews, of Belleville, was driving, taking the place of the regular driver, Engineer Taylor. He was seen at the G.T.R. station last night and made the following statement to THE TIMES representative:
"It was 9.30 when I stopped at the bridge and the two red lights were showing. After waiting 10 minutes I saw the white lights show on the bridge and remarked the fact to my mate who was standing on the bridge of the tender with me. The brakeman was standing on the platform on the first car. The signal was lowered and I pulled ahead. When within 15 yards of the bridge I could see by the glare of the headlights that the bridge was nearly closed, and I stepped off, and the engine went down. We were going at the rate of 6 or 7 miles an hour. My mate and I saw the white lights and all the crew saw the signal lowered. They will corroborate my story. The semaphores is all I had to go by, and certainly at a bridge, I would not dare pull ahead until it showed everything clear."

Driver Andrews is an old employee of the road, and from all that could be learned from the train hands last night, is a careful man, and one whose word can be relied upon. He is strictly temperate as well.

THE PASSENGERS.

The passenger coach, which was damaged to the extent of $300, having the heater broken, windows smashed and seats wrecked, contained eight passengers. They were:

Mr. Hoar and wife, of the Narrows, near Campbellford.
Mrs. K. Lancaster, Hastings.
Daniel R. Wright, Hastings.
John Welsh, tanner, Hastings.
Robert Harston, merchant, Warkworth.
W. J. McMillan, Westwood.
Mr. Elthwell, Campbellford.
The eighth man's name could not be learned.

Mr. McMillan climbed through the window and sustained injuries to his right leg of a painful but not serious nature. He told THE TIMES representative that the sensation was a queer one, although none of the passengers appeared to be frightened until afterwards. "The car swayed and jolted," said Mr. McMillan and then came to a sudden stop which threw us all off the seats, when we got outside and saw how near we had been to going in the river, we were more frightened than when in the car.

ONE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Mr. A. A. Mark, a traveller for J. D. King & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers, Toronto, was writing in the baggage car of the train when it went over the bridge, and had a narrow escape from death. Mr. Mark was seriously injured on the left hip and spine, his hands and face badly cut and he is otherwise badly used up. Mr. Mark was taken to the Oriental hotel and Dr. King dressed his wounds. He was seen by THE TIMES representative and gave the following account of his narrow escape:

"I was writing in the baggage car, when I felt it plunge down and the next thing I knew I was completely under water. It was the most terrible experience I ever had. When I rose to the surface there was barely room for my head above the level of the water and the top of the car. I kicked open the window, which was under water and one of the train hands helped me to dive down and crawl out. A board was shoved to me and I got on it and was shoved to the shore. It was a narrow escape, and I don't want to go through it again." Mr. Mark is suffering from his bruises and cuts and will be laid up for some time.

WHO TOUCHED THE SIGNALS.

If the stories told by the bridge tender and the engineer are true, and there is no reason to doubt them, the semaphores was meddled with by some outsider who saw the white lights on the bridge, concluded it was closed and pulled down the signals. The question now is, who meddled with the semaphores. Jackson could not have pulled down the signals as he was on the bridge when the engine and car went over, and his orders were implicit that he was to change the semaphores signals personally. Some one evidently meddled with the signals. There was a number of people around the signal house at the time, and it is probable that the signals were lowered by one of them.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

It is little short of a miracle that the four men who went over with the engine and baggage car were not killed. Had the passenger coach followed the baggage car over the embankment nothing could have saved them. It was a close shave for the passenger coach.

The cab of the engine sticks out of the river about two feet, and the top of the baggage car can be seen about a foot above the surface. There was considerable damage in the car, which will be pretty thoroughly water soaked. The engine is a complete wreck.

An auxiliary pulled the passenger car off the track this morning, and the track will be open by the time the first train is scheduled to cross the bridge. It could not be ascertained last night whether the bridge was injured by the baggage car. If it is, the line will be blocked until repairs can be made.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

Very Little Business Transacted—Accounts Presented.

The Council of the Village of Ashburnham met in regular session last night. There were present: Reeve Burnham in the chair, and Counsellors Calcutt, Craig, Rutherford and Smith.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented and ordered to be paid:
Peterborough Light & Power Co. $105 00
W. Collins 4 00
Bell Telephone Co. 30
Examiner Printing Co. 37 00
H. J. Weir 4 00
T. C. Sullivan 2 25
J. Clancy 2 80
W. Kerr 4 50
Pay Sheet No. 28 13 00
" 29 31 25
" 30 39 00
" 32 31 15

A dispute arose concerning an account of $105.00 submitted by Mr. Thos. Mitchell for drawing gravel and stone for road purposes. The council claiming that Mitchell had charged 40¢ per load instead of 40¢ as agreed upon; also that he had drawn more than authorized. It was finally decided to compromise the matter by paying 40¢ per load, the measurement of gravel to remain as submitted by Mr. Mitchell. This reduced the account to a total of $90.

Councillor Smith moved, seconded by Councillor Rutherford, that the clerk acknowledge the receipt of town clerk's communication re fire protection, and request a copy of the account regarding the same—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

SHE WAS VERY LOVING

BUT IT WAS NOT HER HUSBAND SHE ADORER.

Sent Love Letters to a Well Known Young Man and They Reached Her Husband's Hands—The Two Men Meet and Exchange Blows—Now the Wife Has Gone—Ditto the Young Man.

The wife of a painter in Peterborough disappeared one day last week, and up to date her whereabouts are not known by her husband, who, however, is not concerning himself very much about the absence of his better half, nor is he anticipating her return with any joyful eagerness.

The reason for this is, that at the time of his wife's departure, a well known young man in town departed for parts unknown, too, and while it is not stated that they left together, it is believed that they met at a prearranged place, and have gone away together to enjoy unmolested their illicit love for each other. The young man in question is a well known ball player, of athletic build and splendid physique.

It doesn't take a suspicious husband long to take to anything of this nature, especially if he has had unmistakable evidence of the existence of his wife's preference for some one else. Not so very long ago, the young man left his boarding house for a few weeks, and while he was away this woman wrote him a score of letters. The landlord was suspicious when he saw so many letters accumulate, and one day opened one of them. The woman had been indiscreet enough to sign her name, and the landlord parcelled up the letters and took them to the husband.

It is said the letters were full of sentimental sentences interspersed with endearing terms, and covered with little round dots at the corners, which a postscript at the bottom said were kisses "for my darling George." By the time the husband had read a dozen or so of these letters, he was pretty thoroughly mad, and mentally harassed.

"I'll kiss George, d—n him, if I ever get chance at him."

And, as later events transpired it was that the outraged husband didn't mean a kiss of a yum-yum-when-the-moon-is-under-a-cloud kind, but what in pugilistic parlance is known as an uppercut. He met George in the Arcade not long after and smote him real hard with a flat hard-ened with putty, raw oil and turps.

That was an end of the matter for the time being, but now the wife has flown, and the young man is also away, and it is rumored that they have bled themselves away to some sylvan abode, where, undisturbed by irate husbands or prying landlords, they can coo the autumn days away.

GUILTY COUNTERFEITERS.

The Murphys Receive Sentences Aggregating Forty-Two Years.

At noon today the members of the Murphy family were arraigned for sentence, says the Lindsay Post. As soon as they were seated in William, the eldest of the lot, began to explain that a great wrong had been done him, and that he was not guilty. His lordship asked him if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him, and still he kept up his noise and the constable could hardly keep him quiet. He was sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for one year, with hard labor, for the first charge, and three years on the other, sentences to run concurrently.

Allan Murphy was then called for sentence, and his lordship in talking to him, said that his brother William was the more to blame, he being the oldest of the family, and the owner of the farm. Allan was sentenced for the first offence to five years in the Kingston penitentiary, with hard labor, for the second offence to three years; and the third to five years; the sentences to run concurrently.

Wellington Murphy was the next one to stand up and "take his medicine," and he was sentenced on the first charge to five years and on the second to three years, the sentences to run concurrently also.

Richard Murphy came next and he was sent down to Kingston for five years at hard labor.

Fred Murphy, the youngest boy, was then ordered to stand up and receive the sentence of the court. His lordship said that he would not send the boy to Kingston along with the others, but would send him where he could learn a trade. He then sentenced the boy to three years in the reformatory at Peterborough.

As they received their sentences they were led away by constables. As William was going out of the door he turned and shook his fist at his lordship, saying: "You're a d—d old scoundrel."

Mr. Fitzgerald started again at 8¢. Mr. Wrighton increasing it by 1-10 and taking Bensford, Trevelyan, Lakeview, Pine Grove and Missing Link.

Mr. Fitzgerald offered 8 1/10¢ and succeeded in securing Oronoke Union, Myrtle, Millbrook, Mount Pleasant, North Dumfries, Ormonde and Cherry Grove.

Mr. Cook bid 8 1/10¢ for further selections, Westwood and Norwood being named and accepted.

Mr. Wrighton commenced the offering again at 8 1/10¢, and this was not increased, and Maple Leaf, Keene, Westminster and Lang took the offer.

For further selections Mr. Wrighton offered 8¢ and this was not accepted by any of the factories named.

Mr. Fitzgerald started at 7:30. Mr. Jones raised it to 7 1/10¢. Mr. Fitzgerald brought it up to 7 7/8¢. The latter offer was taken by Stony Lake.

Mr. Hodgson offered 8¢ for further selections, Melrose Abbey, Daisy D, Cedarvale and Ida accepting.

Fleetwood went to Mr. Wrighton at 8 cents, Oakdale was taken by Mr. Cook at 8 1/10¢.

The factories unable to sell were allowed to sell off the board and the Board adjourned for two weeks, the whole month of October to be offered.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Fresh to brisk southerly shifting to westerly winds, a few local showers, otherwise fair with a little higher temperature.

To Cash Buyers.

We are offering special bargains in new teas, coffees, sugars and general groceries, 367 Water street. Wm. Detcher. Telephone, 284.

Sent to the Poorhouse at 105.

George Hannah, aged 105, was brought to the home of the poor at Coburg from Oak Hills, near Burnley. He still retains his mental faculties and is able to help himself.

Fainted With Heat.

A young man fainted in the Opera House last night at the performance of the Guy Bros' minstrels, and was carried out. The occurrence created some excitement as people imagined a fight was going on.

Rev. Dr. Dewar Coming.

Rev. Dr. Dewar, editor of the Guardian, who has recently returned from the Old Country, will be in Peterborough next week, and on Thursday night he will give a talk on his trip to Europe in the George Street Methodist church. This is sure to be interesting.

Horse Wanted.

Mr. W. J. Pearson, the well known horse dealer of Montreal is prepared to purchase a carload of good sound horses of every description, at the highest prices. He is billed as follows: White's hotel, Peterborough, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, October 10th, 11th and 12th; Crocker's hotel, Millbrook, Wednesday, Oct. 17th. Mr. Pearson is also prepared to purchase the highest grade of horses for which he will outbid all competitors.

Police Court Notes.

In the police court yesterday morning, Messrs. Beverly and Young, two shanty-men, sued Mr. Alfred McDonald, lumberman, for alleged unpaid wages. The men were at work in the timber limits and leaving suddenly were, it seems, refused their pay. The case has been enlarged for a week to give Mr. McDonald an opportunity of inquiring into the case, as at present he has no means of ascertaining if the men were even employed in his camp.

Flavor in Bread

Says Dr. Goodfellow in an English Exchange: depends largely on the fermentation, the more malt used the sweeter the bread and the more easily digested. There can be no doubt that it pays a baker to give his careful attention to the production of bread, giving a pleasant and acceptable flavor. If you want this kind of bread ask for Bates and take no other, it is the only brand in Peterborough containing malt, or malt extract, for sale at all reliable grocers.

To-Night! To-Night!

The Fiddle's String Band from Kingston (comprising gullies, mandolins, autoharp, cornet, etc.) under the command of Staff Capt. and Mrs. Southall, will conduct a special musical meeting. It will be a grand concert tonight. They will conduct special meetings all day on Sunday (tomorrow), latest songs, nightingale singer, new music. The program will be something grand tonight. Saturday, Peterborough Brass and String Bands will be in attendance on Sunday.

Might as Well be Comfortable.

Look out for chills, coughs and rheumatism which come from poor clothing, or being too thinly clad. Come into H. Le Brun & Co's tonight, and have your measure, or suit a good warm wool suit, or overcoat from our strictly first class stock. Mothers are specially invited to come and bring the boys with them. We have a great stock of boys suits, pea jackets and overcoats. Can't be equalled in town. Pea jackets only $1.35 and $1.50. Treat yourself to some warm underclothing tonight also. Shirts or drawers for 25c up. H. Le Brun & Co., City Clothing Store.

Football This Afternoon.

A Rugby football match will be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds at four o'clock this afternoon when there should be a good turn out of the players. The game must be given a good beginning in order to ensure the future success of the game. Today's team will be chosen from the following players: Montgomery, White, Thompson, Robertson, Phillips, Adams, Rev. Mr. Stevenson, R. Davidson, Bell, W. Davidson, Gordon, Keogh, Bellechem, Jeffries, H. Lewis, Lamb, Parson, Thorne, O. Poussette, Mackenzie, T. Burnham, LeFevre, Dunbar, Wilcox, Allen, Innes, Hudson, MacGibbon, Parker, Kelly, Gard, King, Hicks and D. Rogers. Any others who wish to play will please turn up.

This is Encouraging.

A well known professional gentleman of Peterborough called last night and subscribed to The Times for one year. "No man can be up to the times and not take your paper," was his statement. "You are reading all other papers in town, and your enterprise in giving the citizens a complete and detailed report of the G.T.R. wreck, was much appreciated and I heard many favorable comments. I understand full well the labor entailed in gathering a correct report of the affair in the great excitement which prevailed at the time. Your paper is certainly the nearest in Peterborough."

FOUND THE HORSE.

The Thief Left it Tied to a Tree on the Road.

Mr. Robt. Gibbs recovered his horse yesterday, the thief having driven it as far as Nassau Mills, where he tied it to a tree and abandoned it. As the outfit was a valuable one, Mr. Gibbs is feeling pretty good over recovering it.

The young man who hired the horse last night is a resident of this county, it is believed, and an investigation will be made.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

The Mission Band of the Baptist Church held a Concert.

A decidedly successful entertainment was given last night by the Mission Band of the Murray Street Baptist church in the school room, which was uniquely decorated with reminiscences of autumn.

About 200 were present and listened with pleasure to an excellent program. The Rev. J. E. Trotter occupied the chair, and kept the audience in good humor. Special mention might be made of the Good Night drill by eight little girls, who were each dressed in a costume, each supplied with a candle, and who went through a number of movements each reciting a verse as they retired.

THE DAMAGE $9,400.

It was a Costly Accident for the Grand Trunk Railway.

Hundreds of citizens visited the scene of Thursday's wreck yesterday and viewed the dismantled engine and car lying nearly submerged in the water of the river at the swinging bridge.

Yesterday morning the wrecked passenger car was drawn off the abutment by an auxiliary, and the damage to the bridge proving to be of a very slight nature, the regular traffic was not delayed and all trains went out on scheduled time. The work of raising the engine and baggage car will be commenced tomorrow.

The loss is estimated at $9,400, the engine being worth $9,000 and the car the balance. An investigation will be held in a few days.

Most of the passengers who were on the wrecked train left for their homes this morning. Mr. A. A. Marks, who was the most seriously injured of any, is still confined to his bed, at the Oriental, but is recovering.

HE GOT MIXED UP.

Was Looking for Work and Landed in the Cells.

Richard Lane, of Apsley, wandered into Peterborough yesterday in search of work of any kind, and brought his bed and chattels with him done up in a bag and swung over his shoulder.

Richard evidently became tired of looking for honest toil and instead got gloriously full of dynamite juice which befogged his intellect and clouded his mind to such an extent that he became lost in the streets, and knew not whether he was Richard Lane, of Apsley, or N. Clarke, of Valence, or the Woodbridge for that matter. He not only lost his own identity and surroundings, but his bundle of bled shirts and chattels as well, and when the police gathered him in, he was in a pitiful state of mental imbecility.

He spent the night in the police cells on the soft side of an oak mattress, and this morning he will probably know more about himself than his next door neighbor, which is saying a great deal these days.

MR. A. PARKER RESIGNS

The Position of Assistant Superintendent of George Street Methodist S. S.

A business meeting of the officers of the George Street Methodist Sunday school was held last night in the school room. The following delegates were appointed to the Provincial Convention at Toronto: Mr. O. R. Dayman and Miss A. Sanderson.

The services of Rev. A. C. Crews, general secretary of Methodist Sabbath schools, were engaged to conduct the anniversary services to be held the first of next year.

Mr. A. Parker handed in his resignation as assistant superintendent, which was accepted. Mr. O. R. Dayman was elected to fill the vacancy.

The church has had under consideration the establishment of a Sunday school in the north ward, and the Sunday school decided last night to co-operate with the church in this laudable movement.

HIGHWAYMEN NEAR MYRTLE.

A Toronto Drug Traveler Held up in a Swamp by Three Men.

Mr. James A. Johnston, a drug traveler employed by C. D. Daniels & Co., King street east, Toronto, had an exciting experience with highwaymen on the road about three miles from Myrtle on Wednesday night. Mr. Johnston was traveling by bicycle, carrying his sample case on the handlebars. He left Myrtle at about 7.30 p.m. to make Balsam.

About half a mile from Ashburn he saw a man standing in the roadway and enquired how far it was to Ashburn. He uttered some reply and quickly caught the handles of the bicycle, throwing Mr. Johnston from the machine. At the same time, commanding him to "hand out what you got." The man carried a good-sized stick and waved it threateningly.

Mr. Johnston grappled with him, secured the stick and fell him. Two other men sprang from behind the fence and matters were unpleasantly warm, when a three-legged machine was heard approaching and the man decamped in the direction of Myrtle. Mr. Johnston arrived in the city last night and bears some ugly marks on his face and body as a result of the encounter.

A SPLENDID PERFORMANCE.

Guy Bros' Minstrels Better than Ever—A Crowded House.

Standing room only was to be obtained at the Opera House at 8 o'clock last night, when the popular Guy Bros' minstrels held down the boards.

The aggregation this year is better than ever, and the performance was undoubtedly the best ever given in Peterborough. The soloists and the songs were new, the specialties were very fine, while the solo quartette and chorus singing was much better than ever before. The orchestra selections, particularly the discursive overture, "A day at the circus," called forth great appreciation. The company gave evidence of great change and great improvement, and the audience last night was kept in continual good humor. Special mention is deserved by Hughby McVey, whose club and stick manipulations were wonderful, and also the clever work of the female impersonators, Billy Lyons and J. J. Herbert. It is safe to say that Guy Bros' Minstrels will continue to fill the Opera House every time they play here.

NO TRUTH IN IT.

Reeve Statement Had Nothing to do With This Affair.

THE TIMES representative met Mr. Casement, the popular reeve of Lakeside, and was informed by that gentleman that the statements of the Americans, who were fined for hunting without a license near Burleigh Falls, which was published under glaring headlines in the Rochester papers, had not one iota of truth in them as far as they related to him.

One of the Americans, a man named Paulkner, told the Rochester papers that Mr. Holmes, of Burleigh Falls, drove to Reeve Casement's and informed him that the Americans were hunting without license, and that Reeve Casement immediately telegraphed to the game warden, who came down and fined the men. We have Mr. Casement's most emphatic denial to this, as he had nothing, whatever, to do with the case, did not telegraph or otherwise communicate with the game warden nor was he in any manner instrumental in having the three Americans fined. The person who is acquainted with Mr. Casement would not, for one moment, believe him guilty of playing the role of informer.

Paulkner, the man of German birth and Yankee bringing up, seems to be manufactured out of a material conducive to the greatest flights of the imagination, for his account of the affair teems with, not only numerous inaccuracies, but bold statements made out of whole cloth. If the words credited to him in the Rochester papers really emanated from him.

RACING AT COBOURG.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 8 1895.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS.

Our valued contemporary, the Bobcaygeon Independent, frequently gets off some good things. In a recent issue it discussed the Manitoba School question in this wise: The quarrel among the Christians regarding which brand of Christianity shall be taught in the public schools of Manitoba, is not quite so noisy as it was a few weeks since, but its intensity has in no degree diminished. The Methodist Christians of Manitoba have made a distinctive pronouncement, and have declared that they will resist all attempts of other Christians to teach any kind of Christianity in the public schools. It is a very ugly business in this religious quarrel. The feeling in Manitoba is strong upon the subject, and although the population of Manitoba is small, about as large as that of the city of Toronto, yet the influence of religion is so powerful that it affects the people of other Provinces, and may, in this way, lead to important results. It is quite within the range of possibility that this quarrel between two kinds of Christians may lead to the bursting of the very weak links which bind together the Canadian Confederacy. The Manitoba people are one sort of Christians, the Quebec people are another sort of Christians. They hate each other. If the Quebec people should attempt by force to introduce their kind of Christianity into Manitoba schools, the Manitoba people would resist, and in that resistance would be aided by Christians of the same brand in other Provinces. Then there would be a general resort to bullets and bloodshed, the different Christian Churches would bless the combatants, each brand of Christians would call upon its own particular God to smite the other brand of Christians, and the upshot would be that Manitoba would secede and become one of the United States. That would be the end of the Canadian Confederation.

Do you think Bowell will get you out of the mess? Pahaw! Do you think Lemier will get you out of the mess? Absurd! The only man who has dared to speak plainly is McCarthy. There is no mistake to be made about what he says. He tells all sorts and kinds of Christians to keep their hands off the schools, and he bids each to teach their own particular brand of Christianity in their own particular homes, churches, Sunday schools. It is for persons to teach religion, and for schools to teach a-c-t cat and twice two are four. Keep the persons out of the school-house, or otherwise the next generation will be animated by the same religious hatreds which distinguish this generation. It is not Bowell, it is not Lemier, who can save the Dominion from a smash-up, it is McCarthy. The Dominion is in danger. This religious rampage may end in revolution. McCarthy's policy may save Canada from bloodshed, and that is why this journal supports McCarthy. A plague on both your parties—give this journal McCarthy.—Somebody.

Two officials in the Buffalo Public Works Department are under arrest for "padding" the pay rolls. It is fortunate for the Lachine bridge operators that they enjoy the greater freedom of our historic institutions.

Another mystery to be added to the many unsolved mysteries of the great lakes is that, while Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence have fallen to a lower level than any yet recorded, and are still falling, Lake Huron and the St. Clair have been rising for weeks and now stand at a level six inches above their level on Dominion Day last, and sixteen and a half inches above low water mark.

TELLING THE BEES.

How They Are Notified of a Death in Their Owner's Family.

There is probably no insect in which mankind in general takes more interest than it does in the common honeybee, and of the dozens of superstitions which have been woven about bees none is more curious and interesting than that called "telling the bees" of a death.

Informing bees of a death in the family of their owner, in order to keep them from deserting the hive when they find it out of their own accord, is a custom so ancient that no antiquarian has ever been able to trace it to its origin. In this country it is only practiced by recent additions to our population from the lands across the sea, but in parts of Britain and continental Europe it is looked upon as a necessity, providing the apianian desires to keep his swarms from deserting their abodes. So universal was this custom of "telling the bees" a few years ago in Europe that an inquiry concerning bees was more than likely to elicit the reply that they had all left the place since So-and-so died, because the grief-stricken family had neglected to tell the little honey gatherers what had happened. If neighbors were talking of the death of a friend, some one in the company would most likely ask if the bees had been informed of the sad circumstance. A recent correspondent of one of the big London weeklies, who says that the custom is still practiced in Devon, tells of a funeral cortege which was halted in order that an apprentice boy might be sent back to tell the bees what was going on, a little detail which had been overlooked before starting for the cemetery.

In Austria, Italy, Poland and in parts of Russia, when the master or mistress of a house dies, not only the bees, but the livestock in general is supposed to be acquainted with the fact by rattling a bunch of keys at the hives, in the stables and among the herds. In France, when the master or mistress dies, the bees are informed and have their hives draped in mourning.

Oliver, in his "History of Beverley," says that the inhabitants of that place invariably clothe their beehives in mourning on the day of a funeral, this to insure the future prosperity of the swarm. Besides the mourning decorations, an offering of "funeral biscuit," pounded fine and soaked in wine, is sometimes added.—St. Louis Republic.

The Electric Crater.

Everybody knows that an arc light is formed by causing an electric current to pass between the points of two carbon rods. One of these is called the positive and the other the negative electrode, and the current passes from the former to the latter. Particles of carbon are carried off from the positive electrode until it becomes cup shaped.

To the little cup thus formed the name of crater is applied, and from this crater four-fifths of the light is emitted. The negative electrode does not become as hot as the other.

Between the two a little cloud of vaporized carbon is formed, rising from the crater, and this vapor gives forth a golden yellow light. But it is overpowered by the light of the crater itself, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon.

The arc of light extending from one electrode to the other also has an axis of a violet color which is its most brilliant part.

The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater.

A very interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows, cast on a neighboring wall, appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—Youth's Companion.

Bismarck and the Ambassador.

One day the Austrian ambassador to the federal diet, Count Rechberg, received a dispatch instructing him to vote with Prussia for a certain important measure, accompanied with a confidential letter directing him to induce the representatives of the other German states to vote against the measure, and thus defeat it. In his haste he handed the wrong paper to Bismarck, who read and returned it with the remark:

"There must be some mistake here." Rechberg saw his blunder and grew pale and excited. "Don't be disturbed," said Bismarck. "You did not intend to give me this document, and therefore you have not given it to me, and I am wholly ignorant of its contents." In fact, he made no mention of it in his official reports, and thus won Rechberg's gratitude, besides having him henceforth "on the hip."—San Francisco Argonaut.

THE TRUTH.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 24, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 11 1895.

HELD THE FORT.

In his insanity he fought the Canadian Battalion Over Again.

Special to the Times.

New York, Oct. 12.—Under the impression that he was holding a fort with a command of men and that he must stand at his post until the enemy was driven back or he killed, James J. Lynch held three policemen at bay for an hour and a half in a room in the tenement house at 1099 Third avenue and placed in danger the lives of many people in the crowded house when he fired a number of shots from a heavy Winchester rifle. The enemy was unable to withstand the force of the attack and after a brief but sharp fight fled to the southward, pursued by the Italians, who captured many prisoners. The Italian had eleven killed and thirty wounded and the natives lost thirty killed and a large number wounded.

ITALY IN AFRICA.

A Successful Attack on a Native Stronghold Near Harar.

Special to the Times.

ROME, Oct. 12.—Advice from Massowah state that on October 9th General Baratini, commanding the Italian forces in Abyssinia, made an advance and carried the stronghold native position at Debraiet held by 1,300 Abyssinians, commanded by Ras Mangassa. The enemy was unable to withstand the force of the attack and after a brief but sharp fight fled to the southward, pursued by the Italians, who captured many prisoners. The Italian had eleven killed and thirty wounded and the natives lost thirty killed and a large number wounded.

THE SHORTS TRIAL.

BEAUFORT, Oct. 12.—The testimony in the Shortis case today continued to tell of the prisoner's eccentricities when he was in Ireland and since his advent in Canada.

SHORTIS' INSANITY PLEA.

FURTHER EVIDENCE AS TO HIS PECULIAR NATURE.

He Got Tangled at His Meals While Living in a Montreal Hotel—He Also Wanted a Target Put up in the Cellar for Revolver Practice. Special to the Times.

Beaufort, Oct. 12.—The interest in the Shortis trial to-day is still at fever heat, and quite a number of people from distant parts of the country are noticed in the court room. Mr. Maclean arrived from Montreal this morning and is assisting Mr. Macmaster in the case.

Hon. J. H. C. Bergeron, Deputy Speaker in the House at Ottawa, is also an interested spectator of the lively scenes in Court.

The following witnesses have been subpoenaed by the defence: The Hon. Jas. McShane, William Cunningham, Mrs. Lewis, John Rowe, Capt. Mathews, Mrs. Jas. Mulcahey, "Jack" Anderson, G. Barry, Miss Millie Anderson, the Rev. Father Dunne, and Edgar Bury. These witnesses arrived here on the early trains this morning.

Governor Vallee, of the Montreal jail, arrived here last night. He will testify on behalf of the Crown.

LEGAL SKIRMISHING.

A series of lively legal skirmishes opened the proceedings. Capt. Mathews, the first witness called, was examined by the defence with a view of strengthening the plea of insanity, but the Crown counsel, believing that the questions were becoming too leading and that he was, evidence was being introduced, objected. Twice the Crown, to use football phrase, broke through the defence, and got over the line, but there is a luck in odd numbers, and the third decision was given in favor of the prisoner's lawyers, although His Honor, in announcing that the objection would not be maintained, stated that he himself was rather doubtful concerning the legality of the question.

MR. MATHEWS' EVIDENCE.

Capt. George H. Mathews of Montreal was called. He is proprietor of Atlantic Chambers, Commissioners street, where prisoner had a room. He first met Shortis in an office in the building occupied by the cattle inspectors. It was the witness who rented Shortis an office in the building. The lease was made until 1895, but the prisoner left in the summer of 1894.

Continuing, witness said: "Prisoner got to be such a nuisance about the place that I asked him to cancel the lease. The tenants complained that Shortis went into their offices and copied private letters in their copy books. One day witness went into Shortis' office, and saw the prisoner sitting with knickerbockers on and no stockings. The prisoner used to promenade through the corridors and offices of the building in the same rig. When I remonstrated with him he said it was good for his health."

A TARGET IN THE CELLAR.

Shortis also asked me to let him put up a target in the cellar. He was always bothering me with a catalogue of revolvers and rifles. In fact, he always had firearms of some kind in his possession.

Continuing his evidence, Capt. Mathews remarked "that the tenants all considered Shortis simple, at least; was aware that Shortis' parents gave the prisoner money, in fact a certain sum had been left by Mathews by Mrs. Shortis to pay her son monthly."

To Mr. Donald Macmaster, Q.C.—"Never knew prisoner to do any business, although he was always receiving and sending out circulars, etc."

Witness admitted that Shortis had a right to have his legs bare in his own office, providing he kept the door closed. He only saw the prisoner twice in this condition, one in the corridors and once in the prisoner's own office. Witness told Shortis then that he would have none of that, as it was no lunatic asylum. Shortis then replied that he would put on his stockings. Witness had seen numbers of barefooted women, men and children. There was nothing strange about that.

To Mr. Greenshields—"Never saw judges, lawyers or business men going around in their bare feet."

ONE OF SHORTIS' FRIENDS.

Edgar Berry, 22 years of age, of Montreal, testified: "I became acquainted with Shortis several months after his arrival in this country. I am not related to the Shortis family. I often went out around the city with the prisoner. It struck me on these occasions that he was childish."

"What would he do to give you that impression?" asked Mr. Greenshields. "He would spit on people's clothing as he passed them on the street because they had on fine clothing," answered the witness. "He also jostled people."

Continuing, Berry said: "We had a party at our house one night in June. The prisoner was among the invited guests. While others appeared in evening dress, the prisoner came with buckskin moccasins on and his trousers tied up with rope. Prisoner used to go to policeman, pretending that he knew them, and enter into conversation. Every time prisoner passed a certain house on Alexander street he would ring the door bell and ask for a glass of water. When spoken to regarding his peculiar action, he replied that he always asked for a drink at that house. Shortis was reckless with firearms. He came to witness' office with them."

By Mr. Greenshields—"Did he have a high-pitched voice, with an English accent?"

"Is that a sign of insanity?" asked Mr. Macmaster, smiling.

"The doctors will decide that," answered Mr. Greenshields.

OVER AN INTERVIEW.

To questions put by Mr. Macmaster, witness said that he had given an exclusive interview with a "Star" reporter about Shortis, a short time after the crime. A copy of the "Star" was here produced and the witness cross-examined on many points in the article in question.

"The family considered Shortis crazy," continued Mr. Bury.

The witness was then subjected to a severe cross-examination by the Crown prosecutor.

By Mr. St. Pierre—"Did you, Mr. Bury, tell a Star reporter that Shortis wanted you to go out west and hunt buffalo and shoot Indians?"

"Yes, I did," replied the witness. This concluded Mr. Bury's evidence.

"WHAT CRAZY LOON IS THAT?"

Margaret Rowe, widow of the late J. W. Lewis, proprietor of the Cadillac Hotel, Montreal, sworn, replied to questions put by Mr. Greenshields. She said that she first became acquainted with the prisoner about two years ago, when he went to the hotel as a guest. When witness first saw the prisoner in the dining room, she said, "what crazy loon is that?" She then asked her husband, "where did you get it from?"

Continuing witness said: "He would hem and haw and smile, and then shout, 'blackberry pie and ice cream.' He then asked for the go soup. He then asked for ice cream again. He finished with this, he asked for corn. After tittering for a while, he would say to me, 'We don't eat that kind of stuff in Ireland.'"

"Prisoner would then go to meat and potatoes. After that he would go down to ice cream again, and during all this time Shortis would squint and peep at the other guests. Although we had plenty of fruit on the table, the prisoner brought in a basket of pears of his own and put them around his plate."

Mr. George Rowe, of Montreal, manager of the Cadillac Hotel and brother of the previous witness, being sworn, fully corroborated his sister's evidence. Rowe further stated that Shortis was a great annoyance to the waitresses. One day witness said to him, Shortis, you are either a fool or you are crazy."

At this Shortis told witness to be careful, because he was an athlete.

NO SIGNS OF REMORSE.

Francois Miron, market clerk, Valleyfield, swore he was also a sub-constable. He arrested Shortis on the night of the tragedy. The prisoner made himself at home in the cell at once and lay down and slumbered soundly shortly after being locked up. This fact alone surprised the policemen. Prisoner did not show any signs of contrition or remorse. He refused to discuss the murder with him on the following day. He would answer no questions.

REV. FATHER DUNNE.

Rev. Robert Dunne, of Waterford, Ireland, was next sworn. He taught young Shortis in the Christian Brothers' school at Waterford. He understood Shortis' character and disposition pretty thoroughly. Shortis was, he thought, very dense. His mind was not very receptive. There were flashes of intelligence at times and at others his mind was vacant. He suffered from headaches in the latter case. He made but slow progress while under his tuition. A teacher was also engaged to teach him in the evenings. He never thought the boy was of sound mind.

His bearing towards his companions was very eccentric. He was popular in a sense and made much amusement for the other scholars. He played tricks on other boys, not only on smaller ones, but also on those bigger than himself. He brought small pistols to school and carried an unusually large pocket knife. Witness had to take such things from him at different times. Young Shortis had destructive habits, and wasted things other boys would be careful with. He often broke windows in the locality. He never thought Shortis did any overt act through malice. After committing a rash act he appeared stolid.

THE FIGHTERS WARNED.

Governor Clark addresses himself to Corbett and Fitz.

Special to the Times.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 12.—Governor Clark has addressed the following telegram to Corbett and Fitz:

"I am advised by the press despatches that it is your purpose at an early day to engage in a prize fight in this state. The purpose of this is to inform you that such an act is a violation of our law, and an affront to the sentiment of state pride entertained by our people. It will, therefore, not be possible for you to accomplish such purpose, and any attempt on your part to do so will subject you to penalties and to treatment that I am sure will be highly distasteful to you."

"I am well enough advised of the nature and extent of the power and authority with which you will find yourself confronted, that it will prove insufficient to deter you from engaging in a prize fight in Arkansas."

"The question, so far as it relates to you, does not now call for the construction of statutes or other rules of law. In the present state of public opinion, which at least is the force that inflicts penalties, prize fighters have no rights which those in authority are bound to respect. But there is no lack of law to make it now my duty to do all that is here indicated. As this is the only communication that I shall address to you, I have been somewhat more emphatic than would be the case if the matter were open to discussion."

JUMPED INTO THE RAPIDS.

Deliberate Suicide of a Lockport Man at Niagara Falls.

Special to the Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 12.—A strange man deliberately plunged into the rapids above the falls about 10 o'clock this morning and went over the catwalk. He was seen by Hackdriver, Therbert and Reservation Officer Highland, to empty the contents of his pockets into his overcoat pocket. He then jumped on the rail, tore off his hat and leaped into the rapids. His body was not seen again, but must have passed over the American Falls. An investigation of his overcoat and contents revealed an envelope bearing the address, "Ladwin R. King, 345 Washburn street, Lockport, N. Y."

We find some one who has been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and people on all hands are praising this great medicine for what it has done for them and their friends.

It is a great blood purifier.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them. 25c per box.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. T great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had another sensation. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." Mrs. DALTON, 65 Allen St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

The Owen Electric Belt

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt for general use, having batteries that produce a strong current of electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Hundreds of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Neuritis, Weakness, Tremor, Loss of Memory, etc., that the old modes of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who tries to accomplish this by any kind of drug is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply the body with energy, namely nerve force or power, and give vigor to the organs and arouse the system to its normal state. It is a most assured cure.

THE TIMES.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 15, 1895.

AT THE DARDENELLES.

British warships at the entrance to the Dardanelles will swing public attention from China to Stamboul with the instant haste of the clanging of a great gong. Complications on the Asiatic shore of the Pacific may lead to war; but history has not yet taught us to look upon the Chinese seas as especially dangerous to the peace of the world. But the Dardanelles, the Black Sea and Turkey-in-Europe are permanently inflamed joints in the framework of nations. From Hungary to the Bosphorus Europe is a war breeder. When the British bull-dogs push their iron noses into the entrance to the Sea of Marmora Europe draws a deep breath and pays hourly visits to the telegraph office. A riot in Bulgaria, an approach to an atrocity in the Balkans, trouble of any kind in this fever spot of the diplomatic world, rouses the apprehension of all who hear of it. It is felt that dispute may lead to anger and anger may lead to war in other parts of the world, but here war may come like the bursting of a bomb. Still, the situation has no serious appearance. If England wants to coerce Turkey, no one is likely to interfere. British will then be playing the Russian game, and could probably count on Russian help. It is the ominous geographical situation of the manoeuvres that lends the situation its paramount interest.

THE PREMIER AND THE RUMORS

The Premier warns the country against believing rumors. That is all right. Nobody is putting any touching amount of faith in them. But the Premier will agree with us that the present situation of affairs is very apt to produce a magnificent rumor crop. A Ministerial chair is vacant; two constituencies are open and no writs have been issued; the Manitoba members are eyeing the official shelves. Mr. Greenway is getting his voters' lists ready; Mr. Laurier is eagerly assuring the people of Ontario that his opinions are still under lock and key, and the lock is a "time" one; Mr. Chapleau is worrying his prophets by his sudden liveliness; a shadow is coming like a thief in the night. Why, under these circumstances, rumors will grow on every telegraph pole; and if the Premier does not want his children to be bothered by them, he had better annihilate a few of the circumstances.

The latest thing in the way of new organizations is "Daughters of the Confederacy," which has just been formed at Atlanta, Georgia. The object of the society is to erect monuments and memorial tablets to the heroes of the Confederacy and to the wives and mothers of great soldiers. Any woman whose father, husband, brother or grandfather bore a gun in the lost cause is in eligible for membership. The object is nominally a laudable one, but the effect will be to perpetuate divisions that should be allowed to disappear.

Hon. Mr. Laurier is giving Sir Richard Cartwright a hard run for the position of champion "Blue Ruin" disclaimer. In both his speeches at Morrisburg and Prescott Mr. Laurier did his little best to convince the people that they were a great deal worse off than they really were. He said that the belief that the inhabitants of Canada were wealthy and prosperous was a fallacy. In support of this contention he said that there was not a farm in the Dominion which could be sold for 40 per cent. of what it sold for fifteen years ago—a statement which is not founded on fact.

Of course the panacea for that and other evils is the formation of a Government with the Hon. Mr. Laurier as the head.

TELLING THE BEES.

How They Are Notified of a Death in Their Owner's Family.

There is probably no insect in which mankind in general takes more interest than it does in the common honeybee, and of the dozens of superstitions which have been woven about bees none is more curious and interesting than that called "telling the bees" of a death.

Informing bees of a death in the family of their owner, in order to keep them from deserting the hive when they find it out of their own accord, is a custom so ancient that no antiquarian has ever been able to trace it to its origin. In this country it is only practiced by recent additions to our population from the lands across the sea, but in parts of Britain and continental Europe it is looked upon as a necessity, providing the apian desires to keep his swarms from deserting their abodes. So universal was this custom of "telling the bees" a few years ago in Europe that an inquiry concerning bees was more than likely to elicit the reply that they had all left the place since So-and-so died, because the grief-stricken family had neglected to tell the little honey gatherers what had happened. If neighbors were talking of the death of a friend, someone in the company would most likely ask if the bees had been informed of the sad circumstance. A recent correspondent of one of the big London weeklies, who says that the custom is still practiced in Devon, tells of a funeral cortege which was halted in order that an apprentice boy might be sent back to tell the bees what was going on, a little detail which had been overlooked before starting for the cemetery.

In Austria, Italy, Poland and in parts of Russia, when the master or mistress of a house dies, not only the bees, but the livestock in general is supposed to be acquainted with the fact by rattling a bunch of keys at the hives, in the stables and among the herds. In France, when the master or mistress dies, the bees are informed and have their hives draped in mourning.

Oliver, in his "History of Beekeeping," says that the inhabitants of that place invariably clothe their beehives in mourning on the day of a funeral, this to insure the future prosperity of the swarm. Besides the mourning decorations, an offering of "funeral biscuit," pounded fine and soaked in wine, is sometimes added.—St. Louis Republic.

The Electric Crater.

Everybody knows that an arc light is formed by causing an electric current to pass between the points of two carbon rods. One of these is called the positive and the other the negative electrode, and the current passes from the former to the latter. Particles of carbon are carried off from the positive electrode until its end becomes cup shaped.

To the little cup thus formed the name of crater is applied, and from this crater four-fifths of the light is emitted. The negative electrode does not become as hot as the other.

Between the two a little cloud of vaporized carbon is formed, rising from the crater, and this vapor gives forth a golden yellow light. But it is overpowered by the light of the crater itself, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon.

The arc of light extending from one electrode to the other also has an axis of a violet color which is its most brilliant part. The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater.

A very interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows, cast on a neighboring wall, appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—Youth's Companion.

Bismarck and the Ambassador.

One day the Austrian ambassador to the federal diet, Count Rechberg, received a dispatch instructing him to vote with Prussia for a certain important measure, accompanied by a confidential letter directing him to induce the representatives of the other German states to vote against the measure, and thus defeat it. In his haste he handed the wrong paper to Bismarck, who read and returned it with the remark:

"There must be some mistake here." Rechberg saw his blunder and grew pale and excited. "Don't be disturbed," said Bismarck. "You did not intend to give me this document, and therefore you have not given it to me, and I am wholly ignorant of its contents." In fact, he made no mention of it in his official reports, and thus won Rechberg's gratitude, besides having him henceforth "on the hip."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern looms
And whirl and glare of city rooms
She fled away to woodland blooms.
In softly swaying holm.
Her bare feet wet with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
She climbed among the waterfalls
Where streamlets unto streamlets call
Amid the spongy canyon walls;
And at some placid pool between
Where forest trees together lean,
Making untainted a perfect scene,
She stood and listened for some sound
Of man or beast that, lingering 'round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The cool sang their roundelay,
An iris flashed a crimson ray
Award the shadows of the day,
A hard rustled in the sod,
The bamboo away its slender rod.
None saw her but the birds and God.
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things amiss
And radiated for winds to kiss;
She shook her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
She stole among the whispering trees
And climbed among the rocks that lie
In primal masonry on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds frolicked with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one
And felt its currents through her run.
Too soon, alas in sinuous grace
She ran with swiftly flying pace
And boldly sprang from that high place,
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unheeded knightly sabre bright
She flashed one moment in the light
And then in watery eclipse
From velvet toes to finger tips
Was at that sweet apocalypse —Hawaiian Gazette.

One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photo of a column and capital to a number of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many obstinate disquisitions on medieval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.

An equally amusing case of the duplicity of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which, it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by loafers of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen hoarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance. —Strand Magazine.

Modernized Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the prosaic spirit of this very progressive and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Mar-sheilles for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the higher east rock overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers on starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps, usually on their knees. —New York Tribune.

The Main Thing.

Mrs. de Fashion—My dear, I've picked out a husband for you at last.
Miss de Fashion—Very well, but I want to say at once, mother, that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I am going to select the materials myself. So there! —London Tit-Bits.

Never did any soul do good but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. Never was love or gratitude of bounty practiced but with increasing joy, which made the practitioner still more in love with the fair act.

It is curious that men are not generally ashamed of any form of anger, wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confession of a wrong—they are ashamed.

Our natural and happiest life is when we lose ourselves in the exquisite absorption of home, the delicious retirement of dependent love.

BURGULARS ARE AT WORK.

THREE OF THEM POINT REVOLVERS AT A POSTMASTER'S HEAD

And Opened Fire on Him. But the Bullet Went Wide of its Mark—A Safe Blown at Kingston. Special to The Times.

ONTARIO, Oct. 12.—The professional burglars, who have been enjoying an uninterrupted tour of Western Ontario during the past few weeks, robbing post offices, railway stations and jewelry establishments, made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday morning to rob the post office in the village of Nobleton, North York.

THREE REVOLVERS POINTED AT HIM. Shortly after midnight Mr. J. W. Larkin, the postmaster and general merchant of the village, who sleeps above the post office, was awakened by a noise in his store below. A door in the second story leads out on to a verandah and Larkin went out to investigate. On seeing three men standing on the street below, he called out to them and enquired what was wanted. For answer three revolvers were pointed at him, and he was peremptorily ordered to go inside.

OPENED FIRE ON HIM. Not complying soon enough, one of the men fired a Larkin, the bullet passing close to his head and lodging in the lintel of the door.

The postmaster thereupon beat a precipitous retreat. Arming himself with a revolver, he returned, but meantime the men had decamped.

Lying beside the front door, which had been pried open, were a number of tools which had been stolen from Holden's blacksmith shop. Although the premises had been ransacked no booty was obtained, the visitors having become alarmed at hearing Mr. Larkin moving about, before they could rifle the post office.

TO AVOID CAPTURE. The burglars were undoubtedly professional. They had secured with ropes all the doors leading from the store to the living apartment, and in the event of discovery while they were at work.

The city authorities have been notified of the burglary but as yet there is no trace of the men.

DRILLED THE VAULT. BUT THE PLATE WAS TOO THICK AND THEY GOT NO BOOTY.

KINGSTON, Oct. 12.—Last night burglars rummaged the dry goods house of Stacey & Stacey, securing some change. They made three attempts at drilling the vault, but finally abandoned the task. They climbed a wall and by means of shovels and verandahs entered the talloring establishment of Lambart & Walsh. Again they tossed goods about securing a $5 bill in a desk.

MAY FIGHT IN PRIVATE. Neither Pitt Nor Corbett's Managers Think The Bill Will Take Place in Arkansas. Special to The Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 12.—Corbett and his party will leave here on Monday night for Hot Springs. Brady, however, is not confident that the fight will be called off in Arkansas. He makes no attempt to conceal his disappointment at the action of Judge Duffie. He says it begins to look as if they would have to fight in private before only four or five representatives on each side.

JULIAN HAS GONE TO CERRAS Christi. He says before taking flight to Arkansas he will require a guarantee that they will not be molested by the officers. Julian says also that he has made no arrangement with Brady relative to the appointment of the referee, and the name of the referee will not be known until the day of the fight.

FIRE AT ALTON. McKutcheon's Five Starred Flour Mill Totally Destroyed With Heavy Loss.

Special to The Times. ALTON, Ont., Oct. 12.—At 6:30 last night the large five starred flour mill on the Credit river here, owned by C. McKutcheon, was totally consumed by fire. Cause unknown. Loss about $4,000, covered partially by insurance.

A WELL KNOWN NAME. CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 12.—Richard Esterbrook, founder of the first steel pen manufacturing in the United States, and president of the Esterbrook Pen Company, died last night. He came from England and established his factory in 1861, in a little frame building on the site of the present establishment which employs 400 hands.

IN THE TREATY PORTS.

A Canadian Product Finds Favor in the Land of Confucius.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12.—A passenger by the last vessel from China stated the other day that among other Canadian products which are fast coming into favor in the Chinese treaty ports, is the Canadian specific remedy for kidney disease of all kinds known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine was first introduced by Canadians and the increase in its use both by Europeans and natives is attributed first to the accounts of its success in the Canadian and American newspapers many of which are received in Shanghai and other ports, and later to its established efficacy in curing all kinds of kidney diseases which are very prevalent in the country.

HELD THE FORT.

In his Insanity He Fought the Canadian Rebellion Over Again. Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Under the impression that he was holding a fort with Commander Louis Riel and that he must stand at his post until the enemy was driven back or killed, James J. Lynch held three policemen at bay for an hour and a half in a room in the basement house at 1839 Third avenue and placed in danger the lives of many people in the crowded house when he fired a number of shots from a heavy Winchester rifle.

Lynch is a street car conductor and has worked during the past two years on most every line in the city. Lately he has not been working.

He had fought in the Riel rebellion and had a Winchester rifle which he always pointed to proudly as having been given to him by Riel.

It is supposed Lynch is insane. When his wife returned home Lynch attacked her, whipping her unmercifully. She called in the police. This caused the greatest excitement in the neighborhood, and it was over an hour and only after a desperate struggle that Lynch was caught.

ANOTHER LINK IN THE CHAIN.

The Key of the House Where Howard Pictet was Murdered. Special to The Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 12.—Interest in the Holmes case has revived here by the re-appearance of Detective Geyer. Going to the house in Irvington where Howard Pictet was murdered, Geyer found a key which he carried in his pocket into the front door night latch. It worked perfectly. The key had been found on the person of Holmes after his arrest in Philadelphia. Thomas, who lived in the house before Holmes occupied it, recognized the key as the one he carried for two years.

The detective's report today's discovery as final in identifying Holmes as the man who moved into the house with Howard Pictet.

CUYLER HASTINGS ARRESTED.

An erstwhile Toronto Law Student Now an Actor in Trouble. Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Cuyler Hastings, a well known actor and member of the Players' Club, has been arrested at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children on a charge of having assaulted thirteen year old Maggie Murphy. Hastings is a Canadian, and claims that the affair is a blackmail conspiracy.

Cuyler Hastings is well known in Toronto where he was a law student before he went on the stage. He was once in Rhea's support.

APPLES TO THE ANTIPODES.

A Shipment of Canadian Fruit Made From Grimsby to-day. Special to The Times.

GRIMSBY, Oct. 12.—Today an important shipment of apples was made from this point to Sydney, N. S. W. The Board of Control of the Ontario Fruit Experiment Stations, through its secretary here, is making this experiment in the hope that it may be the means of opening up a good market for Ontario apples just at this season, when the markets of Australia are bare of fruit. One hundred and fifteen cases of beautiful apples, all wrapped in tissue paper, and rowed carefully in the boxes, composed the lot. They go by way of Vancouver, on the November steamer, reaching Sydney about December 1st, the October boat unfortunately being disabled. The varieties sent forward are Roy, Cranberry, Baldwin and Greening. Mr. J. S. Larkin, agent for the Dominion at Sydney, has kindly offered to see after the shipment in the interest of the Ontario fruit growers.

THE SHORTER TRIAL.

BRANDENBURG, Oct. 12.—The testimony in the Shorter case today continued to tell of the prisoner's activities when a lad in Ireland and since his advent in Canada.

TRIAL OF VAL SHORTIS.

WHAT FATHER DUNNE SAID UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION

About the Prisoner's Boyhood.—The Young Man was truthful and he was not a thief.—Night Clerk Malher's Statement.—Shortis Certain to be a Peculiar Eccentricity of Character.

Beaumaris, Oct. 14.—The prisoner Shortis looked neater than ever this morning in a change of clothing. The dark blue coat and vest, which oftentimes with an overcoat over it, has been worn throughout the warmer days, had been exchanged for a grey jacket and waist light in color and in weight. A cough appears to trouble Shortis more or less, and his bark-like sound turns many eyes in his direction.

The cross-examination of the Rev. Father Dunne was opened when the court re-assembled. To questions put by Mr. Macmaster, witness said that the prisoner associated with the sons of gentlemen in Waterford. What witness heard after Shortis left his care at college was only hearsay and he could not speak positively on the point. Although the rev. gentleman admitted having punished Shortis, yet he never gave him the raw hide. Prisoner was not much the better of it.

HE COULD BE HUMILIATED.

By Mr. Macmaster—"Was he wounded in his feelings?"

"Yes it humiliated him sometimes, on," continued Father Dunne.

Father Dunne explained that his position of second master brought him into contact with the accused for six hours a day, and he had ample opportunities therefore, to study the boy's characteristics. Witness, continuing, said that he had often seen boys at school playing tricks. Never heard of any boys having been broken during Shortis' boisterous conduct at school. "Boys," said Father Dunne, "are, as a rule, fond of firearms and knives."

By Mr. Macmaster—"Are you sure that the knives the prisoner took to school were surgeon knives, as you mentioned yesterday?"

"As a matter of fact, I am not sure that they were surgeon knives," answered witness.

"Did you tell his mother that he was carrying dangerous instruments?"

"Yes I did, and I advised her to have it stopped."

Witness did not consider accused a healthy lad while under his charge. He was robust, always having a constitutional cough.

Continuing, Father Dunne said: "I spoke to him every day and he abided by my direction. I could well understand boys fighting, but I could not see how the prisoner wanted to do injury."

By Mr. Macmaster—"Who tried the assault cases?"

"I did," replied the brother, amid laughter.

"You must have been kept pretty busy then according to the exploits of the boys."

"Oh, not very," answered witness.

The accused's mind possibly developed after he left school, said the brother.

NOT A THIEF.

By Mr. Macmaster—"Did this young man exhibit any thieving propensities while in your school?"

"Never."

"Was he truthful?"

"Yes. The lad," continued witness, "was most affectionate and kind while I knew him. He had weak intelligence as regards his studies."

This concluded Father Dunne's examination.

Henry Malher, night clerk of the Queen's Hotel, Montreal, was the next witness called. To Mr. Greenfield, witness said that he became acquainted with the prisoner in 1894. Shortis boarded at the hotel a part of the time. Previous to coming to America witness was a lunatic attendant in the old country for many years. Witness, business was confined chiefly to private cases of insanity. He also attended to patients since his arrival in Montreal.

THOUGHT SHORTIS INSANE.

When witness saw Shortis he thought him insane. His reasons for thinking so were prisoner's peculiar actions. He would jump up the stairs at the hotel three steps at a time. He would then jump back and shout. After this exhibition, prisoner would roll on the floor. He burned gas, elctric lights and lamps all at once in the ladies' reception room. When witness remonstrated with him, Shortis jumped up off his chair and yelled, "I'll go for you." The witness then seized hold of prisoner and forced him into a chair. Witness had a suspicion that prisoner had a revolver and kept on his guard. Shortis then foamed and was white with anger.

HOW HE WORKED HIS FEET.

Continuing, witness said that prisoner rolled down the stairs one day and afterwards bounded into the dining room. Shortis in going to the lavatory would fill three or four basins to wash with, instead of one like other men. He went from basin to basin, splashing the water on his face and head. Continuing, witness said, "He washed his feet with his stockings on. He often went out with only one stocking."

Witness thought Shortis was a lunatic from his actions in comparison with other lunatics. The prisoner pointed a revolver at one McKay in the hotel. This gentleman, witness said, was afraid to meet Shortis, as he considered him dangerous. Prisoner used to hide in the corridors. When the girls passed prisoner would jump out suddenly from his hiding place and kiss them.

CROWNING THE VIRGIN.

Vast Crowds Attended the Ceremony at Mexico City.

Mexico City, Oct. 14.—Vast crowds attended the coronation of the Virgin of Guadalupe. Archbishop Alcon, of Mexico, received the crown of gold from father Pancard, who took a prominent part in arranging the festival. The Archbishop blessed the crown and prayed for the protection of the Virgin. The crown was then sprinkled with holy water. After further solemnities and the singing of the hymn "O Glorious Virgin," the encharist and mass, the crown of gold was elevated to the head of the Virgin. The crown cost $45,000. The foreign prelates, among others in attendance were: Archbishops Bergin, Quebec; Corrigan, New York; and Bishop Gabriel of Ogdensburg, N.Y.

EVERY BONE IN HIS BODY BROKEN.

Frightful Accident to a Prominent Manufacturer of Lancaster.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 14.—A fatal accident occurred half a mile east of Lancaster, on the Grand Trunk railway yesterday afternoon. Wm. Stafford, aged 65, a prominent manufacturer of Lancaster, was coming towards Lancaster, walking between the rails on the up main line, and noticing the approach of a freight train, stepped over into the down main line, and was struck by a light engine en route for Montreal. The engine was running at a high speed and threw Stafford a distance of 35 feet against the fence. When picked up he was dead; almost every bone in his body being broken.

LIKE AN EARTHQUAKE.

Terrific Explosion of Dynamite at Sudbury, Ontario.

Special to The Times.

SUDBURY, Oct. 14.—A shock that made windows rattle and many buildings shake startled citizens at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was caused by the blowing up of the Ottawa Powder Company's powder house.

The building was of logs, 12x24 feet, situated close to the Stobele road and the blessed branch of the C.P.R., about a mile from town. It was stored about 2 tons of powder and a quantity of dynamite. Portions of the logs were carried 100 yards, and the wire fence and posts for 100 yards completely blown away.

A hole in the ground some four or five feet deep remains to mark the spot where the building stood.

WILL MEET IN DECEMBER.

Confirmation of the Report of an Early Session of Parliament.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Denial that an early session has been decided upon does not mean that it will not be held. The Government is pledged to meet Parliament not later than Jan. 2nd. If it goes the full length of the time it will have members travelling during Christmas holidays and New Year's day to reach here. It is doubtful if it would be possible to get a quorum together the day following New Year's Day. For this reason as well as the fact that preparations for the session are being hurried forward, it is still believed that Parliament will meet early in December.

"The Common People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement: "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me" is the best argument in favor of this medicine and this is what many thousands testify to.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache, etc.

No Scurvy Wheat in No. 1 Hard Wheat.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—At Saturday's meeting of the Cabinet an order was passed regarding the grades of wheat. It was decided that there shall be no wheat that is scoured or brushed to remove smut or other foreign growth in the grade known as No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat.

It is said at Constantinople that the Armenian controversy may become the starting point of a struggle between Great Britain and Russia for paramount influence in the Bosphorus.

The Turkish Government yesterday replied to the collective notes of the Envoys of the six powers on the recent disturbances in Constantinople. The ambassadors have declared the reply unsatisfactory.

Emerald Blood.

There was a crowd on the street corner below a skyscraper in course of erection. A painter had let his pot of green paint fall, and the emerald liquid now streaked the sidewalk gorgeously. About this a crowd of idlers had gathered. A newcomer, trying to push his way to the unseen magnet of attention, met a man equally eager to get out and accosted him, "What's it all about?"

"Nothing much," said the other. "Just an Irishman had a hemorrhage."

—Vanity Fair.

A Card Misapp.

"I made the mistake of my lifetime the other day," complained a young woman to a friend in a street car as the two rode down town together.

"What did you do, dear?" asked her friend sympathetically.

"Oh, it's too stupid to think of. I feel crushed over it. You know I called on Mrs. Blank, who has met with a recent affliction. I had just one card, and as I did not expect she would see me I wrote 'condolence' in the corner and had it ready to leave."

"Why, that was correct, dear."

"Wait till I tell you all. Mrs. B. saw me and told me her troubles, and we talked and talked, and I didn't leave any card. But I went from there direct to return a call I owed in that neighborhood on a bride."

"You poor thing."

"Yes, you've guessed it. She was out, and I left that card and never once thought of the word I had written on it. I hardly know her at all, so she will not take it as a joke, and—well, there's only one hope I have left."

"What is that, dear?"

"That the writing was so bad that she can't read it and will think it's some kind of a new fad."

The two friends left the car at that point.—Detroit Free Press.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever."

The Owen Electric Belt

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made for general use, having batteries that produce a strong current of Electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Loss of Manhood, etc., that the old treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by medical treatment, and any doctor who tries to accomplish this by any kind of treatment is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suppertime, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It is most assuredly cured.

Without Medicine,

Vertigo, Nervous Prostration, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Kidney Disease, Lumbago, Lame Back, Dyspepsia.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 16 1895.

THE GRAND TRUNK CHANGES.

It will not be surprising if the new president of the Grand Trunk has by way of initiating his promised vigorous policy invited Mr. L. J. Seargeant, who has had opportunities to acquaint himself with the practical working of the line enjoyed by very few men to go to London as the permanent adviser of the Board. This would be the very next best thing to having the Board sit in Montreal. Mr. Seargeant has been a hard-working and capable manager. He has made it his business to know the road, the operation of which he controlled, in a very thorough, detailed and practical manner. Just the information that a Board sitting in England must necessarily lack the possesses; and as a constant and active member of that Board, he would be simply invaluable.

The trading class of Canada who have come in contact with the line under his pervasive management, will be glad that this pioneer railway of the country, which is to-day so vast a factor in our prosperity, is not to lose the touch of his hand. The future of the Dominion is closely wrapped up with the success of the Grand Trunk. No other one corporation has contributed so much to the upbuilding of the nation in the past; and from Quebec to Sarnia, from Sherbrooke to Owen Sound, it is the chief cluster of arteries through which Canadian trade now flows. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson is not more interested in the successful outcome of his efforts than are the people of Canada.

Mr. Charles M. Hays, of the Wabash system, comes well decorated with eulogistic recommendations. He is a young man and the graduate of a well managed railway. He will be welcomed and watched from the first with optimistic eyes. Everyone who wishes well to Canada will wish Mr. Hays and the Grand Trunk conspicuous success.

The Turk and the Chinese are much like the proverbial flea. No sooner do the powers think they have the half-civilized rulers, than they find the slippery fellows have got away to some other position.

It is estimated that 450,000 bicycles were made in 1895, representing at an average of $65 each, an outlay of $29,250,000; and it is believed the output of machines for 1896 will exceed that of any two previous years combined. Evidently the wheel has come to stay.

The following members of the Imperial Parliament have been raised to the peerage:—Sir Algernon Borthwaite, proprietor of the London Morning Post; Baron Henry de Worms, formerly Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies; and the Hon. Horace Curzon Plunkett.

It has at last dawned on the directorate of the Grand Trunk that they cannot run a Canadian railway properly from London, Eng., without, at the very least, the assistance of someone fully acquainted with the details of the road. It was a wise though long delayed move in appointing L. J. Seargeant, who up to date has been general manager of the road in Canada, to a seat at the directors' table.

The generous response to the Globe's appeal for aid on behalf of the Lindsay family who were burned out at Loon Lake on Tuesday shows that the spirit of brotherly kindness has a place in the hearts of Canadians. In twenty-four hours after the appeal was made $202 in cash had been contributed, besides groceries, clothing, etc. The case is a specially deserving one, and the Globe is to be commended for its action in undertaking the collection and distribution of the fund.

AIR A STORAGE BATTERY.

A Theory That It Can Be Tapped For All the Electricity Needed.

Elias B. Dunn, the weather observer at New York, has been studying atmospheric electricity for a few years. The sergeant, as they used to call him; the farmer, as they call him now, said the other day that he will live to see the day when electricity collected from the atmosphere and stored by some means which an Edison or a Tesla will have to devise will revolutionize the world. The prophet expects that cities will be lighted and heated by atmospheric electricity; that every train and car will be run, lighted and heated by it; that coal will become a curiosity; that steam heating will be a granny talk to the children of the next generation; that the telegraphs and telephone companies will lose their monopolies; that war will become a farce, because a touch of electricity will make the British Grenadiers or the German Uhlans or the Scotch Highlanders sit down on the cold ground powerless.

Even the dreams of communication with the inhabitants of Mars will become realities, and a man will be able to strike up electricity as he does a parlor match. There will be no more trolley strikes, because there will be no more trolleys. Mankind will tap the atmosphere for almost any convenience except food and clothing, and even the clothing will be woven and the food cooked by atmospheric electricity; street cleaning will be as easy as the magician's "Presto, change!" and everybody will live comparatively happier over after.

Mr. Dunn is sure that his ideas are practical and probable. The atmosphere is his constant study, and having introduced general humidity to the public as the principal element in uncomfortable days, he has determined that the potent element for good in the air we breathe shall no longer be wasted. Why, he said, the whole atmosphere is soaked with electricity.

The earth, as is well known, is a storehouse of electricity. That it passes from the clouds to the earth we can see in every thunderstorm. The earth is a good conductor, especially damp earth, and water is the best conductor possible. Every person is possessed of body electricity. The vital force is all in the electrical powers you contain in your body. When the day is damp, you become weakened through the loss of your bodily electricity, because the atmosphere is a greater conductor of the electrical fluid than your body, and consequently what is in your body will pass to this moist, damp air. That is the cause of that tired feeling.

This passing of electricity to the atmosphere enervates you to such a degree that a person in a naturally weak state will collapse or become much worse by the loss of this bodily electricity. The atmosphere being charged with electricity and the earth being a storehouse for it, if there were some controllable method of storage devised by which you could draw off a moderate amount of electricity at will and keep that force on tap all the time, with an appliance by which power could be generated—and there's no reason why that can't be done—then the atmospheric electricity would make all the wheels in the world go around. The barons would be done up. There would be no more need for coal. There ought to be enough electricity in the atmosphere to supply light and heat as well as to do all the work.—Boston Transcript.

Graven on Her Memory.

She had been a widow a year or so, and she was dicker for a tombstone for the departed.

"Of course," said the tombstone man, "you want the date of his death on the shaft—the day of the month and the year?"

"Well," sighed the widow, "I suppose other people may like to read them, but I don't need such reminders. They are indelibly engraved on my heart and memory."

"What was the date?" asked the tombstone man.

The widow hesitated. Then she turned a riotous scarlet; then she said: "Gracious goodness! I can't remember whether it was Jan. 26 or 27. I'll go home and find out."—New York Tribune.

Louis XVI.

Louis XVI had a very heavy, red, sensual face, with large Roman nose, full cheeks and lips and a double chin. There was no trace of more than ordinary intellect either in his face or conversation, the latter being always commonplace, often dull. He gave his contemporaries the impression of a man who habitually ate and drank more than was good for him.

Willing to Learn.

"You are at your best now, Cyrus," said his uncle, "and just at the right age for marrying. You ought to make hay while the sun shines."

Cyrus immediately put on his hat, went out of the house and proposed 15 minutes later to a grass widow.—Chicago Tribune.

Electrical Treatment

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

210 Cowan Ave., Toronto.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

THE PUGS WILL FIGHT.

SOFT GLOVES AND A LIMITED NUMBER OF ROUNDS.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons Will Fight For the Championship at Spring Lake, Ark., on October 31.

Special to The Times.

OT SPRINGS, Oct. 14.—The big fight will come off here October 31. In order to comply with the State laws, the articles of agreement of the Florida Athletic Club will be changed from a fight to a limited number of rounds, the referee being vested with power to stop the contest when, in his opinion, it becomes brutal. The contestants are to box with soft gloves. Spring Lake, a beautiful resort from here, has been selected by Manager Brady as Corbett's training quarters. Fitzsimmons' training quarters have not yet been selected.

FITZ THE FAVORITE.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 14.—Fitzsimmons' quarters present a lively appearance. Parties who have seen Corbett train in San Antonio say that Fitzsimmons' physical condition is far superior, and Trainer Currie White says Fitzsimmons is in better condition than ever before in his life.

CORBETT OFF TO HOT SPRINGS.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 14.—Corbett has received the following telegram from W. A. Brady at Hot Springs: "Come at once. Everything fixed all right; protection guaranteed." Corbett will leave for Hot Springs tonight.

MAY BE FOUGHT IN CANADA.

AN ALLEGED SYNDICATE FORMED TO BRING THE BATTLE OFF HERE.

It was learned this morning that there are half a dozen citizens of Toronto who are deeply interested in the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight. They form the Canadian end of a syndicate that was formed, it is understood, at Toledo, O., a few days after the special session of the Texas Legislature was called which declared prize fighting in that State a felony punishable only by imprisonment. The secretary of the Florida Athletic Club, according to this underground report, was offered $40,000 to bring the fight off at a place named by the Toledo syndicate and the place named was one of the Put In Bay Islands just east of the mouth of the Maumee River. Correspondence has since passed between the secretary of the Florida Athletic Club and the syndicate and it is stated on good authority that in case it is found impossible to bring the battle off at Hot Springs the Toledo scheme will be secretly worked but should the Ohio authorities offer resistance and threaten to put the militia on Put In Bay Island then the scene of the battle will be transferred to Pelee Island across the lake which is Canadian territory. It is believed by those who should know that the scheme has been perfected and if the Hot Springs negotiations fall through the fight will come off on either Put In Bay or Pelee Island in Lake Erie.

The Toronto men who are said to have their money at stake in the venture are reticent, but are willing to wager any amount that the fight will come off on the last day of this month.

SHE IS DYING.

The Suicide of Bookmaker Fred Walker of Guelph Recalled.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—The suicide of Fred Walker, of Guelph, the well known bookmaker, whose body was found floating in the river near Amherstburg, a few weeks ago and whose death was thought to have been murdered until Provincial Detective Murray investigated the facts and decided that it was a clear case of suicide, has been recalled by a tragic occurrence at Chicago. After Walker's death a search of his room revealed two letters addressed to his wife "Annie." This was the first intimation his relatives knew that he was married, but it was subsequently learned he had married the widow of ex-Senator McIntyre, of Virginia, two or three years ago. This Chicago despatch tells the rest of the story:

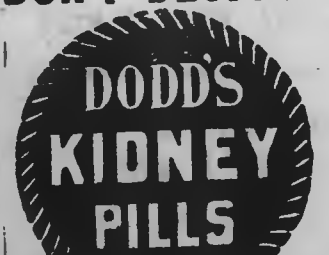

DRUGGED AND ASSAULTED.

Mrs. Annie Walker, of Guelph, Ont., and said to have been at one time the wife of Senator McIntyre, of Virginia, lies in Westside boarding house in a precarious condition. The case is a most mysterious one and the police do not know what to make of it. Mrs. Walker was brought to the house several days ago by a man giving the name of Elliott. He left $200 in an envelope, which he said belonged to the woman. Then he went away and has not been seen since.

"Mrs. Walker is said to be demented, and it also appears that she is suffering from consumption of the brain," J. E. Fitzpatrick, who resides in the house where Mrs. Walker is lying, gives it as his opinion that she has been drugged and assaulted.

POLICE GAVE BATTLE.

Charged on Laborers Employed to Lay Trucks.

Special to The Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 14.—A battle between a gang of laborers employed by the Camden and Atlantic Railroad Company and the police occurred here today, as the result of the efforts of the railroad company to put tracks through the city. For some time past the city and the railroad company have been unable to agree on terms for permission to lay tracks on certain parts of the city property. When the laborers appeared and began to prepare the ground for the laying of the tracks they were warned by Chief of Police Elledge to desist.

They failed to do so, and when the first shoveful of dirt was turned the chief and a platoon of men charged on the laborers, dispersing them and confiscating their shovels.

THE TRUTH.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 24, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

MR. SEARGEANT'S NEW JOB.

Canadian Advisor to the G.T.R. Board—Removal of Other Changes.

Special to The Times.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—The London correspondent of the Star cables that he believes Mr. L. J. Seargeant, the retiring general manager of the G.T.R., will be proposed for a seat on the G.T.R. Board in London, and will take his seat as the director and Canadian advisor at his present salary. The half yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk Shareholders will take place on Oct. 30, in London. It will, he thinks, be an interesting meeting, and Sir Charles Rivers Wilson will probably then outline his policy, and as the Tyler party is not yet wiped out, a vigorous criticism of the new program may be expected.

He says the rumor is incorrect that the Duke of Marlborough is about to join the Grand Trunk directors.

In Montreal railway circles it is reported that Mr. Samuel Barker, of Hamilton, is to assume charge of the financial affairs of the G.T.R., with headquarters at Montreal. The rumor that Mr. John Bell, C.C., solicitor for the company, has resigned, is discredited.

TROUBLE IN THE EAST.

THE SULTAN IS SUFFERING GREAT UNEASINESS.

Turkey Plays a Bold Game But England's Eye is on Him—Lord Salisbury's Latest Move—Kurdish Atrocities Special to The Times.

Constantinople, Oct. 15.—The resolution of the Marquis of Salisbury to secure the adoption of the reforms proposed by the powers, and to use coercive measures if necessary, is causing the Sultan great uneasiness.

London, Oct. 15.—A Constantinople despatch to the Times says: "The Sultan accepts the reduced scheme of reforms in principle, but declines to promulgate it forthwith, because of such acceptance would look like acting under pressure. If he persists in this policy the storm will certainly gather again, and will break with renewed violence."

GERMANY AND ENGLAND.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—The semi-official press of Berlin has now distinctly assumed an attitude favorable to the Porte as being subjected to harsh and unjust pressure at the hands of England.

The North German Gazette publishes a communication from Constantinople which traces the Armenian riots and their attendant bloodshed to the machinations of agents sent from London. According to this authority these agents were plentifully supplied with arms and money, both of which were widely distributed. The communication also denounces the conduct of the Armenian patriarchs, and censures the English agitators, who are themselves characterized as Christian fanatics, for inciting Armenian fanaticism to violence against the Moslems. The Turkish embassy here appears confident that the Sultan will effect an arrangement with the powers which will be satisfactory to all of the parties concerned. The Embassy denies that anything approaching an ultimatum has been addressed to the Porte by England, or any other power, persistent assertions to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE SOCIAL DISORDER

which is prevalent on the Russian frontier of Armenia is indicated by advices received from St. Petersburg. According to these reports the Kurdish chief, Naji, is levying tribute by force in the Russian district of Erivan, where he is seizing cattle, murdering men—Christian and Moslem alike—and carrying off women and children. His latest reported exploit was to burn down a hamlet of eighteen houses, kill 32 men and abduct 15 women and 40 children. A force of gendarmes was sent in pursuit of him, but when they overtook him they were defeated, and obliged to flee. A strong force of troops was then sent after him, but they were not successful in overtaking him.

THE MELINITE MAN.

Paris, Oct. 15.—Turpin, the inventor of melinite, who, it is announced, had been summoned to Constantinople on behalf of the Turkish Government, has been much ridiculed in the past on account of his eccentric behavior, and the extravagant claims made for his inventions. Some of the Parisian papers took the part of Turpin, claiming that he had been badly treated by the War Department, and that the latter was to blame if he sold his invention to foreign countries.

Turpin's latest invention was said to be the application to cannon of the principle of the French rapid-fire gun known as the Mitrailleuse, with absolutely automatic loading apparatus. He was quoted as saying: "The gunner is done away with, and the liquefied gas or other explosive is at once my motor and my ammunition, and that is why I need a steamer or a train to carry all at once."

IT WAS FURTHER CLAIMED.

by the inventor that the railway would thus become a sort of line of defence, and a hostile force might be enclosed in them as in a polygon of iron. An army on the march would only have to keep one of these weapons in front of it, and, acting like a fan, it could sweep away everything before it in a circle of twelve kilo-metres in diameter. The cannon, it was proposed, was to fire little shells from a pivot, and it was asserted that such a weapon placed on the Paris Opera House would destroy the city in an hour.

Another invention attributed by Turpin was a shell which, after exploding in the ranks of the enemy, would give forth such a horrible smell and smoke that confusion was sure to follow.

A Canadian Product Finds Favor in the Land of Confucius.

Special to The Times.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12.—A passenger by the last vessel from China stated the other day that among other Canadian products which are fast coming into favor in the Chinese treaty ports, is the Canadian specific remedy for kidney diseases of all kinds known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine was first introduced by Canadians and the increase in its use both by Europeans and natives is attributed first to the accounts of its success in the Canadian and American newspapers many of which are received in Shanghai and other ports, and later to its established efficacy in curing all kinds of kidney diseases which are very prevalent in the country.

Died While She Was Praying.

MIDDLETON, N.Y., Oct. 15.—The body of Mrs. Mary Williams, eighty-five years old, has been found in the woods near Elora, Pa. She left the home of her son, near Lindsay, ten days ago to take a short walk, wandered away, and died from exertion. When found her hands were clasped in prayer.

TELEGRAPH PRINTING.

Test of a New Machine Which Will Send 1000 Words a Minute.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15.—A test of a telegraph printing machine of Patrick Delaney, for sending matter that would otherwise be mailed, was made yesterday. The new system is worked automatically, a punched tape taking the place of the sending operator. Its great advantage over other systems is that over a single wire as many as one thousand words a minute can be sent between points as far distant from each other as New York and Chicago, while the very best that can be done by other high speed systems does not exceed one hundred and fifty words a minute. The weather was as unpropitious for such a test as it could be. The first message sent, however, over a line of high resistance two hundred and eighteen miles long was received in perfectly legible shape, as was every other sent during the test. The speed, which was at first seven hundred and twenty words a minute, was increased to nine hundred and forty a minute, without any decrease in the legibility.

Mr. Delaney stated that with a wire weighing eight hundred and fifty pounds to the mile, which would give a line of resistance much less than that used yesterday he could send one thousand words a minute with equal legibility, and at a cost not exceeding five cents for fifty words. This system is an electro-chemical one, the messages being received on moistened tape, the dots and dashes appearing upon it in dark brown, produced by the action of the current upon the tape. All electro-chemical systems heretofore have failed as high speed systems, because the dots and dashes came together and were indistinguishable.

PIPES.

On our bargain days we will reduce the prices of all our pipes, B. B. B. included, by 40 per cent. Smokers should not lose this opportunity as our stock is the most select in town. By buying for cash and importing direct from the English manufacturers, we are enabled to put the price much below those who buy from ordinary wholesale houses.

We will sell Cigars by the box on the same days at wholesale prices, from 75c upwards.

Here is the chance of a life time. Call and see.

The Owen Electric Belt

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made for general use, having batteries that produce a strong current of electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Tens of thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Loss of Manhood, etc., that the old modes of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drug is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, support tone and vigor to the organs and arouse to healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure.

GOVERNMENT IRON WORKS.

If private enterprise is not to develop Canada's iron and other mining industries, how would it do for the Government to try its hand?

From the days of Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Leonard Tilley, the National Policy's ardent advocates, have preached of the wealth to be made from iron mines through the smelting industry, yet the development of that great branch of trade has been hindered by the character, static caution and aversion to risk which deter so many Canadian capitalists from putting money into anything but land or stocks of goods, which can be seen and are therefore plain evidence of the security of the investment.

If there is so much money to be made out of the business, why should the Government not show its faith in its own doctrine, and enter an industry which would wipe out deficits, build up surpluses and give work to thousands.

A FEW PERTINENT QUESTIONS

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR,—I don't want to distract public attention from the Sewer problem or the Mason case, but I make bold to ask a few questions from the TIMES.

1. When England, and even some of its very doubtful municipalities, can borrow unlimited money at about 2½ per cent, how is it that we in Canada have to pay about double that rate?
2. I notice bank notes in circulation. Who benefits from the notes accidentally destroyed? That must amount to a very large sum.
3. Who benefits from your bad pavements?
4. Why are rents in Peterborough so high? Has any attempt ever been made to keep rental under control?
5. Why are gas and other public services not municipalized?
6. Why have you no local patriotism?
7. At what rate can your municipality borrow?
8. Why is fruit so bad and dear here and American fruit so plentiful and cheap and good in Great Britain, with ocean freights to pay?
9. What is the eternal, omnipresent restaurant apple sauce made of, and where is it made? A STRANGER.

The Health Commissioners of New-York have adopted a number of regulations which are designed to prevent the dissemination of disease. The use of slates, slate-pencils and sponges is discontinued in the public schools. Pens and lead-pencils are to be used and they must not be transferred from one pupil to another. Property left by a child sick with a contagious disease must be destroyed. Books taken home must be covered each month with manilla paper. It is also provided that each pupil shall have a numbered drinking-cup, which is not to be exchanged for that of another child.

A big dog fastened his teeth into little Willie Sheppard's face at Port Colborne, and tore away a great chunk of flesh, leaving the bone exposed. Willie was taken to a Buffalo infirmary for treatment, and the News of that city printed an appeal to its readers asking for contributions of skin for the purpose of having the pieces grafted on Willie's face, to save him from disfigurement for life. Sixty-two pieces of cuticle were contributed by Buffalo men and women, the grafting was done successfully and Willie's face was saved. This opens up a new industry for the young ladies who belong to church societies, and go about soliciting contributions for this and that object. The people may expect, soon, to be called upon by young ladies soliciting cutaneous contributions to restore the faces of those who have suffered from accident, and he that gives of his skin for such a purpose will surely be as blessed as he who "takes a chance" at a pair of over-worked slippers, or pays a quarter for a cup of doubtful, but sacred tea.

AIR A STORAGE BATTERY.

A Theory That It Can Be Tapped For All the Electricity Needed.

Elias B. Dunn, the weather observer at New York, has been studying atmospheric electricity for a few years. The sergeant, as they used to call him; the farmer, as they call him now, said the other day that he will live to see the day when electricity collected from the atmosphere and stored by some means which an Edison or a Tesla will have to devise will revolutionize the world. The prophet expects that cities will be lighted and heated by atmospheric electricity; that every train and car will be run, lighted and heated by it; that coal will become a curiosity; that steam heating will be a granny talk to the children of the next generation; that the telegraphs and telephone companies will lose their monopolies; that war will become a farce, because a touch of electricity will make the British Grenadiers or the German Uhlans or the Scotch Highlanders sit down on the cold ground powerless.

Even the dreams of communication with the inhabitants of Mars will become realities, and a man will be able to strike up electricity as he does a parlor match. There will be no more trolley strikes, because there will be no more trolleys. Mankind will tap the atmosphere for almost any convenience except food and clothing, and even the clothing will be woven and the food cooked by atmospheric electricity; street cleaning will be as easy as the magician's "Presto, change!" and everybody will live comparatively happier ever after.

Mr. Dunn is sure that his ideas are practical and probable. The atmosphere is his constant study, and having introduced general humidity to the public as the principal element in uncomfortable days, he has determined that the potent element for good in the air we breathe shall no longer be wasted. Why, he said, the whole atmosphere is soaked with electricity.

The earth, as is well known, is a storehouse of electricity. That it passes from the clouds to the earth we can see in every thunderstorm. The earth is a good conductor, especially damp earth, and water is the best conductor possible. Every person is possessed of body electricity. The vital force is all in the electrical powers you contain in your body. When the day is damp, you become weakened through the loss of your bodily electricity, because the atmosphere is a greater conductor of the electrical fluid than your body, and consequently what is in your body will pass to this moist, damp air. That is the cause of that tired feeling.

This passing of electricity to the atmosphere enervates you to such a degree that a person in a naturally weak state will collapse or become much worse by the loss of this bodily electricity. The atmosphere being charged with electricity and the earth being a storehouse for it, if there were some controllable method of storage devised by which you could draw off a moderate amount of electricity at will and keep that force on tap all the time, with an appliance by which power could be generated—and there's no reason why that can't be done—then the atmospheric electricity would make all the wheels in the world go around. The barons would be done up. There would be no more need for coal. There ought to be enough electricity in the atmosphere to supply light and heat as well as to do all the work.—Boston Transcript.

Graven on Her Memory.

She had been a widow a year or so, and she was dicker for a tombstone for the departed.

"Of course," said the tombstone man, "you want the date of his death on the shaft—the day of the month and the year?"

"Well," sighed the widow, "I suppose other people may like to read them, but I don't need such reminders. They are indelibly engraved on my heart and memory."

"What was the date?" asked the tombstone man.

The widow hesitated. Then she turned a riotous scarlet; then she said: "Gracious goodness! I can't remember whether it was Jan. 26 or 27. I'll go home and find out."—New York Tribune.

Louis XVI.

Louis XVI had a very heavy, red, sensual face, with large Roman nose, full cheeks and lips and a double chin. There was no trace of more than ordinary intellect either in his face or conversation, the latter being always commonplace, often dull. He gave his contemporaries the impression of a man who habitually ate and drank more than was good for him.

Willing to Learn.

"You are at your best now, Cyrus," said his uncle, "and just at the right age for marrying. You ought to make hay while the sun shines."

Cyrus immediately put on his hat, went out of the house and proposed 15 minutes later to a grass widow.—Chicago Tribune.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that, may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

ATTACK ON THE PALACE.

The Korean Rioters Went too Far—They Killed for Queen.

Special to The Times.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 15.—An Imperial ordinance has been issued prohibiting Japanese subjects from visiting Korea without special permission.

Advices from Seoul state that in the midst of the confusion of the recent anti-reform attack upon the palace a number of the rioters forcibly entered a bed room and murdered three women whom they found there. One of them is supposed to have been the Queen.

FOUR AT A BIRTH.

Three Girls and a Boy Appear in a Delaware Family.

BETHEL, Del., Oct. 15.—Four children were born Friday to Mrs. Amanda Webster. Three are girls and one a boy. All are doing well and have a prospect of living.

The father of the children is an ardent admirer of President Cleveland, and said today the girls would be named Ruth, Esther and Marion, and the boy Grover, and that he would ask the President to act as godfather.

The birth of the children recalls the romantic marriage of the couple, about one year and a half ago. Mrs. Webster, then a Miss Greenly, aged 20, was attending school, and had arranged for an elopement with Webster, a bachelor and well-to-do farmer, of 52. Webster drove to the school one morning, met the young lady and drove off with her. For a week nothing was known of them. The greatest excitement prevailed, which was dispelled when the couple returned, having been married in Baltimore.

Twelve Lives Lost.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern looms
And whirled and glared of city rooms
She fled away to woodland blooms.
In softly swaying foliage,
Her bare feet wet with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
She climbed among the waterfalls
Where streamlet unto streamlet calls
Amid the spongy canyon walls;
And at some placid pool between
Where forest trees together lean,
Making untaught a perfect screen,
She staid and listened for some sound
Of man or beast that, lingering 'round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The cool sea sang their roundelay,
An arrow flashed a crimson ray
Athwart the shadows of the day,
A lizard rustled in the sod,
The bamboo bowed its slender rod.
None saw her but the birds and—God,
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things amiss
And radiant stood for worshipers;
She shook her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
She stole among the whispering trees
And climbed among the rocks that lie
In primal masonry on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds frolicked with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one
And felt its currents through her run.
Too soon, alas! that perfect day
She ran with swiftly flying pace
And boldly sprang from that high place
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unashamed knightly hero bright,
She flashed one moment in the light
And then in watery eclipse
From velvet loots to finger tips
Went out that sweet apostrophe!
—Hawalian Gazette.

One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photo of a column and capital to a number of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many abstract disquisitions on mediæval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.

An equally amusing case of the duplicity of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which, it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by loafers of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen boarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance.—Strand Magazine.

Modernized Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the prosaic spirit of this very progressive and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Mar-selles for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the higher east rock overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers on starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps, usually on their knees.—New York Tribune.

The Main Thing.

Mrs. de Fashion—My dear, I've picked out a husband for you at last. Miss de Fashion—Very well, but I want to say at once, mother, that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I am going to select the materials myself. So there!—London Tit-Bits.

Never did any soul do good but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. Never was love or gratitude of bounty practiced but with increasing joy, which made the practitioner still more in love with the fair act.

It is curious that men are not generally ashamed of any form of anger, wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confession of a wrong—they are ashamed.

Our natural and happiest life is when we lose ourselves in the exquisite absorption of home, the delicious retirement of dependent love.

The deepest well on our Atlantic coast is that at the silk works near Northampton, Mass. Depth, 3,700 feet.

BIG PROFITS SMALL INVESTMENTS

Returning property will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our

SYSTEMATIC PLAN OF SPECULATION

Ignited by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system. It is a well known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand. It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading. Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time. WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on Successful Speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. THE PITZEL CASE AGAIN.

Detective Geyer in Toronto—Looking Up Evidence for Holmes' Trial.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—Detective Frank P. Geyer, of the Philadelphia police, through whose exertions, assisted by Detective Addams of the Toronto staff, the dead bodies of the two murdered Pitzel children were found buried in the cellar of a house on St. Vincent street, is in the city to-day.

The trial of Herman H. Holmes, alias Mudgett, for the murder of the man Pitzel, father of the two girls, will shortly take place in Philadelphia, and Mr. Geyer is working up the case for the prosecution. It will be necessary to prove the fact of the Pitzel children having been in Toronto, and with this object in view the officer is here to obtain the necessary testimony on that point.

Mr. Geyer says Holmes claimed that the two children were with their father in South America, and it is to prove that this statement was false, and that at the time they were lying in the cellar in this city murdered, and that this testimony is wanted.

About eight witnesses will be taken to Philadelphia from Toronto, among them Mr. Rees, Mr. Nudell, the owner of the cottage; Mr. Armstrong, the tenant; Detective Cuddy, Clerk Jones, of the Albion, and the porter and the little boy who found the children's toy egg in the cottage.

Since Detective Geyer left Philadelphia he has been hunting up witnesses in Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Detroit, in each of which cities Holmes is said to have endeavored to carry on the series of murders which he is believed to have committed. He leaves here for Montreal, and from there goes to Burlington, Vt., and Boston.

It was in Burlington that Holmes hired a room for Mrs. Pitzel and placed a bottle of nitroglycerine where it would be likely to explode and kill her. Mr. Geyer leaves tomorrow morning for the east.

Mr. Geyer is sanguine that he will be able to bring the crime charged home to Holmes, and in this case it will of course not be necessary to bring him here to stand his trial for the murder of the two girls.

IN THE TREATY PORTS.

A Canadian Product Finds Favor in the Land of Confucius.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12.—A passenger by the last vessel from China stated the other day that among other Canadian products which are fast coming into favor in the Chinese treaty ports, is the Canadian specific remedy for kidney diseases of all kinds known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine was first introduced by Canadians and the increase in its use both by Europeans and natives is attributed first to the accounts of its success in the Canadian and American newspapers many of which are received in Shanghai and other ports, and later to its established efficacy in curing all kinds of kidney diseases which are very prevalent in the country.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloom-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and expresses to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sales room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King-st. west.

A Bloomer Cafe.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—This city has had a bloomer cafe, bloomer marriages, and now a bloomer restaurant has been opened in the very busy center of the city. The restaurant is called "The Bloomer Cafe" and has been a success from the start. Four shapely girls, attired in neat fitting bloomers, attend to the wants of the customers and have proved such an attraction that more girls will have to be employed to take care of the increasing trade.

THEIR EYES ON TURKEY.

The Situation in the East is Threatening—Expected Ultimatum.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Chronicle prints the following despatch from Constantinople, under date of the 14th inst. Sir Philip Currie, M. Cambon and M. Nelioff, the British, French and Russian ambassadors met yesterday and drew up a final scheme. This they submitted to Said Pasha, the Foreign Minister, who went instantly to the Sultan.

The scheme contains provisions of which no alterations will be made. A favorable answer was expected to-day but at four o'clock no reply had been received. This was regarded as a bad sign, indicating a fresh attempt of the Sultan to gain time, but the ambassadors are resolved not to permit a further indefinite discussion; therefore the proposals will be quickly followed by an ultimatum. The ambassadors hold identical views, but their Governments are not so unanimous, hence the hesitation to use force.

The key to the situation is Russia's unwillingness to see Armenia organized with autonomy. It is a very serious fact that yesterday's proposals revert with slight alterations to the scheme of May 11. The demand for a Christian high commissioner to be appointed by the powers is dropped.

The Chronicle commenting on the foregoing despatch will describe the result as a come down and a slur on the British name. It will say we have been out-bluffed and have had a slap in the face that a high spirited people ought not to tolerate. We have to thank the weak-kneed champion of Toryism. We must never trust Lord Salisbury again.

The Chronicle's anger seems to arise from the terms of the proposition being no stronger than Lord Rosebery's on May 11.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—The French, Russian, and Austrian Lloyd's companies have each sent a large steamer to Trebizond to serve as refuge for residents in case of need.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Advices received from Constantinople state that the most serious consequences are feared from the general situation growing out of the revived Armenian agitation and the resumption of rioting. According to these despatches the intervention of the powers to restore order and enforce reform is imminent.

ZEPH TRIGANE IS DEAD.

A Well-known Citizen Dead in a Queen Street Drug Store.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—An old man named Zephania Trigane, who was well known to a former generation of Torontonians, dropped dead in John O. Wood's drug store, No. 183 Queen street, west, about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The dead man was a friend of Mr. Woods', and dropped in to have a chat. After a few minutes' conversation he walked into a back room, saying, "I wonder what on earth is the matter with me." In less than a half a minute he toppled over dead. Dr. Macdonald of Simcoe street, was called in, but could do nothing, as life was extinct.

Coroner A. J. Johnston was notified of the occurrence, and ordered that the body be removed to his late residence, 27 Farley avenue, where he lived with his wife.

The deceased was a family man, known as "Zeph," kept a corner saloon, in partnership with one Meait, on King street, near the Rossin House, about 20 years ago, and he also carried on a similar business on Colborne street. Of late years he has done comparatively nothing, and is said to have left no property. The coroner has ordered an inquest to be held.

CLAIMS OF THE SEALERS.

A Treaty to Be Prepared by Sir Julian and Mr. Olney.

Special to The Times.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The return of the British Ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, will be followed next week by the preparation of a treaty by himself and Secretary Olney, looking to the settlement of the claims of Canadian sealers captured in years past in Behring Sea and before the recent Paris award. In order to facilitate the drafting of the treaty some member of the Canadian Government will be present who can be consulted from time to time with reference to certain matters of detail. It has not been decided who this gentleman will be, but it is known that Sir Mackenzie Bowell is thoroughly familiar with every phase of the dispute. The selection of the Canadian representative will be made by Lord Aberdeen, the Governor-General. One reason for expediting the treaty is the rapidly approaching session of Congress, and another is the probability that the Canadian Parliament will be convened in extraordinary session at about the same time to consider the complications arising out of the Manitoba school question. The treaty will be much shorter than instruments of this character usually are.

IT WILL BE A DELAY.

The Sickness of a Prosecuting Counsel Causes a Stay in the Durant Trial.

Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. Oct. 16.—It looks now as though a long delay in the Durant trial may be inevitable. Attorney Denprey, of the defendant's counsel, is so seriously ill as to be unable to leave his bed, and his condition is so serious that there is little likelihood of his being able to go to court for some days to come. As a result Gen. Dickinson has decided to ask for a continuance when the case is called, and there is little doubt that it will be granted by Judge Murphy.

LATEST FROM LAKEFIELD.

From our own Correspondent.

The river here is full of logs running over the dam, there being two large drives of Messrs. Gilmour & Co., now joined. The alligators look very picturesque while working at night with their search lights sweeping the water and shores.

THE WEATHER.

A heavy fall of snow on Monday night, followed by rain on Wednesday will help the farmers with their fall plowing and do great good as the ground is very dry and wells and creeks low.

STOCK SHIPMENTS.

Although prices are very low there is still a good deal of business being done here in cattle, sheep and hogs. A large shipment of the latter being made last Saturday by Mr. L. Welsh.

HUNTING.

Preparations are already being made for deer hunting, and the local sportsmen are making up their parties and looking up their equipment. Ducks have been scarce this season, but geese are reported exceedingly plentiful in the woods.

COUNCIL MEETING.

At the regular meeting of the council on Monday night there was very little business to be attended to. The bylaw relating to the licensing of pool tables was repealed, and a report from the Committee on Fire Protection was received. After the adjournment an informal discussion regarding several local matters took place. The collector is now on the war path and reports satisfactory returns coming in.

STANDING BY HER BEDSIDE WHEN SHE AWAKE IN THE MORNING.

He Was Supposed to be a Burglar, but Proved to be a Grand Trunk Man With too Much Liquor on Board—The Culprit Charged with Trespass Only.

Special to the Times

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—At half past one o'clock this morning, Mrs. William Coysh, of 8 Tait street, was aroused by someone whom she could see standing by her bedside. With her hair awired with excitement she grabbed her husband who lay beside her and woke him up. The stranger was the first to speak.

A PARLEY WITH THE INTRUDER.

"What is your name?" he asked Coryish.
"What's yours, first?" said Coryish.
"You've robbed me of $40!" said the stranger.
This charge brought Coryish out of bed.
"Get out of my house!" he called, as he sailed for the front door. But the door was locked. Coryish called to the proprietor had to send his son for a policeman by the back way. On the bedpost was the stranger's vest and on the floor the money. Coryish tried to attempt to escape and argued with Mr. Coryish that the latter was guilty of having robbed him.
A policeman arrived and marched the stranger to the police station, where the missing key was found in his pocket.
He gave the name of Daniel McLaughlin, and his occupation as a switchman on the Grand Trunk.

WHISKY RESPONSIBLE.

He had money in his pocket and whiskey in his stomach, and then circumstances were taken as evidence of a lack of felonious intent. He was arraigned in the tempt to commit felony, but the magistrate treated it as a trespass and imposed a fine of $1 and costs or 10 days.

Her Daughter Was Kidnaped.

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—A poor woman named Mrs. Thomas, residing in Ottawa, arrived in the city yesterday and reported to the detectives that her 15 year old daughter, Maud, had eloped with a young man whose name she did not know, and the only description that she could give of him was that he was tall, good looking and wore a grey suit. Mrs. Thomas brought a letter of introduction from the Ottawa chief of Police, and she was almost distracted at the disappearance of her daughter, who has always had the reputation of being a quiet, modest girl. As Mrs. Thomas is in poor circumstances she is unable to stay in Montreal after today to trace the whereabouts of her child, but the

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Mental Weakness, Neuritis, Lost Manhood, etc., that the old methods of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who tries to accomplish this by any kind of drug is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suppertime, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, and thus give vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 17 1895.

THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Editor Morning Times

SIR.—I observe that the policy of the TIMES is to cater to the ultra Protestant faction. It was only the other day that you reproduced an article from an exchange, which landed D'Alton McCarthy to the heavens and sneered at his opponents in their fight for justice in Manitoba. It may be good policy for a newspaper to sneer at the French, but I doubt it. The French are good, loyal citizens, and it will become men like McCarthy and others to represent them as being anything else. I am a reader of the TIMES, and admire the paper very much for the manly stand it takes on all public questions, both national and local. But I feel that it is making a mistake in occasionally sneering at the French.

I hope you will print this letter in your next issue, and oblige.

A SCOTCH CANADIAN.

Peterborough, Oct 16 1895.

Our friend is entirely mistaken, THE TIMES does not cater to any party or creed, or does it sneer at the French language. It has a great admiration for the flexible and expressive language of Pascal, Chateaubriand, Racine, Moliere, Voltaire, Rousseau, Hugo and Renan. In it is embodied some of the greatest literary masterpieces that the race has produced. But in a British country French is a foreign language and should be so treated. Let it be studied, but not to the exclusion of English, which in this country is infinitely the more important tongue of the two. The TIMES also admires the Gaelic, which is perhaps our correspondents native tongue; but our admiration for that beautiful language does not disguise from us the folly and inexpediency of having it used as an official language in Canada, or of spending time in the study of it which might better be spent in obtaining the rudiments of a sound English education.—E.D. TIMES.

THE PUGILISTS AND THE GOVERNORS.

The appearance of State Governors in the "ring" has considerably disconcerted the professional pugilists. They seem to have had no idea that these dignified officials possessed so long a reach or so quick a delivery. Texas—lawless Texas—cowboy Texas—they were sure of, at any rate. New York and Massachusetts might be a bit squeamish in the matter of unglorified contest; but Texas was still left to the man who would "stand up" to a man—at a thousand dollars a minute! But all the world knows now how Texas failed them. The Governor did not have his law loaded when they started for his domain; but he corralled the Legislature and turned out as fine a self-cooking law as is possessed by any State in the Union. Then they tried Mexico; but President Diaz, though he did not mind a few bull-fights, was not going to be outdone in the "advanced civilization" line by so hard a seed as Texas. The Indian Territory was proposed, but the whole U. S. army was ready to go down and debate the legality of the affair with them there. Then Arkansas was pitched upon; and the Governor of that state is said to be getting ready to deliver the first knock-out blow.

A prize fight is a big enough thing to bribe some localities into keeping quiet, but it cannot guild the moral scruples of a whole state. This is what gives the Governor his vantage ground. He can ignore the votes of a county, when he is astride an immensely popular horse throughout the balance of the state.

AIR A STORAGE BATTERY.

A Theory That It Can Be Tapped For All the Electricity Needed.

Elias B. Dunn, the weather observer at New York, has been studying atmospheric electricity for a few years. The sergeant, as they used to call him; the farmer, as they call him now, said the other day that he will live to see the day when electricity collected from the atmosphere and stored by some means which an Edison or a Tesla will have to devise will revolutionize the world. The prophet expects that cities will be lighted and heated by atmospheric electricity; that every train and car will be run, lighted and heated by it; that coal will become a curiosity; that steam heating will be a granny talk to the children of the next generation; that the telegraphs and telephone companies will lose their monopolies; that war will become a farce, because a touch of electricity will make the British Grenadiers or the German Uhlans or the Scotch Highlanders sit down on the cold ground powerless.

Even the dreams of communication with the inhabitants of Mars will become realities, and a man will be able to strike up electricity as he does a parlor match. There will be no more trolley strikes, because there will be no more trolleys. Mankind will tap the atmosphere for almost any convenience except food and clothing, and even the clothing will be woven and the food cooked by atmospheric electricity; street cleaning will be as easy as the magician's "Prosto, chango!" and everybody will live comparatively happier over after.

Mr. Dunn is sure that his ideas are practical and probable. The atmosphere is his constant study, and having introduced general humidity to the public as the principal element in uncomfortable days, he has determined that the potent element for good in the air we breathe shall no longer be wasted. Why, he said, the whole atmosphere is soaked with electricity.

The earth, as is well known, is a storehouse of electricity. That it passes from the clouds to the earth we can see in every thunderstorm. The earth is a good conductor, especially damp earth, and water is the best conductor possible. Every person is possessed of body electricity. The vital force is all in the electrical powers you contain in your body. When the day is damp, you become weakened through the loss of your bodily electricity, because the atmosphere is a greater conductor of the electrical fluid than your body, and consequently what is in your body will pass to this moist, damp air. That is the cause of that tired feeling.

This passing of electricity to the atmosphere enervates you to such a degree that a person in a naturally weak state will collapse or become much worse by the loss of this bodily electricity. The atmosphere being charged with electricity and the earth being a storehouse for it, if there were some controllable method of storage devised by which you could draw off a moderate amount of electricity at will and keep that force on tap all the time, with an appliance by which power could be generated—and there's no reason why that can't be done—then the atmospheric electricity would make all the wheels in the world go around. The barons would be done up. There would be no more need for coal. There ought to be enough electricity in the atmosphere to supply light and heat as well as to do all the work.—Boston Transcript.

Graven on Her Memory.

She had been a widow a year or so, and she was dicker for a tombstone for the departed.

"Of course," said the tombstone man, "you want the date of his death on the shaft—The day of the month and the year?"

"Well," sighed the widow, "I suppose other people may like to read them, but I don't need such reminders. They are indelibly engraved on my heart and memory."

"What was the date?" asked the tombstone man.

The widow hesitated. Then she turned a riotous scarlet; then she said: "Gracious goodness! I can't remember whether it was Jan. 26 or 27. I'll go home and find out."—New York Tribune.

Louis XVI.

Louis XVI had a very heavy, red, sensual face, with large Roman nose, full cheeks and lips and a double chin. There was no trace of more than ordinary intellect either in his face or conversation, the latter being always commonplace, often dull. He gave his contemporaries the impression of a man who habitually ate and drank more than was good for him.

Willing to Learn.

"You are at your best now, Cyrus," said his uncle, "and just at the right age for marrying. You ought to make hay while the sun shines."

Cyrus immediately put on his hat, went out of the house and proposed 15 minutes later to a grass widow.—Chicago Tribune.

'ZEPH' TRIGANE IS DEAD.

A Well-known Citizen Dead in a Queen Street Drug Store

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, Oct. 16.—An old man named Zephaniah Trigane, who was well known to a former generation of Torontonians, dropped dead in John O. Wood's drug store, No. 183 Queen street, west, about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The dead man was a friend of Mr. Woods', and dropped in to have a chat. After a few minutes' conversation he walked into a back room, saying, "I wonder what on earth is the matter with me." In less than a half a minute he toppled over dead. Dr. Macdonald of Simcoe street, was called in, but could do nothing, as life was extinct.

Coroner A. J. Johnston was notified of the occurrence, and ordered that the body be removed to his late residence, 27 Farley avenue, where he lived with his wife. The deceased who was familiarly known as "Zeph," kept a concert saloon, in partnership with one Meatt, on King street, near the Rossin House, about 20 years ago, and he also carried on a similar business on Colborne street. Of late years he has done comparatively nothing, and is said to have left no property. The coroner has ordered an inquest to be held.

CLAIMS OF THE SEALERS.

A Treaty to Be Prepared by Sir Julian and Mr. Olney.

Special to The Times.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The return of the British Ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, will be followed next week by the preparation of a treaty by himself and Secretary Olney, looking to the settlement of the claims of Canadian sealers captured in years past in Behring Sea and before the recent Paris award. In order to facilitate the drafting of the treaty some members of the Canadian Government will be present who can be consulted from time to time with reference to certain matters of detail. It has not been decided who this gentleman will be, but it is known that Sir Mackenzie Bowell is thoroughly familiar with every phase of the dispute. The selection of the Canadian representative will be made by Lord Aberdeen, the Governor-General. One reason for expediting the treaty is the rapidly approaching session of Congress, and another is the probability that the Canadian Parliament will be convened in extraordinary session at about the same time to consider the complications arising out of the Manitoba school question. The treaty will be much shorter than instruments of this character usually are.

"CARRIES WELL FOR A KID."

His Grace of Marlborough Astonishes the Blue Grass Natives
Special to The Times.

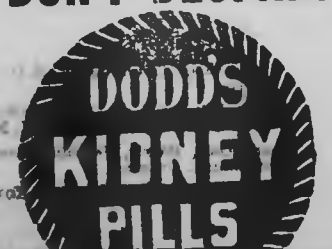

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 15.—Stories are beginning to come in from Lexington, Ky., about the young Duke of Marlborough, who has been there as the guest of Major McDowell, grandson of Henry Clay. The major took him out to the race track to see the run for the Transylvania Stakes. The Kentuckians seem to be well pleased with the young Englishman's manner, but disappointed in his diminutive stature. Judge Bowerman took him down to the Bookmakers' shed and taught him to bet in the American fashion. The Duke was only mildly interested. He quite lost the judge's favor a few minutes later when, in the fury of an exciting finish with fourteen horses pounding down the home stretch for the $5,000 stake, the Duke missed one of his gloves and began looking about and enquiring anxiously for it.

They took him over to the club house for luncheon, and Col. Todhunter pressed the finest Kentucky bourbon upon him. "I like your whiskey better than your bookmaking," said his Grace. They sat and drank for several hours, and the Duke kept up his end of the string, as they say, never missing a round and filling his glass quite as full as Col. Todhunter himself does. When the Kentucky colonels issued from the club house at the end of the eating and drinking, the Duke was the quietest and soberest one in the party.

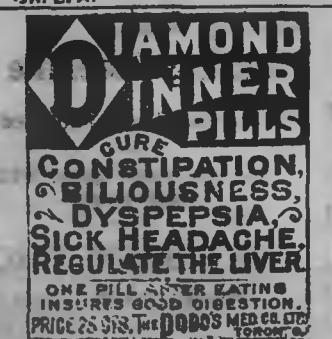

"He carries well for a kid," observed Col. Todhunter.

The opinion is expressed that the unwelcome reforms imposed by Japan upon the Korean Government are the source of all the trouble.

It is thought that the powers already allied for intervention between China and Japan should take over Korean affairs from the Japanese.

THEIR EYES ON TURKEY.

The Situation in the East is Threatening—Expected Ultimatum.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Chronicle prints the following despatch from Constantinople, under date of the 14th inst. Sir Philip Currie, M. Cambon and M. Neloff, the British, French and Russian ambassadors met yesterday and drew up a final scheme. This they submitted to Said Pasha, the Foreign Minister, who went instantly to the Sultan.

The scheme contains provisions of which no alterations will be made. A favorable answer was expected to-day but at four o'clock no reply had been received. This was regarded as a bad sign, indicating a fresh attempt of the Sultan to gain time, but the ambassadors are resolved not to permit a further indefinite discussion; therefore the proposals will be quickly followed by an ultimatum. The ambassadors hold identical views, but their Governments are not so unanimous, hence the hesitation to use force.

The key to the situation is Russia's unwillingness to see Armenia organized with autonomy. It is a very serious fact that yesterday's proposals revert with slight alterations to the scheme of May 11. The demand for a Christian high commissioner to be appointed by the powers is dropped.

The Chronicle commenting on the foregoing despatch will describe the result as a come down and a slur on the British name. It will say we have been outbluffed and have had a slap in the face that a high spirited people ought not to tolerate. We have to thank the weak-kneed champion of Toryism. We must never trust Lord Salisbury again.

The Chronicle's anger seems to arise from the terms of the proposition being no stronger than Lord Rosebery's on May 11.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—The French, Russian, and Austrian Lloyds companies have each sent a large steamer to Trebizond to serve as refuge for residents in case of need.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Advices received from Constantinople state that the most serious consequences are feared from the general situation growing out of the revived Armenian agitation and the despatches of the intervention of the powers to restore order and enforce reform is imminent.

The new amphitheatre to the Kingston General Hospital was formally opened yesterday.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern looms
And whirl and glare of city rooms
She fled away to woodland bloom.
In softly swaying boughs
Her bare feet wet with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
She climbed among the waterfalls
Where streamlets unto streamlets call
Amid the sough of canyon walls;
And at some placid pool between
Where forest trees together lean,
Making unthought a perfect screen,
She staid and listened for some sound
Of man or beast that, lingering 'round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The sea sang their roundelay,
An air breathed a crimson ray
Award the shadows of the day,
A lizard rustled in the sod,
The bamboo swayed its slender rod.
None saw her but the birds and—God.
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things amiss
And radiant stood for while no less;
She shook her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
She stole among the whispering trees
And climbed among the rocks that lie
In primal mystery on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds frolicked with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one
And felt its currents through her run.
Too soon, alas! in silence fell
She ran with swiftly flying feet
And boldly sprang from these high places
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unheeded knightly sabel bright,
She dashed one moment in the light
And then in watery eclipse
From velvet toes to finger tips
Went out that sweet apostrophe!

Trickery of the Camera.
One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photo of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many shapeless disquisitions on medieval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.
An equally amusing case of the duplication of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which,
it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by looters of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen hoarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance.—Strand Magazine.

Modernised Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the pragmatic spirit of this very progressive and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Marcellus for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the higher east rook overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers on starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps, usually on their knees.—New York Tribune.

It is curious that men are not gen-wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confes-

THE TRUTH.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 24, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

POISON IN HIS FOOD.

BUT HOW IT GOT THERE IS YET A MYSTERY.

Joseph Pugh has a narrow escape from death—still in a critical condition—Portions of the Food He Ate for Breakfast Will be Analyzed.
Special to The Times.

TORONTO Junction, Oct. 17.—Yesterday morning Mr. Joseph Pugh, of 78 Edmond street, ate his breakfast and proceeded to his work at the William Plough Works, as usual. Immediately after he started work he was seized with violent cramps. He was taken to the factory to go home, where he arrived in an exhausted condition and soon after became unconscious. Dr. Mavety was summoned and just arrived in time to save the man's life by administering an emetic. The doctor found symptoms of poison. Portions of the food which Mr. Pugh ate for breakfast will be analyzed. This morning Mr. Pugh still lies in a critical condition.

The Brussels Tragedy.
BRUSSELS, Oct. 17.—The sensation created by the murder of M. Bokke, the head of the Brussels water department, has been renewed by the announcement that his murderer committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell shortly after daylight this morning.

Murdered on a Crowded Street.
BRUSSELS, Oct. 17.—M. Bokke, the head of the Water Department of the City of Brussels, was murdered by an ex-official, who was recently discharged from the water service. The murder was committed in the Avenue Louise while that thoroughfare was thronged with people.

IN THE TREATY PORTS.
A Canadian Product Finds Favor in the Land of Confucius.

Special to The Times.
VANCOUVER, Oct. 12.—A passenger by the last vessel from China stated the other day that among other Canadian products which are fast coming into favor in the Chinese treaty ports, is the Canadian specific remedy for kidney diseases of all kinds known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine was first introduced by Canadians and the increase in its use both by Europeans and natives is attributed first to the fact of its success in the Canadian and American newspapers many of which are received in Shanghai and other ports, and later to its established efficacy in curing all kinds of kidney diseases which are very prevalent in the country.

A Postal Case.
BARRIE, Oct. 17.—Thomas William Corbett, a tea agent of Bradford, was arrested at the instance of Mr. James Henderson, assistant Post Office Inspector of Barrie. Corbett is charged with falsely alleging that on August 27th last he sent a letter containing $25 to Messrs. G. Marshall & Company, tea importers, London, Ont.

A $400,000 TIMBER DEAL.
Moore Lumber Company's Limits Have Been Sold.

Special to The Times.
OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—Yesterday afternoon the trustees of the estate of the late David Moore Lumber Company abandoned lumbering operations by the sale of their extensive limits and stock to Messrs. Buell, Hurdman & Co. The sale is the largest recorded in the lumber business in the Ottawa district for some time. For fully two months it has been in negotiation, and no little speculation was carried on in lumbering circles as to whom the purchasers would be. Bids were made from more than one source, and the fact of them having been obtained by their new owners will be a little surprising to some parties who used their efforts in securing them for another firm.

The limits include 400 square miles on the Kippewa, and are the last of the many limits owned by the late David Moore, and from which that gentleman accumulated an immense fortune in his life time. They are much richer than the ordinary run of timber limits nowadays, which is indicated by the fact that they sold for a sum in the neighborhood of $400,000.

It is the intention of the new owners to operate the limits during the coming winter.

Twenty Thousand Roses.
There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories in Ebor-street, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking on his beauties. He ships them by train and expresses to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

JAPS IN THE PLOT

To Attack the Korean Palace and Slay the Queen.
Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A correspondent of the Herald at Seoul, Corea, telegraphs the following: The Crown Prince who was with the Queen when she was murdered, has secretly sent from the palace assassins, by which they are identified as Japanese. I have personal assurance from the Japanese Government that every guilty person will be punished.

The plot originated with disgraced Korean officials, who employed Japanese Soshi and corrupted the Japanese troops. I have a statement of the colonel of the palace body guards, who says the Japanese assassins entered the Queen's apartment with swords. He afterwards saw them burning the body.

Proofs are said to exist connecting the Japanese Minister with the plot. Precursor Kimura and a commission have arrived from Japan to investigate the outbreak. There have been no arrests of Japanese Soshi.

The usurper, Tai Won Kun, issues a proclamation saying he is in the palace to secure peace. The Cabinet is not recognized, and is falling to pieces.

Six official refugees are in the United States Legation. The flagship Baltimore is coming to Chemulpo and a Russian fleet is expected.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The Herald's St. Petersburg correspondent says: Russia at the present time is inclined to allow Japan a free hand in Corea in connection with the present outbreaks.

CUBANS TELL A STORY
That Show the Revolt is a New Light—More Troops From Spain.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A special from Havana says: A message has been received from Madrid which says that the Spanish Liberal leader, Senor Labes, has received an assurance of the true state of affairs in Cuba. The disclosure, it is said, are made by Cuban autonomists, and were prepared for presentation to the Queen Regent.

MADRID, Oct. 17.—It is announced that 12,000 troops will start for Cuba on October 22.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A special to the Times from Buenos Ayres says: Enquiries made in official quarters, and among persons qualified to speak authoritatively, result in indications strongly marked, that if America gave the signal Chili, Argentina and Brazil would recognize the Cuban insurgents against Spain as belligerents.

THE BUFFALO BOODLING.
Witnesses Testify as to the Padding of the Pay-rolls.

Special to The Times.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 17.—In the investigation of alleged irregularities in the pay-rolls of the Board of Public Works, the first witness this morning was John Finan, an ex-foreman of a street cleaning gang, who swore that he had placed upon the pay-rolls some twenty-five fictitious names, at the instance of Howard Herr, cashier for the board. His testimony also implicated John Danahy assistant superintendent of streets. Herr said he was hard up and needed some money and Danahy had a diamond ring he wanted to get out of pawn. Finan testified that he kept dummy names on the pay-roll for several weeks, always furnishing cashier Herr with a memorandum of them for his own information. Finan swore positively that none of the dummies had ever worked for the city; they were names taken from an old time book of his when he bossed a gang on the Welland canal.

In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing as for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or cold in the head or chest." E. M. CHAMBERLAIN, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

The Owen Electric Belt

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made for general use, having batteries that generate a strong current of electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Hundreds of people suffer from a variety of nervous diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Loss of Manhood, etc., that the old modes of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drugs is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be cured.

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Supersensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse to healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure.

Without Medicine,

Paralysis, Nervous Prostration, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Kidney Disease, Lumbago, Lamé Back and Dyspepsia.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 17 1895.

THE LIME JUICE CLUB.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING FOR THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

The President formally Rebukes A Member—

A Large Amount of Important Business Transacted

"If Bro. Jackplane Waterfall is in the Hall this evening I should like to have him step this way," said the President, as he called the meeting to order and adjusted his glasses and looked over the assembly.

Bro. Jackplane was present. He had lately taken part prize in an Amateur Art Association for the best specimen of an axe handle made by hand, and he went forward under the idea that he was to be complimented before the Club.

"Bro. Waterfall," said the President, as the member stood before him with his weight on his left leg. "I was in the back end of Bro. Brown's grocery store last night beating Bro. Johnny Hurley and Ed. Brown four straight games of pedro, when you came in. The first thing you asked Bro. Nutmeg Cunnham for was some white sugar; and I sat there and heard you purchase Mocha

Coffee, current jelly and ninety cent tea.

Am I correct, Bro. Waterfall?

"Yes, Sir."

"How's the house rent?"

"A little behind, Sir."

"And the children's shoes and clothes?"

"Pretty badly off."

"And you're in debt to the wood yard and the grocer?"

"Slightly, Sir, but times are very hard this fall."

"Certain—and who's to blame for it?"

"The rich, Sir."

"Exactly. If it was not for a few rich men in this country who want to show off their cutters, we shouldn't have any winter

if the rich didn't own houses to rent and refuse to rent them for nothing, we poor folks could get ahead. The rich are to blame that you haven't a good big woodpile, a cellar full of pork and potatoes, and that your family is not dressed in broadcloth. Isn't that the way you

"Yes, Sir."

"And you don't argue that white sugar and so on cost is a very rich for the blood of a man earning a dollar a day?"

No, Sir. I ain't rich, but I'm just as good as rich folks."

"I see. Bro. Waterfall, please step into the ante-room. If, after the lapse of a few minutes, you conclude that brown sugar and apple sauce and Rio Coffee are more in keeping with a poor man's wages, please give three raps on the door."

The audience waited. It wasn't a minute and a half before the raps were heard, and Bro. Waterfall stepped out a great deal the worse for wear. He looked like a man who had been held by the ear and kicked by a No. 10 brogan. He was breathing hard and much excited, but he managed to say:

"My opinions have undergone a complete change, Sir."

"Very well," quietly replied the President. "Some folks can be won over by argument, and others need a sudden shock. You can sit down, Sir."

REFUSED.

Bro. Mervin, Chairman of the Committee on applications, reported that the following applicants had been rejected for the causes named:

Claybank Johnson, of Lindsay, officers of the Law found 700 pounds of pork under his bed, and he didn't know how it came

there.

Bushrod Runker, of Keene, having possession of a horse which belonged to a man thirty-six miles away. It was claimed that the old horse walked in his sleep, but nobody believed it.

Ananias Scott, of Port Hope, announcing that the world was to come to an end on Christmas day. His object seemed to be to cheapen the price of a shotgun owned by Bro. Razor Reynolds.

Wayback Little, of Toronto, didn't know how many wives the law allowed, and therefore married four.

The report of the committee was adopted on a vote of 1766 to 1—Bro. Hustler Towns, of Slopeville, voting contrary to spite Bro. Mudras Barry for creating a corner on flour in Warsaw.

MUSIC.

The Harmony Club secured the floor and rendered the following original verses written by Bro. Cautious Miller, of Keene:

Pumpkin pies are getting ripe

And mice meat's being stored;

Olden's getting him out of his d

Ham a-e-a's getting cured.

Foils is thrashing out their corn

And rats mostly done;

Hauling apples to the town,

What is better fun?

Green this is getting mighty scarce,

Freely high all sold;

Fine for digging stores and girls,

Nights are getting cold.

During the excitement which followed

Bro. Dr. Carmichael accidentally shoved his elbow through a pane of glass and was promptly fined $400 and costs.

NOT AWARE OF IT.

The Secretary announced the following communication from Port Hope:

PRESIDENT MCBRIDE:

DEAR SIR.—The people of Port Hope and vicinity have heard that the Lime

Juice Club is donating $100 to each and every individual who is desirous of emi-grating to Peterborough and who will agree not to quarrel with the corporation or begin a suit against the town for any injury that they might sustain through the bad sidewalks or through falling into the new outfall sewer. There are 120 of us here willing to take that risk.

Please forward $12,000 by express at once, and be sure and direct plainly to your truly.

G. G. QUAGGS, M. D.

"If there is any such movement on foot in this Club I haven't heard of it," replied the President. "The Secretary will reply on blue paper and red ink to the effect that so long as the middle of the roads hold out there is no excuse for people breaking their legs on the sidewalks, and that when the town pays the costs in the Mason case it will be too poor to build sidewalks."

NOT PRESENT.

A letter was read from Bro. Hardware

Paclan, stating that he was unable to be present on account of having to play off a tie in a lawn tennis tournament with

Bro. McKay.

NO TRUCK WITH HIM.

The following letter was read by the Secretary:

HASTINGS, Oct. 16 1895.

PRESIDENT MCBRIDE:

DEAR SIR,—I see you have a Lime

Juice Club, in your city and I have read the proceedings regularly in THE MORN-ING TIMES. I am a corn doctor, and a toe and finger nail trimmer, and would like to trim the toes of the Lime Juice

Club. I would make a liberal discount.

I am also the inventor of "Sager's Corn and Bunion Paralyzer," and will forward free a trial bottle to any member in good standing in the Lime Juice Club.

Yours truly,

PROF. SAGER.

"The corn doctor," said the President, after brushing a couple of flies from the end of his nose, "is a person who makes it a business of removing corns and charging

50 cents apiece. In about a fortnight the removed corns turn up smiling again, while the corn doctor has passed to greener fields. A bunion paralyzer, as I understand it, is a salve to exterminate business. You look down at your heel and you discover that she has returned from her trip to the sea shore or to Idyl

Wild, and is again bent on doing a rushing business through the fall and winter.

This Club announces to the world the fact that it has lost faith in the corn doctor and his remedies, and we ain't going to have any truck with Prof. Sager.

THE CLOSE.

Attention was called to rule No. 263,

426, which makes all business transacted

after eleven o'clock illegal and the meeting went out into the chilly night.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern rooms
And whirled and glare of city rooms
She fled away to woodland blooms.
In softly swaying hollyhock,
Her bare feet wet with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
She climbed among the waterfalls
Where streamlet unto streamlet calls
Amid the sough of canyon walls;
And at some placid pool between
Where forest trees together lean,
Making unaltered a perfect scene,
She staid and listened for some sound
Of mass or beast that, lingering round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The oos sang their roundelay,
An liva flashed a crimson ray
Aboard the shadow of the day,
A lizard rustled in the sod,
The bamboo swayed its slender rod.
None saw her but the birds and God.
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things amiss
And radiant stood for winds to kiss;
She shook her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
She stoled among the whispering trees
And climbed among the rocks that lie
In primal masonry on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds frolicked with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one
And felt its currents through her run.
Too soon, alas! in sinuous grace
She ran with swiftly flying pace
And boldly sprang from that high place,
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unheathed knightly saber bright,
She flashed one moment in the light
And then in watery eddies
From velvet toes to finger tips
Went out that sweet apocalypse!

One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photo of a column and capital to a number of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many abstruse disquisitions on mediæval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.

An equally amusing case of the duplicity of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which, it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by loafers of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen boarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance.—Strand Magazine.

Modernized Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the prosaic spirit of this very progressive and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Mar-selles for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the higher east rock overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers on starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps—rually on their knees.—New York Tribune.

The Main Thing.

Mrs. de Fashion—My dear, I've picked out a husband for you at last. Miss de Fashion—Very well, but I want to say at once, mother, that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I am going to select the materials myself. So there!—London Tit-Bits.

Never did any soul do good but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. Never was love or gratitude of bounty practiced but with increasing joy, which made the practitioner still more in love with the fair act.

It is curious that men are not generally ashamed of any form of anger, wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confession of a wrong—they are ashamed.

Our natural and happiest life is when we lose ourselves in the exquisite absorption of home, the delicious retirement of dependent love.

CUBANS TELL A STORY

That Show the Revolt is a New Light—More Troops From Spain.

Special to The Times.
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A special from Havana says: A message has been received from Madrid which says that the Spanish Liberal leader, Senor Labee, has received an exposure of the true state of affairs in Cuba. The disclosures, it is said are made by Cuban autonomists, and were prepared for presentation to the Queen Regent.

MADRID, Oct. 17.—It is announced 12,000 troops will start for Cuba on October 22.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A special to the Times from Buenos Ayres says: Enquiries made in official quarters, and among persons qualified to speak authoritatively, result in indications strongly marked, that if America gave the signal Chile, Argentina and Brazil would recognize the Cuban insurgents against Spain as belligerents.

"The Common People."
As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement: "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

JAPS IN THE PLOT

To Attack the Korean Palace and Slay the Queen.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A correspondent of the Herald at Seoul, Korea, telegraphs the following: The Crown Prince, who was with the Queen when she was murdered, has secretly sent from the palace assassins, by which they are identified as Japanese. I have personal assurance from the Japanese Government that every guilty person will be punished.

The plot originated with disgraced Korean officials, who employed Japanese Soshi and corrupted the Japanese troops. I have a statement of the colonel of the palace body guards, who says the Japanese assassins entered the Queen's apartment with swords. He afterwards saw them burning the body.

Proofs are said to exist connecting the Japanese Minister with the plot.

Prosecutor Kamura and a commission have arrived from Japan to investigate the outbreak. There have been no arrests of Japanese Soshi.

The usurper, Tai Won Kun, issues a proclamation saying he is in the palace to secure peace. The Cabinet is not recognized, and is falling to pieces.

Six official refugees are in the United States Legation. The flagship Baltimore is coming to Chemulpo and a Russian fleet is expected.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The Herald's St. Petersburg correspondent says: Russia at the present time is inclined to allow Japan a free hand in Korea in connection with the present outbreaks.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season, will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

THE PLAGUE IN JAPAN
Twenty-eight Thousand Victims in a Very Short Time.

Special to The Times.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Reports to the United States supervising surgeon general of the Marine Hospital service indicate that during the present epidemic of cholera in Japan there have been 42,706 cases and 28,513 deaths. These reports agree in saying that the disease was unusually virulent this year, in certain districts almost all the cases proving fatal. It is believed that the epidemic has reached its climax and is now declining.

There Are Men.

There are men who look askance at advertising as a rash, risky piece of unnecessary expense. They have no faith in it. They do not understand it. They do not care to. They have never tried it and do not propose to. They do not realize that more business depends upon advertising than upon almost any other element of business. They are satisfied to keep their heads in the dark while their enterprising competitor is directing his flashlight in all directions, ferreting out customers and making himself known.

THEY WILL APPEAL!

THE COUNCIL WILL LEAVE THE MASON CASE IN THE HANDS OF THE TOWN SOLICITOR

A Lively Meeting Last Night—The Question of Appeal Fully Discussed—The Finance Committee Report—A Summary of the Matter Given by P. M. Dumble.

A special meeting of the town council was held last night to consider the Lock Works question and the Mason vs. Peterborough case.

There were present Mayor Kendry, in the chair, and Councillors Cahill, Best, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Sowers, Stone, Denne, Brady, and Mason.

On motion, the reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting was dispensed with.

On motion of Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Stone, the Lock Works question was deferred till Monday evening next, when the Council will meet in committee of the whole to consider two propositions now before the committee, but which they did not feel fully prepared to submit to the Council last night.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor Cahill, chairman of this committee presented the report of the Finance Committee as follows:

Your Finance Committee to whom was referred the question of further appealing the case of Mason vs. Peterborough beg leave to report as follows:

At a meeting of the committee held last evening the town solicitor was present and advised that the case be appealed to the Supreme Court on the grounds stated in his letter to the Council, and in Mr. Moss' letter, and also for the further reason that the law in the matter, and consequently in cases of similar actions, is in doubt as the case now stands, and the law would be defined by an appeal to the Supreme Court. The costs of the appeal, the solicitor advised, would not in any event be more than $400.

The committee in considering the case, has learned definitely that no offer was at any time made by the plaintiff's solicitor, to the solicitor for the town or town council with a view to settlement of the case.

Your committee having received the explicit advice of the town solicitor to carry the case to the Supreme Court, reports the matter to the council for their action.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

COUNCILLOR CAHILL'S VIEWS.

Councillor Cahill, in presenting the above report, remarked that the council would please observe that the report that he had just read from the Finance Committee did not recommend any particular course of action in reference to the "Mason Case". In seconding Mr. Best's motion to have the matter referred to the Finance Committee his object was to hear the explanation, and ascertain the views of the town solicitor on the judgment of the Court of Appeal, and also on Mr. Moss' letter, rather than have the case decided by the Finance Committee. He would have been the same had Mr. Sowers' motion been adopted. He would have been the same had Mr. Sowers' motion been adopted. He would have been the same had Mr. Sowers' motion been adopted.

Continuing Councillor Cahill, who may in consideration of his long term of office as Councillor be justly termed "the father of the council," emphasized his opinion that it only remained for the council to decide whether they will ignore the advice of the town solicitor and stop further proceedings, or act on his advice and let the matter go to the Supreme Court.

In conclusion our veteran civic father remarked that he believed a gentleman present had stated that the Council had been approached with a view to a settlement in this case. So far as he could ascertain no such offer had ever been suggested, and he would recommend that the Council invite any person to address the Council this evening who desired to do so.

Councillor Stone did not think that the question of an offered settlement had anything to do with the matter. It was, he thought, incumbent upon the council to propose a settlement, and not the plaintiff. He opined that the failure of such a proposition should not justify the council to continue litigation. He thought the council had explicit counsel from the town solicitor, and therefore should support him. He would certainly vote for carrying the matter before the Supreme Court.

Councillor Mills did not think that the fact of the council dropping the matter would imply a want of confidence in the town solicitor. He would have no further to say on this subject. He did not think that the cessation of litigation at this juncture would establish a precedent to be acted upon in the future.

Councillor Cahill moved, seconded by Councillor Stone, That the Council leave the matter in the hands of the Town Solicitor to act at his discretion in the best interests of the town.

Mayor Kendry at this juncture opined that the fact of dropping the matter at its present stage would indicate a want of confidence in Mr. E. B. Edwards. He, in company with his colleagues deeply sympathized with the widow Mason, but they were not returned to office to consult their personal feelings, but to act in the best interests of the town of Peterborough. He would certainly support the Town Solicitor in his advice.

Councillor Phelan thought that the matter should be definitely settled at the present meeting.

MR. DUMBLE SECURES A HEARING.

Mr. D. W. Dumble here took the floor and stated that he thought he had been courted to address the council, and he did not wish his silence to be interpreted as an inference that the council had not been approached by the plaintiff's counsel in the Mason case with a view to settlement. Legally speaking it was the duty of the town to make such advances.

Councillor Dawson at this juncture inquired if it were not possible for a settlement to be now effected.

Councillor Best thought that if it was policy for the town to defend their action in the first place, it was equally their policy to stand by their solicitor and carry the matter before the Supreme Court.

Councillor Mason here moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor Sowers, That no further action be taken in the Mason case.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, again took the floor and expressed his opinion that before the resolutions were put to vote the Council should thoroughly understand their position. He did not think they really understood the legal technicalities of the case, and as a citizen of the Town of Peterborough he would like to present to them the true version of the matter.

Mayor Kendry at this point objected to Mr. Dumble's intervention. He thought that Mr. Dumble's intervention was not proper, and that it was not fair of the council for the plaintiff to presume to address the council.

TURNBULL'S

Ladies' Woolen Underwear

We want to call your attention this week to our stock of Ladies' Underwear. The Union's range in price from 15c to 75c and All-Wool's from 50c to $1.25. We keep for our best lines the Hygiene make for two good reasons: 1st, they are fine soft wool and heavier than other lines. 2nd, they are decidedly cheaper, and what the masses are looking for and buying. You will find all sizes at our Underwear Counter. For those who cannot wear wool we keep a fine make of American Fleece Lined. Ladies will do well to remember that now with our increased facilities and space you will find everything worth keeping with us.

Men's Woolen Unddwear

In our new store we have a department for Gent's Furnishings and have consequently added a much larger assortment, especially in Men's and Boys Underwear. We call special attention to our line of Men's heavy All Wool at $1.00 a suit.

See our window of American Batting, fresh from the factory; every lady passing should examine it, it rolls out beautifully and is clean and white.

NOTICE

When your cash purchases amount to $25.00 you will be presented free with a beautiful piece of Bamboo or German Folding Furniture, as a special inducement to customers to trade in our place. Samples of the goods can be seen in our north window.

J. C. TURNBULL

GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Dumble replied that he simply referred to the technicalities of the case, which were in such instances difficult for private citizens to interpret.

A SUMMARY OF THE CASE.

Continuing, Mr. Dumble explained that as a private citizen, interested in the finances of the town, and not as solicitor for the plaintiff, he would give a summary of the case. In the first place a letter was sent the Council claiming damages for the accident in question. The reply was that the matter had been left in the hands of the Town Solicitor. A writ of summons was then issued and in course of time the case came before Judge Falconbridge for trial before a jury. At the time of the plaintiff's case Mr. E. B. Edwards moved for a non-suit on the grounds that there was no evidence to go to a jury. This objection was over-ruled and the matter was submitted to the jury, who disagreed. Mr. E. B. Edwards then appealed to the Full Court, comprised of three judges against the ruling of the court, whereupon the ruling of the judge was sustained and appeal dismissed with costs. The defendant's solicitor next appealed to the Court of Appeal from the judgment of the Full Court, resulting in the judgment of that court being fully sustained, and the appeal again dismissed with costs. The case came on for trial again, when at the close of plaintiff's case, Mr. Edwards again moved for a non-suit. The judge refused the non-suit, and sent the case to the jury, who once more disagreed. When the case came on for trial again, counsel for the town requested that Judge Ferguson try the case without a jury, which he agreed to do. At the close of plaintiff's case the Town Solicitor once more moved for a non-suit, which was promptly refused. At this trial, in reviewing the case, the judge held that the sidewalk in question was not in repair, that it was in a dangerous condition, and that the town were well acquainted with the fact, which rendered them liable for the accident; he accordingly gave judgment for the plaintiff, assessing the damages at $750. Mr. Edwards appealed Judge Ferguson's judgment to the Court of Appeal, at which Mr. Moss, Q.C., and Mr. Edwards argued the case at great length, with no more favorable result than hitherto, however, for the appeal was dismissed with costs. Here, as continued Mr. Dumble, the judgments of three Trial Judges, the Full Court of Common Pleas and the Court of Appeal all against the town (no dissenting judgment was delivered), and yet in the face of these facts you are willing to permit the case to go before the Supreme Court. Why, Mr. Moss, in his letter to Mr. Edwards states that "were the findings of facts of a Trial Judge have been confirmed by an Appellate Court the Supreme Court will not interfere with the finding," and this same Supreme Court, in a case almost similar to this one, (Derocbe against Napanee), where on a second trial a jury gave $700 damages, to a person who slipped on ice gathered in a hole on the sidewalk, refused to disturb the verdict. In conclusion Mr. Dumble intimated that common prudence in one's private affairs would demonstrate the propriety of sending such a case to the Supreme Court, thereby heaping up damages upon damages until that which might have been settled for a comparatively small amount reaches alarming proportions.

Councillor Cahill terminated by remarking that so far as he was concerned, he firmly believed the town would lose the case, but still felt justified in accepting the advice of Mr. E. B. Edwards.

FOR MOTION IN AMENDMENT to let the Mason vs. Peterborough case drop and cease litigation: Yeas—Councillors Mills, Sowers, Mason and Brady. Nays—Councillors Cahill, Best, Phelan, Dawson, Stone, Denne and His Worship the Mayor.

TO APPEAL THE CASE.

Yeas—Councillors Cahill, Best, Phelan, Dawson, Stone, Denne and Mayor Kendry. Nays—Councillors Mills, Sowers, Mason and Brady.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Councillor Best moved, seconded by Councillor Cahill, That a corporate cheque for $300 be issued to Mr. John E. Belcher, Town Engineer, on account of his commission on number one section of the outfall sewer.

Councillor Mills drew the attention of the Council to the dangerous condition of the sidewalks on Welles street, and thought the matter should be attended to at once, to avoid the possibility of another action for damages being entered against the Town.

On motion of Councillor Brady the matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

The Council then adjourned.

OVER 25 YEARS AGO

—THE FIRM OF—

OAK HALL

WAS ESTABLISHED IN CANADA

The W. E. Sanford Mfg. Co., of Hamilton, now the largest Clothing Manufacturers in the Dominion and one of the largest in the world, decided that the people of this country would be better served if they dealt with the manufacturers direct, and knew who they were dealing with. This was the Acorn planted for the first Oak Hall, since then stores have been opened in all the principal cities in the Dominion. Peterborough is the last to get in line, and our reception has been a glorious one. The good people of this town and surrounding country have caught on quickly, they realize that now it is possible to get style and quality at a fair price in ready-to-wear clothing, and useless to pay fancy prices for custom made garments. The confidence that we are gaining with the public will never be misplaced on our part. We would be pleased to have you call and see our stock of fall and winter clothing—and clothing only. One price to all.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 17 1895.

MAY CUBA SUCCEED.

The American press is urging the Government to recognize the Cubans as belligerents. This would be a little premature because the insurgents have not yet set up a government. It would serve Spain right, however, for she lost no time when the civil war in the United States broke out in recognizing the Confederacy. For four hundred years Spain has misgoverned Cuba. The island is about in the position now that Canada was when Papineau and Mackenzie raised the insurrection of 1837-8. Needed reforms readily conceded have made this Dominion the most loyal colony Britain possesses. Spain could have done the same by Cuba. She persistently refused to better the condition of the colonists. Now the Cubans are attempting to take by force of arms what they have been unable to obtain by fair means. And if Spain does not crush the insurrection before the hot season comes around again the insurrectionists may triumph. Spain is financially embarrassed, and when disease wipes out the army she has now in Cuba she cannot afford to replace it.

All the Cubans want is recognition by the United States and the privilege of obtaining arms and ammunition from there with which to carry on the war. The rest they profess to be able to do themselves.

A STORY FOR SIR MACKENZIE.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, says the Telegram, has probably read the story of the man who sent his boy to bed with the promise that he would thrash him in the morning.

But in the night the boy grew to be six feet four inches high, and when the father looked up at his son in the morning, he said, "Well, my son, I promised to give you a thrashing this morning but sit down, we'll try and reason out this difficulty."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell is the father Thomas Greenway is the boy, the real medical order is the threat under which Greenway retired. That threat has not blighted his life. The boy has been growing and when Sir Mackenzie Bowell observes the increased size of the issue, had he not better sit down and invite Manitoba to join in an effort to reason out a settlement.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly For November.

THE Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta, which takes rank among the most brilliant fairs ever organized on the American Continent, comes in for conspicuous attention, both pictorial and literary, in the November number of FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY. The leading article on this subject is from the authoritative pen of Walter G. Cooper, the energetic chief of the Department of Publicity and Promotion. James L. Ford, the now celebrated author of "The Literary Shop" and "Hypnotic Tales," contributes a delicious example of his satirical humor in a paper upon "Our Erotic Nobility," which is charmingly illustrated by Warren B. Davis. Mrs. Leicester Addis discusses the traditions and customs of Allhallows-tide. Some interesting glimpses of the "Immortals" of the French Academy are given in a gossiping paper, accompanied by the latest portraits of such contemporary celebrities as Paul Bourget, Pierre Loti, Francois Coppée, Dumas, Sardou, Jules Claretie, Jules Lemaitre, Brunetiere, and others. Other illustrated articles of special interest are: "The Suburban Riding and Driving Club of New York"; "The Scenic Panorama of New York State"; and "The Boom-crash." Among the notable short stories is "The Railway Signal," by the famous Russian writer, Gershwin. The frontispiece is an admirable reproduction in water colors of a characteristic New England Thanksgiving Dinner. Altogether the improved FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY is a brilliant success.

THE DRUMS.

Mark, I hear the beaten drums—their long roll
Affrights the quiet of the peaceful air
And startles quick memories in my soul
Of one who was both young and brave and fair;
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

The loud drums called him many years ago,
When the struck nation needed all her sons.
Among the bravest he was first to go
And lip the favored mouths of hungry guns.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

News from a southland battle came to me
Of the soldier who took my heart along—
Of how he bore himself full gallantly
Where drum bullets sang their wailing song.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

Life is but losing—be it soon or late.
The foeman marked him with avenging eye.
Killed at the front! A man must face his fate.
The prize of battle is to grandly die.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

My heart is throbbing with a mournful chiming,
Calling, calling, and only echo comes.
The drums! The drums! I hear them all the time.
The throbbing and the music of the drums.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

—Charles L. Holstein in Indianapolis Journal.

Still Unsettled.

The meals on board a sailing ship are perhaps monotonous enough to justify the chronic grumbling of sailors. Monday's dinners are all alike, Tuesday's and Wednesday's can be foretold, and so on through the list. And the sailors, having little to think of in smooth weather, eat—and grumble. As to the latter habit, a good story is told.

Once upon a time there lived a skipper whose wife told him that if she went to sea the poor sailors for whom she cooked would never find fault with their food. So her husband took her with him on his next voyage.

Now this good woman attended to the cooking herself, and the scouse was thick with fresh vegetables, the bread was white and destitute of weevil, the meat was good and the duff almost half plums, but still the men growled. Then the skipper's wife bethought her of the hens she had brought to lay eggs for her husband, and she killed and roasted them and sent them forward to the fore-cabin on the cabin china.

"At last," said she in triumph, "the men will know how seriously we consider their comfort."

At eight bells she stole forward to the fore scuttle to listen to the praises of her skill, and as she listened she looked down the hatch in time to see a big black fist plunge a fork into the hen the while a hoarse voice growled:

"I say, Bill, what d'ye think this bloomin fowl died of?"—Youth's Companion.

Hoot, Toot, Hoo and Cry.

Hoot is to make the noise of an owl, huetto or ohonette, as howl is owl aspirated, ululare. Hoots, or hoots, plural, requires only the addition of tum as a common ending to make hutesium, and we get the very word wanted in Borel, huz-crierie. If we write it h-utes, we have only added a euphonic "e." To hoot brings us to toot, and the tooting horn of the old mail coach and so to the hoots and huz above arrived at.

To toot is to hoot through the long horn; to toot is only another spelling of the same word, meaning to advertise by blowing a horn. In "huz and cry" it is further out down still, but it brings us back, all the same, to the common law and vivid description of a hasty pursuit "with horn and voice." It is not often that the law is so picturesque and verisemblable.—Notes and Queries.

A Choice of Evils.

Landlady—Would you advise me to send my daughter to a cooking school or to a music school?

Boarder (reflectively)—Well, I think I'd send her to a cooking school. It may be more fatal in its results, but it isn't anything like so noisy.—Detroit Free Press.

New Conditions.

In 1895—"You'll do just as I tell you," said the husband of the advanced woman.

"What?" shrieked his wife.
"I mean it!" said her husband.
"I'd have you understand that I wear the skirts in this family."—Chicago Record.

"Days of Absence" was the work of Jean Jacques Rousseau, who claimed to have written the melody also, though his claim in this direction is disputed, the assertion being made that the tune is an Italian folk song. In Europe the song is called "Rousseau's Dream."

The poet Rogers had a voice so small and weak that, as he had said himself, he was forced to say cautiously and ill-natured things in order to make people hear him.

The ... was ... worn by men during the sixteenth century it reached the dimensions of a large scarf round the leg.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well!

LORD DUNRAVEN HOME.

He Has Formed No Plans for Future Racing.
By S. J. S.

Special to The Times.

Ryde, Isle of Wight, Oct. 18.—The yacht Valhalla, owned by Mr. Joseph F. Laycock, and having Lord Dunraven on board, arrived here from Newport, R.I., this morning. The yacht was immediately boarded by a small brigade of interviewers desirous of obtaining direct from Lord Dunraven his version of the disappointing races for the America's cup. He said, in substance: "I have no statements to make on the subject. What I would say has been well threshed out of me during the fortnight I stayed in America after the races."

He declined to answer the question as to whether he had any ill feeling towards the New York Yacht Club and he refused to comment upon the statement made by sailmaker Kaiser's men when they arrived at Cowes recently; that the last race was not sailed because the buoys had been changed during the second race, adding: "It will not do any good to discuss such unpleasant matters."

Regarding his plans for future racing, Lord Dunraven said: "I have no plans. I have just arrived home after a long voyage, and I am going to London and from there to my estate in Wales. I do not know what I shall do later on."

Touching upon the acceptance by the New York Yacht Club of the challenge of Mr. Charles D. Rice, through the R. Y. V. Victoria Yacht Club, for another series of races for the America's cup, Lord Dunraven remarked: "The matter was practically settled when I left the United States. Personally I am glad that it has been so easily and quickly settled."

400 KILLED AT TREBIZOND.

Further Concerning the Recent Rioting Throughout Armenia.

Special to The Times.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—According to the latest information received here from Trebizond, Armenia, 400 persons were killed during the recent rioting there. The Grand Vizier, Kiamil Pasha, has issued an order holding the Governor of Trebizond responsible for all loss of life hereafter, through political or religious disturbances. The appeal of the Sultan to the Russian Ambassador, Nelidoff, to cause the recall of the order for a Russian gunboat to go to Trebizond, has proved futile.

French and Russian steamers are taking numbers of Armenian refugees from Trebizond.

The report of a riot at Akhissar, in the Vilayet of Adin, on the Anatolian railway, during which fifty Armenians were killed on October 9, a market day, by a Moslem mob, is confirmed. The Turks picked a quarrel with the unarmed Armenians and, the former being armed with revolvers and knives, looted the market and massacred the helpless Christians, afterwards throwing their bodies into the wells. Twenty bodies have already been recovered from the wells and have been interred in the presence of the Armenian Bishop of Iznik.

Reports received here from various districts of Anatolia say that the Armenians have been deprived of their weapons, and that the latter have been given to Mussulmans. In addition in the district of Kharput, quantities of arms have been distributed to the Turks. When the Vali of Kharput was questioned on the subject he said that if the Armenians remained quiet no harm would come to them.

Izzet Effendi the celebrated Turkish lawyer, who was arrested recently charged with being the author of the placards in favor of the Armenians, which were posted in Istanbul some time previous to his being taken in custody, has according to the official announcement, died in the Yildiz prison, where he was confined while awaiting trial.

The body must be well nourished now, to prevent sickness. If your appetite is poor take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CORBETT ARRESTED.

The Prize Fighter Formally Taken into Custody at New Springs.

Special to The Times.

For Springs, Ark., Oct. 18.—Sheriff Rebb House has gone to Spring Lake to place Corbett under formal arrest. He was to have returned with his prisoner at 9 o'clock on the train, but the train is late. They will, on arrival, go to Justice Kirk's office, where preliminary legal proceedings will take place, thence to Chancellor Leatherman's court, where the habeas corpus proceedings will be carried out as per program. There will be no assurance that Corbett will be released. It will depend on the chancellor's interpretation.

YORK STREET BRIDGE.

The Question Discussed Before the Railway Committee at Ottawa.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—"We want this matter hurried up," said M. R. S. Fullerton at the Railway Committee this morning when the York street bridge matter was reached. "It has now been hanging ever since 1892. For a year I have been chasing up the C.P.R. but Judge Clarke has been blandly evading. We now want the matter referred to an expert who shall decide it. As the plan is now prepared by the C.P.R. Engineer the foundations are such that in ten or fifteen years the bridge would fall down."

Judge Clarke denied that there had been delay but pointed out that further postponement was necessary as Mr. Leonard had taken exception to the plans on account of the instability of the proposed structure.

Mr. Bell, of the G.T.R., said that the Grand Trunk engineers had objections. By mutual consent the matter was referred to Engineer Schrieber to report at next meeting.

KING OF ENGLISH PICKPOCKETS.

Remarkable Career of an Ex-Criminal Who Turned Preacher.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Joseph Wailey, the ex-king of pickpockets, has just died at the age of 83 years, 40 of which he spent from time to time in jail.

He founded and directed for several years a band of robbers in different lines, including burglars, footpads, pickpockets and sneak thieves, that were the terror of the suburbs of London. After he became rich, Wailey was one day attracted by an itinerant colored preacher and stopped to hear him. He became a great favorite among the righteous as he had been among the ungodly. A great throng attended his funeral, and by way of honoring the dead the pickpockets were present actively.

The safety of the British barque Achilles, bound from the west coast of South America for Hamburg, is doubted. She is long overdue. English underwriters have fears that the British ship Lord Spencer, which left San Francisco for Queenstown 100 days ago, has been lost.

CUSTOM SURVEYOR SUE.

WRIT ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT AGAINST MR. JOHN DOUGLAS.

$6000 Alleged to Have Been Lost to the Customs Department by Careless Valuation of Wallpaper Imported by the Firm of C. F. Taylor & Co. Net Loss said to be Only $2000.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—On Saturday morning a writ was served on Mr. John Douglas, surveyor of the Port of Toronto, in the Exchequer Court, to recover the sum of $6000, which it is alleged was lost to the Government through his negligence.

Three years ago the firm of C. M. Taylor & Co., wholesale stationers and paper dealers, imported a large amount of wall papers, which were stored in the company's bonded warehouse. The papers were packed in bundles of a uniform size. To outward appearances they were all the same. As a matter of fact, however, the bundles varied greatly in value and consequently were subject to different rates of duty. From time to time the company received permission from the Customs House to take away quantities of the paper. The order in each case gave permission to the company to take out so many bundles. It appears that as each lot was taken from the warehouse duty was paid on bundles containing the lowest quality of paper, while those taken from the warehouse were in all cases bundles containing the most expensive goods.

The writ was brought against the surveyor for negligence in allowing the company to take away stock which was subject to a higher duty than that upon which duty had actually been paid. The loss said to have been suffered by the Government in this way is placed at $6000.

The fact that the company were getting ahead of the Customs House was not discovered until the firm failed. What goods were then left there were confiscated and sold to satisfy the claim for unpaid duty. It is said $4000 was realized at the sale, and if such is the case this would make the real loss to the Government only $2000.

PRESENTED BY DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE. The Controller of Customs' attention was first directed to the matter some months ago and he made a very careful investigation of the facts, as have also the Customs House officers here. The matter was referred by the Controller to the Minister of Justice and it was understood it was on the latter's advice proceedings were instituted against the surveyor.

Before proceedings were taken against Mr. Douglas a large number of merchants in the city, including many Conservatives, interested with the Controller on Mr. Douglas' behalf, pointing out that the ordinary rules of the Customs House were such that Mr. Douglas should not be held responsible for any negligence in the matter. It is said the same custom prevails in regard to any other lines of business as that which prevailed in the delivery of goods from C. M. Taylor's bonded warehouse.

As everyone knows, Mr. Douglas has been an official of the Customs House for about 40 years, during part of which time he occupied the position as acting collector.

The Monument to Emperor Frederick on the Battlefield of Worth.

Special to the Times

WORTH-SUR-SAVER, Oct. 18.—The Emperor and Empress of Germany, accompanied by the ex-Empress Frederick and other members of the Imperial family, as well as many representatives of the different royal families of the Empire, participated to-day in the ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling of the Emperor Frederick monument on the battlefield of Worth. Their Majesties arrived at the site shortly before noon and were received by the Governor-General of Alsace-Lorraine, Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg, who delivered an address of welcome. After patriotic songs, sung by the Straussburg Society, and a stirring address from General Von Mischke, the monument was unveiled and was afterwards inspected by all the members of the Imperial party. The ceremonies were concluded with a march past of the troops.

BURGLARS AT KLEINBURG.

They Threaten a Farmer's Wife and Secure One Hundred and Twenty Dollars.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—The farm house of Mr. Charles Wright, who lives a short distance from Kleinburg, was ransacked by burglars on Wednesday evening. Mr. Wright was in Toronto, and Mrs. Wright was alone in the house. Shortly after midnight she was awakened, and two masked men stood beside her bed, one of whom said: "Don't make a noise or else you will be killed. There is money in the house and we want it." After searching drawers and trunks they failed to get any, and came back to Mrs. Wright.

"Look here," said one of the men, "you know where the money is, and if you don't get it we will torture you till you do." They made a motion to carry their threat into execution, when Mrs. Wright told them where the $120 could be found. They secured this and then left the house. In the morning the neighbors were notified and the police requested to investigate.

IN AN OLD ATTIC.

The Many Quaint Treasures of the Olden Time It Contained.

Yesterday I found a delightful book, and of course it was in an attic. Our ancestors may not have stored things in attics expressly to have us discover them, but we continue to do so from time to time, and they are undoubtedly more interesting from being a bit cobwebby and mysterious. The attic in which I found the delicious book had in it hidden things which looked as if they might be the first patterns of everything we use now. Probably the most desirable trait about this attic was that it did not possess a place for anything or anything in its place.

For instance, I found a bonnet hanging on a pair of andirons.

But for the green silk strings no one would ever dream it was a bonnet. It looked much more like a coal scuttle and had as many enormous bones as a prehistoric skeleton. It must have belonged to a very great grandmother. No one without several greats before her name could have worn that bonnet! Behind the andirons was a cradle, and in the cradle was a long pole with a red silk arrangement which once meant a fire screen. Beside it stood a clock, with a moon face and long chains and weights. It looked so much like a Dutch doll, with just head and legs, that I laughed aloud. But an attic is not a place in which to laugh unless one has company. Everything was rebukingly still, and so was I immediately.

Near the clock was a table shaped like a long legged spider. It looked as if just ready to walk off alone. I was quite sure it belonged to the bonnet and the fire screen, and that somewhere there were blue cups and saucers, which one might break by talking too loud, and that they belonged to the table.

In a far corner stood a picture with its face to the wall.

I drew it out and rested it against the table. Of course it was dusty. I never heard of the right sort of an attic which was kept dusted. It was the picture of a lady. I knew that at once, just as we always know a lady when we see one. The picture was rather dim, but I could easily discern that she was young and slim, with a white throat and bright, dark eyes. Her hair, done very high, was of a ruddy brown, and she had on a short waisted white satin frock, and held a half open fan primly in her hands.

It was easy to see that she was just where she belonged—beside the spider legged table. I had no doubt that she could have told the whereabouts of the blue cups and saucers. Thinking about this lady, my eyes encountered another pair of eyes staring straight at mine. My heart jumped once and stood still until I recognized the eyes as my own.

I was gazing into a mirror. It was a dim, queer mirror, with a crack like an enormous smile across its face and pale enough to hold only the ghost of light which once shone in it. Two rods supported it. They held a brass candlestick apiece and rested on a little stand which had a drawer. I sat down on a hair trunk before this letter stand. The drawer had brass knobs and might have been locked once, but time or rust made it open easily, and then—such an assortment of odds and ends! Faded ribbons and flowers and beads and a feather fan, which, when I opened it, filled the air with a musty dust that made me sneeze! Under these scraps was a box, and under the box was a book—the book—"The Black Duck," by Virginia W. Cloud, in St. Nicholas.

Hicks—What do you think of the income tax?

Wicks—If you mean the way my wife taxes me with neglect when I come in from club late at night, I must say that I do not think very much of it.—Boston Transcript.

Shoes In Japan.

Japanese shoes vary for the use. Mud stiffs four inches high keep them up in sloppy weather. Wooden clogs are ordinarily used, but big straw sandals, costing only a cent or so a pair, are used in walking or mountain climbing.

German Proposals Are Serious Matters. In Germany a man always makes a proposal of marriage a very serious ceremonial. He dresses himself in evening clothes and takes his way to the home of the lady in question for that particular purpose and for no other. So that when a woman sees an admirer enter her drawing room clad in evening attire in the afternoon, she knows that something is afoot.—Reverin Letter.

The Gladiolus Theory.

Mr. Gladstone is a believer in the theory that a man can do better mental work every year to extreme old age if he takes care of his body. He claims that the mind grows stronger and clearer as the body loses vitality, and that it is only disease of the latter that can prevent an intellectual progress that will go on to the end. He is certainly a good illustration of his working theory.

To Reason J. A. S. & CO.

If we were continuing in business would be foolishness to sell stocks at less than wholesale prices.

We're going out of business, and rapidly in closing our stock is more value to us than present profits.

Because we think the plan a good one we're selling direct to the consumer, though a large wholesale concern.

Intercolonial Railway
OF CANADA.

THE DIRECT ROUTE BETWEEN THE West and all points on the Lower St. Lawrence and St. Lawrence River, Province of Quebec, for New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Islands, Newfoundland and St. Pierre.

Express trains leave Montreal and Halifax daily (Sunday excepted) and run through without change between these points. The through express train cars of the Intercolonial Railway are brilliantly lighted by electricity and heated by steam from the locomotive, thus greatly increasing the comfort and safety of travellers. Comfortable and elegant buffet, sleeping and day cars are run on all through express trains. The popular summer bathing and fishing resorts of Canada are all along the Intercolonial, or are reached by that route.

Canadian European Mail and Passenger Route.

Passengers for Great Britain or the Continent leaving Montreal Friday morning will join the mail steamer at Halifax on Saturday.

The attention of shippers is directed to the superior facilities offered by this route for the transport of flour and general merchandise intended for the Eastern Provinces, Newfoundland and the West Indies, also for shipments of grain and produce intended for the European continent. Tickets may be obtained, and all information about the route, also freight and passenger rates, on application to Western Freight and Passenger Agent, 90 Rensselaer House Block, York Toronto. D. PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 23 1895.

ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT.

Almost every day new schemes are reported for the generation of electric power by means of water falls. The scene of the most recent project is located at Clear Lake, California, seventy-five miles north of San Francisco, where a stream is found at an altitude of 1,317 feet above the sea level with a daily capacity of 627,000,000 gallons. It is proposed to transmit the current on overhead copper wires to San Francisco, and it is said that no serious obstacles have been found in the way of the completion of the enterprise. The possibility of transmitting the power a distance of seventy-five miles gives additional importance to the establishment of an electrical center at Toronto. Not only could the needs of all the enterprises located here be supplied, but power could be furnished to operate electrical railways and light the streets of every town within a seventy-five mile radius.

The development of electricity is so rapid that what was considered a dream yesterday is one of the actualities of today, and this extension of the application of the science gives ground for the expectation that before long electric heating will be brought within the means of all. When that time comes every mountain stream will become a source of warmth, and rivers will be made to heat whole cities.

FAILURES IN BUSINESS.

The Statistical Year Book just issued by Dominion Statisticians Johnson contains some very interesting figures touching the causes of failures in Canada and the United States. Lack of capital was responsible for 62.5 per cent. of the total failures in Canada, while but 36.5 per cent. were due to that cause across the border. Fraudulent disposition of assets united to almost twice the extent in the United States that it did in Canada. While in the former there were 7.1 per cent. of the whole number due to this cause in Canada but 3.7 per cent. were caused by dishonesty. The failures from speculation outside the business were in the same proportion, 1.6 per cent. in Canada and 3.4 per cent. in the United States. By neglect of business 2.1 per cent. were caused in Canada and 3.2 across the border.

The whole list shows the same proportion except in the case of lack of capital. The conclusion of all this is that the only particular that Canadians are behind their neighbors is in the amount of capital at their disposal.

Hetty Green is one of those Americans who are rich enough to have churches of their own. It may not be Hetty's wish to own a church, but she has a $12,000 mortgage on a Chicago house of worship which the congregation despairs of ever being able to pay. The pastor has resigned after a struggle of three years to raise the debt and there is a lively prospect that Hetty will have to foreclose her mortgage.

That the colonial policy of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain will be a vigorous one is made very clear by the instructions he has cabled to British Guiana. He suggests—as protective measures against the aggression of Venezuela—the increase of military and police and the purchase of Maxim guns. This is the kind of a policy that will suit the British public as well as the colonies. It also is a hint of what course Joseph would be inclined to adopt if a dispute arose between Canada and her big neighbor.

CHINESE GIRL BABIES.

How They Are Hawked About in the Streets and Sold.

Miss Adele M. Fiedle recently lectured on "The Women of China." The manner of disposing of Chinese girl babies was first told of. It was said that they were taken to a foundling hospital, and when 12 days old were put in a covered basket and taken away by a huckster, who bore a basket hung on each end, and hawked his wares about the streets, the price of an infant being the same as that of a spring chicken. The infants were usually bought by mothers who had sons of about 2 years, and were brought up as future daughters-in-law.

A personal anecdote was told of a twilight walk at Swatow, south China, and an encounter with a huckster who was carrying three feeble moaning infants in his basket. He had been out since morning and had disposed of three. When asked to show his wares, he offered to sell the three girl babies for $1, which was, according to the usual rates, twice their value.

These children were married between the ages of 15 and 17 and were said to be happier many times than brides who met their husbands just previous to the marriage ceremony. Foot binding among Chinese women was said to begin between the ages of 6 and 12. The suffering continued for about two years, when the artificial feet were formed. It was said to be most remarkable that, although the women of successive families for 900 years had had bandaged feet, no child ever was born with unnatural feet. This was said to be the custom of all women of China, excepting the Tartars and highlanders. The latter work in the field, while the men care for the children. Few of the women, it was said, were able to walk more than a few steps and were taken about in sedan chairs, accompanied by their bondmaids, who were natural footed. The women of China were said to be fortunate in their dress, as the style never changed, and they could afford much better quality than is used by the women here. A large and elaborate wardrobe might be packed in three cubic feet of space, and the more closely packed the smoother it would come out. Polygamy was declared to be lawful, but not usually practiced, the men of China asserting that it "took a very wise man to manage fish fry, a much wiser man to manage a raft and a wiser man than either to manage two wives."—New York Tribune.

The Microscopic Yeast Plant. Antonius van Leuwenhoek, the Dutch naturalist whose microscopic studies are familiar to scientists in almost every branch where the lens is a part of the apparatus used, discovered the yeast plant in the year 1680. Another student, Fabria, in 1797 gave it as his opinion that the yeast plant was a vegeto-animal organism, while later scientists, Thennard, Desmoziere et al., believed its functions to be chiefly of a chemical nature. In 1837 De la Tour, studying from outlines laid down by Van Leuwenhoek, rediscovered the identical plant described by that authority in 1680. He subsequently studied it carefully and gave many odd facts concerning it. He declared that it was through its action that the molecules of sugar were broken up, thus permitting that substance to "sour." He measured the cells of the plant and found them to only be one-two-thousandth of an inch in diameter. He was also the first to recognize the fact that they developed by budding.

The investigations of Professor Mitsuherlich have led chemists to distinguish two kinds of yeast—"surface" yeast, which collects on the surface of fermenting fluids, and "sediment" yeast, which is found growing at the bottom. The former is propagated by buds, the latter by spores. Its use in the preparation of foods is very ancient, but today it is not known positively whether yeast is the "cause" or the "effect," or simply an accompaniment of fermentation.—St. Louis Republic.

The Income Tax. Hicks—What do you think of the income tax?

Wicks—If you mean the way my wife taxes me with neglect when I come in from club late at night, I must say that I do not think very much of it.—Boston Transcript.

Shoes in Japan. Japanese shoes vary for the use. Mud stiffs four inches high keep them up in sloppy weather. Wooden clogs are ordinarily used, but big straw sandals, costing only a cent or so a pair, are used in walking or mountain climbing.

German Freepress. Mrs. Barbara Mattson.

In Germany a man always makes a proposal of marriage a very serious ceremonial. He dresses himself in evening clothes and takes his way to the home of the lady in question for that particular purpose and for no other. So that when a woman sees an admirer enter her drawing room clad in evening attire in the afternoon, she knows that something is afoot.—Rochester Times.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well!

HIS BUFFALO COAT.

The Thrilling Experience That It Brought to a Kentucky Man.

"A buffalo coat, yes, sir," answered the Louisville man who had spent some years in Texas. "I got that when the plains were covered with the short horned animals. That reminds me of an experience I had, thrilling, too, and it will never again fall to the lot of any man living. I was one of a party of a dozen bound for New Mexico. We had by night-fall on the third day out reached a small creek near the boundary line in northwestern Texas. Sloping out from both sides of the creek were banks that rose to such a respectable size that it was tiresome to climb them. These banks were covered with a rank growth of grass that reached to our knees. The hill sloped up to the south and down to the north quite abruptly. At the foot of the hills to the north was a clump of young cottonwoods. This made an ideal camping place. We wheeled our five wagons into a circle, and built our campfire in the center of the ring made by the wagons. Our horses were tethered on the outside of the inclosure.

"The old guide we had with us stood the first watch. He was full of stories, so I sat up to hear him talk. We had been 'gassing' around the campfire for about an hour, I judge, when the old fellow started and stopped. His face clouded, and I saw him drop down and hold his ear to the ground. He sprang to his feet in an instant.

"A buffalo stampede, by ginger, and bound this way," he cried. "Wake the people up and get these things out of the way. I wouldn't give a jorked antelope steak for the whole kit."

"We got the people out in a hurry and the horses hopped to the wagons. By this time I could hear a dull roar in the distance that the guide's trained ear had distinguished ten minutes before.

"Now, drive to the cottonwoods yond," the old fellow said. We did drive and took up our station across the creek behind the woods. When we reached our place of refuge, the low roar had deepened into a thunderous roll, and we could distinguish through the darkness a black moving mass in the distance. Soon the flying herd was upon us. The noise was terrific, and you couldn't hear what your neighbor said when he shouted in your ear. When the herd reached the clump of trees, it separated, one half going round the north of it and the other south. The herd was an hour in passing, and during the last half hour the dust was so thick it nearly suffocated us. The next morning we saw the route the herd had taken. As clearly defined a road stretched out to the west from the trees as if it had been surveyed and laid out. The little hill to the south of the trees, one which half the herd had coursed, was out down even with the surrounding prairie. That happened in the days of buffalo, before the magnificent beast was killed for his hide and skinned by machinery."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Personal Appearance.

There is a story told of a guest at a ball who was so imposing in appearance that his host, who had observed his grand pose, walked up to him and inquired:

"Sir, are you anybody in particular?"

Much attention has been paid to very ordinary men because of a strong personal resemblance to really distinguished persons. A Boston hack driver once carried a humble private individual, who bargained for his fare closely in advance, to a distant point for a mere trifle. When his fare descended from his coach, the hackman asked the privilege of shaking hands with him.

"But my good man, you don't know me," said the surprised fare.

"Don't it? It's myself that has seen you too often not to be known you at first sight, General Butler."

And the stranger did not have the heart to disappoint the man who was so sure he was the great Boston lawyer.—Exchange.

About the Same Thing.

She was trying to explain to her class of east side children the meaning of "measure" without mentioning the word.

"Now, children, if a man should pay you $1 a day just to sit at the window and look out, what would that be?"

"That would be bully!" cried a little girl.

"Hush, dear. That is slang, and you mustn't use slang. Why, it would be a s-l-a-n-g."

"Oh, teacher, I know!" shouted a 10-year-old boy. "It would be a cinch."

And the teacher was fain to acknowledge to herself that it might come under that head.—New York Recorder.

OF CANADA.

THE DIRECT ROUTE BETWEEN THE West and all points on the Lower St. Lawrence and St. Charles, Province of Quebec, also for New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward and Cape Breton Islands, Newfoundland and St. Pierre.

Express trains leave Montreal and Halifax daily (Sunday excepted) and run through without change between these points.

The through express train cars of the Intercolonial Railway are brilliantly lighted by electricity and heated by steam from the locomotive, thus greatly increasing the comfort and safety of travellers.

Comfortable and elegant buffet, sleeping and day cars are run on all through express trains.

The popular summer sea bathing and fishing resorts of Canada are all along the Intercolonial, or are reached by that route.

Passengers for Great Britain or the Continent leaving Montreal Friday morning will join our mail steamer at Halifax on Saturday.

The attention of shippers is directed to the superior facilities offered by this route for the transport of flour and general merchandise intended for the Eastern Provinces, Newfoundland and the West Indies, also for shipments of grain and produce intended for the European market.

Tickets may be obtained, and all information about the route, also freight and passenger rates, on application to

THE TRUTH.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 24, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

EVIDENCE IN REBUTTAL.

NOW BRING GIVEN BY THE CROWN IN THE SHORTIS CASE.

While Employed at the Mills at Valleyfield—Manager Simpson Again on the Stand, Also Hughie Wilson Who Had Seen a Narrow Escape From Death.

Special to the Times.
BEAUMONTS, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Shortis was greatly disturbed this morning, when she learned that her reverend friend, Mgr. O'Brien had been taken suddenly ill in Montreal yesterday. His Lordship had promised to return to Beaumonts this morning and to take breakfast with Mr. and Mrs. Shortis, and when, after delaying the meal for some time, word was received that the prelate was lying sick at St. Patrick's Presbytery, his intended hosts were much shocked. Mrs. Shortis states that His Lordship first complained of indisposition on Friday last, when the close atmosphere of the court was almost too much for him.

The proceedings began to-day at 10.15, Judge Mathieu presiding.
Mr. Simpson, manager of the cotton mill, said, in answer to questions put by Mr. Greenshields for the defence:

"Yes; I treated the prisoner fairly, as I do every one else. If any one had asked me for a character of the young man, I would have given him one. It is true that it does not require much skill to do the copying in our office, and the work might be done by a boy, but it is doubtful if any boy could attend to the filing of letters as required and performed by the prisoner."

HIS EDUCATION.

A lengthy examination, bearing on office work in the cotton mills generally, followed, the result being that it was proven beyond a doubt, in spite of a severe and searching examination, that the accused, F. V. C. Shortis, was not as ignorant as it was endeavored during the trial by the defence to so prove. In fact from the evidence adduced by the witness Simpson, the prisoner showed anything but a poor education. The lawyers for the defence then produced an order book, where the accused had made some entries, so as to try and prove once more that Shortis was really uneducated. It was shown by them that one of the "wonderful mistakes" that Shortis made was one error consisting of the letter "R" being written on the wrong line of the entry book, and the "V" was admitted from the quality of "Congo Brown," which was indicated by the letters "R.G.V.V." B.V.B.B. The two other minor mistakes made by the prisoner were the placing of two "copied" letters on the wrong file.

This concluded Mr. Simpson's examination. The next witness called was Mr. A. Desrosiers, who took the position of private secretary to Mr. Simpson after the discharge of the prisoner. Witnesses there no further light on the tragedy than has already been told, and corroborated that portion of Mr. Simpson's testimony of which he was cognizant.

Questioned regarding prisoner's affection towards Miss Anderson, witness said the former had always spoken in a very loving manner of the young lady, and in fact had given him to understand that he (the prisoner) was going to propose to her.

The court rose at 12.50 for lunch until 2.10.

HE ACTED SENSIBLY ENOUGH.

R. F. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Montreal Cotton Company, Valleyfield, re-called by the Crown, said he was intimate with prisoner and never noted anything peculiar in his conduct. He always acted gentlemanly and sensibly while in his presence. Shortis came to his house one evening about three weeks before the tragedy and confidentially told witness that Mr. Simpson had threatened to prosecute him for conspiring to kill him (Simpson). He assured Mr. Smith that he was innocent of any such conspiracy, and charged Mr. Simpson with persecuting him out of spite for him and McGuinness. The prisoner then wrote a letter to Mr. Gault, which he showed witness before mailing. He made Shortis expunge a reference in it about him. In these matters, as in all other dealings, the prisoner acted sensibly.

Cross-examined—Shortis was not under any supervision. My relations with him were altogether of a social nature. Shortis was peculiar in his dress, but in nothing else.

CASHIER LOWE AGAIN.

John Lowe, cashier of the Montreal Cotton Company, Valleyfield, again recalled by the prosecution, said he saw him daily. They were on friendly terms. Did not notice anything remarkable in his conduct. He dressed as other old country sometimes do. He remembered an occasion about two months before the tragedy, when Shortis had come out of Mr. Simpson's office repeating the remarks, "You're no gentleman" and every dog has its day." Saw Shortis in the Presbyterian church where Miss Anderson attended. He told witness that he was not bigoted or bound to any belief. Never knew him to refer to transmigration of souls, fatalism or the like.

The cross-examination was brief and elicited nothing of importance.

Constables Ferrier, Donant, Dubuc and Dr. Gathier, all of Valleyfield, were examined in order named, and testified as to Shortis general conduct, the sum total of which was that Shortis behaved in a sensible manner.

HUGHIE WILSON AGAIN.

Hughie Wilson was again placed in the witness box on behalf of the Crown, and said that he was very intimate with Shortis right up to the night of the murders. He observed nothing peculiar in his demeanor, although he had a style of dress peculiarly his own, but did not think it extraordinary. Referring to the night of the tragedy, Wilson said Shortis talked rationally on the subjects which cropped up. There was a desultory conversation going on all about headache, or that he heard strange noises or voices.

The short cross-examination which followed, did not bring out any new facts or change those adduced in examination in chief. Court adjourned at 5.10.

The experience of the past two seasons has taught us that there are many men who expect Ready-made Clothing to be as good as clothes made to order, and who are willing to pay a fair price when they get what they want. The Winter Suits and Overcoats are here in abundance, taking up every inch of space on our two floors.

$8.00 or $10.00 buys an Overcoat that is away up in every respect, except price. The colors are light tan, dark brown black and navy blue. $6.00 or $8 will buy an All-wool Frieze Ulster that would require an expert to tell it from the genuine Irish Frieze. Colors are the same as our other Ulsters. Our suits comprise everything to be found in a first-class store from $5 up. Be sure and give us a call.

HIS BUFFALO COAT.

The Thrilling Experience That It Brought to a Kentucky Man.

"A buffalo coat, yes, sir," answered the Louisville man who had spent some years in Texas. "I got that when the plains were covered with the short horned animals. That reminds me of an experience I had, thrilling, too, and it will never again fall to the lot of any man living. I was one of a party of a dozen bound for New Mexico. We had by night-fall on the third day out reached a small creek near the boundary line in northwestern Texas. Sloping out from both sides of the creek were banks that rose to such a respectable size that it was tiresome to climb them. These banks were covered with a rank growth of grass that reached to our knees. The hill sloped up to the south and down to the north quite abruptly. At the foot of the hills to the north was a clump of young cottonwoods. This made an ideal camping place. We wheeled our five wagons into a circle, and built our campfire in the center of the ring made by the wagons. Our horses were tethered on the outside of the inclosure.

"The old guide we had with us stood the first watch. He was full of stories, so I sat up to hear him talk. We had been 'gassing' around the campfire for about an hour, I judge, when the old fellow started and stopped. His face clouded, and I saw him drop down and hold his ear to the ground. He sprang to his feet in an instant.

"A buffalo stampede, by ginger, and bound this way," he cried. "Wake the people up and get these things out of the way. I wouldn't give a jerked antelope steak for the whole kit."

"We got the people out in a hurry and the horses hitched to the wagons. By this time I could hear a dull roar in the distance that the guide's trained ear had distinguished ten minutes before.

"Now, drive to the cottonwoods yonder," the old fellow said. We did drive and took up our station across the creek behind the woods. When we reached our place of refuge, the low roar had deepened into a thunderous roll, and we could distinguish through the darkness a black moving mass in the distance. Soon the flying herd was upon us. The noise was terrific, and you couldn't hear what your neighbor said when he shouted in your ear. When the herd reached the clump of trees, it separated, one half going round the north of it and the other south. The herd was an hour in passing, and during the last half hour the dust was so thick it nearly suffocated us. The next morning we saw the route the herd had taken. A clearly defined road stretched out to the west from the trees as if it had been surveyed and laid out. The little hill to the south of the trees, one which half the herd had coursed, was out down even with the surrounding prairie. That happened in the days of buffaloes, before the magnificent beast was killed for his hide and skinned by machinery."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Reptile Appearance.
There is a story told of a guest at a ball who was so imposing in appearance that his host, who had observed his grand pose, walked up to him and inquired:
"Sir, are you anybody in particular?"

Much attention has been paid to very ordinary men because of a strong personal resemblance to really distinguished persons. A Boston hack driver once carried a humble private individual, who bargained for his fare closely in advance, to a distant point for a mere trifle. When the hack descended from his coach, the hack driver asked the privilege of shaking hands with him.

"But my good man, you don't know me," said the surprised fare.
"Don't! It's myself that has seen you too often not to know you at first sight, General Butler."

And the stranger did not have the heart to disappoint the man who was so sure he was the great Boston lawyer.—Exchange.

About the Same Thing.
She was trying to explain to her class of east side children the meaning of "misecure" without mentioning the word.

"Now, children, if a man should pay you $1 a day just to sit at the window and look out, what would that be?"

"That would be belly!" cried a little girl.

"Hush, dear. That is slang, and you mustn't use slang. Why, it would be a-s-i-n."

"Oh, teacher, I know!" shouted a 10-year-old boy. "It would be a cinch."

And the teacher was fain to acknowledge to herself that it might come under that head.—New York Recorder.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 24 1895.

VAL SHORTIS TRIAL

Seems to Drag These Days—The Amende Honorable by Mr. Smith.

Special to The Times.

BEAUFORT, Oct. 23.—"Don't be so anxious to hang this man Mr. Simpson," these were the words in which Mr. Green-shield addressed the manager of the mill when cross-examining him concerning the office work done by the accused. Needless to say, Mr. Simpson indignantly denied any intention of giving evidence with a desire to accomplish this result, and stated that he was telling an unvarnished story under oath. The manager did more than this, for, meeting Mr. Shortis soon after he left the witness box, he held out his hand, and begged the father of the accused to accept his sympathy. Mr. Shortis, however, declined to do anything of the kind, and in the heat of the moment spoke some very sharp words to the would-be consoler.

SHORTIS ON MECHANICS.

James Sparrow, machinist in the cotton mill, Valleyfield, was the next witness called when the Queen's Bench opened this morning. Examined by the Crown the witness said that owing to the nature of his business in the mill he came in contact with the prisoner nearly every day. Witness then produced a number of mill order books from which he read to the judge and jury orders which the prisoner Shortis had made out to different firms, for goods for the cotton mill. These went to further prove that Shortis was educated above the ordinary and was a shrewd intelligent young man, and not "ignorant," as has been contended.

Plans were next produced of a full generative and boiler. Speaking from his experience as a master mechanic, witness Sparrow, said Shortis' explanations to him of the workings of the mechanical apparatus in question were as good as an ordinary mechanic could give. Other matters pertaining to machinery were also sworn to in evidence, which went far in proving the prisoner's knowledge and intelligence of the accused. The latter also made a plan of a patent contrivance which was designed to catch "droppings" from shafting. Witness continuing said that he considered Shortis very smart and intelligent. If shown anything the accused would pick it up immediately.

HIS MOTHER AGAIN ILL.

The truth of the assertion made a few days ago that Mrs. Shortis was on the verge of another collapse was established this morning when Mr. Shortis arrived at the Court House alone and informed the writer that his wife had been obliged once more to take to her bed. In addition to the attack of neuralgia in the face, Mrs. Shortis had caught a severe cold, which has settled on her chest, and she has been obliged to resort to the application of mustard plasters in order to obtain relief.

The evidence was stopped to allow the counsel to catch the train for Huntingdon, whether they have gone to take Mr. McGinnis deposition.

Neuralgia and Headache.

"I have been troubled with neuralgia in my side and headache and doctored with no beneficial results. Finally I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After I had taken one bottle I found that it was doing me good and after the second bottle I was nearly well." GARRIE FAYNE, Greenstown, Ont.

HOOD'S PILLS cures biliousness, indigestion.

WON'T DISCUSS THE QUESTION.

Mr. Hall Can't Visit to Toronto Will be Purely of Pleasure.

Special to The Times.

Hall Caine has no cause to complain of the reception given him in Toronto. He has been in the hands of his friends and enemies, the members of the Canadian Copyright Association. While the members of the association are prepared to fight Mr. Hall Caine to the bitter end as far as copyright is concerned, they are glad to do him honor as a great author and a distinguished writer on social questions.

The members of the Copyright Association will dine their eminent visitor at the National Club on Friday night. At the social gathering it is probable that the most important work of the week will be done, for the associations members will not discuss the copyright question with Mr. Hall Caine alone. When the novelist announced his intention of visiting Toronto it was proposed that a conference should be held between him and the association. Since this decision was arrived at other counsels have prevailed. It was pointed out that the members of the association had not been as yet apprised of Mr. Newcombe's findings in the case. The Deputy Minister of Justice, it will be remembered, visited England last summer to discuss the copyright question. He has furnished his report to Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, and the Minister of Justice will doubtless convey the substance of his document to the members of the association. It is felt by the Canadians interested that the best policy will be to wait until Sir Charles and Mr. Newcombe are present before discussing the copyright question with Mr. Hall Caine. The date of this conference, which will be held at Ottawa, has not yet been settled.

CANAL TO BE BUILT.

The St. Lawrence and the Georgian Bay to be Connected.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Application has been made to the Government by the Ottawa and French River Canal Company for a franchise of $15,000,000 bond, for ten years at four per cent, to ensure the construction of a canal from the St. Lawrence to the Georgian Bay.

The canal will be at least nine feet in depth.

SIR JOHN WAS FAVORABLE.

The Citizen states that Sir John Thompson drew up an order in Council guaranteeing the bond, but owing to his death it was not put through.

The Government is now being pressed to carry out the undertaking, and if that is done an effort will be immediately made to float the bonds on the English market.

THE GOVERNMENT GRANT.

The Ontario and Quebec Governments will shortly be asked to grant 10,000 acres of land for every mile of the canal constructed.

The Imperial Government has been asked to help the undertaking and has already acknowledged receipt of the communication.

FIVE BY ELECTIONS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Writs will be issued in a few days for bye elections in four and possibly five vacant constituencies. They are: Jacques Cartier, Montreal Center, West Huron, Cardwell and probably Mississquoi.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

Special to The Times.

NELSON, Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the generally increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

"DOC" JENERETTE'S DEATH.

Was It Caused by Kurashinski? A Murder Trial at Berlin.

Special to The Times.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The Assizes opened here today before Hon. Justice Robertson. The docket is a small one, there being only two criminal cases of any gravity. The chief centre of attraction is the Jenerette murder case. It will be remembered that nearly in August last a foul murder was perpetrated about four miles from here, when the body of "Doc" Jenerette, as he was familiarly known, was found in a berry patch with his head battered and his throat cut from ear to ear. A Pole, by the name of Kurashinski, whose farm adjoined that of Jenerette's place of abode, was arrested, charged with the crime, and held in custody for a long time. A bill, to which the prisoner pleaded "not guilty." The trial begins tomorrow. The Crown's interest is looked after by E. F. Johnston, Q.C., while the prisoner's counsel is B. B. Ojter, Q.C.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 roses in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloort-west, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his beautiful plants and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by train and expresses to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

BRIEF WIRELETS.

Shakespeare's Young Men.

These are between twenty and thirty young men in the non-historical plays, and an examination of their peculiarities and characteristics enables us to form some conception of Shakespeare's own ideal of a young man.

In the first place, it is noticeable what physical perfection they are all supposed to have. The poet's young hero should, as a general thing, "laugh merrily," like "Valentin," "eat and drink heartily, walk merrily, and only look sad when his purpose is empty." He should be able to "climb walls with Romeo, wrestle like Orlando, fence and fight plumes like Hamlet, or swim through the stormy waves like Ferdinand; and he should enjoy doing it."

Further, Shakespeare seems to lay stress on the young man's "being natural, unaffected, as if to him affection indicated a weakness somewhere in the man's character." Indeed, no characteristic of Shakespeare's is more conspicuous than his thorough openness and honesty—his contempt for everything that savors of affectation or sham. Note his repeated sharp hits at false hair and paint in women, at foppish and aping of foreign fashions in men, at the small conceits of travelers who came home, as Rosalind says, "to lip and wear strange suits, to dish all the benefits of their own country, and be out of love with their nativity," who have seen much, yet have nothing from it worth the getting. He has the same dislike for the affected and artificial style of the day in speech and writing. How he delights to show it up in his lightest plays no less than in the later ones. How he gradually freed himself from the rhetorical conceits and mannerisms of the time—the excessive playing upon words, the running of a metaphor into the ground, so to speak, the over-indulgence in classical allusions, and the like. How he picks out and satirizes the ranting of the actor, and the extravagance of the dramatist who furnishes him with the declamatory passion to tear in tatters! His dislike for Puritans, which crops out in a few passages, appears to have been due to their dislike of his own style of life, and to their own dislike of his style of life. How he gradually freed himself from the rhetorical conceits and mannerisms of the time—the excessive playing upon words, the running of a metaphor into the ground, so to speak, the over-indulgence in classical allusions, and the like. How he picks out and satirizes the ranting of the actor, and the extravagance of the dramatist who furnishes him with the declamatory passion to tear in tatters! His dislike for Puritans, which crops out in a few passages, appears to have been due to their dislike of his own style of life, and to their own dislike of his style of life.

Again, Shakespeare "seems to value very highly a decided capacity for friendship characteristic of the man. As a friend he himself must have been capable of immense personal devotion. The first 120 sonnets, most of which are addressed to one and the same friend—a man, not a woman—would suffice to prove this, if we had nothing else from his pen. But we have also the striking pictures of many friendships in the plays; and some of these, such as that of Antonio and Bassanio, of Brutus and Cassius, of Hamlet and Horatio—are perhaps unsurpassed by any of his delineations of the love of man and woman.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. ## The Owen Electric Belt

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made for general use, having features that insure perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of Nervous Diseases.

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Loss of Manhood, etc., that the old method of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who tries to accomplish this by any kind of treatment is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be Positively Cured.

As applied by the Owen Electric Belt, the only known power that will supply the body with energy, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most securely cure.

Without Medicine, Treats: Nervous Prostration, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney Disease, Lumbago, Lame Back and Dyspepsia.

See ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE containing full information regarding the cure of these chronic and nervous diseases, prices, how to order, etc., mailed (sealed) - FREE - to any address.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 24 1896.

The party that received Thomas McGreevey to its bosom should not cast stones at Israel Tarte.

The Conservative loss in Montreal is not a hopeful augury of success in the coming general campaign.

Two by-elections in Quebec and two in Ontario will be a fair test of public feeling toward the existing condition of affairs in the Conservative party.

The World describes Mr. White's resignation to the "ideal" belief that a member of the House should not sit in Parliament with the promise of an office in his pocket. The ideal is that a member should not accept an office at all, for the expectation of appointment is calculated to impair their independence.

If Mr. White resigned his seat in disgust and despair at the Government's prostration, he cannot be congratulated on his reason, but the incident illustrates the growing dissatisfaction of Conservatives with the half-dozen petty politicians who have seized control of the party and are blindly exploiting their power for their own aggrandizement.

The Scandinavian vote is becoming a factor in American politics. The New York Mail and Express points out that there are one million of this nationality in the United States, and 120,000 of them are voters. This is one more string the presidential candidate will have to gather up in order to make his calling and election sure.

A cure for cancer has been discovered by Dr. G. L. Curtis, of New York, during his treatment of a brother physician who became infected through thoughtlessly scratching his face after his hand had been in contact with the cancerous mouth of a patient. The principle of the new treatment is to absorb the poison, which reduces the tumors, and the patient recovers. Further cases subjected to this treatment will be watched with interest.

Promises of reform have for years saved Turkey from coercive measures by the other powers for the purpose of protecting the outraged Armenians. Representations to the Porte from other nations are never met with a refusal to ameliorate the condition of the unfortunate Christians under the dominion of the Sultan, but the amelioration never takes place. At present the Turk is hedged about by the powers, and it looks as if nothing but the introduction of a sure measure of reform will be accepted by them. It is devoutly to be hoped that this expectation will be realized.

Henry Miller and Charles Luz, cattle-men, of San Francisco, confess to owning more than fourteen million acres of land in three States. As the San Francisco Examiner puts it, this makes an estate equal in area to the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut together. It is half the size of New York and three times the size of New Jersey. It is about the size of West Virginia and an eighth the entire area of California. It is as large as Greece with the Ionian Isles, of which Byron wrote. It is four times the area of Alsace-Lorraine, over which France and Germany fought. It is but little smaller than Ireland and half again as large as Switzerland. It is twice as large as Belgium and one-third the size of England and Wales together. These two remarkable men are natives of one of the Rhenish provinces of Germany.

CHINESE GIRL BABIES.

How They Are Hawked About in the Streets and Sold.

Miss Adele M. Fieldo recently lectured on "The Women of China." The manner of disposing of Chinese girl babies was first told of. It was said that they were taken to a foundling hospital, and when 12 days old were put in a covered basket and taken away by a huckster, who bore a long pole across his shoulders, with a basket hung on each end, and hawked his wares about the streets, the price of an infant being the same as that of a spring chicken. The infants were usually bought by mothers who had sons of about 2 years, and were brought up as future daughters-in-law.

A personal anecdote was told of a twilight walk at Swatow, south China, and an encounter with a huckster who was carrying three feeble moaning infants in his basket. He had been out since morning and had disposed of three. When asked to show his wares, he offered to sell the three girl babies for $1, which was, according to the usual rates, twice their value.

These children were married between the ages of 15 and 17 and were said to be happier many times than brides who met their husbands just previous to the marriage ceremony. Foot binding among Chinese women was said to begin between the ages of 6 and 12. The suffering continued for about two years, when the artificial feet were formed. It was said to be most remarkable that, although the women of successive families for 900 years had had bandaged feet, no child ever was born with unnatural feet. This was said to be the custom of all women of China, excepting the Tartars and highlanders. The latter work in the field, while the men care for the children. Few of the women, it was said, were able to walk more than a few steps and were taken about in sedan chairs, accompanied by their bondmaids, who were natural footed. The women of China were said to be fortunate in their dress, as the style never changed, and they could afford much better quality than is used by the women here. A large and elaborate wardrobe might be packed in three cubic feet of space, and the more closely packed the smoother it would come out. Polygamy was declared to be lawful, but not usually practiced, the men of China asserting that it "took a very wise man to manage fish fry, a much wiser man to manage a raft and a wiser man than either to manage two wives."—New York Tribune.

The Microscope Yeast Plant.

Antonius van Leeuwenhoek, the Dutch naturalist whose microscopic studies are familiar to scientists in almost every branch where the lens is a part of the apparatus used, discovered the yeast plant in the year 1680. Another student, Fabria, in 1787 gave it as his opinion that the yeast plant was a vegeto-animal organism, while later scientists, Thernard, Desmouzières et al., believed its functions to be chiefly of a chemical nature. In 1837 De la Tour, studying from outlines laid down by Van Leeuwenhoek, rediscovered the identical plant described by that authority in 1680. He subsequently studied it carefully and gave many odd facts concerning it. He declared that it was through its action that the molecules of sugar were broken up, thus permitting that substance to "sour." He measured the cells of the plant and found them to only be one-two-thousand-five hundredth of an inch in diameter. He was also the first to recognize the fact that they developed by budding.

The investigations of Professor Mitscherlich have led chemists to distinguish two kinds of yeast—"surface" yeast, which collects on the surface of fermenting fluids, and "sediment" yeast, which is found growing at the bottom. The former is propagated by buds, the latter by spores. Its use in the preparation of foods is very ancient, but today it is not known positively whether yeast is the "cause" or the "effect," or simply an accompaniment of fermentation.—St. Louis Republic.

The Income Tax.

Hicks—What do you think of the income tax?

Wicks—If you mean the way my wife taxes me with neglect when I come in from club late at night, I must say that I do not think very much of it.—Boston Transcript.

Shoes In Japan.

Japanese shoes vary for the use. Mud stiltis four inches high keep them up in sloppy weather. Wooden clogs are ordinarily used, but big straw sandals, costing only a cent or so a pair, are used in walking or mountain climbing.

German Proposals Are Serious Matters.

In Germany a man always makes a proposal of marriage a very serious ceremonial. He dresses himself in evening clothes and takes his way to the home of the lady in question for that particular purpose and for no other. So that when a woman sees an admirer enter her drawing room clad in evening attire in the afternoon, she knows that something is afoot.—Berlin Letter.

Electrical Treatment

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment. When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well!

VAL SHORTIS TRIAL

Seems to Drag These Days—The Amende Honorable by Mr. Smith.

Special to The Times.

BEAUMHARIS, Oct. 23.—"Don't be so anxious to hang this man Mr. Simpson." These were the words in which Mr. Green-shields addressed the manager of the mill, when cross-examining him concerning the office work done by the accused. Needless to say, Mr. Simpson in indignantly denied any intention of giving evidence with a desire to accomplish this result, and stated that he was telling an unvarnished story under oath. The manager did more than this, for, meeting Mr. Shortis soon after he left the witness box, he held out his hand, and begged the father of the accused to accept his sympathy. Mr. Shortis, however, declined to do anything of the kind, and in the heat of the moment spoke some very sharp words to the would-be consoler.

THE AMENDE HONORABLE

The Smith incident was buried to-day, and the secretary-treasurer of the cotton mill did much towards clearing it up by approaching one of the counsel for the defence yesterday afternoon and requesting him to inform Mr. Shortis that he was very sorry for what had occurred, and was quite willing that the latter should carry his apologies to Mrs. Shortis. The quick-tempered but kind hearted Irish gentleman met him half way, and the amende honorable was accepted, and the occurrence forgiven and forgotten.

SHORTIS ON MECHANICS.

James Sparrow, machinist, in the cotton mill, Valleyfield, was the next witness called when the Queen's Bench opened this morning.

Examined by the Crown the witness said that owing to the nature of his business in the mill he came in contact with the prisoner nearly every day. Witness then produced a number of mill order books from which he read to the judge and jury orders which the prisoner Shortis had made out to different firms, for goods for the cotton mill. These went to further prove that Shortis was educated above the ordinary and was a shrewd intelligent young man, and not "ignorant," as has been contended.

Plans were next produced of a full generator and boiler. Speaking from his experience as a master mechanic, witness Sparrow, said Shortis' explanations to him of the workings of the mechanical apparatus in question were as good as an ordinary mechanic could give. Other matters pertaining to machinery were also sworn to in evidence, which went far in proving the superior knowledge and intelligence of the accused. The latter also made a plan of a patent contrivance which was designed to catch "droppings" from shafting. Witness continuing said that he considered Shortis very smart and intelligent. If shown anything the accused would pick it up immediately.

HIS MOTHER AGAIN ILL.

The truth of the assertion made a few days ago that Mrs. Shortis was on the verge of another collapse was established this morning when Mr. Shortis arrived at the Court House alone and informed the writer that his wife had been obliged once more to take to her bed. In addition to the attack of neuralgia in the face, Mrs. Shortis had caught a severe cold, which has settled on her chest, and she has been obliged to resort to the application of mustard plasters in order to obtain relief.

The evidence was stopped to allow the counsel to catch the train for Huntingdon, whither they have gone to take Mr. McGinnies deposition.

CANAL TO BE BUILT.

The St. Lawrence and the Georgian Bay to be Connected.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Application has been made to the Government by the Ottawa and French River Canal Company for a guarantee of $15,000,000 bonds for fifteen years at four per cent. to ensure the construction of a canal from the St. Lawrence to the Georgian Bay.

The canal will be at least nine feet in depth.

SIR JOHN WAS FAVORABLE.

The Citizen states that Sir John Thompson drew up an order in Council guaranteeing the bond, but owing to his death it was not put through.

The Government is now being pressed to carry out the understanding, and if that is done an effort will be immediately made to float the bonds on the English market.

THE GOVERNMENT GRANT.

The Ontario and Quebec Governments will shortly be asked to grant 10,000 acres of land for every mile of the canal constructed.

The Imperial Government has been asked to help the undertaking and has merely acknowledged receipt of the communication.

FIVE BYE ELECTIONS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Writs will be issued in a few days for bye elections in four and possibly five vacant constituencies. They are: Jacques Cartier, Montreal Center, West Huron, Cardwell and probably Missisquoi.

"DOC" JENERETTE'S DEATH.

Was it Caused by Kurshinski? A Murder Trial at Berlin.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The Assizes opened here today before Hon. Justice Robertson. The docket is a small one, there being only two criminal cases of any gravity. The chief centre of attraction is the Jenerette murder case. It will be remembered that early in August last a foul murder was perpetrated about four miles from here, when the body of "Doc" Jenerette, as he was familiarly known, was found in a berry patch with his head battered and his throat cut from ear to ear. A Pole, by the name of Kurshinski, whose farm adjoined that of Jenerette's place of abode, was arrested, charged with the crime, and the grand jury today brought in a true bill, to which the prisoner pleaded "not guilty." The trial begins tomorrow. The Crown's interest is looked after by E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., while the prisoner's counsel is B. B. Osler, Q.C.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 17 1895.

FROM CHICAGO TO BUFFALO

SIXTY-THREE MILES AN HOUR WAS MADE.

Speeding Over the Steel Rails—The Record Broken in a Trial Trip to-day—Five Hundred and Ten Miles.

Special to The Times.

BUFFALO, Oct. 24.—The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, emulating the example of the N.Y.C. and the English roads, made a fast trip from Chicago to Buffalo this morning, and succeeded in breaking the world's record, covering 510 miles, from One Hundredth street, Chicago, to Buffalo Creek, Buffalo, the outskirts of both cities, in 8:01.07, an average, including stops, of 63.10 miles an hour, or excluding stops 64.93 miles an hour.

The fast train left Chicago at 3:39.27 o'clock, and was composed of an engine, tender, and the drawing room cars, Madagascara, Emerald and Ellsmer, the total weight of the train being 488,500 pounds. The party consisted of Dr. Seward Webb, president of the Wagner Palace Car Company; W. C. Caniff, general superintendent of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway; E. H. Hardy, chief engineer; Mr. A. J. Smith, general passenger agent; Mr. Geo. W. Stephens, superintendent; M. A. M. Wait, master car builder; Mr. P. S. Blodgett, assistant general superintendent; Mr. J. A. Spoor, general manager Wagner Palace Car Co.; Mr. H. P. Robinson, editor of the Railway Age; Mr. W. K. Marshall, editor of the Railway; and Master Mechanic William Smith.

In addition the division superintendents and division engineers accompanied the train over their respective divisions. The train left Chicago at 3:39.27, in charge of Mark Floyd, engineer, and made the run to Elkhart, 87.4 miles, in 85 minutes 50 seconds, an average speed of 61.32 miles per hour.

There was a heavy white frost on the rails, making the run somewhat difficult. At Elkhart 2 minutes and 11 seconds were consumed in changing engines, and the train left there, David Luce, engineer, at 4:57.04 for Toledo, arriving at the latter place, a distance of 133.4 miles, in 7:01.30, an average speed of 63.60 miles per hour.

The time consumed in changing engines here was two minutes and 36 seconds, and the train left Toledo with James Lathrop in the cab, at 7:04.07, for Cleveland, a distance of 107.8 miles. This run was made at an average speed of 60.96 miles per hour, the train arriving at Cleveland at 8:50.13.

Only one minute and 45 seconds were lost in changing engines, and at 8:51.58 the train left for the run of 95.5 miles to Erie, with Jacob Garner as engineer, the distance being covered in 85 minutes and 32 seconds, an average speed of 67.01 miles an hour.

Erie was reached at 10:17.30, and 2 minutes and 18 seconds were consumed in changing engines. Erie was left at 10:19.48, with William Turnkey as engineer, and the run to Buffalo Creek, 86 miles, was covered in 70 minutes and 16 seconds, an average speed of 70.98 miles an hour.

Wreck on the Pennsylvania.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 24.—The mail and baggage section of the Southwestern express on the Pennsylvania railroad, due in this city at 8:30 o'clock this morning, struck a cow near Huntingdon, Pa., about two o'clock this morning, and was completely wrecked. Engineer Johnston and the fireman were crushed to death and two mail clerks were also killed. The wreck caught fire and was consumed.

Neuralgia and Headache.
"I have been troubled with neuralgia in my side and headache and doped with no beneficial results. Finally I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After I had taken one bottle I found that it was doing me good and after the second bottle I was nearly well." CARROLL PERRY, Georgetown, Ont.

HOOD'S PILLS cure biliousness, indigestion.

Railway Facility at Port Colborne.

PORT COLBORNE, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Fred Snell, 35 years old attempted to pass under a G.T.R. freight train with two pairs of water when the train started and before the train could be stopped she was badly mangled.

Hamilton Pastor Dead.

HAMILTON, Oct. 24.—Rev. R. J. Lydlaw, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, died at the residence of Mr. McCall, his brother-in-law, near Georgetown, this morning, after an illness of more than a year.

The St. Louis Disabled.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 24.—The American line steamer St. Louis, which sailed from New York on October 18, passed Prawl Point at nine o'clock this morning. She signalled that she had lost her rudder and required the assistance of two tugs.

A gentleman residing near Peterborough has secured the team of handsome drivers "Two Little Girls in Blue" and "Sweet Maria" on account of their color. They are chestnuts.

Only a small quantity of rain has fallen in measured from what may be seen where pools form every where. Many low lands are still dry, and in some swamps a person can walk without even getting the sole of his boot damp. It will be a great benefit to farm lands, and creeks, and rivers, and lakes, and wells, if the country was favored with ten days or two weeks of rain before the cold weather sets in.

OUR ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES for the self-application of electricity have a great record for the cure of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Paralysis, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, Lame Back, Nervous Debility, General Weakness, etc. Electricity is Life, and as applied by our method relieves and cures when other treatments fail.
FOR PHYSICAL DEFORMITIES AND INJURIES
we make use of instruments known as known long legs and full feet straighteners. Spinal curvature corrected. White swellings cured and malformation in general rectified by purely mechanical means. We have also a full line of shoulder braces, suspensory, etc. Mothers, if you have a ruptured or deformed child have it attended to at once and save it a life of misery. It will cost you nothing to have an interview with our representative at above place.
You will find him courteous and pleased to make any explanations.
N.B.—Having purchased Chas. Chubb's bankrupt stock, etc., etc. We are offering it at less than cost of manufacture.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption.

Read the following:
"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved.
She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. FURBER, Newmarket, Ontario.

The Times

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 17 1895.
CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Taking Away Prisoners.

Mr. John English, of the Central Prison, is in town. The morning he will take five prisoners from the jail here to serve their terms in the Central.

Must Pay Up

The police have served a large number of young men with summonses to appear before the Magistrate on Tuesday next for failing to pay their poll tax.

Has Fully Recovered

Mr. A. A. Marks, the traveller who was injured in the recent wreck when the engine and baggage car went through the Looka Bridge, was in town last night. He has recovered from his injuries.

The Miller's Bookkeeper.

Robt. Fee, the bookkeeper who is charged with robbing his employer, the Sadler, Dundas & Flavelle Milling Co., of Lindsay, was committed for trial yesterday morning. The case will likely come on in a day or two.

An Apoplectic Stroke.

Mr. John Sheridan, of Oshawa, got an apoplectic stroke while walking in his garden. This was followed by convulsions and in less than three hours life was extinct. The deceased was 62 years of age and was an old resident, and had held many positions of trust.

Nearly a Conflagration.

The C. P. R. Hotel, William Overend proprietor, had a narrow escape from being consumed last night. The woodshed adjoining the house, which are full of dry wood, took fire from some cause unknown, and when the inmates of the hotel discovered the fire it had assumed dangerous proportions, the entire edifice being ablaze. The fire was put out without the aid of the fire brigade.

Begins on the 1st.

Deer hunting opens on the 1st of Nov. and ends on the 15th, and every man who enters the chase this fall must be prompt on time and get down to business early. Several parties have gone northward already, and some located themselves in camp a week ago. There is a fine show for the huntman this season as the deer are reported to be very numerous in all the favored districts.

Hallowe'en Concert.

At the Hallowe'en concert to be given by St. Andrew's choir, a select of ladies from St. Paul's choir has consented to render "My Peace I Leave With You," from Emmanuel, the following ladies taking part: Misses Mein and Johnson, first soprano; Misses Wright and Carey, second soprano; Misses Montgomery and Lee, contraltos. A mixed quartette from the Charlotte street choir will also be present, consisting of Misses Hall and Stevens, and Messrs John Miller and A. L. Davis.

Burglary at Fenslow Falls.

Some time during Tuesday night the house of Mr. John Slater, watchmaker, was entered by burglars. The burglars gained an entrance by boring holes around the back and knocking out the piece of the door. Mr. Slater was a heavy sleeper, and was not awakened until the burglars had taken his watch and other valuables. Mr. Slater's business was scarcely large enough to warrant his having a safe, and the thieves had no difficulty in making a haul after gaining entrance.

Racing on Bicycles.

A twenty mile bicycle team race has been arranged to take place on the Agricultural Grounds Campbellford, Saturday, 31st inst. It will be open to riders of all ages. Peterborough, Brampton, Port Hope, Lindsay, Hamilton, Newmarket and other places. Six men from each club will be allowed to start, the first four to finish from each club to score. A prize of four gold medals will be valued at $50.00 to be awarded the winning team. A time prize will also be given to the rider making the best time under one hour and five minutes.

Faster Train Service.

It is said that Mr. Charles M. Hayes, the new manager of the Grand Trunk railway, will, during December, make a tour of inspection of the system so as to familiarize himself with its working. Mr. Hayes insists upon the observance of the strictest punctuality in the running of trains, and one of his hobbies is the making of fast time between important points. It is thought that under his regime the time occupied in the journey between Toronto and Montreal will be decreased two hours. At the time occupied by the fast train in running the 200 miles is at present 12 1/2 hours. It would seem that there is ample room for improvement.

Cut His Foot.

There sat at the station here this morning for several hours a man who for some time has been in the employ of the Howry Co. at their shanties up north, says the Lindsay Post. The man was smoking in a tree yesterday near the Beckford road, when the axe glided off the tree and went through the man's foot and severely cut his foot, nearly severing the toes. His wounds at camp drew the worst as best they could and made the unfortunate man a pair of crutches. This morning he came to town on the Hamilton train and remained in the waiting room of the station until the arrival of the 11.30, which train he took for home. His name is Charles Mayett, and his home is in Peterborough.

Pickpockets at Work.

Notwithstanding the printed warnings posted up at the entrance of the skating rink, says the Lindsay Watchman, the night rangers got their work in in good shape at the Laurier demonstration on Monday afternoon, and many ladies went home minus their pocketbook and contents. Mrs. George Foster, Lindsay street, was relieved of her purse containing $15.00 in bills and silver, and a note of $20.00. Mrs. Odette lost a purse containing some $10.00 and several other ladies report losses of purses. For some reason the pickpockets confined their attention to the ladies, but just how they found their pockets is a mystery to the average man. When the men come to town and the ladies carry their money as men do, pocket picking will not be so easy.

THAT COAL GAS CASE.

In an effort to discredit an item of news published in Wednesday's issue of this paper, Examiner says under the caption of "The Bottom Falls out of a Sensation." "A sensational paragraph appearing in a morning contemporary concerning the narrow escape from asphyxiation of the family of Mr. Johnston, of Otonabee, is totally incorrect and Mr. Johnston is justly incensed over the statement. A new coal stove had been purchased and gave off a small quantity of gas during the night, which was noticed in the morning by the family. No one fell into any stupor, no physician was sent for, and the well being of the family is proven by the fact that in the afternoon they drove out to Mr. John Donnelly's funeral at Lakefield."

The item in THE TIMES in reference to Mr. Johnston stated that the particulars of the affair had not been learned owing to the lateness of the hour when the news reached this office, and in nowise did THE TIMES state that the report which we gave publicity to had been verified. Our informant was a medical practitioner in this town, who had been summoned to go out to Mr. Johnston's in North Monaghan. The story related to him by the man who came for his assistance was given to us. The medical gentleman was unable to attend the Johnston's, but sent out word to them to thoroughly air the house.

After the item appeared in THE TIMES, the reporter of the Review investigated the affair and yesterday's issue of that paper contained the following account of it:

"Mr. M. J. Johnston and family, of North Monaghan, had a narrow escape from being asphyxiated by coal gas yesterday morning."

The family went to bed the previous evening leaving a fire in the coal stove in the lower portion of the house. Early in the morning Mr. Johnston was awakened by a smothering sensation and proceeded to ascertain the cause, but the gas had such an effect on him that he was unable to stand and he fell down stairs. This thoroughly awakened him and on making investigation he found the remainder of the family were affected by the stupor. They were aroused and aid was secured and now the family is rapidly recovering.

"It is believed the stove became choked, causing the gas to escape into all parts of the house."

This is a corroboration of the article that appears in THE TIMES, with a few additional facts which it was impossible for us to get at the time. Wednesday THE TIMES interviewed the doctor who had been summoned to attend the Johnston's, and learned from him that he had seen Mr. Johnston, who told him practically the same story THE TIMES published. He exhibited the lump on his head which he received from the fall down the stairs when overcome by the gas. The doctor can bring four witnesses that Mr. Johnston told him practically the same story that appeared in THE TIMES. The account published by THE TIMES was correct and we are prepared to prove it.

This is not the first time the Examiner has tried to discredit items of news which THE TIMES has "scooped" them on. When we published the facts of the Gray case, twelve hours ahead of any paper in Peterborough, the Examiner sought to detract from the fact we published and which were in every particular borne out by later developments. In less than one year THE TIMES has had twenty five important and legitimate "scoops" on the Examiner.

The Examiner man evidently feels sore in consequence. He should do a little more hustling with his feet and less with the paste pot and scissors, and then he would not be so often called upon to square himself with his employer for being scooped by THE TIMES. His favorite method of doing this appears to be in discrediting all items he is too blooming languid to verify. The Rip Van Winkle Examiner man should wake up and make an effort to earn his salary. We do not mind furnishing him each morning in THE TIMES the nucleus of his day's work, but we do object to having items falsely discredited. Surely the Examiner man has had enough experience working up news items for his paper from facts found in our morning's issue, to know how to do it properly.

AWEDDING WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Nuptials of Mr. John R. Christie and Miss May Reynolds.

A very pleasing event took place at 9.30 o'clock last night in St. John's when Mr. John R. Christie was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss May Reynolds, daughter of the late Mr. William Reynolds. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. C. Davidson in the presence of a few friends and relatives. The bride was gowned in cream brocade and carried a bouquet of cream roses. The bridesmaid was Miss McFarlane, who wore pale green trimmed with pale pink ribbon and carried pink roses. The groom was assisted by Mr. J. R. Bell, C. P. R. agent at Central Ontario Junction. The newly wedded pair are well and widely known in Peterborough and a host of friends will wish them a long and happy wedded life. Mr. Christie has filled the position of assistant C. P. R. agent in Peterborough for over 6 years and during that time has been very popular and won many staunch friends. The bride is one of Peterborough's most popular young ladies, and has occupied the position of bookkeeper for Mr. Alex. Elliott for a number of years. They were the recipients of numerous and costly presents. THE TIMES extends congratulations.

A Pump Factory Ablaze.

The fire brigade was summoned to the pump factory of McWilliams & Daly at about ten o'clock Wednesday morning, but although the hose was strung the water was not turned on, owing to the fact that the flames were extinguished by the prompt action of Mr. Jas. Haggart, who was at work in the next building. The fire originated in a pile of shavings behind the stove and the flames were running up the wall when it was discovered. The damage is very slight.

High Court of Justice.

In the High Court of Justice Wednesday the case of Staples vs. Gillespie was heard. This was an action brought by Mary Jane Staples, of Manvers, against John Gillespie, et al, the executor of the will of John Staples. The plaintiff asked for the construction of the will. Stratton & Hall for the plaintiff; John Burnham for the executor defendants; Hall & Hays for infant defendants, and A. A. Smith, Millbrook, for a legatee. Judgment was reserved on this case. The action of Margaret Groves, of Emily, against George Groves, of Rosely, demanding alimony was settled out of court. Stratton & Hall for plaintiff; R. M. Roddy for defendant. The case of Campbell vs. Campbell was postponed for hearing.

Climate of Manitoba Tried in Vain.

A Victim of Bright's Disease for Ten Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Follows the Advice of Mr. Little Child.

Special to The Times.

Nepawa, Man., Oct. 22.—The startling reappearance on the streets here of a woman who for many months had been reported a hopeless invalid and slowly dying, and by many believed to be already dead, has created the greatest excitement and subject of talk that has ever before stirred the nerves of this quiet village.

To see a woman walking the street in seeming perfect health who had been believed dead or dying was a sensation for persons not given to superstition. The subject of all this wonder—Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly of Listowel, but residing here for the last four years—in a statement of her case said: "Residing for many years at Listowel, Ont., after suffering six years I was given up by the doctors, and advised as a last resort to try the effect of Manitoba climate. I came out here about four years ago. Dismayed in my expectation of benefit from the change and receiving no help from any of the many remedies tried, but sinking lower from year to year, I had at last given up in despair. One day my little boy, after reading in a paper of a wonderful cure wrought by Dodd's Kidney Pills, turned to me and said, 'Mother, I believe these pills will cure you.' They were sent for, and from the first dose I began to feel better. After taking four and a half boxes I say it with heartfelt gratitude I am perfectly cured of what the doctors pronounced Bright's disease of the kidneys and incurable."

No other remedy in the world has ever been known to cure Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE BRIDGE OPENED.

Benefactor Bridge Opening Ceremonies Yesterday Afternoon

The Benefactor Bridge was opened Wednesday afternoon in the presence of several hundred citizens of Peterborough, Otonabee and South Monaghan.

Quite a party went down from here on the City of Peterborough, which left the wharf at 1.30. The Town Council was represented by Messrs. Cahill and Phelan; Mr. J. Belcher represented the County Council. Messrs. J. M. Stevenson and J. R. Stratton were the members of parliament present and among the others on board the boat were: Messrs. W. H. Law, R. Lay, W. H. Meldrum, C. McAllister, Robert Hamilton, R. M. Roy, Samuel and Elbert Belcher, R. Wood, R. R. Edwards, J. Carnegie, B. Shortly, Nesbitt, J. S. Knapman, W. J. Martin. A huge bonfire surrounded by about 200 residents of South Monaghan and Otonabee greeted the arrival of the steamer. Mr. H. Riddell, chairman of the commissioners, welcomed the delegation from town. At the bridge South Monaghan was represented by Messrs. Fisher, McAllister, Dawson and Hutchinson, and Otonabee by Messrs. Weir and Drummond. The party disembarked and walked across the bridge, when an exciting foot race took place between the two towns. It was a heavy weight event the well matched contestants being Messrs. Hall, Stratton, Biesard, Hamilton, McAllister, Cahill and McBride. Mr. J. R. Stratton won the race, with Mr. McAllister second. A snap shot was taken by Mr. Roy.

Lunch was then served and such a feast as the ladies of South Monaghan and Otonabee had prepared was seldom ever set down to. A 70 pound cheese adorned the festive board and 4 dozen fowl, done to a delicious brown awaked the hungry crowd. Ample justice was done the many good things, and then having satisfied the inner man, the feast of reason began.

The bridge was swung open by Mrs. W. H. Law and Mr. Riddell opened the speaking. He said the bridge had been talked of for 23 years. He then gave a history of the movement to build the bridge and told how the funds were raised.

He was followed by Mr. James Stevenson, Mr. J. R. Stratton, Mr. Cahill and Mr. E. R. Edwards.

Mr. Riddell then declared the bridge opened.

FRASERVILLE NEWS.

Correspondence Morning Times.

Muddy roads here at present. Mr. J. R. Bell's new blacksmith shop is nearly completed.

Mr. Robt. Dale has returned to this village where he intends to start in the butchering business. Miss Kate Whalley, who was taken ill so suddenly on Saturday last, is recovering. Miss Kate Whalley, of Chicago, is visiting at her aunt's, Mrs. J. Sandham. A team belonging to Mrs. James Leckie, of St. John's, attached to a milk wagon, took flight at a passing train on Monday morning and made a sudden dash for liberty, upsetting the rig and damaging the cargo to some extent. Mr. Leckie fortunately escaped with only a few slight bruises.

Some of the villagers think there was an eclipse of the sun lately while others affirm it was the dust of a potatoe fork handled by one of our young men on Mr. Robt. Campbell's farm just north of here. A decision will be arrived at next week. The regular meeting of the Cavan Bismarck did not take place on Friday as expected owing to the absence of the president, Mr. J. McCallery, who is on a protracted visit to the Southern States for his health, but as soon as he returns the meeting will take place.

Prof. Wiggins' big storm passed over this village last week. No damage is reported except on a farm belonging to Mr. J. Bothwell and at present occupied by Mr. John Veale. The storm seems to have got in its work as it levelled about 100 rods of a strong ruffel fence erected a few days previous by J. Bothwell and Son.

CURLERS ORGANIZE.

The Lakefield Club Meets and Elects Officers.

At a meeting held on Friday, Oct. 15th, the Lakefield Club organized for the season and the following officers were elected: Patron and Patroness—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Madill.

President—Geo. B. Hilliard. Vice-President—J. P. Strickland. Secretary—Treasure—E. A. Tanner. Representative Members—R. Graham and Levi Payne. Executive Committee—R. C. Strickland, G. A. Strickland and Levi Payne.

HEIR TO OVER $100,000.

A PETERBOROUGH STONE MASON INHERITS WEALTH.

Mr. Mark Spencely and his Brothers and Sisters Receive Notification That They Have Been Left Great Wealth by an Aunt in England.

Mr. Mark Spencely, a stone mason and bricklayer, lives at 671 Reid street. Since infancy Mr. Spencely and his brothers and sisters have lived in Peterborough, and since manhood Mr. Spencely has eked out a comfortable living by hard labor at his trade. Today he owns a cosy home and has a family of 8 children. Three years ago he became a convert in the Salvation Army ranks and latterly has been one of the staunchest soldiers of the army in Peterborough.

Today Mr. Spencely's friends in the army and out of the army, are rejoicing over his sudden rise to wealth. An aunt of Mr. Spencely's in England died recently, and in her will she bequeathed $100,000 to Mr. Mark Spencely and his brothers and sisters. Mr. Spencely will come in for a large share of this legacy amounting, probably, to $20,000. Last week he received a letter from the executors of his aunt's estate informing him that this large amount of money had been bequeathed to him, and in a few weeks the heirs of Jane Hotchkiss, of Yorkshire, England, will come into possession of the money. Upon the receipt of the letter Mr. Spencely placed the matter into the hands of Messrs. Edmonson & Dixon, who are acting for him.

Spencely was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1832, making him 53 years of age at the present time. When 15 months old his father moved to Peterborough and there, at that time, small family increased to seven the years rolled by. Today his living brothers and sisters are: William Spencely, who lives in Auburn; Mrs. Jane Barry, residing on Edinborough street, Peterborough; Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman, Reid street, Peterborough; and Mrs. Annie Vasek, residing in New York. Three brothers, John, Joseph and Henry Spencely are dead. The four living members of the Spencely family will inherit in the neighborhood of $25,000 each.

Mr. Spencely's mother was a Hotchkiss, and the family was very wealthy. Jane Hotchkiss was the last of the race after the death of his mother and the entire wealth of the family fell to her. At her death this was willed by the deceased to various charitable institutions with the exception of the cash sum of over $20,000 sterling which was left, as above stated, to the offspring of her sister, Mrs. Spencely, Mr. Mark Spencely's mother.

The sudden rise to wealth was not unexpected by the Spencelys. Before the death of their father he made an effort to secure it, but did not succeed. A brother living in Toronto had always been suspected that one day they would get the money, and about three years ago when Mr. Mark Spencely was in Toronto, John told him to straighten up and some day he would fall heir to money. Shortly afterwards Mr. Spencely did straighten up, became a convert through the influence of the Salvation Army and has been an earnest worker in the ranks ever since. The brother in Toronto died under suspicious circumstances in a Toronto livery stable, some time ago, and was buried without an inquest being held. The circumstances have always been a cause of suspicion to his brothers and sisters, who are of the opinion that he was the victim of foul play on account of the money he would some day inherit.

Rheumatism is caused by lactic acid in the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla neutralizes this acid and cures rheumatism.

THE BOARD ADJOURNS.

Last Meeting of the Cheese Board For This Year.

The Cheese Board closed the season Tuesday afternoon by disposing of all the cheese of the balance of the season. The season has not been a very lively one and the price obtained today was the largest of any sale. There were 5,706 boxes of October cheese on the board and 246 of September, the latter being made up of 70 boxes from Hope, 75 from Orono, 40 from Newmarket and 75 from Perrytown.

The buyers present were Messrs. Wright, Cook, Madden, Hodgson, Fitzgerald and Jones and they arrived on a lively sale, the bidding being fast and brisk.

Mr. Hodgson desired the appointment of a committee to consider the case of the cheese of the Ida factory made to him at the last sale.

The President nominated Messrs. Sander, Middleton, Edwards, Stewart and Drummond to consider the case.

Mr. Cook said he would also like to have the Warsaw factory sale investigated and the same committee was appointed to investigate.

Mr. Biesard drew the attention of the Board to the fact that as this was the sale of the balance of the year's cheese, it was necessary to decide whether the buyers were going to pay for shrinkage or not.

Mr. Hodgson claimed they bought the cheese according to the rule, no shrinkage was allowed on October cheese, or before November 15th, allowing 1 lb. for shrinkage on last half of October cheese. The bidding then commenced with an offer by Mr. Jones at 8 1/2; Mr. Wright increased to 9 1/2; Mr. Cook brought this up to 9 3/4; Mr. Jones to 9 13/16; Mr. Cook to 9 1/2; Mr. Hodgson to 9 1/2; Mr. Jones to 9 1/2; Mr. Wright to 9 1/2; Mr. Jones to 9 1/2; Mr. Jones was the highest offer and it was accepted by Central Smith, Peterborough; Lakeland, North Smith, Fraserville, Bensford and Travers.

Mr. Hodgson started at 9 1/2, and Mr. Cook raised to 9 3/4, and he secured Newmarket, Oakdale, Newwood and Ormound.

Mr. Wright began with an offer of 9 3/4, and Mr. Hodgson increased to 9 1/4 and Keene, Warmminster and Otonabee Union accepted.

Mr. Hodgson offered 9 1/8 for further selection; Mr. Wright lifted this to 9 3/4, which was accepted by Pine Grove and Lang.

Nine cents was next offered by Mr. Hodgson. This was increased by Mr. Madden to 9 1/8 and Mr. Cook raised it to 9 1/2, and Maple Leaf, Shearer and Fleetwood accepted.

Mr. Hodgson began again at 9c. Mr. Madden exceeded this offer by 1/8c, and Cherry Grove, Warsaw, Melrose Abbey, Daisy D. Young's Point, North Dummer and Millbrook were taken.

Mr. Hodgson offered 9 1/8c, which Mr. Cook raised to 9 3/4, securing Mount Pleasant, Newmarket, Orono, Hope, Perrytown, Ida, and Mississauga.

Mr. Hodgson again started at 9c, and Mr. Cook raised to 9 3/4, taking Bobcaygeon. Mr. Cook offered 9c for further selections, and Mr. Hodgson lifted it to 9 1/2, which Myrtle, Cordell, Lakeland and Stony Lake accepted.

The council was thanked for the use of council chamber on motion of Messrs. Middleton and Little. Mr. Biesard moved a vote of thanks to the president, Mr. Drummond, for his able, fair and square service during the season. This was seconded and unanimously carried.

The board then adjourned to meet again in the spring of 1896.

CORBETT IS SICK OF IT.

HE RETIRES FROM THE PRIZE RING FOREVER.

As he will fight no more—Will Surrender the Belt to the Winner of the Maher-O'Donnell Fight.

Special to The Times.

OT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 24.—"I have fought my last fight. I hereby announce that I have retired from the ring and will give the championship belt to either Maher or O'Donnell, whichever one wins the fight. This is a startling and unexpected announcement made last evening in the rotunda of the Arlington Hotel by James J. Corbett, a short time after indulging in a stormy interview with Martin Sullivan, whom he had come up from his training quarters at Spring Lake to see and endeavor to persuade to accept of postponing the meeting with Fitz until November 11, as desired by the Florida Athletic Club.

JIM STOPS TRAINING. The champion had just partaken of supper and had a cigar in his hand and was turning to his friend at his elbow remarking: "I have quit training and here goes my first smoke." Saying this he lit his cigar and leisurely puffed away at it. "I will leave here tomorrow morning with a party for St. Louis. I have lost four months in training and am anxious to get home. I have come on today now before there is a law passed in the State to prevent us from meeting. Perhaps, he won't fight and I don't intend to lose any more time fooling with him."

HAS RETIRED FOREVER. By this time it was surrounded by a crowd of interested spectators, and every word the champion uttered was greedily absorbed. He remained standing in the center of the group, reiterating the declaration that he had retired from the ring forever. Sullivan was seen and had only to say that on the morning of the 31st Fitzsimmons' name would be found on the register of the Arlington Hotel; that he would be ready to meet Corbett then and no sooner or later, and that if he was not there he would claim the forfeit and the championship of the world. An hour later Corbett changed his mind and gave it out that he would remain here until after the 31st; come what may. Brady would not say how long he would remain here, merely declaring that he would not depart tomorrow.

NOT MUCH EVIDENCE in the Short Trial Today—A Letter Written by the Prisoner Objected to.

Special to The Times. BEAUMONT, Que., Oct. 24.—In the Short trial very little evidence was taken this morning. The first hour was consumed in reading the McGinness Commission report in French to the jury. Keneil MacVicar was then recalled by the prosecution, and the first question put to him, "Have you the letter written to you by Short in two weeks after the McGinness report in French to the jury, and the argument which ensued lasted till 12.15 p.m. Objection taken on a technicality."

Joseph Tussler, foreman in the yard of the Montreal Prison, Oct. 24.—Valleyfield, said his dealings with the prisoner were in the mail office. Witness had to report the number of calls to the prisoner, who entered them in a book. Cross questioned, he said the numbers were taken on a slip of paper and handed over to Short. Dr. Walter Sutherland, Valleyfield, was recalled by the prosecution. He knew prisoner well, and prescribed for him on three occasions before the tragedy, but never for headache or neuralgia. "Outlets" from my professional services," said the witness. "I had many friendly chats. Once he contrasted English with Canadian railroads, and mentioned improvements. He lent me Scribner's Magazine for October, 1904, which had the article from which he gathered his knowledge, he also lent me 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde,' and said there were characters like that nowadays. He was above the average young man in intelligence. Cross examined—"I am not an expert, and have answered the questions simply from a layman's standpoint. The article in Scribner's was written by a railway manager, and it is a comparison of American and English passenger coaches."

Heed's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season, will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

NOW FOR A GOLD FEVER. Rich Find in British Columbia—Preparations to Prospect.

Special to The Times. NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A special from Vancouver, B. C., says there is great excitement in Vancouver over reports from South Kootenay, B. C., where, it is said, by conservative men, twelve miles have been discovered which will be worth a million dollars each a year to their owners. They are mostly owned by Americans. The excitement was increased yesterday by the announcement that silver was going up and that immense silver deposits from West Kootenay running $100 to the ton would come into the market. On top of this came the news of a rich find of clean up of the Cariboo country hydraulic mines, and to cap the climax, word reached the city from Burn, B. C., a few miles from Vancouver, that while John McLeod was boring for water in front of the Methodist church he struck five slabs of gold in quantities 300 feet from the surface. Persons living in the vicinity are feverishly excited. They believe McLeod has struck the bed of an old gold river, and preparations are being made to honeycomb the earth for miles.

THE CUBA WAR STILL ON. The Insurgents Giving the Government Troops Plenty to Do.

Special to The Times. HAVANA, Oct. 24.—A skirmish has taken place at Palmita, Province of Santa Clara, between a detachment of 33 infantry soldiers, commanded by Lieut. Barrios, and a band of 20 insurgents. The insurgents have derailed a train near Palmita. Lieut. Gallaga, who surrendered the small detachment, Don De Mayo, at Las Arenas Bay, near Santiago de Cuba, recently to a number of insurgents who attacked the patrol craft unexpectedly, has arrived here with the crew of that vessel, consisting of twelve men. They are under arrest and will be tried by court martial.

CALL TO FLEET BY A TRAIN. OBERKILL, Oct. 24.—Henrik Johnson, a Finlander, was out to pieces on the G.T. B. west of here. He had evidently been walking on the track. He had just arrived from Göteborg and was en route to Seattle, Minn.

OFFER WITHDRAWN.

Of $750,000 to Hubbard For The Fast Atlantic Service.

Special to The Times. OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—It is stated that the Government has decided to withdraw the offer made to Mr. Hubbard of $750,000 for a fast Atlantic service. An arrangement has been perfected between the Government and the Allen and Dominion lines under which a subsidy will be granted each company, each agreeing to put into commission two 17 knot boats. Mr. L. H. Davies, of Prince Edward Island, the Liberal leader of the Maritime Provinces, is here attending the Supreme Court. Mr. Davies intends arranging for a series of political meetings this fall. The resignation of Mr. R. S. White, the member for Cardwell, is being freely commented upon by the Opposition press. The Evening Journal speaks of Mr. White, as the reverse of an office seeker. It adds that "Mr. White did not give any member of the Government, any intimation of his intention to resign."

NO DECISION YET. As to Whether or Not the Breslau Murder Trial Will be Postponed.

Special to The Times. BERLIN, Oct. 24.—The Kirschbuhl murder case did not commence this morning as was expected. Instead the rape case of Queen v. Henry Oppertshelzer took up the whole morning and at noon, Mr. Johnston, for the Crown, was still delivering his address to the jury. There is a great deal of speculation as to whether the murder case will be postponed or not, but the prospects are the case will go on this afternoon. Judge Robertson will after luncheon hear arguments for and against postponement of the trial and if the request of Mr. Osler, prisoner's counsel, is not granted the trial will proceed forthwith.

SEVEN WERE EXECUTED. MURDERERS OF KUCHENG OF THE MURDERERS OF MISSIONARIES.

Special to The Times. Mysterious Disappearance of a Man near Smith's Falls—A Child Fatally Burned at a Bonfire—Tried to Wreck a Train.

Special to The Times. VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 24.—The steamship Empress of Japan brings advice from the Orient as follows: A correspondent at Foo Chow sends the following account of the execution of the executioners at Ku Cheng on the 17th ult. Seven of the murderers were executed at the south gate of the city. All the members of the commission were present with the exception of Capt. Newall and Rev. W. Bannister. The scene was a gruesome one only one head being severed at the first blow, the others being merely hacked and the unfortunate wretches left to die a lingering death. The execution took place quite suddenly, the two on the previous day announcing that he had received a telegram from the Viceroy authorizing the executions. Since then the names of 16 more criminals have been communicated to the Viceroy for execution.

WAS HE MURDERED. SMITH'S FALLS, Oct. 24.—A good deal of excitement has been caused in the vicinity of North Grey over the finding near the village of Jas. Montgomery, a resident of Wellington Village, lying dead by the roadside, with a gash in his throat. The man was driving alone from North Grey, and it is thought he may have been the victim of foul play. An inquest has been ordered.

FATALLY BURNED AT A BONFIRE. BRANTFORD, Oct. 24.—Annie Kerr, aged four years, daughter of Mr. John Kerr, of the Cockburn plough works, was so badly burned by playing with fire that she died in the hospital. Children built a bonfire in the yard and a spark set fire to the young child's dress.

TRIED TO WRECK THE PAY CAR. VILLAND, Oct. 24.—On the 15th of October iron fish plates were laid on the M.C.R. near Hewitt with the object of wrecking the pay car. They were discovered and removed by Samuel Robins a few minutes before the pay car passed. A 14 year old colored boy named John Green who was arrested yesterday admitted his guilt and has been remanded for sentence by Police Magistrate Hellams.

EVIDENCE ALL IN. The San Francisco Murder Trial Drawn to a Close.

Special to The Times. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 24.—Just before adjournment in the Durrant case yesterday District Attorney Barnes announced that he might have one more witness and would then rest his case. It is possible that Dr. Geo. C. Pades will give expert testimony, and that Reporter Harmon may be put on to corroborate the reporters who swore that Durrant said he arrived at the church between four and four-thirty on April 3rd. The rebuttal will not take long.

WILL SALISBURY RESIGN? A Report That He Will Retire and that Mr. Balfour Will be Premier.

Special to The Times. LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Chronicle recalls the old rumor that Lord Salisbury will withdraw from the Premiership in favor of his nephew, Mr. A. J. Balfour, now First Lord of the Treasury, mentions a report that the Prime Minister intends to relinquish the foreign portfolio in favor of Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador to France. The Chronicle admits that there may not be much, if any, truth in the report.

AN OCTOGONARIAN BRIDEGROOM. SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 24.—Sir Henry Parkes, ex Prime Minister of New South Wales, was married here today to Miss Julia Lynch. Sir Henry is eighty years of age.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER. LOCKPORT, Oct. 24.—The jury in the Lewiston killing case rendered a verdict of guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. Scott was sentenced to one year in the Erie County Penitentiary.

Now in Baron County. ZURICH, Oct. 24.—Burglars entered the post office here last night and cracked the safe but got nothing. Entrances were effected by opening the post office door with a crow bar.

Cold Weather in Britain. LONDON, Oct. 24.—There were eleven degrees of frost in London this morning and the cold was very severe in the north. Snow fell in Lancashire and other points throughout the night.

THE TRIAL OF DURANT.

Miss Cunningham a Reporter on the Stand. Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—The prosecution made more holes in Durant's case today. Miss Carrie Cunningham, the reporter, who alleges that she got a statement regarding the body in the meffing from Durant, was called this morning. She was questioned about the envelope shown her by Durant, on which she says was written a request that it should not be opened except on his conviction, but her testimony concerning it was not allowed. Miss Cunningham said she had interviewed Durant on October 2, and the District Attorney asked her: "In the course of that interview, did he say to you, 'When I was fixing the sun burners I heard a noise and followed it to the belfry and saw her on the landing. She was murdered on the second landing?'" Yes, he made that statement to me.

"About whom were you speaking?" "Blanche Lamont."

"Did you say to him in an interview you had on October 5, 'Are you sure it was on the second landing where you saw Blanche killed?'" Is not that a little to one side of the gallery? Excuse me, said the witness, he did not tell me that he saw her killed."

Barnes then re-framed his question: "And did Durant not reply, 'No, you can look directly into it?'" Did you then say, "Oh yes, it was on the second landing where the blood fell on the covered picture frame. Did he then reply that there was any blood at all any that the spots had been analyzed and found to be only water? Succinctly as you stated. Those were not his words about the blood. With that exception, it is correct."

Miss Cunningham was cross-examined at some length without making any change or modification in her testimony.

Dr. K. H. Mayes, from the Insane Asylum at Stockton, gave testimony as to hallucination, which showed that the old ladies who said they saw Durant on the way to the church were probably not victims of it. He was questioned as to the effects of gas on a person working over the sun burners, as Durant said he was.

He said that a man to have worked over the burners two minutes would have been insensible. He also said gas, instead of making a person inhaling it, would flush him. He was asked if after inhaling the gas a man could have taken down a fifty foot ladder and descend to the lower floor, but the question was ruled out, as was one asking for the witness' opinion as the appearance of a person after having committed a murder. The witness further testified that the removal of a person to the fresh air after having been subjected to gas would not cause a revival in the time it has alleged to have done in Durant's case.

Dr. Rosenstien, another expert, corroborated Dr. Mayes' testimony.

District Attorney Barnes announced this evening that he might put one more witness on the stand and would then close his case. Assistant District Attorney Peizoto will begin his opening address tomorrow afternoon. The prospects are good that the case will go to the jury at the end of next week.

Electrical Treatment

810 Cowan Ave., Toronto.

A. NORMAN, ESQ. Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment. When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well!

LIME JUICE CLUB

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

A Very Interesting Meeting, And A Large Amount of Business Put through—The South Monaghan Bridge—Full Report of the Free Jodging.

No sooner had the members begun to put in an appearance at the Hall of Wisdom than an outsider would have caught on to the fact that something of grave importance was on the carpet. Bro. Cautious Miller, busied himself looking over a lot of legal documents, and Bro. Nutmeg Cunningham, Boneyard Billy-jim, Putty Conal and John Mervin conversed together in low tones and shook their heads in a grave and sorrowful manner. Bro. Frank Fairen generally upsets the stove, knocks down the pipes, breaks a pane of glass or smashes a lamp in his exuberance of spirits, but on this occasion he entered the Hall very softly and put in his time reading a novel entitled: "The Bloody Big Toe or the Drak Heel Ravine."

"Gentlemen," said the President, as he slowly arose to his feet, and rubbed a cramp out of his right leg, "it is my solemn duty to inform this Club that the branch club at Port Hope known as the 'Royal Old Boys, No. 67,' has been disbanded. I returned from that place last night accompanied by Bros. C. Le-Brun and J. P. Hurley, after an official visit of inspection asked for by the Mayor, Town Council and various other persons. The result of the inspection is an 18220 warning for us to go slow in the matter of granting charters to branch lodges."

"In making application for a charter it was understood that the Royal Old Boys would start with three judges, two elders, four colonels, two trustees, five professors, and two corn doctors. I discovered that out of sixteen charter members there was only one single person with a title. He claimed to be a professor, and is now in jail on charge of stealing. Our constitution says that no fee shall be charged for initiating members. This branch lodge took in sixty-four members at a fee of $2 per head and the money was used to play poker and peddle. Under pretense of being a chartered society, organized for the good of mankind generally, it beaped up a debt of $50 in three months; it stole twenty-two hams; it got away with 600 chickens taken fresh from the roosts; it gave society such a twist that the wife of the man earning seventy-five cents a day wanted a $220 bond."

"When I arrived at Port Hope and called upon the President of the Old Boys, he almost convinced us that all derogatory reports had been started by some jealous-minded persons who were refused membership in the Club. I happened, however, to fall in with a butcher who had lost six hams and had set a trap in his smoke-house to catch stragglers. I sat up with him till midnight, which hour he went out and found the President of the branch lodge in the trap, and the secretary and the treasurer disappearing in the distance."

"Gentlemen, we have reached to fast. In the future when the branch asks this Club for a charter, nothing of the sort must be granted until after a most rigid investigation has been made. We must not be satisfied with weekly reports, but some member of this Club must be sent out on a scout. Our cases have received a blow in Port Hope from which it may be years in recovering, and it is all our own fault. Let us now proceed to routine business."

THANKS.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Riddell, chairman of the Bessford Bridge Committee, for courtesy extended to the President in connection with the opening ceremonies.

"I may just here remark," said Sir Richard, "that I enjoyed myself very much on the occasion referred to. The bonfire was warm, the spread was superb and the hospitality of the people of South Monaghan was unbounded. There is one thing, however, that I wish to add, and that is that if Bro. Stratton, who won the foot race, has any conceit in him, I will accommodate him in a race all the way from one hundred yards to ten miles, for money or marbles. This offer will hold good for 30 days."

AGRICULTURAL.

Tiedup Garley, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, to whom had been submitted the enquiry: "What article of food will sustain life the longest?" reported that the matter had been thoroughly investigated by the Committee, and the conclusion had been reached that there is nothing to beat turnips. They are palatable to extreme youth and old age. A careful post mortem showed that they contained sugar, water, starch, lemonade, taffy, roast duck and cod liver oil. Eaten raw they supplied a long felt want; cooked in water they hushed the cries of the children and stopped the jawing of the old woman. They need no oysters or cranberry sauce to flavour them to a certain pitch, and the saving in pepper alone will support a family through a hard winter. It has been satisfactorily shown that the turnip had more staying powers than goose meat, more poetry than soup bone, and more domestic happiness than a keg of lager.

The report was accepted and adopted, and President McBride paid the Committee very high compliment on their thorough researches.

NO OBJECT.

Bro. Darkness Craig had been hitching around on his chair in a very nervous manner for three or four minutes. He now arose and asked:

"Mister President, would it be any particular object for this country to annex the United States to Canada?"

"What do you mean, Bro. Craig?"

"Why, sir, if it will be any object I will introduce a resolution to that effect." Everybody looked at Darkness in amazement, and there was a deep silence for a long minute. Then Sir Richard motioned for the Committee on Physical Development to do their duty, and the three men arose and removed the unfortunate member from the hall.

When he returned there was a wild, scared look in his eyes, and he dropped softly into his chair and tried to busy his mind on how to make 22 stews out of a can of oysters.

NO HARM TO TRY.

A letter was read from Jackplane Bryce, of Keene, asking if it was the privilege of members of the Lime Juice Club to pass into circuses and other shows free of charge.

"The Secretary will reply," said the President, "to the effect that while all shows ought to pass members of this Great Club, some of them refuse to do so. In case they pass the members, of course walk right in, and in case they don't he will walk right out. It will do no harm to try the man at the door."

REPORTS.

The Committee on Astronomy were requested to investigate and report, "What would be the effect on the Gas Company if we had 365 dark nights?"

The janitor reported that the rats were eating the legs off the safe in which the Club's funds were stacked. The Librarian acknowledged the receipt of seventeen almanacs. The Committee on Buildings reported that the south east corner of the Hall of Wisdom had sunk four inches, and asked for instructions.

The President ordered that an inch be taken off the rear legs of the chairs, so that members would not be compelled to sit on a slant.

MUSIC.

The Harmony Club secured the floor and rendered the following original lines, written by Bro. Wm. Snowden:

The front and snow is almost here
The time is drawing nigh
Autumn's days are sliding out
Midwinter comes to try.

The staves and beams soon will roar
The girls in dance will whirl
While Ray, Ferguson and all the boys
Will come merry to court.

During the excitement which followed Bro. Tom Rutherford accidentally upset the water pail and filled Bro. Dickson Davidson's boots with the coldest kind of water. He narrowly escaped a fine of $1,300 and costs.

THE RAINFALL.

A letter was read from Twoforty O'Brien, making enquiries of the Club as to whether the rainfall in Ontario during the past twelve months was above or below the average.

Bro. Boneyard Billyjim, who had been very quiet and humble-minded since his jump from the window, got upon his feet and replied: "I suppose that question appeals to me personally, because I suppose I am the only member of the Club who watches such things. It is my opinion that the rainfall for the past year is far below the average."

"Bro. Boneyard" said the President, "you are a valuable member of this great Club, and the Club would be mightily loath to lose you, but still what you don't know about the rainfall would lay the foundation for a heap of dry weather. My old woman keeps a barrel under the spout to catch rainwater, and I am confident that the least quantity of rainwater in that barrel for the last year has been more than for any year in ten years. The Secretary will reply accordingly."

THE CLOSE.

The janitor reported everything clear in the west, and the massive doors were unbarred and the members took short cuts for home.

The Scandinavian vote is becoming a factor in American politics. The New York Mail and Express points out that there are one million of this nationality in the United States, and 120,000 of them are voters. This is one more string the presidential candidate will have to gather up in order to make his calling and election sure.

A cure for cancer has been discovered by Dr. G. L. Curtis, of New York, during his treatment of a brother physician who became infected through thoughtlessly scratching his face after his hand had been in contact with the cancerous mouth of a patient. The principle of the new treatment is to absorb the poison, which reduces the tumors, and the patient recovers. Further cases subjected to this treatment will be watched with interest.

Weak and Nervous

Whenever the body has been weakened by disease, it should be built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"About two years ago I suffered with a very severe attack of inflammation of the bowels. When I began to recover I was in a very weak and nervous condition, and suffered intensely with neuralgia pains in my head, which caused loss of sleep, and having no appetite, I and weak. Fortunately a friend who had used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit, kindly recommended me to try it. I did so and a perfect cure has been effected. I am now as well as I ever was, and I would not be without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house for anything." Mrs. G. KENN, 245 Manning Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Market Reports.

PETERBOROUGH.

Peterborough market as a source of supply is developing very extensively. Large shipments are of common occurrence. This week a shipment of 2,000 sheep and lambs was consigned to the English market Mr. H. P. Kennedy, one of Peterborough's hustling live stock dealers. In addition a large number of cattle and hogs were shipped to other markets at good prices.

Wm. Irwin Co., the big lumber merchants of the North Bay district are buying the greater portion of their supplies from this market through Wm. J. Conroy, who shipped this week a car load of cattle and other supplies to their camps. This Company employs 1,000 men and 200 teams of horses. The provisions necessary for the consumption of these, makes a considerable item and taxes the supply of this market.

Henry Miller and Charles Luz, cattle men, of San Francisco, confess to owning more than fourteen million acres of land in three States. As the San Francisco Examiner puts it, this makes an estate equal in area to the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut together. It is half the size of New York and three times the size of New Jersey. It is about the size of West Virginia and an eighth the entire area of California. It is as large as Greece with the Ionian Isles, of which Byron wrote. It is four times the area of Alsace-Lorraine, over which France and Germany fought. It is but little smaller than Ireland and half again as large as Switzerland. It is twice as large as Belgium and one-third the size of England and Wales together. These two remarkable men are natives of one of the Rhenish provinces of Germany.

The World describes Mr. White's resignation to the "ideal" belief that a member of the House should not sit in Parliament with the promise of an office in his pocket. The ideal is that a member should not accept an office at all, for the expectation of appointment is calculated to impair their independence.

Why SO PALE?
Are you Nervous, Weak and Run-Down.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND MAKES RICH, PURE BLOOD AND DRIVES OFF DISEASE.

See that Your Dealer gives you the Right Medicine.

No good reason can be advanced why women should live a truly miserable life, with pale faces, jaded looks, nervousness apparent at every step, and almost quite broken down in constitution.

The seeds of lurking disease must be banished, the blood must be purified and enriched, the nerves made strong, and the flesh and muscles built up.

In order to accomplish this great and necessary work, Paine's Celery Compound must be used without delay. Substitutes and the common advertised medicines of the day cannot give the slightest relief; indeed, they tend more toward aggravating the disease and impoverishing the blood.

Let no specious arguments of dealers and storekeepers influence you when you decide that you must use Paine's Celery Compound. Other preparations are often recommended because they pay larger profits than Paine's Celery Compound, and become bad and unsaleable stock when not quickly got rid of.

Read what Mrs. Beverly Vincent, of Adelaide Street, St. John, N. B., says about the medicine that cured her:—

"I am happy to let you know what your Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I suffered many years from nervousness, and my constitution was all run-down. I tried many medicines, but received no benefit from anything until I used your Paine's Celery Compound. It is a medicine that has given me grand results. I can recommend it to all who are sick and suffering."

THE DRUMS.

Mark, I hear the beaten drums—their long roll
Affrights the quiet of the peaceful air
And stirs quick memories in my soul
Of one who was both young and brave and fair;
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

The loud drums called him many years ago,
When the struck nation needed all her sons.
Among the bravest he was first to go
And lip the fevered months of hungry grime.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

Life is but losing—be it soon or late.
The foeman marked him with an avenging eye.
Killed at the front! A man must face his fate.
The price of battle is to grandly die.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

My heart is throbbing with a mournful chime,
Calling, calling, and only echo comes.
The drums! The drums! I hear them all the time.
The throbbing and the music of the drums.
And I never hear the drums beat
That I do not think of him.

—Charles L. Holstein in Indianapolis Journal.

STILL UNSTATED.

The meals on board a sailing ship are perhaps monotonous enough to justify the chronic grumbling of sailors. Monday's dinners are all alike, Tuesday's and Wednesday's can be foretold, and so on through the list. And the sailors, having little to think of in smooth weather, eat—and grumble. As to the latter habit, a good story is told.

Once upon a time there lived a skipper whose wife told him that if she went to sea the poor sailors for whom she cooked would never find fault with their food. So her husband took her with him on his next voyage.

Now this good woman attended to the cooking herself, and the scouse was thick with fresh vegetables, the bread was white and destitute of mould, the meat was good and the drink almost half plums, but still the men growled. Then the skipper's wife bethought her of the hens she had brought to lay eggs for her husband, and she killed and roasted them and sent them forward to the forecastle on the cabin china.

"At last," said she in triumph,
"the men will know how seriously
we consider their comfort."

At eight bells she stole forward to the fore scuttle to listen to the praises of her skill, and as she listened she looked down the hatch in time to see a big black flat plunge a fork into the hen the while a hoarse voice growled:

"I say, Bill, what d'ye think this bloomin' fowl died of?"—Youth's Companion.

Hoot, Hoot, Hoo and Cry.

Hoot is to make the noise of an owl, huetto or chonetto, as howl is owl aspirated, ululare. Hoots, or hooties, plural, requires only the addition of um as a common ending to make hutesium, and we get the very word wanted in Borel, huz-orterie.

If we write it hutes, we have only added a euphonic "e." To hoot brings us to toot, and the tooting horn of the old mail coach and so to the hoots and hoo above arrived at.

To toot is to hoot through the long horn; to tout is only another spelling of the same word, meaning to advertise by blowing a horn. In "hues and cry" it is further outdun still, but it brings us back, all the same, to the common law and vivid description of a hasty pursuit "with horn and voice." It is not often that the law is so picturesque and veri-semblable.—Notes and Queries.

A Choice of Evils.

Landlady—Would you advise me to send my daughter to a cooking school or to a music school?

Boarder (reflectively)—Well, I think I'd send her to a cooking school. It may be more fatal in its results, but it isn't anything like so noisy.—Detroit Free Press.

New Conditions.

In 1895—"You'll do just as I tell you," said the husband of the advanced woman.

"What?" shrieked his wife.
"I mean it!" said her husband.
"I'd have you understand that I wear the skirts in this family."— Chicago Record.

"Days of Absence" was the work of Jean Jacques Rousseau, who claimed to have written the melody also, though his claim in this direction is disputed, the assertion being made that the tune is an Italian folk song. In Europe the song is called "Rousseau's Dream."

The poet Rogers had a voice so small and weak that, as he had said himself, he was forced to say cause and ill natured things in order to make people hear him.

The first was first worn by men.
During the sixteenth century it reached the dimensions of a large saw round the leg.

One horsepower converted into gas equals 13 candle power; into electricity, equals 1,400 candle power.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 26 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Fresh to strong west to north west winds; fair weather; stationary or a little lower temperature.

At the Grand Central.

Dr. G. Sterling Byerson, of Toronto, will beat the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on Saturday, Oct. 28, for consideration on diseases of the eye, ear and throat.

Imitations Out.

There are imitations of Bates' home made bread out. This is the third or fourth attempt to imitate this superior bread, but all have failed, the quality is not there. Look for the big "B" stamp large and plain on each loaf. Walter Bates.

Gauntlet Driving Mittens.

The undersigned is prepared to manufacture a very superior driving mitten and mitt. Parties may either supply their own fur, or I will supply it. These mittens are superior to all others. Full particulars may be obtained by calling at 539 Aylmer street. GEORGE R. PIERSON.

The Business World.

Toronto—Robert Douglas, grocer, 166 McCaul street, has assigned to George S. M. V.

Amherst—Thos. Cooper has assigned to T. R. V.

Norwich South—R. H. Wilcox has assigned to J. R. Johnson.

St. Catharines—H. S. French, publisher, has assigned to R. H. V.

St. Thomas—R. H. Killingsworth, of St. Thomas, proprietor of the Rikrid mills, has assigned to R. H. V.

The Strap in Schools.

Has a school teacher, or even a parent a moral right to thrash a child? Granted that the teacher or the parent believes that the thrashing is administered for the child's benefit, but still have they a moral right to inflict the thrashing? If it is true that such moral right is possessed by a parent, has not the child, when he grows big and the parent grows old, the same moral right to thrash the parent? The question of the right to thrash children in school is being much debated and has come to a point in Toronto. The esteemed Globe, of Toronto, makes the following remarks: "The Toronto School Board are discussing the question of corporal punishment. There are two points that ought to be kept in view during the discussion. One is that under no circumstances ought a child to be submitted to that punishment except with the consent of his parents. The other is that when a child is so incorrigibly bad that nothing but the strap will cure him it is time to remove him from the school altogether. Even in the case of criminals corporal punishment is resorted to only in the case of the most degraded. Why should it be a part of the regular discipline of school children?"

A Southern Play.

Epitaph Erastus Elias Confessio Carter... Geo. Heath Dudley Middleton... H. Bronbridge Edwin Carlisle... J. B. Booth Capt. Ransome... T. F. Norton Ussle Joe... Art. E. Whitting Gay Carlisle... Miss Mattie Davis Kate Wilman... Nellie Shirley Lucille Carlisle... Ella Cameron Linwood, a southern drama, was put on the boards in the opera house last night by the J. L. Clark Company, and proved to be one of the best plays yet produced this week. A fair audience was delighted with the interesting plot of the play as developed by the talented artists assuming the various roles. The dialogue and plot of "Linwood," afforded each of the characters excellent opportunity to display their ability and in consequence the acting was well balanced and artistically done. Miss Cameron, as Lucille Carlisle gave a charming and captivating delineation of that character. Mr. Clarke as Carter was irresistibly funny in the other actors took their various parts with credit and to the satisfaction of the audience.

SLOPEVILLE ITEMS.

Correspondent Morning Times. Two of our local sports lately became so enthusiastic over the approaching Corbett-Fitzsimmons contest that while conversing over the hearth stone about it, they resolved to have a similar performance nearer home. As no one would act as principals for them they agreed to act that part themselves. They were not acquainted with the Queensbury rules and therefore called on President McBride to referee the match. The contest was a promise of being an interesting one as both men were well matched, tall, length of arm and not overburdened with any unnecessary flesh. The odds were, however, against King, who has not been well since his recent visit to the vicinity of Lakeside, while Riel felt in high spirits over the sale of Grey Eagle. The referee called time. King tried to wind his opponent by waiting around the room. Riel followed his attempt by landing one on the chin and laying him low. McBride called time and King slunk to his corner out of trim.

Nothing of further interest happened until the 17th round except in the 11th when King felled Riel by striking under the belt. However, in the 17th round Riel by a quick movement landed a heavy right header on King's temple and followed it by a swift poke with his left that landed poor King in a heap on the outside of the door. When time was again called and King failed to arise the fight was given by two party to Riel. King gave symptoms of being dangerous and Beaumont Whitby was at once sent for Dr. Cosch, but when the latter arrived he found his man sleeping soundly in his "Ark" while Anvil McGinn was writing on his side in red ink this poem of his own composition:

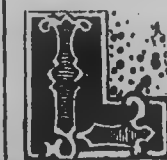

"This famous fight of Slopeville town has gained Dutch Pete and Riel renown. Vanquished in love and then in war Few wishes Hynes and Riel afar."

A man calling himself a respectable farmer, living at Bell Rock, because his team had drawn a heavy load, took a pitchfork and knocked out the eye of a valuable horse. The cruel wretch will be prosecuted.

WAR CLOUDS GATHERING.

NINETEEN RUSSIAN WARSHIPS LEAVE FOR CHINESE WATERS.

The Foreign Office in Great Activity Over Russian Andrusky-The Action of the Bear Strongly Commented Upon. Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The despatch from Shanghai yesterday announcing the departure of a fleet of nineteen Russian warships from Vladivostok for Chefoo and Fusan, Corea, and the Times despatch from Hong Kong announcing that Russia has obtained the right to anchor her fleet at Port Arthur and construct railroads on the Liaotung peninsula, have caused intense excitement in official circles here as well as in the business community connected with the far east. These most important statements are looked upon generally as being a sudden reopening in an unexpected quarter of the far eastern question in its widest sense.

BRITISH WARSHIPS FOR COREA. The Shanghai despatch adds that the Japanese fleet in Fumoonan waters had been recalled, that several British warships had been ordered to Corea and that preparations for a struggle were visible on all sides.

The Hong Kong cable message to the Times causes that paper to remark editorially today: Russia cannot possibly imagine that the great powers will view with indifference such a destruction of the balance of power, which is almost unparalleled in its audacity. China's option to purchase the railways is a jest almost too cynical to find a place in any serious diplomatic transaction. Under the indicated conditions Manchuria would practically become a Russian province while Peking would be within Russia's grip.

THE SITUATION GRAVE.

It is admitted here that the situation presented is so grave that, should the news prove true, it would make war in which several nations will take part, more than probable. It should be added that there is every reason to believe that the story from Hong Kong is authentic and all sources of information agree that the powers interested in the far east will find themselves confronted by a condition of seriousness which cannot be over-estimated. The afternoon papers of this city all publish long articles agreeing that British intervention in the far east is necessary. The St. James Gazette says: "Even war with Russia would be less disastrous than to allow her, without a blow, to get such a grip upon China. She could throttle all the other powers and choke off their commerce. Unless Russia and China give the necessary assurance, it is a case for an ultimatum and perhaps the most serious step our diplomacy has had since the Crimean war."

THE PACIFIC A FRANCO-RUSSIAN LAKE.

The impression is general in the official world and it is repeated by the press that neither America nor Germany can allow the Pacific to become a "Franco-Russian lake," as the Globe puts it, and it is generally thought that the diplomats will be sufficiently strong to combine to resist Russian aggression.

The Pall Mall Gazette sums up the startling news from the far east with the statement that "Russia has annexed China," and in the course of a long article on the subject, adds: "If this treaty is to stand, roll up the map of Asia." In conclusion the Pall Mall Gazette urges the reconsideration of Port Hamilton by the British and the immediate strengthening of the British fleet in Chinese waters, lest Japan lose her fleet at the first blow.

ACTIVITY IN THE WAR OFFICE.

Since this important news was circulated, the greatest activity has been displayed in the Government offices here, particularly at the Foreign Office and at the Admiralty and the coming and going of the messengers was continuous throughout the morning and business hours of the afternoon.

At the different clubs the "war scare" in the east is eagerly discussed. The grave situation of affairs in Venezuela has almost dropped out of recollection in the alarm of the moment. Nobody seems to doubt the report that by the recently agreed upon Korea China treaty, Russia has obtained rights, to which the favorable nation clause is not applicable, which may cause a great war.

THE NEWS AUTHENTIC.

The correspondent of the Times at Hong Kong who sent the sensational news is described by his newspaper as being in "close relations" with men who are able to penetrate beneath the surface of things. And it is therefore concluded that the news he has just sent cannot be disregarded.

NOT STEALING.

Removing Hickory Nuts From Trees is Not Theft.

Special to The Times.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Magistrate Kede, of Goodfellow, called on Magistrate Bartlet to get his opinion on a most important Canadian law. A case is before Mr. Kede in which some young men are charged with trespass and stealing hickory nuts. Mr. Bartlet said the trespass was disposed by the owner not having part of his property, a marsh, fenced in. The nut part of it, as usual with hickory nuts, was harder to catch. The statute does not consider nuts of any kind food for man or beast or a marketable commodity, so taking them from trees is not stealing. Mr. Bartlet admits that in view of the fact that millions of dollars are engaged in the nut business it is hard to decide in such a case that they are of no value, but the statute allows no alternative.

John Ballfour On Trial.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The trial of James S. Ballfour, formerly a member of Parliament and said to be the prime mover in the manipulation which resulted in disaster to the Liberator group of companies, and who was extradited from the Argentine Republic after much delay, commenced this morning in the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice.

Let's Reason

AND we think we can satisfy you that you will save money by buying your Clothing from us.

Firstly—We buy every yard of goods used in our factory direct from the mills.

Secondly—We pay cash and buy ten times more than any other clothing manufacturer in Canada, in some lines placing orders for 25 miles of cloth at one time, therefore can do much better than those who buy small quantities, and for credit.

Thirdly—On account of our factory being equipped with the latest machinery, we can make the goods up as cheap as any first-class clothing manufacturer in America.

Fourthly—We sell directly to the consumer and save you the wholesaler's and retailer's profit.

Fifthly—We have representatives in all of the fashionable centres of the two hemispheres and their experience is given to our customers in the latest styles of our garments.

Sixthly—We guarantee every garment we make; we never try to brow-beat a dissatisfied customer—ours is to please. Every suit sold bears the stamp of the W. E. Sanford Manufacturing Co., a guarantee of honesty and fair dealing.

ARE THE CREW LOST?

The Schooner Alwater from Owen Sound Cannot be Found. Special to The Times.

CHEROKEE, Mich., Oct. 25.—The steamer M. Groh, arrived from Owen Sound this morning after a terrible passage. She and the schooner S. T. Alwater in tow, but when she was twenty miles off the Manitoulin Island the soft plug of her boiler gave out and she had to drop the schooner. A tremendous gale was blowing at the time and the little schooner drifted out of sight. When the repairs were made the Groh attempted to find the schooner, but could not, and it was supposed with Mr. Oler stated that he was lost. She was commanded by Capt. McDermott, an old man of seventy-two years and it is feared all are lost.

Did Meredith Stanley Go over Niagara Falls or Didn't He. Special to The Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Oct. 25.—Unless one of the biggest fakes of the season has been worked on the public, the first and only time human being has gone over the Falls of Niagara and lived to tell the tale, was tonight about 9.45, when an ordinary wine cask said to contain Meredith Stanley, of Cincinnati, O., the bridge jumper, who aspires to notoriety, passed over the Horseshoe Falls, and was discovered half an hour later by his aides with Stanley alive, but seriously hurt. The affair was kept so secret to be certain of the facts. Believe this item or not as you choose.

Amidst Respecting Those Alleged Blood-Stained Grey Trousers. Special to The Times.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The motion to postpone the Kuchinski murder trial until spring was successful. B. K. Oler, Q. C., read an affidavit from Johannes Pawlitzki who swore that when he owned the cloth out of which Kuchinski's pants were made in 1904 it had stains on it similar to those now on the piece. Another affidavit from Caroline Spring was to the effect that when she made clothes from the cloth it was so badly stained that she had difficulty in obtaining enough clean material to work with. Mr. Oler stated that he wanted time to further investigate the matter and have the spots analyzed. E. F. B. Johnston, Q. C. replied by reading an affidavit from John Pawlitzki who swore that when he sold the cloth to Kuchinski there were no bloodstains or marks similar to those on the pants and cloth now produced.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 24 1920.

THE COMING BY-ELECTIONS.

There are now four vacant chairs in the Federal Parliament—those to be filled by the elect of West Huron, Jacques Cartier, the Central Division in Montreal and Cardwell. Rumor has it that there are to be two or three more within a few days; and that then we are to have a miniature general election. Such an occurrence would be great fun for the political gallery and might be full of information for the gladiators themselves. If Mr. Baker becomes Solicitor-General, and if a seat or two is made vacant in Manitoba, the contest would be quite a picture of the larger that is to follow, if it be kept in mind that the Government would have the lower side of the hill in Ontario and the upper side in Quebec. West Huron has had a checkered history. It was Liberal in 1882, Conservative in 1887, Liberal in '91, and Conservative again at the by-election of '92. Cardwell has long been a Conservative stronghold, but is the chosen ground of Dalton McCarthy for his defiance to the Government. The result of a pitched battle in this constituency between a McCarthyite and a Bowell man, will give a very fair indication of the amount of danger to the Government in the McCarthy movement. Jacques Carter was made Conservative by the gentleman who is now Judge Girouard, aided, no doubt, by the increasing number of Montrealers who bought summer homes along the river front. Centre Montreal is probably fair fighting ground in which the personnel of the candidates will go for much. Mississquoi has been Conservative since 1878, with the exception of the election of 1887. This constituency is now open, but will become so if the Hon. G. B. Baker is made Solicitor-General.

This skirmish in the constituencies will whet the appetites of the politicians for the crucial session that is coming, and will serve to get the gallery interested before the Speaker takes the chair.

MR. WHITE'S RETIREMENT.

The explanation given that Mr. White resigned because the Government could or would not carry out the promises he made to his constituents in Cardwell can scarcely be the true one, unless it should be his intention to return to his riding for an endorsement of his views, and the condemnation of the Government on the school question.

It is not Mr. White's fault if the Government does not see as he does, and if the ministry takes a position in opposition to the ground Mr. White took before his constituents, he has the right to vote against the Government. And he can cast that vote without the slightest justification of any charge of desertion or treason.

Surely no one seriously holds the doctrine that a member of Parliament must resign if he feels called upon to vote against his party on some one question especially if his views coincide with those of his constituents.

In the Province of Quebec Mr. Laurier is a Frenchman; in the Province of Ontario he is a Canadian.

If the fire which caused the death of a father and two children at Hamilton was started by an incendiary, hanging is too easy a death for him.

Since February the United States have exported $100,000,000 of securities, which is a measure has restored the gold equilibrium. And Marlborough's cargo has not yet been shipped.

TELLING THE BEES.

How They Are Notified of a Death in Their Owner's Family.

There is probably no insect in which mankind in general takes more interest than it does in the common honeybee, and of the dozens of superstitions which have been woven about bees none is more curious and interesting than that called "telling the bees" of a death.

Informing bees of a death in the family of their owner, in order to keep them from deserting the hive when they find it out of their own accord, is a custom so ancient that no antiquarian has ever been able to trace it to its origin. In this country it is only practiced by recent additions to our population from the lands across the sea, but in parts of Britain and continental Europe it is looked upon as a necessity, providing the apiarian desires to keep his swarms from deserting their abodes. So universal was this custom of "telling the bees" a few years ago in Europe that an inquiry concerning bees was more than likely to elicit the reply that they had all left the place since So-and-so died, because the grief-stricken family had neglected to tell the little honey gatherers what had happened. If neighbors were talking of the death of a friend, some one in the company would most likely ask if the bees had been informed of the sad circumstance. A recent correspondent of one of the big London weeklies, who says that the custom is still practiced in Devon, tells of a funeral cortege which was halted in order that an apprentice boy might be sent back to tell the bees what was going on, a little detail which had been overlooked before starting for the cemetery.

In Austria, Italy, Poland and in parts of Russia, when the master or mistress of a house dies, not only the bees, but the livestock in general is supposed to be acquainted with the fact by rattling a bunch of keys at the hives, in the stables and among the herds. In France, when the master or mistress dies, the bees are informed and have their hives draped in mourning.

Oliver, in his "History of Beverley," says that the inhabitants of that place invariably clothe their beehives in mourning on the day of a funeral, this to insure the future prosperity of the swarm. Besides the mourning decorations, an offering of "funeral biscuit," pounded fine and soaked in wine, is sometimes added.—St. Louis Republic.

The Electric Crater.

Everybody knows that an arc light is formed by causing an electric current to pass between the points of two carbon rods. One of these is called the positive and the other the negative electrode, and the current passes from the former to the latter. Particles of carbon are carried off from the positive electrode until its end becomes cup shaped.

To the little cup thus formed the name of crater is applied, and from this crater four-fifths of the light is emitted. The negative electrode does not become as hot as the other.

Between the two a little cloud of vaporized carbon is formed, rising from the crater, and this vapor gives forth a golden yellow light. But it is overpowered by the light of the crater itself, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon.

The arc of light extending from one electrode to the other also has an axis of a violet color which is its most brilliant part.

The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater.

A very interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows, cast on a neighboring wall, appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—Youth's Companion.

Bismarck and the Ambassador.

One day the Austrian ambassador to the federal diet, Count Rechberg, received a dispatch instructing him to vote with Prussia for a certain important measure, accompanied with a confidential letter directing him to induce the representatives of the other German states to vote against the measure, and thus defeat it. In his haste he handed the wrong paper to Bismarck, who read and returned it with the remark:

"There must be some mistake here." Rechberg saw his blunder and grew pale and excited. "Don't be disturbed," said Bismarck. "You did not intend to give me this document, and therefore you have not given it to me, and I am wholly ignorant of its contents." In fact, he made no mention of it in his official reports, and thus won Rechberg's gratitude, besides having him henceforth "on the hip."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment. When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

THE TRUTH.

Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D. D., the great reformer, writes October 24, 1894: "Mrs. Parkhurst and myself have used Pond's Extract so long and so constantly that we can speak appreciatively of it and in terms of warm commendation."

Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., editor of "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Laudes Domini," and other well known hymn books, writes October 23, 1894: "Not once in many years have we been without Pond's Extract in our house. My family prize it as we do the presence of an old and true friend. It fulfills every promise it makes and is a help to every one of us."

Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, writes November 13, 1894: "I have been using a great deal of Pond's Extract for the past year in gargling, as I find it affords great relief in colds."

During the past month the Pond's Extract Company have received over 2,000 orders from physicians. We have on our books testimonials and orders from most of the Governors and many of the Senators of the United States; from the royalty of Europe, such as Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, the Duchess of Cumberland, Princess of Wied, and others too numerous to mention.

When the clergy, the medical profession, statesmen and royalty all unite in praise of an article it seems unnecessary to say anything additional, but we do find it necessary to warn the public against imitations. These words of praise are all in favor of Pond's Extract—the genuine and only.

It is because of its intrinsic merit and high reputation that Pond's Extract has been imitated. If it were not of such great value and so world renowned there would be no imitations.

GENTLEMEN.—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:
1. That the Light and Power Company be instructed to put the electric lights in the fire hall and other parts of the town buildings on metre, to be paid for at the same rates as other customers of the company pay for lights, and that the present arrangement for the current year for these lights be cancelled.
2. That the Water Company be again asked to place a hydrant at the intersection of Lock and Rosaline streets in accordance with the petition of Joseph Plead and others.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
THOMAS BRADY,
Chairman.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

Nelson, Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

One and Two Dollar Bills Were Their Favorite Imitations—About 3,000 Bills Issued—Engravers and Printers Among the Five, Special to The Times.

ORONTO, Oct. 27.—The arrest of David Cooper, barber, 142 York street, and Thos. Smith, barber, 257 Sackville street, yesterday afternoon in connection with the counterfeiting case was followed last evening by that of W. J. Kramer, engraver, 171 Jarvis street, and John Crawford, old maker, 534 College street.

For some time past bad $1 and $2 bills have been cropping up in the city and elsewhere, and a quiet effort was put forth to ascertain their source. A few days ago a hint was received which led to the arrests mentioned above. A Queen street west dealer, near McCall street, it appears, had been solicited to buy some of the green goods. He informed the detectives and eventually, acting under their directions, made an appointment with the seller. Detectives Porter and Duncan were on hand concealed on the premises, and when $100 of the goods had been exchanged for $30 of good money the alleged swindler was arrested. He turned out to be Cooper. He declared his innocence and said he acted as agent for Smith, who awaited his return in his barber shop on York street. Smith was arrested and both were taken to police headquarters.

FOUND THE PLATE.

From information gathered from statements made by the pair, a posse of police detectives sallied out in search of the plant and other members of the gang. Crawford and Kramer were both apprehended and in the former's possession were found stamps evidently used for numbering bills. At Kramer's place of business at 17 Jordan street the plate for the $2 bills were found and the $1 plate was found at the job printing office of Edmund Barber, 64 Lombard street. The latter, however, is considered to be innocent of any participation in the work. He alleges that he struck off $500 on the belief that they were to be used as clear advertisements. Only 100 of the bad bills have so far been recovered and the question is where is the remainder? The workmanship is exceedingly clumsy and would never stand inspection. Each of the four prisoners is vigorously heaping the responsibility for the scheme on the shoulders of the others.

REMAINED UNTIL WEDNESDAY

The four men were arraigned before Police Magistrate Denison on a charge of forging and uttering certain $1 bills purporting to be issued by the Dominion Government and intended to deceive the public. None of the prisoners either pleaded or pleaded and all were remanded until next Wednesday. Crown Attorney Curry will probably use Kramer as a Crown witness. The attorney said he was willing to accept bail in his instance if it were substantial. The amount was settled at $20. In the other cases bail was refused.

A FIFTH ARREST.

Another arrest was made this morning by Detectives Porter and Duncan at 112 Yonge street. Frank Watts, an engraver, is the prisoner, and it is charged that he engraved the plates from which the spurious one dollar bills were manufactured.

At police headquarters Watts admitted to Detective Sergeant Robson that he engraved the plates and said that he did it in the regular course of business from the order of John Crawford, one of the men now in custody. He was unaware, he said, of any felonious intention on the part of Crawford or he would not have done the work.

HE PRINTED THE BILLS.

BUT THE DETECTIVE DEPARTMENT DECIDED NOT TO ARREST HIM.

At noon Detective Porter brought in another suspect in the person of William Dickson, a printer at 4 Yorkville avenue. He is a small job printing house at that address and when the detective called on him this morning he went red and white by turns. Dickson was at first inclined to deny any complicity in the affair, but when the detective showed only a slight portion of his hand Dickson weakened and made a clean breast of it. He admitted that he had printed the issue of two thousand two dollar bills which have been troubling the detectives for the last three years. Crawford, he said, had employed him to do the job. When the bills were all printed Dickson offered to return the plates, but Crawford refused, saying he had no further use for them. Dickson kept the plates by him for a year, and then destroyed them. Dickson was closeted with Inspector Stark and County-Crown Attorney Dewar and Curran for half an hour. At the end of that time he was allowed to go, but not before he had given valuable information to the department with reference to the operations of the gang. The sentence for printing these bills is fourteen years in the penitentiary and this induced Dickson to tell all he knew about the matter.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 24 1906.

SUBSIDIZED MEMBERS.

We agree with Saturday Night in its belief that the Dominion Government seems to have acquired a facility for getting into holes which is altogether out of proportion to their ability for getting out of them. Promising and procrastinating have been their strong cards. They have run up such an extraordinary bill of promises and have deferred payment so long, that now they seem convinced that the settlement of the claims for office which their followers in Parliament have against them would bankrupt the concern. When the Opposition stated last session that there were twenty-five or thirty Members sitting in the House of Commons who practically had appointments in their pockets, or at least "promises to pay," the charge was denied with scorn. Now that the Government is shaky and the Members who had been promised something are demanding an immediate settlement, it looks very much as if the charge were true. Curran has been boosted on to the bench, to the intense disgust of everybody, and the appointment has raised such a row in Montreal that the Conservative candidate for the Quebec legislature in that constituency was this week defeated by an overwhelming majority. A bye-election is about to be held to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Mr. Curran, and without doubt a Liberal will be elected. The Government has been in a wretched state of funk for months, but after the Montreal incident it got in such an agony of fear that it dare not open Cardwell, though years ago it promised an appointment to Mr. Robert S. White, Member for that riding. After sitting in Parliament for two sessions with the promise of the appointment in his pocket, Mr. White evidently felt disinclined to go through any further humiliating experiences as a subsidized supporter of the Government, and has resigned, and in spite of all attempts to prevent a proper expression of public opinion on the Manitoba school question, Cardwell is now vacant, and if another session is held that constituency must be filled, with the probabilities in favor of a McCarthyite going to Ottawa to cast the vote of the constituency when remedial legislation is proposed. West Huron is also open on account of the appointment of Hon. J. C. Patterson to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba; Jacques Cartier is without a Member owing to the promotion of Mr. Girard to the bench; Missesquon is threatened with having its Member made a Cabinet Minister, so five elections may be on immediately. The Government has reason to fear the result and it is probable that the score of unsatisfied claimants will have to retain their seats until after the session.

A very interesting legal decision has just been given by Judge Falconbridge in the suit of Barrister G. B. Gordon against Police Inspector Stephen, of Toronto. In 1891 Gordon was arrested because he had failed to appear at the police court when summoned, and when taken to the cells was searched and the contents of his pockets removed. Gordon was allowed $1,500 damages against Stephen in a lower court, but the case was appealed. Judge Falconbridge quoted a decision of the supreme court of England, which held that a police officer has no right to search a prisoner unless in special cases, where the prisoner by violent acts or words led the officer to believe that he was likely to cause mischief or do bodily harm. In such a case it was lawful to remove from the person of the prisoner anything which might assist him in the accomplishment of such act.

TELLING THE BEES.

How They are Notified of a Death in Their Owner's Family.

There is probably no insect in which mankind in general takes more interest than it does in the common honeybee, and of the dozens of superstitions which have been woven about bees none is more curious and interesting than that called "telling the bees" of a death.

Informing bees of a death in the family of their owner, in order to keep them from deserting the hive when they find it out of their own accord, is a custom so ancient that no antiquarian has ever been able to trace it to its origin. In this country it is only practiced by recent additions to our population from the lands across the sea, but in parts of Britain and continental Europe it is looked upon as a necessity, providing the apianian desires to keep his swarms from deserting their abodes. So universal was this custom of "telling the bees" a few years ago in Europe that an inquiry concerning bees was more than likely to elicit the reply that they had all left the place since So-and-so died, because the grief-stricken family had neglected to tell the little honey gatherers what had happened. If neighbors were talking of the death of a friend, some one in the company would most likely ask if the bees had been informed of the sad circumstance. A recent correspondent of one of the big London weeklies, who says that the custom is still practiced in Devon, tells of a funeral cortege which was halted in order that an apprentice boy might be sent back to tell the bees what was going on, a little detail which had been overlooked before starting for the cemetery.

In Austria, Italy, Poland and in parts of Russia, when the master or mistress of a house dies, not only the bees, but the live stock in general is supposed to be acquainted with the fact by rattling a bunch of keys at the hives, in the stables and among the herds. In France, when the master or mistress dies, the bees are informed and have their hives draped in mourning.

Oliver, in his "History of Boverley," says that the inhabitants of that place invariably clothe their beehives in mourning on the day of a funeral, this to insure the future prosperity of the swarm. Besides the mourning decorations, an offering of "funeral biscuit," pounded fine and soaked in wine, is sometimes added.—St. Louis Republic.

The Electric Crater.

Everybody knows that an arc light is formed by causing an electric current to pass between the points of two carbon rods. One of these is called the positive and the other the negative electrode, and the current passes from the former to the latter. Particles of carbon are carried off from the positive electrode until its end becomes cup shaped.

To the little cup thus formed the name of crater is applied, and from this crater four-fifths of the light is emitted. The negative electrode does not become as hot as the other. Between the two a little cloud of vaporized carbon is formed, rising from the crater, and this vapor gives forth a golden yellow light. But it is overpowered by the light of the crater itself, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon.

The arc of light extending from one electrode to the other also has an axis of a violet color which is its most brilliant part.

The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater.

A very interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows, cast on a neighboring wall, appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—Youth's Companion.

Bismarck and the Ambassador.

One day the Austrian ambassador to the federal diet, Count Rechberg, received a dispatch instructing him to vote with Prussia for a certain important measure, accompanied with a confidential letter directing him to induce the representatives of the other German states to vote against the measure, and thus defeat it. In his haste he handed the wrong paper to Bismarck, who read and returned it with the remark:

"There must be some mistake here." Rechberg saw his blunder and grew pale and excited. "Don't be disturbed," said Bismarck. "You did not intend to give me this document, and therefore you have not given it to me, and I am wholly ignorant of its contents." In fact, he made no mention of it in his official reports, and thus won Rechberg's gratitude, besides having him henceforth "on the hip."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

EDGAR RAISES CAINE.

AND TELLS THE ENGLISH AUTHOR TO TREAD LIGHTLY.

And not raise an issue on the Copyright Question on the Constitutional Point—He backs the Government on this matter.
Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—The publishers of Toronto tendered Mr. Hall Caine an elaborate banquet at the National Club this evening. There were about fifty gentlemen present, including representatives of leading publishing firms, members of Parliament and leading citizens who have devoted themselves especially to the study of the copyright question. Mr. E. E. Shepherd, publisher Saturday Night, occupied the chair, and Mr. Hall Caine, as the guest of the evening, sat on his right. Mr. Goldwin Smith, J. Edgar, M.P.; J. R. R. Cockburn, M.P.; Emerson Coatsworth, M.P.; and W. F. Maclean, M.P., were seated near Mr. Caine. Mr. R. T. Lancelotti, of Hamilton, who has frequently figured in the English press in connection with the copyright question was also among the present.

Mr. Edgar, M.P., who has probably studied the copyright question more than any other public man, was called upon to respond to the toast, "The Land We Live In," and in doing so paid a very high compliment to Mr. Caine. He said the names of great British authors are household words among Canadians. "We admire them immensely," said he. "We manage to buy or borrow most of their works; we do not wish to steal them, but perhaps it would be better not to pursue that enquiry, for it might produce controversial matters."

"Mr. Caine," continued Mr. Edgar, "has spoken of the loyalty of Canadian people. Would it not be a pity to put a strain on that loyalty by an attempt to take away any of our self-governing powers?" He had opposed the present Dominion Government very earnestly for a dozen years, but he had differed from them on the constitutional aspect of the copyright question. Mr. Edgar pointed out that the licensing system was not a Canadian device for the infliction of wrongs on British authors, but was expressly suggested in the report of the Imperial Copyright Commission of 1876. He asked the guest of the evening to take his word for it that the Canadian Parliament will treat British authors in all things not only justly, but generously. Mr. Caine would be wise if he counselled his friends not to raise an issue on the constitutional point.

OVER 800 SPANIARDS KILLED.

Great Battle in Cuba—Fall into a Death Trap.
Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Times tomorrow will print the following despatch from Key West: News received here today states that General Macco has by forced marches reached the province of Matanzas, and that last Monday with 3000 Cubans he engaged with a cavalry force of 2800 Spaniards in the San Juan Valley. Early in the morning the insurgent outpost brought news of the approach of the Spanish cavalry. General Macco at once placed his army in position to receive the enemy. A hollow square was formed and a force of 1000 men placed in ambush. The Spanish forces, unaware of the presence of the enemy, marched into the trap of death and were only apprised of their perilous position when the insurgents opened fire upon them. The Spaniards made a brave fight, but owing to the thickness of the forces and the boggy condition of the valley, the cavalry were great beaten. After a struggle of four hours the Spanish troops were forced to retreat, leaving over 8000 dead on the field. The insurgents secured all the arms and ammunition of the dead Spaniards. This battle is the most important fought since the start of the revolution. The Cuban colony here is wild with joy.

WAR SCARE OVER A TREATY BE-TWEEN CHINA AND RUSSIA.

The British Foreign Office Knows Nothing About It—How Canadian Fruit is Sold in London.
Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Inquiries at the Foreign Office are to the effect that the official there have no information that a treaty has been concluded between China and Russia, by which the latter is given great commercial and other advantages.

The Standard will say that it finds it difficult to believe that such a treaty has been made. Probably something of the kind is meditated and the statement is flung as a balloon in the press. Anyhow the suggested agreement could not be allowed to stand, nor would there be any delay or hesitation in acquiring those concessions for the utility of the project.

These facts are held to dispose of the story lately told by Bradley regarding Capt. Lothaire killing certain white men who fell into his power.

ITALIANS IN AFRICA.

ROME, Oct. 25.—The Piedmontese Gazette has a despatch from Massah, the capital of Erythraea, saying that 600 Mahdists have invested Kassala, which was recently captured from them by the Italian forces. The despatch adds that General Barratieri, the Commander of the Italian forces, has received a telegram from the Government inviting him to ask for unnecessary reinforcements.

A COUNCIL OF WAR.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A despatch from Rome to the Central News says that the meeting of the Ministry yesterday was virtually a council of war. General Corvetto, Fellous and Primrose concurred in advising the Government to send a complete army corps to reinforce the troops now operating against the Mahdists and Abyssinians.

ADRIAT WITHOUT A PILOT.

The Captain Committed Suicide and the Mate Was Washed Overboard.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 25.—The British ship Aberfoyle, Captain Wallace, has arrived in port seventy four days from Newcastle, N.S.W., with a cargo of coal. Early this year the Aberfoyle sailed from Newcastle for New Zealand, arriving at the latter port after a most thrilling voyage. Captain George W. Roberts was then in command of the ship. She was on only a few days when the master began drinking. This wound up with a big spree. He was totally unfit for handling the vessel and shutting himself in his cabin committed suicide with carbolic acid. In a severe storm Mate Norton was washed overboard and the boatswain took command. But the vessel might as well have been without a compass, there being no one left who understood navigation. For weeks the ship drifted about aimlessly in the ocean, the men being without the slightest knowledge of their whereabouts. The steamer Equally was finally sighted and signals of distress were raised. The captain of the steamer lowered a boat and finding how matters stood placed the mate of his vessel in charge of the Aberfoyle and she was brought to port.

Corbett is Doing the Talking Now—Won't be Called a Cur.
Special to The Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 25.—Corbett has telegraphed to Phil Dwyer and others in New York to forward the stake money at once. He stated in the telegram that he was determined to remain in Hot Springs until Nov. 1, and see the matter out. This put a new aspect on affairs, and it is now believed that Corbett has made up his mind to meet Fitzsimmons under any circumstances. The champion was furious this afternoon over the receipt of a telegram from Martin Julian, in which the latter stated that if Corbett did not remain at Hot Springs and meet Fitzsimmons he (Julian) would proclaim him a coward and a cur. Joe Vendig today wired Dan Stuart to secure an option on a large circus tent, and stated that matters would be materially changed within a few days.

Unusually Prevailing—In Different Parts of Turkey Over the Vastest of the Inhabitants—The Promised Reforms.

Special to The Times.
LONDON, OCT. 28.—The Standard will to-morrow publish a despatch from Constantinople saying that a report is current there that the Albanians of the guard meditate an attempt on the life of a Sultan. It is difficult to ascertain whether or not the report is authentic. A menacing letter that was found some days ago lying on a table in the apartment of Ghazi Osman Pashir, marshal of the palace, led to an enquiry being made as to who its author was and who had placed it there it was found. The investigation involved fourteen members of the Imperial household. It is stated that all those involved died on the same day within the precincts of Yildiz Kiosk, thus lifting a weight from the Sultan's mind. The French despatch boat that has been at Constantinople for some time will be sent to Toulon to make repairs. She will be replaced by a somewhat formidable torpedo catcher, which is heavily armed. This example will probably be followed by the other powers whose gunboats now at Constantinople are not believed to be sufficient to protect the interests entrusted to them. Said Pasha, the foreign minister, has been appointed president of the board to supervise the execution of the reforms recently promulgated by the Sultan. The consuls at points in the interior of Asia Minor report to the ambassies here that a state of general irritation and excitement that is quite unusual in prevailing and is causing alarm. The Daily News will to-morrow publish letters from Trebizonde, Turkish Armenia, stating that the number of victims in the recent rioting is estimated at 700 in the town and 200 in the surrounding villages. Many Armenian women have vanished, and there is scarcely a doubt that they have either murdered or kidnapped. Most of the houses occupied by Armenians were burned. There is great distress among the survivors, who in large numbers are living in sheds or in the woods. Telegrams from Marash report that the situation there is serious, and that the English and American missionaries are in peril. The situation around Isiole continues gravely alarming. Many Armenians there have been arrested and imprisoned. The Daily News to-morrow will say it is rumored that Lord Dufferin, the British ambassador to France, will before his retirement from the diplomatic service, which will occur shortly, return to Constantinople as British special envoy, Sir Philip Currie, the ambassador to Turkey, temporarily taking his place at Paris. Sir Philip Currie, British ambassador, who has been given leave of absence, started for London to-day. During his absence M. H. Herbert, secretary of the embassy, will act as charge d'affaires.

MONUMENT AT CHATEAUGUAY.
On the Battlefield at Bryson—Eighty-two Years after the Fight.
Special to The Times.
MONTREAL, OCT. 28.—On Saturday last, the 82nd anniversary of the battle of Chateauguay, where Col. de Salaberry defeated 5,000 American soldiers under Gen. Hampton, the victory of the 300 Canadian militiamen was honored by the erection of a monument. It is near Bryson, in Chateauguay County, and is of granite 39 feet high and inscribed:—"1812-14, 26th October, 1813. Here the army invading Lower Canada and marching on Montreal was repulsed and routed by the militia of the Province. Erected by the Canadian Parliament, 1895."

Lieut. Col. McEachern presided and called upon Miss Hermine de Salaberry, granddaughter of the colonel, who unveiled the monument. Sir Adolphe Caron related the history of Canada, and especially of the battle, which, he said, was fought by valorous Frenchmen, and if they had lost the day the entire continent would have belonged to the United States. Hon. A. R. Dickey eulogized Col. de Salaberry, pleaded for unity from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and gave it as his opinion that if the men of to-day were needed they would give an equally good account of themselves as the men of 1813. Telegrams of regret were read from Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. L. O. Taillon, Mr. Julius Scriver, M.P., and Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons. Owing to the lateness of the hour and the time fixed for the departure of the train, the other speeches were quite brief. Hon. J. E. Robidoux made an address, and was followed by Mr. G. W. Stephens, M.P.P., and Mr. William Greig.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check the almost impossible to thoroughly clean them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyors of disease. It was left for a woman of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the wooden bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far better and easier to handle. If readers want to send a favor upon their wives, they will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturer, 121 Bay Street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

There are imitations of Hanes' home-made bread out. This is the third or fourth attempt to imitate this superior bread, but all have failed, the quality is not there. Look for the big "B" stamp large and plain on each loaf. Walter Bates.

Sensitized His Hand.

John Foden, an employee of the Electric Works, in the capacity of Engineer, had his right hand badly smashed yesterday while attending to the engine. Foden is a married man and lives on Park street. Dr. Green attended to his injuries.

Fee is Free.

A dispatch from Lindsay says: Robt. P. E. (the defaulting bookkeeper) was up yesterday morning before Judge Dean for contempt. A petition had been circulated and largely signed by citizens, praying for his removal on account of previous good conduct. It was allowed his liberty on suspended sentence.

A Very Pleasant "At Home."

A very pleasant "At Home" was held last night under the auspices of St. John's branch of the Women's Auxiliary. It was held at the residence of Miss Barlow, No. 177 Avon street. A large crowd was in attendance and were very much pleased with the musical program rendered. There was a collection taken to aid the ladies in their work and a nice little sum was added to their treasury.

Don't Burn Garbage.

A prominent physician strongly protests against the burning of tree leaves and other garbage at this season of the year. He asserts that the practice is the direct cause of bronchitis, sore throats and lung troubles. A large quantity of garbage is being burned in the city, and it is used as a fertilizer for gardens or fields. Thus the public health would not be benefited, and the soil would be benefited.

A New Butcher Shop.

The store room formerly occupied by Mrs. Martin, Lundy's block, George street, is being overhauled and refitted, and when completed will be occupied by Mr. F. J. Goslin, who proposes opening up a first class butcher shop. Mr. Goslin has been in the business for over 18 years, and will doubtless be able to secure and retain a large share of the business of the town. His advertisement will appear in these columns.

New Goods.

At Clegg's, now arriving every day for the fall trade. Not only fine and expensive furniture, but the cheaper lines as well. Good common chairs at $3.00, a good bedstead, all hard wood and well finished, for $3.00. Mattresses, springs, pillows, etc. Cheap extension tables and sideboards. Four sets one hundred feet long filled full of furniture and all at bottom prices. A. Clegg's 427 George street.

Here is a Fuzzler.

A new problem has been introduced locally that promises to be a stalker to the cleverest mathematicians. It is this: The outer rail on the curves of the street car line is longer than the inner rail; the wheels on the street cars are keyed on to the axles and are supposed to move together. In rounding a curve, the outer wheels travel faster than those on the inside, which have not so great a distance to travel. If they do, how much faster do they travel than those on the inside.

Badly Sold.

Fusion Fall Gazette. "There is a strong flavor of impropriety about the novel entitled 'Tribby' and the play founded thereon that makes them exceedingly popular, and, therefore, when it was announced that the latter was to be performed in Lindsay on the night of the 23rd inst., steps were at once taken to secure a special train from the Falls, and about twenty residents of the village went up to witness the highly spiced drama. In what particulars it fell short of their expectations we do not know, but the most candid of them admit that they were badly sold, and we would think, even if we didn't say that in our opinion it served them right."

Railway Notes.

The tank at Haliburton is nearing completion. The pumps have been put in working order and it is expected to be finished shortly.

Never before this year has there been so much trouble experienced from stock straying on the track. Horses, sheep and cattle have been very troublesome and great numbers of complaints are being rushed into the head office.

The recent strike among the American coal people has affected the company at this point. They always have a reserve stock of coal, and get their daily supply from the other side, but lately they have been compelled to use the coal in reserve to keep them running.

The filling in of Doube's and Tally's bridges, on the Missing Link, has been an expensive and tedious operation. One train and crew and about 100 men were occupied over five months at the work, and it is thought that there will be a sinkage of about 15,000 yards to be filled in this year. It is estimated that the filling in of the Tally bridge alone has cost the G.T.R. about $68,000.

"The Common People."

An Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement: "I know that Hanes' Rheumatism cure is the best argument in favor of this medicine and this is what many thousands testify to."

HANES' FILLER are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache, etc.

LOVED NOT WISELY.

Mrs. A. B. Appleby's Grave Charges Against Miss Duggan.

A STATEMENT OF CLAIM.

IT WAS FILED YESTERDAY AND SETS FORTH THE HISTORY OF A HUSBAND'S ALLEGED PERFDY.

Another step in the action of Mrs. A. B. Appleby against Miss Abbie Duggan for the alienation of her husband's affections, was taken yesterday morning, when Messrs. Dumble & Johnston, solicitors for Mrs. Appleby, filed the statement of claim. Mrs. Appleby sets forth that Miss Duggan deliberately set about to win her husband's affections, and grave charges are set forth in the particulars of the statement of claim which is published below:

1. The plaintiff is a married woman, the wife of Alexander B. Appleby, residing in the town of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough.

2. The defendant is a spinster residing at the same place.

3. The plaintiff was on or about the day of September, 1878, married at Concord, New Hampshire, to the said Alexander B. Appleby.

4. The plaintiff bore to her said husband three children, who are now living, of the respective ages of 12, 10 and 8 years.

5. The plaintiff from the time of her marriage until the events hereinafter mentioned lived with her said husband in domestic peace and happiness enjoying the companionship, society and protection of her said husband and being supported and maintained by him in comfort and respectability.

6. About the year 1892 the defendant became acquainted with the said Alexander B. Appleby, and at once began to allure and entice him with her allurements, until she won his affections and secured from him such attentions as interfered with his domestic relations with the plaintiff, and finally wrecked the happiness and peace of the plaintiff, broke up her home and led her adrift upon the world penniless and alone.

7. The defendant about the year 1893 and 1894 was in the habit of going to the office of the said Alexander B. Appleby and remaining there alone with him at unseasonable hours and under such circumstances as leaves only the conclusion that she there had illicit intercourse with him, and in fact the plaintiff alleges she indeed and in fact had.

8. The defendant was also wont to obtain A. B. Appleby to a lodge occupied by her at Chemung Park on the shores of Chemung Lake, and there, and in the adjoining woods and in other places the defendant had illicit intercourse with the said A. B. Appleby.

9. While these relationships existed between the said defendant and the said A. B. Appleby, he neglected the plaintiff, treated her with disrespect and contempt and at times assaulted her; he also left her bed and ceased to cohabit with her, and finally, at the instance and under the influence of the defendant, the said A. B. Appleby abandoned the plaintiff, turned her out of home, removed his furniture, and left the plaintiff amongst strangers, penniless and alone, and since then has not in any way contributed to her support.

10. The said A. B. Appleby took from the plaintiff two of her children about August 1894, and the plaintiff has not seen them since.

11. The said A. B. Appleby in order to marry the defendant was induced by her to go to the State of North Dakota, and there institute an action for divorce from the plaintiff on grounds that were maliciously false and untrue.

12. The plaintiff for her justification was compelled to defend said action and succeeded in defeating it, but at great cost and expense to herself.

13. The said A. B. Appleby, after being defeated in the said action for divorce, proceeded from Wabington, in North Dakota, where said action was brought to Fargo in said State, and there instituted another action for divorce from the plaintiff, which is now pending.

14. The said actions have been a cause of much grief and humiliation to the plaintiff and have caused her great expense, worry and loss of health.

15. The plaintiff alleges that all her sorrows, grief and pain of mind, and the loss of the society, affection and protection and support of her husband have been the direct result of the defendant's wanton and improper conduct in alienating from her the affections of her said husband.

16. The plaintiff has no means of support but is poor, friendless and homeless, and is compelled to work to support herself and her one child that is left to her.

17. The plaintiff claims $10,000 damages for the wrongs suffered by her by the wrongful conduct of the defendant in the premises.

The plaintiff requires the issue herein to be tried at the town of Peterborough.

Delivered the 26th day of Oct. A. D. 1895, by Messrs. Dumble & Johnston, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, solicitors for the plaintiff.

THE HOCKEY CLUB.

Satisfactory Arrangements Made With the Rink Management for the Season.

There was a largely attended meeting of the Hockey Club last night to receive the report of the executive committee, re rink arrangements. The executive committee reported that they had met the rink management and made satisfactory arrangements for the use of the rink for the season, the division of receipts, dressing rooms, etc. The club elected Messrs H. R. H. Kenner, and D. Heger, representatives to Toronto.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Clementi, for forwarding $5 to the club for membership fee.

A vote of thanks was also tendered Mr. D. O. Pease, general passenger agent of the G.T.R. for furnishing the club with a special train last season, and for other favors.

THEY START ANEW.

The regular meeting of St. John's Young People's Association was held last night in the School House. Rev. E. V. Stevenson presiding. After the usual routine of business, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. President—Rev. J. C. Davidson. Hon. Vice Pres.—Rev. E. V. Stevenson. Hon. Secy.—Rev. C. Smith. President—Mr. Geo. S. Ames. Vice do—Miss J. C. M. Fawcett. Treasurer—Miss M. Perry. Secretary—Mr. W. J. English. The society has re-organized under the most promising circumstances and everything has been going along smoothly. Every member is looking forward to the association's concert which is to be held on November 7th. The Society adjourned until next Monday evening.

WEDDED FIFTY YEARS.

A Golden Wedding Happily and Auspiciously Celebrated.

On the evening of Saturday, the 26th inst., Mr. and Mrs. William Helm celebrated their golden wedding—the 50th mile post of their wedded life. The occasion was one that occurs in the lives of but few, and Mr. and Mrs. Helm were warmly congratulated upon the event, and numerous were the sincere expressions of hope that they would live to celebrate many successive anniversaries.

Amongst those present were Mrs. Thos. Bradburn, town; Mrs. J. B. Nixon, Toronto; Mr. Henry Helm, Port Hope, and the children and grandchildren of the host and hostess, making quite a large party. Fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Helm were married in Cato, near Kingston. The half century of their wedded life has been one fraught with the usual intermingling of joys and sorrows, of usefulness and happiness. Today they are both enjoying good health, and will doubtless live many years yet.

They were the recipients of numerous suitable presents.

"C" COMPANY DINNER.

An Enjoyable Evening Spent by the Brave Boys in Red.

"C" Company, 57th Battalion held its annual dinner at the Snowden House last night, and a right royal time did the boys in red have. The full company was present with Capt. W. H. Hill and Lieut. Eastwood presiding, and the guests of the evening outside of the company were Lieut. Col. Bell, Bandmaster Finch Miller and the press representatives.

A most sumptuous spread, prepared by Miss H. Snowden was discussed with considerable zest and enjoyment, after which a toast list was proposed and responded to as follows:

HOLMES' TRIAL PROCEEDS

GRUESOME EVIDENCE AGAINST THE MULTI-MURDERER.

Little Dottie Pitzel Tells Her Story—Holmes

Coolly Confronting the Defence with Ashy

Special to the Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 29.—Holmes came into court on the second day of the trial, and was met by a drift of snow but his demeanor was a model of coolness and self command. If there was any mental turmoil it was strictly beneath the surface and not a muscle of his ashy countenance betrayed him.

THE JUDGE GOWNED.

For the first time in the history of a Philadelphia court the judge wore a gown. The gown was long, loose and baggy and was made of cheap black alpaca. It hung indifferent on the shoulders of the judge, but at all times the gown was there, and its presence meant a good deal. The judge tried to look unconcerned as he faced the curious crowd in front of him and he moved about in his rustling robes with a very apparent effort to appear at ease.

The lawyers in court looked quizzically at the gown and their curious glances were usually rewarded with averted eyes. The lawyers themselves do not want to wear gowns, and it is likely that they will resist any effort on the part of the judges to force them to do so.

At the same time it is not the unanimous sentiment of the Philadelphia bar that the judges have taken a wise step in donning black alpaca, as well as in deciding to enforce stricter discipline and decorum in their courts in future.

CHANGES IN THE COURT ROOM.

Since court rose last night the internal arrangement of the chamber had been greatly modified. The prisoner's dock had been moved ten feet nearer the judge and there were a small table and a chair for the prisoner. The dock of Holmes was determined still to conduct his own defence to the end.

ON BEING PLACED IN THE DOCK HOLMES arose, faced the jury box and during the most intense gaze of the jury he addressed them in a few words, saying

THE PIPES WENT OUT.

He drew the weeds that he had plucked in the garden. These he brushed between his hands and rubbed them gently over the giant's body as he lay and howled. A strange smell arose. The howling ceased, and a howl that rang through the house.

"Then Hong Bin walked to the door, opened it, looked carefully at the bound hands, cut the cat's lead and leaping out closed the door. At that moment the Mandarin's troops, come up to rent Jin and his band, arrived. Hong Bin called to the captain to come to him.

"There were thirty in the door. And so for a full hour they watched and laughed with their eyes to the peep-holes. And the noise within was sickening. The bound sat, blind and starving, while the captain-revered master to death with his beautiful, transparent-red horns.

The pipes were all out.

FISHING FOR COD.

A TRAMP PRINTER'S VOYAGE TO THE BANKS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

Fog and Fish Were Plentiful—Weird Sensations Experienced Alone in the Mist. The Dangers of Setting the Trawl Are Many and Serious.

There are few situations in life, however strange and precarious, in which the tramp printer is not to be found; but, save myself, I know of none that has been fool enough to try his luck as a "trout-bait" on a banker or fishing craft bound for the "stormy Georgias."

One day, weary of the monotony of typesetting, I went on board the 105 ton sloop Trident lying off Spruce street wharf and was hailed by Captain Sam Macy, a tall, bony Yankee in red cap and rubber boots.

"Want to ship for the grand banks fur cod? Ever tried fishing, boy? Well, I want a 'gutter' and will give $32 a month. Get yer plunder aboard. We sail tonight."

So on a very cold and windy night the sloop passed Black light with a stiff wind astern. We had a crew of seven men, four of them Finns. After standing my watch I went into the little fo'c's'le. Going to bed on a banker means lying down on some one else. After a minute's trial I crawled from under a big Finn and finished my 40 winks on the wet deck, the waves flying over our low rail. For four days we did nothing but hold on, and after three days more jumping the seas the Trident anchored in Machias harbor, Maine.

Here we bought bait, caplin and moss-bunker, broken up and barreled, and these covered our deck. Next it was "Ho, for the Grand banks!" and on the 30th of March the cry was "The banks on the lee bow!"

A cloud of gray mist, and this our vessel entered as through a gateway, and then it closed, so thick that the man at the wheel could not see the jib, 80 feet away. Groping our way, we anchored in 80 fathoms. Around us the toll of ship bells is plainly heard, and soon comes a hail. We are 40 yards away from old friends and yet cannot see them. Around us is one gray waste of water, breaking into short waves. The fog thickens, and in the northeast it is getting black, and by night the storm comes on, and for 40 hours we are fairly pinned to the deck by the wind.

It was my task to toll the bell. I grew dead weary and pulled the cord mechanically. How sweet to close one's eyes and dream! The sloop rises and falls with a fulling motion, and I am a thousand miles away. Suddenly a deep boom awakes me. All the crew rush on deck and unite in one loud yell, "What's the matter?" I see a huge black wall hanging over the sloop, a glare of scintillating light and a rush like a million of Tartar cavalry. It is gone. Captain Macy walks aft and says: "A close call. You must keep your eyes open. That was a Cunarder, blast her!" An ocean liner had swept by us 50 feet to leeward.

And now we commenced fishing for cod. Each man had three lines, and these were pulled every minute, the fish released with a jerk and the hook baited and thrown in. The cook and I opened the fish and put a handful of salt inside, while the captain packed them away. The cold was intense, and so we worked for 18 hours, and then came dinner and supper in one. I was too tired to eat, although the food was good and plenty of it.

Then came laying the trawls, the most dreaded work of all. Two men got into a dory—double bowed stiff like a big dish—and lay out a mile of line baited and hooked every two feet. Ten feet from the sloop the mist closed around us like a pall. We had a compass, a keg of water and biscuits. After six hours' work we found the sloop and next day started again to overhaul the trawl—most exhausting work. One man hauls into the heaving boat the line. Halibut weighing 300 pounds are on the hooks, and these must be gaffed and as the boat rises bailed in, the boat gun'll under water. Often she heaves and then good by. Sometimes men lose their bearings, and ships often find the dories drifting in midocean, with the shrunken and blackened remains of the occupants in the bottom. For 24 days we worked, the only intermissions being when the storm swept down on us. Once a steamer passed so close that her wake dashed the white water over our boat. Every day hails came to us through the blinding fog. Ahoy! Seen anything of our dory? Captain Macy has lost his nose and a nephew on one voyage 20 years before and in the terrible "Lord's day gale," August, 1878, 200 of the New England fishing fleet were dashed to pieces.

On Sundays we rested, mended our clothes, smoked, spun yarns and slept. Nothing was more surprising to me than the strange shapes taken by the mist when blown by a gale. It rolled up like ranks of women with floating garments and trailing hair or swept by for hours the semblance of an army of horsemen breaking, uniting and again forming in ranks. Our Finns were very superstitious and full of curious old sea lore. Every move of the fog and wind had a significance, and once the whole crew was raised to listen to the wall of women far off to the windward. Heard in the silence of night it was very impressive. It was seals coming from the north on floating ice.

Our cruises had been very successful, and our hatches were looked down over a splendid catch of halibut. So one morning, as the Trident lay at anchor, struck our ball and the signal of departure—and this was answered, and under a chorus of goodbyes the jib and mainsail were sheeted home, and in 30 hours the Trident entered Gloucester harbor. Our destination was New York, but I had had enough of it, so the captain paid me, remarking graciously "that I wasn't as big a fool as I looked." Philadelphia Times.

Telegraphic Abbreviations.
Soon after the advent of typewriting machines in telegraph offices about five years ago senders of news messages began to abbreviate, and the manager of one of the news associations invented a code of abbreviations which is almost as intricate as the sign code itself. For instance, the tender telegraph "bag" and the receiver writes it on his typewriting machine "in consequence of." Likewise "yes" means principles, "aye" means anywhere, "saw" by" authenticity, "sum," sales unimportant, "abgun," small business, prices unchanged, "pand," full prices asked, "no demand," "m," morning, "w," with amendments, "c," under the circumstances, "t," tomorrow afternoon, "p," presented a petition, "cgt," on the ground that, "scotus," supreme court of the United States, "kw," adjourned sine die, "adv," either of which "adv," committed suit, "adv," covered by insurance—Troy Press.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USING
to keep bread fresh on the old fashioned bread-board, the trouble was to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or about the most important thoroughly clean them and they may easily become dangerous conveyors of disease. It was latter a woman of course, to remedy this state of affairs, one Mrs. M. E. Mervin, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to order a sample upon their word they will be served promptly, let them send $1 to the manufacturer, 101 Bay street Toronto, for one of these boards.

Struck by a Falling Tree.

William McComb, a young man 19 years of age, who has been working in Sybilton's shanty, 35 miles northwest of Gravenhurst, passed through Peterborough yesterday on his way home, near Havelock. McComb was in a critical condition. Last Saturday he was struck by a falling tree, which caused serious injury to his spine. The fact that the tree struck a rock which broke the force of the blow, saved him from instant death.

A Splendid Concert.

The Jubum-Prume and Harold Jarvis concert last night proved to be a great society event. The opera house was packed with the elite of Peterborough and never was a Peterborough audience more delighted. The talented artists were: Monsieur Jubum-Prume, violinist; Mr. Harold Jarvis, baritone; Miss Agnes Dunlop, contralto; and Mrs. H. M. Blight, accompanist. The excellence of the entertainment was never equalled here.

A Bonus to be Returned.

In noticing the announcement that the G.T.R. workshops in Belleville and Brockville were likely to be removed to Kingston the Belleville Ontario says: "It will be noticed from the above that the officials have no knowledge of such a change having been decided upon. It is likely the rumor has been set going by Kingston. Should, however, the change be made, Belleville will demand from the G.T.R. the $33,000 given on condition the shops are maintained here."

The Gunpowder Plot.

The Loyal True Blues intend celebrating the anniversary of the frustration of the gunpowder plot by attending divine service at St. Andrew's, next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. All Orangemen, Prominent Boys and Loyal True Blues in the district are cordially invited to attend. The centre of the plot will be reserved for the brothers. They will form at the True Blues Hall, Simcoe street, and, preceded by the Fire Brigade Band, march to the church where a service of prayer will be held. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Mr. McWilliams.

Open Season for Deer.

The open season for deer hunting commences on Friday, November 1st. Numerous hunting parties will leave Peterborough today for the favorite haunts in the Simcoe woods. The Ray-Rutherford hunting party leave for Cold Lake this morning for a one week's hunt. The party is composed of Messrs. Sam Ray, Theo. Rutherford, A. Blide, Geo. Fitzgerald, Harry Steele, R. J. Fife, J. Ferguson, B. Brown, D. Balleghem and a cook. The Vetch-Merrow party will also leave today. Commodore Stone will not act as legal adviser to a party which will start for One Hill tonight. The market will be overstocked with venison in a few days.

INS AND OUTS

This was heard in the open house last night. They were in a rear seat and she was both pretty and well dressed. But she was in a bad temper because she could not see the driver.

"Why," said he, trying to mollify her, "didn't you bring your own place?"

"I did, but I can't see it."

"No! I forgot to put on my brakes!"

CAPT REYNOLDS DROWNED

UPSET IN A CANOE NEAR THE PIERS AT BUCKHORN.

His Disappearance Not Noticed For Hours After the Accident Occurred—Grappling For the Body Last Night—Canoe, Paddles and Hat Found.

The startling news of the sad death of Captain Samuel Reynolds, of the steamer Golden City, by drowning, reached Peterborough yesterday, and partial particulars were received last night.

Capt. Reynolds left Buckhorn at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon in a canoe to go to the steamer which was at Deer Bay Creek. His friends at Buckhorn thought he had reached the steamer safely until Tuesday morning when the canoe was found drifting on the water three or four hundred yards from the piers at Buckhorn. Near the overturned canoe the paddles and Captain Reynolds' hat were found floating on the water.

It was at once feared that Captain Reynolds had met with an accident and a party was at once despatched in boats to Deer Bay Creek, to see whether he had reached the steamer in safety. The crew on the Golden City had not been alarmed at the captain's absence, thinking he had remained at Buckhorn all night. They were horrified to learn that he had left Buckhorn at 2 o'clock on the previous afternoon.

The only conclusion to be taken was that Captain Reynolds had been drowned, and as the hours passed by and darkness came on, the hopes that were entertained at first that he might have gone ashore at some point and the canoe drifted out into the lake, were dissipated, and it became a sorrowful certainty in the minds of the crew and his friends that he had met a watery grave.

Early yesterday morning several parties, supplied with boats and grappling hooks started out from Buckhorn and Burelgh Falls to find the body. At a late hour last night the search had been fruitless. The Golden City left Deer Bay Creek at 7 o'clock last night and proceeded to Lakeside, where the news of the drowning of Capt. Reynolds had proceeded it.

The Golden City left Lakeside, Capt. Reynolds' home, 10 days ago and has been engaged towing wood and ties to Chemung and Lindsay. Capt. Reynolds left the steamer on Monday morning in a canoe and spent the forenoon at Buckhorn. It is supposed the canoe ran aground a snag and upset. He was not an experienced canoeist.

Capt. Reynolds was in his 45th year and leaves a son and daughter, both grown to manhood and womanhood, and a widow to mourn his terrible death. Less than a year ago he was married to his second wife. He was the owner of the Golden City which is one of the favorite excursion boats on the back lakes. Deceased was widely known in this section and was a popular and much respected gentleman.

Less than two weeks ago, Captain Reynolds was in Peterborough, shaking hands with his host of friends, who will be deeply pained to learn of his unfortunate death.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The Times invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival and departure of guests, the movements of well-known people, business men, &c. All that is required is to send a post card to or telephone THE TIMES.

Mr. W. P. Hamilton, district inspector of inland revenue, is in town on his periodical inspection.

Mr. J. G. Elliot, who for the past eight months has been employed on The Times staff, left Monday morning for Peterborough where he has secured a similar situation. Jim is a good steady hand and we regret his departure from our office. He has many friends in town who will miss him very much.—Fort Hope Times. Mr. Elliott is holding down a "case" on The Morning Times, Peterborough's brightest and newest paper. He is a brother of Mr. T. C. Elliot, proprietor of the Kollings Works, George street.

Mr. C. D. Babcock, of Gormley, is at the Hoffman House.

Mr. A. Black, of Gold Lake, is staying at the Hoffman House.

Mr. W. T. Young, of Young's Point, was in town yesterday.

Mr. M. Davis of Toronto, is registered at the Hoffman House.

Mr. W. R. Madill, of Toronto, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. F. Whitfield, of Montreal, is staying at the Oriental.

Mr. A. M. Thompson, of Toronto, is registered at the Oriental.

Mr. G. F. Campbell, of Montreal, is staying at the Oriental.

John Gilchrist, of Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co., is in Toronto this week attending a special meeting of The Canadian and European Dry Goods Syndicate of which they are the only members from Peterborough.

New Goods

At Clagg's, now arriving every day for the fall trade. Not only fine and expensive furniture, but the cheaper lines as well. Good common chairs at 35c, a good bed, good, all hard wood and well finished, for $1.00. Mattresses, springs, pillows, etc. Cheap extension tables and sideboards. Four fine one hundred lbs long filled full of furniture and all at bottom prices. A. Clagg's 437 George street.

"The Common People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their elements. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement: "I have tried many remedies, but I have found that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best. I have cured many of my friends and family with this medicine and think what many thousands voluntarily say:

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache, &c.

THE LOCK WORKS.

It is reported that the Lock Works' matter will be reopened on account of the mortgages of the present buildings—The Bank of Montreal—having evinced their willingness to make a substantial reduction in the rental. The Lock Works management, when interviewed by a Times' representative last night, stated that no such offer had been received from the mortgagees.

Mr. Carnegie has told the Council that the present buildings are not large enough for their business and that the location is not suitable. The Lock Works were aware that a reduction in rent could be obtained, before negotiations were opened with the town. It is not likely, therefore, that the offer from the Bank of Montreal, at this late day, will induce the Lock Works to remain in their present buildings.

The council having accepted Mr. Carnegie's offer, and the latter having promised to accept the offer upon the shareholders of the Lock Works, cannot now withdraw without breaking faith with the council. By the acceptance of the council's offer, or rather by the Council's acceptance of Mr. Carnegie's offer, the Lock Works secure exemption of taxes, free site and free power, to the extent of 30 horse power, for a period of 10 years. It is not likely that the Lock Works will give this up for a reduction in rental.

No such good luck to the town council is apprehended. The Lock Works have secured generous inducements from the council to remain in Peterborough. It will be in the interests of the town if the matter is reopened and the town can escape the fulfillment of promises that represent $5,000 or $6,000 of the ratepayers' money.

BURGLARS ON BICYCLES.

The Gang Which Has Been Cracking Safes Travelled on Wheels.

The ease with which the burglars who have been blowing open safes in various towns throughout the western district have travelled from place to place without detection has been explained. The provincial detectives who have been on their trail have learned that there are three men in the gang, that they belong to Toronto, and that they travel on bicycles.

The course of the bicycle burglars has been traced from Caledonia to Stratford, to Nottawa, to Pickering, to Oshawa, to Peterborough, to Napanee, and thence to Toronto, at each of which places safes were cracked or burglaries attempted. It puzzled the officers how strangers could enter a town by train and leave again without any trace of them being found, but when they obtained a pointer in respect to the bicycles the whole thing was plain.

The headquarters of the gang is Toronto and their arrest is expected at any time.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Peterborough Protestant Home—Officers Re-Elected.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held yesterday afternoon. Miss Roper, secretary, presented her report showing the work accomplished during the year. The Home is in excellent condition and has been the source of much relief to the poor and infirm during the past year, as heretofore.

Miss Roper, treasurer, presented the following financial statement:

RECEIPTS.
From the Ontario Government as per treasurer's statement, $445.29
From inmates and others for board, 612.00
Subscriptions, 84.28

Total, $2,121.55

EXPENDITURES.
Baldwin Ontario Bank from last year, $401.31
Salaries and wages, 834.70
Maintenance and out-door relief, 837.30
Light and fuel, 23.07
Repairs and furniture, 79.58
Medicine, 44.50
Sundries, 140.30
By balance, 280.53
Total, $2,121.55

Last year's officers were re-elected as follows:

President—Mrs. Vernon.
Vice Presidents—Mrs. James Hall, Mrs. Hazlett.
Treasurer—Miss Roper.
Assistant Treasurers—Mrs. Davis.
Secretary—Miss Roper.

A PLAUSIBLE SOLUTION.

A subscriber sends a solution to the problem published in yesterday's issue. The problem was: On the curves of the street car line is longer than the inner rail; the wheels on the street cars are keyed on to the axle and are supposed to move together in a round angle, so the outer wheels travel faster than those on the inside, which have not so great a distance to travel. If they do how much faster do they travel than those on the inner rail?

Subscriber's solution is as follows: The outer or long curves on a street railway track is necessary as well as the inner to turn the car at right angles, on any other curve. It is explained this way: naturally a person lost in the woods will describe a circle of more or less diameter while wandering through the woods. Why because steps further with one foot than with the other and the difference between the steps governs the circumference of the circle. It is not because he steps quicker with one than the other but further.

On the same principle the outer wheel of a street car travels farther than the inner, but turns no faster. Then how does the outer wheel get around on time with the inner? Supposing the outer wheel to be six inches larger in diameter than the inner wheel, they would not run on a straight track but would describe a circle of the diameter in proportion to the difference of the diameter of the two wheels.

Now in order to overcome this difficulty and to run on a straight track as well as on a curve, the wheels are made in the shape of a cone, being larger at the flange, and as the car being in motion on rounding the curve, it inclines so much on a straight line which causes the outer wheel to turn on its largest part next to the flange and drawing the opposite wheel on the inner track to its smallest diameter. This changes the circumference of the respective wheels (while on the curve) and if the curve of track and the difference in the size of the wheels are in the right proportion, the wheels will slip on the track.

THE PIPES WENT OUT.

BUT BEFORE THEY DID HONG GAP TOLD A FEARFUL TALE.

It Was About Jin Kang and His Cat With The Transparent Red Horns and Hong Gap's Sturdy Grandfather, Who Was Somewhat Of A Man Himself.

The door of the Simcoe street laundry had been locked for the night, for it was well upon 12 o'clock. The hanging lamp in the forenoon was not burning, but a glow from behind the partition was apparent to passers in the street. The Chinese never hire careful carpenters. Few whites see Chinese life except before the partition, and that is not Chinese life, but a crude imitation of American business methods as the Chinaman picks them up from his neighbor.

Behind the partition the Chinaman is himself. The night may be busy, and there may be scores of shirts and hundreds of handkerchiefs to iron out. Don't picture to yourself the Chinaman at the wash-tub, if you would be realistic. Unless he is absolutely poverty-stricken, he hires a woman to wash the clothes. He starches and irons them. That is his art. But this was Saturday night. That is the busy night in the Chinaman's world. At 11 o'clock the work is over and the Mongol has a prospect of two nights and a day, free. He keeps the Sunday better than those who are taught why they should keep it, if you may call abstinence from work keeping the Sabbath. There is plenty for him to do on Sunday. There is a "ting-a-ling" game on a remote street in the afternoon, and at supper time it is a low platform, covered with matting. The alcohol lamp is set in the middle. The heathen sprawl about it. They smoke slowly and luxuriously, and do not go off in the dose that is generally supposed to accompany the inhaling of opium smoking.

They tell stories. Hong Gap, who wears an emerald bracelet, begins. As he is well educated and, of course, tells the story in Chinese, there will be no pigeon English in this poor translation. "I should not tell you this tale," he says, "to my elder brother, whom you know as a book seller in Hong Kong, once wrote a very beautiful account of it. It is the story of my paternal grandfather and his adventures with Jin Kang, the wanderer of Yansheng Mountains. Our family lived, until the last generation, on the mountain near Pien Ping, not far from the Kiang Se border. This illustrious relative, Hong Bin, was a farmer and well to do. In all the mighty province of Kuang Tung there was none with a bolder heart. Jin Kang was the robber chief of the range, but until the time of my story he had never pushed his depredations in the direction of Pien Ping. He sprang from the race of savages that breed where the mountains touch the province of Honan, and his atrocious acts in Kuai Choo and northern Kuang Se had been winded for hundreds of miles.

"Jin Kang was a man of great size and a perfect barbarian. He was said to be devoid of an iota of mercy for his victims. It was common talk that he went about accompanied by a hideous horned cat. The animal had been blinded when young by its savage master. It was described as of the size of a small panther. The horns were sharp and transparently red. Jin Kang, it was told the country people, headed his fierce band with the terrible creature perched on his brawny shoulders. He fed it on women and children, and the cat devoured them living. Our grandfather laughed at the stories, and said that they were well enough to still noisy children.

"But one day it came to pass that Hong Bin no longer sneered at the stories. Word came that Jin Kang was pressing toward the east, drunk with successful murder and robbery. My father and his brothers were down engaged in a fruitless effort to beat off the English at the sea coast. The grandfather was the only man upon the plantation, for I do not count as men the cowardly servants whom he employed." At the first rumor of the approach of the bandit they fled to places of concealment.

"The terror of the mountains came sooner than he was expected. It was learned early one evening that he had camped upon the mountain trail about a mile from my grandfather's house. The old man said to have taken the news with a strange calmness, though his lips were drawn tightly over his teeth. According to my brother's book, he asked some of the neighbors who passed in their flight of terror what they knew about the horned cat of Jin Kang. Few of them knew anything of the strange beast, except that he was the most horrible thing in the world.

"That evening one of my aunts went into the garden to find her father, and he was carefully picking weeds and stuffing them into his pocket. She spoke to him and he told her to return to the house and with her mother and sisters, conceal themselves in their rooms.

"It was dark when the bandit came. The old man knew his methods. Jin Kang would come up without using his weapons and then, with a smile, enter the house and slowly and carefully butcher its occupants. Hong Bin was sitting in the main room of the house, when the light aroused him. The hairy, horned giant entered. In one hand he bore his war club, and with the other he held the leash of the horned cat. It went far beyond grandfather's most vivid imagery. The horns were a foot long and very sharp. It was blind and tailless. It snarled when it smelt meat.

"What I have wished for in the west," replied Jin Kang.

"Where are your savage companions?" "I have not seen fit to bring them to night. One likes pleasure alone now and then."

"Then—" "I must tear you to pieces so slowly that even Gang nu will be impatient. How hungry he is! Where are your daughters?"

"Jin Kang" said my grandfather, rising "it is many a year since my eyes have come to a man of your size. It would be an easy thing for you to tear me to pieces, even with your war club thrown away and without the aid of your congenial devil."

"Jin Kang, grinning, laid down the club and said: 'The cat: lead to the bathroom. Then he turned his arms and surveyed my aged grandfather and little granddaughter with an eye full of appetite. The old man's face fell as he assumed a look of piteous pleading. He ran toward Jin Kang and fell on his knees, as though to beg for his life. But as he fell, his hands came from his sleeves and he was tearing Jin Kang in the twinkling of an eye, as he dashed between the giant's legs, seized the club and rising, snarled the night shout as he lay tearing open the bandit's back.

"Then from his pocket he took cord and bound Jin Kang leg and ankle. He stripped the wolf's skin from the bandit's breast and left it bare. The demon roared and the blind cat snarled, but Hong Bin was quietly about his work. From his

Nervous Diseases

Hundreds of people suffer from a variety of nervous diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Loss of Manhood, etc., that the old methods of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of surgery is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 31, 1906.

THE ELECTIONS.

Laurier has had his innings, and now the government party goes to the bad. All of which goes to show that the elections are not far off. Who will be the candidate in West Peterborough? It is probable that Mr. Stevenson is to be the conservative nominee, but who will take the field for the Reformers? It is said that Dr. Goldsmith would accept the nomination, if unanimously tendered him by the Reform party. Mr. Richard Hall is also spoken of, and should he be prevailed upon to accept, would make it decidedly interesting for the people's Jimmy. Should the Reformers fail to secure a candidate, Mr. Henry Denne, will undoubtedly be requested to take the field as an independent, in which event there will be wigs on the green.

If Britain gets into war with Russia and France the support which the United States will give to England will do much to cement the bond between the motherland and the republic, and will eradicate the many petty jealousies which now tend to strain relations between their peoples.

The Mail-Enterprise terms the recent progress of Mr. Laurier "a calamitous tour." The Ottawa Free Press retorts that from a Conservative point of view it may have been one. They will no doubt regard their obliteration at the general election as a calamity.

Who is to be Mayor? That is the question. If long and faithful services, on the council board count for anything Mr. Cahill deserves the promotion. The only objection we have to Mr. Cahill taking the Mayor's chair is, that the Finance Committee will be deprived of its valuable head. However, as Mayor, Mr. Cahill can take a hand in all committees.

Russia and France are a pretty formidable combination, but Britain and Japan are something in the way of a strong team, too, and with Germany and the United States to back them up will be able to administer a trouncing which the Czar and his ally will not be apt to soon forget.

London County Council has under consideration a plan for a pure water supply that involves the construction of an aqueduct 170 miles long, extending from the Welsh mountains. The supply will be 415,000,000 gallons daily and the estimated cost $194,000,000.

KENT.

On Monday evening our citizens were startled by the cry of fire. Owing to the high wind a chimney in the dwelling house of Mr. James Bryce took fire, and for a short time the adjoining buildings were in great danger from sparks blowing from the burning chimney. Luckily the fire abated before any damage was done.

A number of sheep have been worried by dogs in this vicinity during the past few weeks. It would be prudent if a number of our citizens would destroy the useless curs which are incessantly prowling and howling around our village.

Our neighborhood is at present infested with meat thieves. A number of farmers are missing a quantity of Oats and other grain. The guilty parties are suspected, and the possibilities are they will be arrested.

Many of our local sports are camped out on different points of Rice Lake and report wild ducks very plentiful.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Andrew Wiler, who has been in poor health for the past few months, is rapidly recovering, under the skillful treatment of Dr. Shaw.

Cholera can be successfully treated only by purifying the blood, and the one true blood purifier is Dodd's Sarsaparilla.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

No one is useless in this world who lightens the burden of it for another. We attract hearts by the qualities we display; we retain them by the qualities we possess.

Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us to find it not.

Though the body may shrink labor, the brain is not idle. If it does not grow corn it will grow thistles.

Poverty is not dishonorable in itself, but only when it arises from idleness, intemperance, extravagance, and folly.

It is good discretion not to make too much of any man at the first, because one cannot hold out that proportion.

Nothing is more destructive of individual character than for a man to lose all faith in his own abilities for the prosecution of his work.

Deride not any man's deformities, but bless God they are not yours. Men shall answer at God's bar for their vicious habits, but not for their natural imperfections.

Now what is first and foremost among the reasons which make a nation strong and great? Work. Not machine work; but work into which the worker puts his pride, his joy, his happiness.

To commit the execution of a purpose to one who disapproves of the plan of it, is to employ but one-third of the man; his heart and his head are against you, you have commanded only his hands.

The great moments of life are but moments like the others. Your doom is spoken in a word or two. A single look from the eyes, a mere pressure of the hand, may decide it; or of the lips, though they cannot speak.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as timbale could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the base of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

ANOTHER FRENCH CRISIS

A MINISTRY RETIRED AFTER NINE MONTHS' LIFE.

The Ribot Ministry Defeated in the Chamber of Deputies Yesterday on a Question of Public Morals.

Special to The Times.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—For attempting to shield the guilty in the Southern Railway scandal, the Ribot Ministry was overthrown in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

The Ministry which has just gone out of office was constituted January 27, 1905, ten days after the election of M. Felix Faure as President of the Republic.

The excitement caused by the overthrow of the Government was all the more intense as the defeat of the Cabinet was totally unexpected.

The vote by which the motion was adopted was 210 to 211. The motion was as follows: The Chamber of Deputies, considering that it was proper to interdict its members from taking part in the operations of financial syndicates is resolved to throw complete light on the affairs of the Southern Railway, and invites the Minister of Justice to fulfill all his responsibilities.

Immediately upon the adoption of the motion the Ministers fled out of the Chamber for the purpose of proceeding to the Palace of Elvree, the residence of President Faure, and placing their resignations in his hands. The downfall of the Cabinet has caused great excitement in the city.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Journal Des Debats, the Dix Neufieme Siecle, and other Moderate papers explore the fact that the Chamber of Deputies did not accept the statement of the Ministry regarding the Southern Railway scandal instead of voting the Government down. The result is, these journals say, that the Chamber has afforded the country a spectacle of inconsistency and recklessness, the consequence of which it will probably be the first to regret.

The Radical and Socialist press are delighted at the result. The Conservative papers declare that the Ministry has fallen on the question of public morals.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—President Faure had an interview with Premier Ribot at the Palace of the Elysee this morning and will consult with M. Chaulieu, Labour and Brissot, respectively president of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, this afternoon.

A YOUNG WIFE'S DEATH.

Crushed in her House Which Accidentally Caught Fire.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—At 4 o'clock this morning the dwelling of Mr. Francis John Niel, seven miles from here, the township of Osborne, was burned to the ground. Mrs. Niel perished in the flames and Niel was badly burned on the hands and arms.

The fire originated in the kitchen from some unknown cause, and the entire house was aflame inside before Mr. and Mrs. Niel, who were sleeping upstairs, were awakened.

Niel managed to find his way down stairs. Not finding his wife, whom he supposed had fled to her room, he made desperate efforts to save her, but being alone he could do nothing. This morning her charred remains were found.

Mr. and Mrs. Niel were married last spring. She was Miss Creasey and both were residents of Osborne.

A NEW CLUB.

Home Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodo's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other remedy has been found so completely effective.

Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

MURDER IN VANCOUVER.

J. E. Freeman Killed and His Body Thrown into the Inlet—Robbery.

Special to The Times.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 29.—J. E. Freeman, Union Steamship Co.'s wharfinger was murdered and his body thrown into the Inlet last night, where it was found this morning. Robbery seems to have been the motive, as the murdered man's pockets were rifled. There is no clue.

TALK UNITED STATES

THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE COMPARED WITH THE ENGLISH.

A London Publication Calls Attention to the Difference in the Names Applied to Ordinary Articles—With Some Exceptions We "Speak United States."

"I am free, white, 21, and I speak United States," is the modern declaration of independence of every native adult American citizen.

The traveled American—everything by turns and nothing long—who aims at cosmopolitanism and invariably misses the target altogether, and the naturalized creature of indefinite origin, may not proclaim for "United States," but they adopt it all the same, in deference to the subtle power politicians call the vis major.

The American language used to be English, of course—English pure and simple, if English ever was either pure or simple—but it has prospered on its own account, like other things American, and now the English language is being Americanized, like the English nobility, and its vitality is considerably benefited by the process.

That English is still the basis of "United States" the most thoroughbred American will not deny—the thoroughgoing American never denies facts, the game not being worth the candle, and he never plays games in the dark. The language is the same, with a difference, and in that lies the root of the matter and this article, for though London and New York speak a common, very common, Anglo-Saxon, if we forget for the moment the veneer of French, Latin, Greek and other languages with which it has been polished, yet the meaning of many words, from which language derives its significance, is considerably modified and altered in their passage across the Atlantic, and they become nearly if not quite as unintelligible as the cockney would find the dialect of a Northumberland village.

Thus, if a Londoner is fortunate enough to cross the Atlantic and be introduced to a sky which has not been discolored by smoke, a sun which has not been dimmed by fog and an atmosphere which the powers have not forgotten to dry and is as stimulating as champagne, but is unfortunately enough to have to buy a frock coat—a most expensive article—or to order one—as a rule, quite a different matter—he must call it "a Prince Albert."

Prince Albert coat it is in republican America, whatever it may be in monarchical England, where "Albert the Good" is occasionally remembered when the anniversary of his death comes round.

If he wants a billycock hat, he will never get it if he asks for it by that name. He must request the shopman to bring him a derby.

Should the coverings of his feet be worn out and he orders a new pair of boots, he will be given Wellingtons, which are "boots" in the American language. If he wants English boots, he must ask for "shoes," while if he likes to show pretty socks and wears Oxford shoes he must call for "ties," or "low tops," and "slippers" if he needs pumps.

As if all that, too, that he does not buy articles in a shop, but at a "store," and he will be sent to its different departments by a "floorwalker," not a shopwalker.

If he would travel in the city, and he desires to use the most desired of New York's public conveyances, which luxury for those whose time is valuable fly only up and down aristocratic Fifth avenue, he must forget that such an abomination as an omnibus ever existed and hail a "stage," while if he wishes to go by or talk about what he would at home, call it a "motor," as in the American language, never forget that he walks on the "sidewalk," not on the pavement.

Should he unfortunately happen to get ill, let him boldly declare that he "feels sick," entirely heedless of what he would be understood to mean home, or it will be taken that he is nauseated, for the words sick and ill mean just the reverse of what they signify in London, and if his doctor gives him a prescription let him not ask to be directed to a chemist, or he will be sent off to a manufacturer of chemicals, if any one knows the address of such a firm, but let him seek for a "pharmacy" or "drug store."

Instead of a draper's shop he will find a "dry goods store," and if he desires to go to one of the upper floors he will take the "elevator," though, as is so frequently the case, the reverse is the truth, for he will certainly not discover a lift, while, if his wife has requested him to buy her some hairpins, hooks and eyes, buttons or other small articles, he will find them at the "notion counter."

As, being a stranger, he will not have his own carriage, he will, if he wants a drive, "ride" in a "wagon," which is not a cart for carrying packages, but a very comfortable, light, open vehicle, or else in a "buggy," an equally light conveyance with a hood, but open at the sides. If he prefers a single horse brougham, he will do well to call it a "coupe," and if he asks for a "carriage" he will get a Victoria with a pair of horses.

In the evening he will naturally go to the theater, but he must be careful to ask for "orchestra seats" if he wants stalls, while if his tastes are not for drama proper, and he prefers a music hall entertainment, he should invite his friend to go to a "variety show."

If a play is advertised as a "farce comedy," and he imagines he will see a farcical comedy, he will be doomed to disappointment, for a farce comedy is only an alleged play in which the characters are taken by variety show "artists" who introduce their "specialties"—song and dance—in season and out of season. In other words, it is a cousin german to a music hall entertainment without the diversity in the programme.

In the pronunciation United States is a law unto itself, and if the awkward Londoner gets "busted" or wants employment as a clerk let him not call himself a "clerk," for people will open their eyes at his peculiar occupation, and let him also remember that he wears a derby hat, not a daffy.

Above all, let him avoid as he would a plague the nasal twang which passes current for the American accent on the London stage unless he hankers after being mistaken for a denizen of the "wild and woolly west," or as hailing from Oklahoma or Kalumazoo, both of which places, in spite of a popular belief to the contrary, will be found on the map of the country over which the stars and stripes float and the baldheaded eagle soars.—London Saturday Review.

An Interesting Lecture.
A large audience listened to an intensely interesting lecture delivered last night by Rev. J. J. Zimmerman, the venerable Indiana clergyman, in St. John's church.

The Saturday Times.
The Saturday Times will be a 10 page paper this week, and will be brimful of interesting reading matter in the way of special articles and local and foreign news. Look out for special announcements.

Gratefully Acknowledged.
The Children's Aid Society acknowledge with thanks the receipt of $10 from Mr. T. S. Cole on behalf of the committee in charge of the recent at Otter Lake, last summer. This sum was from the collections at the services.

Granville P. Kleiser.
Mr. Granville P. Kleiser, the well known entertainer, who delighted an audience here last year, will appear in the opera house tonight. Mr. Kleiser is a refined entertainer of a most interesting nature, and he should be welcomed in town by a large house.

Are You Particular
About the quality of bread you eat? If you want the best and most healthful ask for Baker's bread. It is the only reliable homemade bread in Peterborough. Sold at all grocers and at Emmerson's, Kerr's, Weir's and Dowie's, Ashburnham. Every loaf stamped large and plain B.

Look Out for Counterfeits.
It will be just as well for people handling money to look a little carefully at their $1 and $2 bills. The recent arrest of one of a gang of counterfeiters brings to light the fact that a good many have been put into circulation, though it is understood they are not of the highest kind of examination is required to enable the forger to be detected.

Not Yet Found.
As far as could be learned by communication with Lakeside late last night, the body of Capt. Reynolds had not been found. A party left Lakeside at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to grapple for the body, and had not returned at midnight. It is not likely they were successful in their search, as they agreed to search in the Lakeside as soon as they succeeded in securing the body.

An Evening Amusement.
A new form of evening entertainment is called a "heart party." A large heart, made of red felt cloth, is placed upon a sheet hung from a door. In the centre of the heart is saved a small circle of white. Arrows of white cloth, with pins placed therein, are given to the guests, each arrow bearing a number, the number corresponding to a list between the names and numbers of the guests are placed. The object of the game, of course, is to see which person, when blindfolded, will pin the arrow nearest to the central spot of white. Four prizes may be offered, one each for the persons coming nearest to the centre, and one each to those coming furthest from the heart's eye. The prizes may be a heart shaped pin cushion, a heart shaped photograph frame, silver heart shaped pin and a heart shaped box of buttons. The lucky person may be a reward holding a very heart and a pin cushion made of red satin and shaped like a heart.

Express Companies on the Alert For Robbers—Precautions Taken.

The recent series of safe-blowing robberies in Quebec and the still later robbery at Myrtle station, has aroused the officers of the Canadian and Dominion Express Companies in Ontario, who have sent to their agents throughout the province circulars warning them to be on the alert and to keep a watch for the parties suspected of safe-blowing in Quebec, descriptions of whom have been supplied.

Agents having charge of express cars are cautioned against allowing any person not in authority to occupy the car with them, a breach of this being sufficient to cause dismissal.

All the agents are supplied with revolvers to defend themselves and the money in their charge.

THE ANDERSON CASE.

Sheriff Denton Leaves for Kentucky Without His Man.

The following in regard to the Anderson affair, is taken from the Port Hope Gazette:

Chief Douglas on being interviewed today, says Morrison is a fraud of the first water, and that he never received any paper from him in reference to the matter, and Mr. Douglas knows from most authentic authority, that the suspected murderer is a very respectable mechanic, who has been living in Toronto for the past seven years, his wife and family residing there at present. He has been in the employ of Messrs. Cannon, builders, Toronto, for nearly four years, and is now working at the Trinity College School here.

Mr. Denton arrived here by 10 o'clock train from Peterborough last night, and after thoroughly satisfying himself that this was not the man wanted, left for home by the eight o'clock train this morning.

Morrison's record while in Port Hope, is not a creditable one, as when he came here first he stopped at the Royal Hotel, and beat the landlord out of his board; he then went to board with a poor woman in Brown street, named Mrs. Marvin, and beat her out of $10; then another poor woman in ward one, named Mrs. Firman, and beat her out of $10 also.

THE QUESTION OF CESS POOLS.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR,—As an old resident of Peterborough and an interested taxpayer, I have the greatest regret against the precedent which the town council established at its last meeting by granting permission to Miss Grundy to place a cess pool on Water street in front of her property. Councillors Dawson, I believe, spoke in favor of granting this permission and strongly favored the inauguration of a system, which, if carried out extensively, will breed doubt and pestilence in our fair town, and create a great public nuisance. I would like to ask Councillor Dawson how he would like to have a reeking cess pool of stench and corruption stuck under his nose.

It was urged in favor of the granting of the permission to the applicant, that this cess pool was to be buried 6 feet under the ground. Suppose it is buried 30 feet under the ground, it will still have to be cleaned out, and the very fact that it is buried will obstruct the means of cleaning. If the council gives permission to one taxpayer to establish a cess pool in the street, all taxpayers have the right to the same privilege, and submit that with our residential streets undermined with cess pools, Peterborough will not be fit for the habitation of mankind.

I understand the residents of Water street, in the vicinity of Miss Grundy's, are a unit in opposing the creation of this cess pool, and as one of them, I urge upon the Council the immediate rescinding of the permission granted Miss Grundy.

"D" COMPANY DINNER.

THE "SOGER" BOYS GATHER ROUND THE FESTIVE BOARD.

Lieut. Col. Bell Makes a Capital Address to the Company—A Splendid Repast. Numerous Toasts and a General Good Time.

One of the most enjoyable of battalion events was "D" Company dinner at the Oriental Hotel last night. A full company sat down to a sumptuous repast, with Capt. K. G. Lech, and Lieut. V. McGill presiding. The guests of the evening were, Lieut. Col. Bell, Capt. Hayes, of "F" Company, Adjutant Mason, Band Master Finch Miller and Sergt.-Major Peters. A most inviting repast was heartily discussed from the following elaborate menu:

ENTREES.
OYSTERS—Blue Points.
ROTCU.
Potage a la Purée de Pois Verts.
FISH.
Billed Salmon, Sauce Supreme.
ROTFED.
Sugar Cured Ham, Champagne Sauce.
Leg of Mutton, French Capers.

ENTREES.
Chicken a la Chipolata. Blanquet of Veal.
Parmesan Cheese Straws.
Spanish Fritters, Beignets de Pommes.
ROAST.
Sirloin of Beef, Yorkshire Pudding.
Short Ribs of Beef, Brown Potatoes.
Leg of Lamb, Mint Sauce.
Young Turkey and Cranberries.

RELISHES.
Goose and Apple Sauce.
SALADS.
Celery. Mixed Pickles. Chili Sauce.
Lobster Salad. Salad a la Francaise.
Mayonnaise of Cabbage.

VEGETABLES.
Boiled and Mashed Potatoes.
Escalloped Tomatoes. French Peas.
PASTRY.
English Plum Pudding and Brandy Sauce.
Baked Apple Pudding.
Apple Pie. Duke of Devonshire Pie.
Peach Tart.

DESSERT.
Strawberry Blanc Manger, Beverly Snow.
Champagne Jelly. Cherry Wine Jelly.
Krinkle Ice Cream. Assorted Cake.
Grapes. Apples. Oranges.
Nuts and Raisins.
Milk. Tea. Coffee.

The toast list was a long one and afforded a most pleasant two hours' enjoyment. The toasts were responded to as follows:

"The Queen"—The company.
Our commanding officer—Lieut. Col. Bell.
Officers of No. 4 Company—Capt. Lech and Lieut. McGill.

Non-coms. of No. 4 Company—Sergeant Distan, Sergt. Smith, Corporal Tremaine, Corporal Evans and Private Thorndyke.
Sergeant's mess and band—Sergt.-Major Peters, Band Master Miles.

Other Companies of the Battalion—Capt. Hayes and Adjutant Mason.
The Press—The press representatives.
The Ladies—Lieut. McGill.
Baby of the Company—Lieut. Col. Bell.

In proposing the toast "Our Commanding Officer," Lieut. Col. Bell paid Lieut. Col. Bell a graceful compliment, stating that he was a popular commander and that he asked for no better. In response Col. Bell said he was pleased by the hearty manner in which his toast had been drunk. He was pleased if he was popular with the battalion. He felt exceedingly proud, if, after 18 years' connection with the battalion they felt that way about him, for it was not often an officer could serve for that period without making some enemies. No doubt if he had courted popularity, he would have made enemies. It was not an easy matter to be a commanding officer. Discipline had to be enforced, and this often was done at the sacrifice of the friendly feeling of the men. There was a difference between disciplining volunteers and regular corps, and he recognized it fully. He intended to enforce discipline, in a kindly manner, and he believed the men of the battalion would stand by him for it. It was his aim to set the battalion an example in discipline, by obedience to his superior officers. He would endeavor to merit their confidence and respect. Col. Bell said he might have to reduce some of his command things they would not like at the time, but he counselled obedience without questioning the right or wrong of these requirements. Obedience was the first lesson a soldier should learn. There must be discipline.

"I will never ask you to do anything you have no right to do," continued the speaker. "nor will I countenance it in my officers."

"The battalion this year has not been as I would like to have it, although at the inspection you pulled yourselves together, as you seem to be able to do every year. But this is a splendid way of attaining perfection. He then referred to the non-attendance at drill, and of some few who absented themselves from drill after the annual trip.

"During spring I will start drill early in the season—about the middle of March, so that you will be thoroughly organized at the start of the season, and be able to go through the annual inspection by July."

"The annual trip will be taken the evening of inspection day, and you will be thus enabled to make a more creditable showing. I will try and arrange for the visit of one or two outside battalions for the 24th of May. I would like that to be our day at home, and the last of July our holiday away." The Lieut. Col. here explained why this was desirable.

In conclusion he hoped and voiced his intention of having a class for the Non-Coms. organized as soon as possible. He would like to see some of them arrange to attend the military school for a course of instruction this winter. He thought the battalion had taken a new lease of life, and if the men would turn out to drill and take the proper interest in their companies, there was no reason why the battalion should not attain the standing now held by the 13th battalion of Hamilton. "I feel that I have officers and men at my back fit for any emergency," were the closing words of the commanding officer.

During the course of his remarks, Col. Bell spoke in high regard of Capt. Lech and Lieut. McGill. They were enthusiastic and energetic officers.

Capt. Lech said he was proud of his company. He regretted that business matters had prevented him from giving it the attention he would like to give it. While "D" Company was not first, it had always retained its position in the battalion.

Lieut. McGill was enthusiastically received when he arose to respond to the toast "The officers of No. 4 Co." He said he didn't think he was worthy of all that had been said of him, but he hoped to deserve it in the future. He approved of starting the drill early. It would give the battalion better opportunities to make a good showing at inspection.

During the evening the company were favored with songs from Sergt. Major Peters, Band Master Miles, Pte. Dawson and Pte. Sherwood, Capt. Lech, Capt. Hayes and others.

The dinner was a great success and was thoroughly enjoyed by the aggregation of boys in red of "D" company.

PRaise FOR THE TIMES.

THE MORNING TIMES is daily greeted with compliments from subscribers. The fact is THE TIMES is the most widely read as well as the newest paper in the Eastern district.

Mr. William Clancy, of Norwood, was in town yesterday and had the following to say of us: "We look for THE TIMES every morning as ardently as we do for our breakfasts. It is the newest and brightest paper in this section."

Mr. James Stevenson, M. P., also paid THE TIMES a great compliment. "It is the best paper in this district," said the popular M. P., "and gives more news than any other paper I take, outside of the city dailies. It is bright, fearless and there is no use talking, it's the paper of the town."

Mr. C. W. Sowers told us yesterday that numerous people had spoken to him about THE TIMES. They declared it was the newest paper in Peterborough and Eastern Ontario.

Assurances from all quarters convince us that THE TIMES, in its endeavor to furnish the citizens of Peterborough and district, with the freshest news, and all the news, is appreciated.

INS AND OUTS.

A communication addressed to "The Morning Scoop," was unhesitatingly placed into THE TIMES' post office box by the intelligent clerk. Everybody knows which paper gets the "scoops."

What with sewers, law suits and cess pools and a few inconsistent councillors, Peterborough is in a bad way.

The mistakes of the council of 1895 would make a cess pool that should be buried 4,000 feet under the green carpet of mother earth.

The deer hunting season opens tomorrow. There will be more "horns" taken to the back country than brought back.

Kentucky must be running short of murderers when all will be of a sheriff all the way to Peterboro for one.

A man with a pained expression of countenance sat on a dry goods box, on George street.

"Are you ill?" some one asked.
"No."
"Have you lost anything?"
"Never had anything to lose."
"What's the matter, then?"
"I'm sitting on a wasp."
"Why don't you get up?"
"Well, that was my first impulse; but I got to thinking I was hurtin' the wasp as badly as he was hurtin' me, and concluded to sit here a while."

It is reported that Councillors Dawson and Cahill will spend Halloween discussing the pranks they played on the "old boys," and how on one Halloween, years ago, they picked up an outfall sewer and placed it on top of a church in dear old Ballyhoole.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 1 1895.

THE GOVERNMENT'S TROUBLE

In electing a successor to Mr. Madill, of North Ontario, the government party see no hope of a securing a man that will be with them on the Manitoba School question. A nomination has been made, that of John A. McGillivray, Q. C., of Uxbridge, better known as the supreme secretary of the Independent Order of Foresters, whose chief commendation lies in his stand of "non-interference in the Manitoba school question." Cardwell may elect a conservative in lieu of Mr. White, but he will also be against the government on the school question. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the federal government should be anxious about the answer the Manitoba government will make to its second appeal for suggestion or compromise, looking to the removal of the issue from dominion politics. This repudiation of the government's stand by its nominees in conservative strongholds is a very remarkable circumstance, and adds not a little to the trouble of the government.

There are six bye-elections on the carpet before the House meets. There are other things Sir Mackenzie would prefer just now to a bye-election.

Our ever bright and newsy contemporary, the Hamilton Herald, puts it this way: In view of the facts brought out at the Holmes trial in Philadelphia about that mysterious Chicago castle of crime it is probably true that

Through pleasure and palaces, where're one roams,
Be it ever so humble there's no place like Holmes'.

Sir Mackenzie Howell and Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper have reached Washington safely. That is some consolation. But, as the Hamilton Herald puts it, there is still the awful fear that it was unwise to let them stray so far away from home without a nurse.

In our editorial remarks in our issue of yesterday, under the head of "The Elections," the type makes us say "Laurier has had his innings and now the government party goes to the bad." The error is in the last word, which should read "bat."

THE CESS POOL NUISANCE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I was pleased to notice that the residents in the vicinity are protesting against the cess pool which the Council has authorized Miss Grundy to construct at the corner of Water and Macdonald street. Councillor Dawson, who has the opinion that he is always right, and everybody who happens to differ with him is always wrong, in his characteristic manner not only moved the resolution granting permission to construct the cess pool referred to on the street, but went so far as to say that the street was the proper place for these disease-breeding spots. I would like to ask this self-appointed sanitary expert what would become of us if his ideas were adopted and our citizens generally were to empty their filth in a pit in front of their doors? Does he not know that gases generate, and must find an outlet? What has the Board of Health got to say about it? Surely that body must afford the citizens protection from such an outrage, for such I claim it to be? How dare Mr. Dawson and his friends at the Council give the street for any such purpose? I hope the Council will lose no time in rescinding the resolution. Should they not do so, I understand the people residing in the neighborhood intend to seek protection from the courts.

DAIRY NOTES.

Remember that the value of butter increases with the quality.

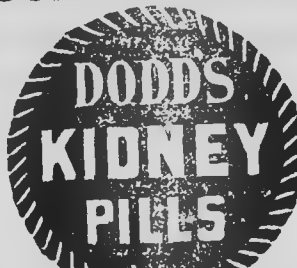

Milk from cows nearing the period of lactation does not churn as easily as milk from fresh cows.

An exchange truly says that creamerymen everywhere owe themselves and their patrons the obligation to use every effort in their power to stamp out and crush the monstrous fraud called filled cheese.

The great secret in fancy butter-making, says a dairy writer, is a studied purpose to keep all foreign substances out of the milk, cream and butter, and have only original material from start to finish and fancy butter results.

The New York Experiment Station has been making some practical tests with cows, as to the amount of water they drink. It was found that during lactation, or the milk-giving period, the average per month was 1,000 pounds.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. ## EXPENSES OF A DINING CAR.

Costly Service Maintained For the Convenience of Travelers.

A modern dining car of the most approved pattern costs $15,000 to build. Next come the kitchen utensils, the table furniture, the silverware and linen, averaging about $3,000 worth to a car. Each car must have a steward, who usually gets $100 a month, and a head cook, who values himself at $75 a month. There must also be one or two assistant cooks and three or four waiters. Three hundred dollars a month is the very smallest outlay for wages, while the cost of raw food material, breaking of dishes and the board of employees is about $8,000 per month additional. An average five days' run costs very nearly $600 for food and service, so that it would take 40 persons at every meal on the run to pay the daily expenses without allowing anything for interest on the investment or for wear and tear on the furnishings. The kitchen of a dining car contains every convenience except room. There is a range capable of doing all the boiling, broiling, baking and stewing for hundreds of people, yet occupying comparatively no space at all. There is a board for the carver, a bin and table for the baker and a sink for the dishwasher, with shelves and imperishable supplies, all in an area of 5 by 13 feet at most. Every inch of space is carefully utilized. Under the car is the cellar or refrigerator, where ice, beef, mutton, poultry, milk, butter and other perishable supplies are kept.

The steward, who is in charge of all this, must be a good guesser. To be sure, the dining car is run on the principle that no money will be made anyway; that one road must run it because a competing road does; that the traveler must therefore have the best in the market for a fair price, and that it is better to throw away unused and spoiled material at the end of a trip than to run out of some necessary on the way. Yet I imagine that the steward who has the lowest average of wasted food stands highest in his employer's regard. The first thing he has to do is to make out the bills of fare for the trip. These must be approved by the head of the commissary department. The chef buys the necessary supplies, but the steward has to turn in an inventory of them at the starting point, and also a statement of what has been used on route and what is left at the end of the run. There is no method of estimating the exact number of meals that will need to be served during the run, particularly if it be a short one. Suppose it is to be made from Washington to New York. Individual methods of economy are very different. While some prefer to pay $1.25 for the extra comfort of a seat in a parlor car, there are others who think the common coach good enough and prefer to spend their dollar in the dining car. Again, there are some who frequent both parlor and diner, and others who care for neither. For a longer journey every berth in the sleeper may be occupied, and yet the dining car may be practically tenanted, or the sleeper may be nearly empty and the diner full of people from the day coach, or it may be crowded with the occupants of both. As the steward goes through the train on tour of inspection or in giving his first call for a meal he must note the number of luncheons and guess from the faces and dress of the passengers how many orders he will have. But even his best judgment will be far out of the way, for the lunchbox may be for the next day's light repeat, or some of the best dressed passengers may not be at all disposed to patronize the dining car or not.—Kate Field's Washington.

How a Fish Breathes.
The gills of a fish are situated at the back part of the sides of the head and consist of a number of vascular membranes, which are generally arranged in double, fringed rows, attached to the parts by the base only. In some cases these membranes are further shaped, in others they are folded attached to the sides of the gill cavity. The fish is a cold blooded animal—that is to say, its temperature is seldom more than a degree or two higher than the water in which it lives. This being true, the creature needs but a very small amount of oxygen to keep the blood at a temperature sufficiently high to sustain life. This oxygen is supplied to the blood of the fish by respiring large quantities of water, or rather drinking large quantities of water, and respiring the air separated from it by the gills. This explains why a fish cannot live in a tank of water which has been sifted through the gills time and time again any better than a human being or other animal can live in air that has been deprived of all its oxygen by being taken into lungs and expelled without being aerated. Fish that die in the stale water of aquariums may be properly said to drown, because they perish for want of air, the same thing which occasions death by drowning in man and other lung breathing animals.—St. Louis Republic.

The Order of the Garter.
An evening journal, in a dissertation on the Order of the Garter, states that it consists of 88 ordinary knights and 36 extra knights, which is quite wrong. There is no fixed number of extra knights, who are all royal personages, and there were only six of them when the queen's reign commenced, whereas there are now 98. During the last two financial years $1,800 has been paid by the public to the dean and chapter of Windsor and to the Garter officers in respect of fees and expenses in connection with the creation of three extra knights. In all other countries such payments are made by the knights themselves, but here the taxpayers find the money, and last year the lord chamberlain received $2,800 to provide and repair insignia of the various orders of knighthood.—London Truth.

Last Letter of Emin Pasha.
Sir William Flower has communicated to the Zoological society some posthumous tidings of Emin Pasha. This was a letter concerning some zoological specimens which never arrived in England at all, having been lost at the time of Emin's murder. The letter and the journal—principally relating to observations upon birds—which accompanied it were written in a fine and minute hand, like copper plate engraving. The letter had the additional and melancholy interest of being perhaps the last that Emin Pasha wrote. He was in constant correspondence with the president of the Zoological society about matters of zoological interest and always wrote in English, which apparently he knew nothing until he went to Africa.—New York Times.

Grandma's Preference.
LITTLE Johnny—Grandma says she likes cold weather, but I don't see why. She can't go shivering, and she can't shiver, and she can't slide down hill.
Little Ethel—I guess she likes cold weather 'cause she breathes on her spectacles they get wet enough to wipe.—Good News.

Intercolonial Railway OF CANADA.

THE DIRECT ROUTE BETWEEN THE West and the East. Through Quebec, also for New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward and Cape Breton Islands, Newfoundland and St. Pierre. Express trains leave Montreal and Halifax daily (Sunday excepted) and run through without change between these points. The through express train runs of the Intercolonial Railway are brilliantly lighted by electricity and heated by steam from the locomotive, thus greatly increasing the comfort and safety of travelers. Comfortable and elegant buffet sleeping and day cars are run on all through express trains. The popular summer sea bathing and fishing resorts of Canada are all along the Intercolonial, or are reached by that route.

Canadian European Mail and Passenger Route.

Passengers for Great Britain or the Continent leaving Montreal Friday morning will join outward mail steamer at Halifax on Saturday. The attention of shippers is directed to the superior facilities offered by this route for the transport of fruit and general merchandise intended for the Eastern Provinces, Newfoundland and the West Indies, also for shipments of grain and produce intended for the European market. Tickets may be obtained, and all information about the route, also freight and passenger rates, on application to N. ## POND'S EXTRACT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 29, 1894. I have used "Pond's Extract" for many years and always insist upon my patients getting "Pond's," not the ordinary Extract, which is often a very poor article. W. K. BROWN, M. D.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 9, 1895. I use Pond's Extract a great deal in my practice. I think it very valuable in all venous enlargements.

J. L. BRADFORD, M. D.
SANTA BARBARA, CAL., Nov. 27, 1894. I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years. I frequently have the experience you mention of drug-gists insisting they can put up as good as yours. I don't believe it. I use Pond's Extract a great deal as an antiseptic in combination with glycerine and carbolic acid. I think it far superior to any antiseptic known. F. G. FLOUNOV, M. D.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Jan. 18, 1895. I have been a constant user of Pond's Extract since 1852, and do not expect to discontinue it while I live. S. ARMOR, M. D.

CHELSEA, MASS., Nov. 8, 1894. I have made diseases of the skin a specialty for thirty years, and am free to say I know of no remedy that has given me such perfect satisfaction as Pond's Extract in cases for which it is recommended.

G. W. BARCOCK, M. D.
ASTHMATIC INSTITUTE, Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 8, 1894. I know Pond's Extract to be a valuable remedy, and shall continue its use whenever the opportunity offers.

GEO. H. CALKINS, M. D.
NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 13, 1894. I am pleased with the purity and strength of Pond's Extract.

J. L. DURYEE, M. D.
POND'S EXTRACT is used by the leading physicians and principal hospitals of America and Europe.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 1 1895

FRANCE'S NEW PREMIER

Finds That Cabinet Making is no Easy Task—Imposing Conditions.

Special to The Times.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—M. Bourgeois in not progressing very smoothly in his endeavors to construct a Ministry. A number of distinguished and highly valuable military officers have threatened to resign if M. Bourgeois is assigned to control of the Ministry of War, and M. Hanotaux stipulates that as a condition of his retaining the Foreign portfolio, the new Cabinet shall permit him to defend his policy in Madagascar, and that the treaty just concluded between the Hova Government and France shall not be modified. This is directly in opposition to the views of M. Bourgeois and his friends, especially that of M. Delcasse, who prefer the annexation of the island to the protectorate established by the terms of the treaty. Moreover, M. Hanotaux is not inclined to enter a Ministry, which includes extreme Radicals in its membership.

REJECTED THE ULTIMATUM

And King Premph of Ashantee Will Now be Introduced to British Subjects.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Information has been received here that Cape Stewart, who conveyed the British ultimatum to Ashantee, has returned to Accra, in the Gold Coast colony, from Coomassie, the capital of Ashantee. King Premph, he reports, has rejected the ultimatum, and prefers to go to war, for which he is prepared. The time allowed the king for reply to the ultimatum expires today.

MRS. KELLAR'S SENTENCE.

Convicted of Murdering Alex. Kempthorn—To be Confined for Life.

Special to The Times.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Kellar, who was convicted last night of murder in the second degree, for the killing of a man named Alex. Kempthorn, was sentenced by Judge McGowan to be confined for life in the State prison for Women at Auburn. The appeal yesterday and left the court room in hysterics.

FILES: First, Icing Files.

First from—Mistakenly, because nothing and nothing is so common as to see a man who is allowed to continue to work, which often leads and ultimately becomes very serious. WATER'S Ointment cures the itching and burning, both itching and burning, and in most cases removes the tumor. At drug stores, or by mail for 10 cents. Dr. E. W. B. & Co., Philadelphia, Agents, New & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents.

Judgment was given in London yesterday against the owners of the British steamer Turkueta, which sank the Edam, of the Netherlands-American line, September 19. The judgment is for the full loss of cargo and vessel, amounting to some $10,000.

THE SCARLETT FAMILY.

Once of Toronto, Now of Oakland, Cal.—A Happy Re-Union.

Special to The Times.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 31.—Among the overland passenger arrivals in Oakland Monday morning was Edward Scarlett, of Toronto, Canada, who had been hastily summoned to this city by a letter from his sister, Miss Kittie B. Scarlett, whom he had mourned as dead for some years.

Edward is the son of the late Sir James Scarlett, formerly a wealthy and influential citizen of Toronto. The family of Sir James left Toronto some 14 years ago, taking up their residence in South California. The father died shortly afterward, and Edward returned to Toronto.

Through some misunderstanding Mrs. Scarlett received no tidings of his absence and was led to believe he was dead. He in turn thought the same of his family, as letters to their Southern California address failed to reach them. Yesterday there was a happy re-union.

SAN FRANCISCO TRAGEDIES.

The Durrant Trial Drawing to a Close—The Judge's Charge the Next.

Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Judge Murphy has announced that he will deliver his charge to the jury in the Durrant case directly District Attorney Barnes has concluded his argument. If the District Attorney speaks until a late hour to-day, the charge will not be made until tomorrow morning. It is expected, however, that the prosecution will close its case by noon today, and before night the fate of Durrant will be in the hands of the jury.

AUBURN PRISON FOR LIFE.

Mrs. Kellar Found Guilty of Murdering Albert Kempthorn.

Special to The Times.

OSWEGO, Ont., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Kellar, who killed Albert Kempthorn, of Pickering, Ont., was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to Auburn Prison for life.

As the sentenced was pronounced the prisoner uttered a piercing shriek and fell to the floor unconscious. Her three little boys wept bitterly. A motion for a new trial was denied.

Notables to be Executed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 31.—A sensation has been caused here by the report, generally believed to be correct, that three Armenian notabilities of Trebizond, including a prominent ecclesiastic, are to be executed on the ground that they are responsible for the recent rioting there.

War indemnity.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—It is reported that the first instalment of the Chinese war indemnity, $2,000,000, was paid to Japan by the Bank of England today, and that representatives of China and Japan were present at the bank and formally witnessed the transfer of the money from the one account to the other.

MURDERED.

He Was Chasing a Man When the Pursued
Turned and Shot Him Dead—The Assassin Still at Large.

Special to The Times.

INNISBEE, Oct. 31.—A special from Duck Lake says: Last Tuesday an Indian with a companion was arrested on One Arrow's reserve on a charge of cattle killing. Prisoners were brought into Duck Lake during the night, and while Constable Dickson was on guard, one of the prisoners, a tough character, effected his escape.

Surmising that he would take a southerly direction, Sergeant Colebrooke, who had effected the arrest, started in pursuit. He was joined by Police Scout Mackay and they soon were on the trail which led in the direction of Touchwood Hills.

The second day they found their man had gone by Fort-à-la-Croix, and they followed this trail.

KILLED HIS CAPTOR.

Tonight news reached here that Sergeant Colebrooke had been shot and killed by the escaped prisoner yesterday morning.

No details can be obtained owing to the impossibility of crossing the river. Deceased was a married man and leaves a wife and one child. The arrest of the murderer has not yet been effected.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dadd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of the remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

Mrs. Bye was taken to the hospital.

The Body Found.

It was reported last night that the body of Capt. Reynolds had been found about one mile from the Buckhorn piers in 30 feet of water. Capt. Reynolds had on a heavy overcoat which, no doubt, impeded his attempt to swim. The body was recovered by divers and taken to the shore. The report was received by telephone from Burlington and could not be verified at Lakeside last night.

The C. N. &amp; P. Railway.

At a meeting of the Cobourg town council last week a resolution was passed giving an extension of time to the bylaw granting a bonus to the C. N. & P. Railway. The resolution which created some discussion, reads as follows: "That this council extend the time for the final completion of the C. N. & P. Railway for two years from the 31st of December next; this resolution and extension not to take effect until the contract is signed by the contractor, Mr. Brown."

The Big Fight.

There was a great deal of excitement in town last night owing to the possibility that the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons would come off. The Times office was besieged until a late hour by those who were anxious to learn the result. The big fight, however, did not come off, unless in private, and if so the associated press did not know of it. Nothing definite one way or the other could be learned over the wires last night. The local sports were frequently much disappointed.

All Saints' Day.

Today is the great festival of All Saints' Day, when the commemoration is made of all faithful Christians who have departed this life, though their names are unknown to fame, but are known to God and live together in the great communion of saints. This festival is also the anniversary of the re-opening of St. John's church, fourteen years ago, and is kept as the dedication festival in the parish. Communion service will be held at 7.30 this morning, and holy evening service at 8 p. m., with sermon by Rev. Carl Smith.

A Falling Wall.

On Friday morning last the side wall and ceiling of the back part of R. J. Stuart's store in Norwood came down with a crash. Workmen were excavating for Mr. Stuart's new store and had weakened Mr. Stuart's foundation. The wreck was complete and it is little short of a miracle that no person was hurt. Mr. Stuart's store was the ill-fated one of the store just a minute before. Had been remained she would certainly have been killed. Providence has spared her no doubt to make some person a good wife.

Fire in Manservants.

Mr. Joseph Staples, of Manservants, who lives about midway between Frankville and Janetville, met with a very severe loss by fire on Friday evening last. His barn, stables and outhouses, together with contents, were totally consumed. In the barn was housed the season's crop, consisting of about 1,500 bushels of grain, and a large quantity of straw, etc. A number of fine pigs and fowl were also burned. The origin of the fire is supposed to be the upsetting of a lantern. His son Lewis had gone out to fix up the horses for the night. Setting the lantern on the stable floor, he took a pony out to water, and while at the pump he noticed a bright light and rushing back found the stable on fire. The remaining horses were saved with much difficulty. It is supposed that a hen knocked the lantern over. Mr. Staples' loss will be a severe one and will foot up to over $5,000; insurance, $1,700.

CRUCKSHANKS IS DEAD

TERRIBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE IN COBOURG.

Lawyer Cruickshanks Murdered by Old Man Phillips Who Commits Suicide—The Motive for the Murder.

Special to The Times.
Lawyer J. W. Cruickshanks, who was shot by the man Phillips, died at Cobourg from his wounds at 6 o'clock last night.

A despatch from Cobourg says John Phillips, an old resident of this town, walked into the office of J. W. Cruickshanks, barrister, of this town, about ten minutes to 8 o'clock last night and deliberately fired two shots at him in quick succession. Phillips then, making the remark, "I will finish you this time," turned to go out. Mr. Cruickshanks said, "I guess you have finished me," whereupon Phillips turned and fired the third shot. The first bullet struck Mr. Cruickshanks in the neck, fracturing his wind pipe. The second one fractured his right cheek bone, while the third one fractured the right hand between the thumb and the first finger. The motive for the shooting is not yet known.

Cruickshanks is in a very critical condition this morning. So far the doctors have been unable to locate any of the bullets.

The one which entered the neck and fractured the windpipe is supposed to be lodged in the spine, the others cannot be located and the doctors have given up the search.

Mr. Cruickshanks is unmarried and is about 35 years of age and has been practicing law in Cobourg for some years.

BLEW OUT HIS OWN BRAINS.

The body of Phillips was found this morning in St. Peter's cemetery, lying over his daughter's grave with his brains blown out. A revolver by his side told too plainly that a suicide had taken place.

Mr. Baker, who had gone to the cemetery to arrange for a funeral yesterday, discovered the remains and at once notified Chief of Police Rankin and County Crown Attorney Kerr.

Phillips was about 55 years of age and an old resident of Cobourg.

THE MOTIVE.

The motive for which the shooting took place is as follows: Mr. Cruickshanks has been conducting a case in Division Court against Mr. Phillips relating to a lot of land which Cruickshanks' client claimed he had paid for and not received any deed, this property belonged to Mr. Phillips' party. The case was decided against Mr. Phillips in the court this week whereupon he entered Mr. Cruickshanks' office yesterday and is said to have used abusive language to Mr. Cruickshanks. Mr. Cruickshanks at once entered action for $10,000 for slander against Mr. Phillips. This so enraged Mr. Phillips that he committed the deed already described.

HE WAS THREE SCORE AND TEN.

Cobourg, Ont., Oct. 31.—John Phillips, who shot lawyer Cruickshank last night and afterwards committed suicide, was a native of Ireland. He came to this country about fifty years ago, settling on a farm about four miles from Cobourg. After a few years of successful farming he and his brother engaged in the hotel business in Cobourg. He retired from the hotel business about twenty years ago. Phillips had since been engaged in carrying and collecting the mails. Deceased was about 70 years of age, and he leaves a widow, four daughters and two sons.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

The Stables and Sheds of Mr. Wainright Slightly Burned.

The fire brigade was called out between 8 and 9 o'clock last night to extinguish a blaze on the corner of Bethune and London streets.

The fire was located in the stables and sheds of Mr. Wainright and burned fiercely for a few minutes. The brigade was delayed for a few minutes on account of not knowing where the fire was, which was the fault of the parties sending in the alarm.

A quantity of straw and feed was destroyed and slight damage was done to the buildings, but the loss was small.

A SPLENDID AFFAIR.

Grenville Kleiser Delights a Large Audience Last Night.

A large fashionable audience greeted Grenville P. Kleiser, the clever, talented reader and impersonator who appeared in the Opera House last night under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World. Mr. Kleiser appeared in "Our American Cousin," a delightful comedy in three acts, impersonating no less than 12 characters. This was received with applause.

Mr. H. Meldrum introduced Organizer Hawthorne to the audience, who, in a capital address, outlined the benefits of the order, told of its conception and grand progress. Mr. Hawthorne's remarks were well received.

Mr. Kleiser then gave a number of humorous numbers which convulsed the audience.

IN HARD LUCK.

Five Shantymen Who Tramped All the Way From Michigan.

Five shantymen applied at the police station last night for lodgings. The tale they told to the station officer would draw tears from a stone.

They said they had gone to Michigan to work in a lumber camp under the most alluring inducements. The arrangement was that they were to receive hotel board, work 8 hours a day and receive $15 a month.

This did not materialize after they reached the camp and began work. The food they received was of the coarsest and cheapest nature.

In fact it was not sufficient to sustain life in a man who had nothing to do but cash coupons on government bonds.

But having signed for three months they decided to stay, and stay they did and worked hard, 14 hours each day. The three months expired about 10 days ago.

When they were unconsciously kicked out of camp without a cent of wages. By walking and sumptuous rides on blind baggage and freight trains they reached Peterborough, and are enroute to the shanties where they expect to secure employment at remuneration wages. They were given rooms last night at the police station, and will renew their tramp this morning.

ALL HALLOWEEN.

The Usual Pranks Were Played—Legends of the Night Recalled.

Last night being Halloween, the eve of All Saints Day, the young boys, following the footsteps of the old boys, were up to all the old time pranks, and although the evening was wet, the usual number of signs were taken down and placed in inconspicuous positions, the same number of gales were unheeded, and the jokes of former years were repeated. In no one instance however were the police called upon to act.

Apples and women seem to be indissolubly connected, and a haze of mythical mystery hangs about them, which is ever brought to mind at the approach of Halloween. A man would give his kingdom for a horse, but Eve gave hers—for an apple.

To the peeling of an apple a young girl looks for the prophetic initial of her future husband's name, as she twirls it carefully three times about her head on Halloween, and eagerly watches the shape it assumes upon the floor. Again, she will put some apples in a tub of water, naming each one after a male acquaintance, and the one she succeeds in grasping in her teeth and is bound to marry. The seeds of the apple she will stick upon her eyelids, and, naming each, the one that clings longest will be the happy, or, mayhap, disappointed man.

In all the festivities of Halloween sentiment reigns supreme, and all the old superstitions are brought to bear to control the witches and fairies on that night.

"Ed Blythe that night," as Bobbie Burns sang it. For some who are fortunate enough to have a large roomy house and a large family, the night is to be gathered out of the merry making. The house before midnight may be given up to games or dancing, and an amusing way to choose partners for the girls is to wrap themselves up in sheets with masks or grotesque head dresses, and then sit in a row. The gentlemen enter one by one and try to guess the name of the lady he selects. The ladies are not over the choice, and are chosen and in place for the opening dance.

Another amusing plan for choosing partners is the "vegetable garden." A tray full of vegetables—beets, carrots, turnips, potatoes, onions—as many as there are gentlemen, is placed on a table. A card or slip of paper on which is written a gentleman's name, with an appropriate quotation as can be, a row of vegetables, is placed in the open fire, and each one is named. Those who crack suddenly and hop about have incoherent hearts, but if they are slowly and brightly they embody all that is good and true. Two such which burn closely by side, if named for a lady and gentleman, will be joined in marriage before the year is out. Again we recall Burns in his excellent poem on Halloween.

The auld guidwife's well-wooded wits
Are round and round divided,
And there's nae one to be trusted
When it comes to the night of Hallowe'en.

Are there that night decided
Some kindle, cuttle, side by side,
And burn together trimly.

Some start awa' wi' saucy pride
And brag about their shrewd disguise,
Most of the old Halloween tricks are familiar, like naming a lot of raisins and dropping them into a bowl of alcohol.

Then it is the devil and the devil's dance, the raisin that is dashed out without burning one's fingers will be the partner for life. Then lighted candles are placed in a row upon the floor, a few feet apart. Each candle is named, and the girls jump over them in turn. The candle that is not put out by the swirl of the skirts will mark the faithful lover.

After the tricks and games have been played, the guests adjourn to supper, which may include all the old-fashioned viands of colonial days, enhanced by soft candle light, and the festivities would close with a jolly contra-dance, the Virginia reel.

NO RACING YET.

The Rain Put a Stop to the Proposed Record Breaking Trials.

Harley Davidson and party are still at the Huffman House, impatiently waiting for weather that will dry up the Driving Park track to allow of their going for the records.

Yesterday Davidson rode for an hour in the risk making fast time and turning the corners so sharply that spectators held their breath. He is in excellent condition and if the weather allows of a chance at the track here he will undoubtedly hump over all the records he intends trying for. Davidson is confident that Peterborough will give the C. W. A. meet next year.

Davidson is not only a champion bicyclist, but he holds the American championship for speed on the track as well. He holds five out of ten championships between Canada and the United States. At Orange Lake he won the mile championship, defeating such men as Johnston, Joe S. Donoghue and Mosher. At Redbank, he won the 300 yard dash, and at Montreal he won the 230 yard dash and the final, defeating Mosher and Nilsson.

Miss Mabel Davidson, the fancy trick skater of Canada, is a sister of Harley. Davidson has all the class A records from 1 to 22 miles.

A Warrant Not Necessary.

By an Act of the Dominion Parliament, passed last session, there have been some important changes made as to arresting without a warrant. Now a Peace Officer may arrest without a warrant any one whom he finds committing any criminal offence, and any person may arrest without a warrant any one whom he finds committing a criminal offence by night. The owner of any property or with respect to which any person is authorised by such owner may arrest without a warrant any person so found, who shall forthwith be taken before a Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law. Two Justices of the Peace have the duty of trying together, to try persons for theft, obtaining money or property by false pretences, or unlawfully receiving stolen property, when the value of the property alleged to have been stolen, obtained or received, does not exceed, in the judgment of the Magistrate $10.

Plundering Tramps.

The country is full of them. Four of them struck Treton on Friday, selling jewellery. If a customer would not buy they demanded 25 cents for showing their wares. They met William Dion in front of the Courthouse, and demanded 25 cents to buy bread. He demurred and one of them used insulting language. Billy gave him a slap in the face. The fellow then stretched Willie. He got up and as the fellow came again Willie gave him both feet in the stomach. He repeated the dose and the crowd gathering, Constable Glass arrested the four and Police Magistrate G. H. Gordon sentenced them as follows: John Blackie, Wm. Reid and William Blackie, three months each in the central prison, and R. McKensie, one month in jail. Mrs. Sheel's dwelling was visited and a chain belonging to Mrs. Weaver taken. She caught him as he was coming out of her room upstairs and found the chain in his possession.

The undersigned is prepared to manufacture mittens for driving gaucles, and mittens. Parties may either supply their own furs, or I will supply it. These mittens are superior to all others. Full particulars may be obtained by calling at 559 Aylmer street. GEORGE FUSGON.

The Farming Community.

Will find that George Stethem & Son, next to the post office on Hunter street, can supply them with hardware cheaper than elsewhere. They have steel cattle chains at the old price for those made of iron. Wire cloth for screening peas, barley, oats, wheat and grass seed. Warranted cross cut saws, the best that are made. Horse brushes, manure forks, butcher knives, nail hammers, leather mitts, heavy and light hinges, lacing leather, black machine oil in five gallon cans, clothes wringers, washing machines, churns, steel crowbars, etc., of a quality and at prices that will draw your trade. They have the world renowned black eagle axes and other makes of axes from $5c. up.

Had to Swim For It.

A couple of Indians from Scugog Island, named Elliott and Simcoe visited Lindsay on Saturday last, and owing to the high winds combined with other circumstances then prevailing became gloriously sea sick. When on their way home in a canoe a difference of opinion arising on some minor political topic they undertook to settle the same in the strictest manner, with the result that an upset took place opposite Isaac Earl's landing. Both Indians yelled like painters and could be heard for a couple of miles. Finally Elliott undertook to swim to the shore, which he reached in a very weakened condition, and was unable to reach Mr. Earl's house in order to give the alarm. Simcoe managed to secure a firm hold on the end of a log and "whooped her up to beat the band," fully realizing where all bad Indians go. His cries were eventually heard by Messrs. Jase, Casey, J. Hutchinson and Mr. Fox, who went to his relief and fished him out after being in the water for fully an hour. He was taken to the house of Mr. Earl more dead than alive, and arranged to say he knew nearly all the facts on the following morning when he awoke from his slumber.

FRASERVILLE ITEMS.

Correspondent Morning Times.

The weekly meeting of the Caven blazers takes place tonight.

Mr. Geo. Trotter's new brick residence is nearly completed.

The clang of the anvil will soon be heard in our little village as the new blacksmith shop is nearly completed.

The Fraserville cheese factory will close on Saturday, November 2, having had a first class run this summer. Mr. Puse, the owner, is having the factory overhauled on the outside. The painting is being done by Mr. Cline, the head cheese maker. When completed it will be the finest cheese factory in this section.

A hunting party composed of Messrs. J. Lightfoot, T. Donaldson, J. Donaldson, A. Reynolds and J. McKride, left here Thursday for the north to shoot deer. As Archie Reynolds is one of the party, plenty of venison is expected, if on the way home they do not encounter any of the Curtis Cut tramps. In that case we will be minus.

Fraserville L. O. L. will meet in their lodge room on Tuesday, November 5, at 2 o'clock p.m., and proceed to Balldoboro to assist their brother Orangemen in celebrating the anniversary of the frustration of the Gunpowder Plot. Members of this lodge please take notice.

Are You Particular.

About the quality of bread you eat? If you want the best and most healthful loaf, Baker's bread, it is the only reliable homemade bread in Peterborough. Sold at all grocers and at Emmerson's, Kerr's, Wair's and Doxie's, Ashburnham. Every loaf stamped large as a plain B.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories, Bloort-st., Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by sea and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

Mill Wood For Sale.

450 cords, quite dry. Hemlock slabs and edgings for sale (wholesale and retail) by the Rathburn Company.

The Palace Opened.

The new Palace Restaurant, undoubtedly the most magnificent fitted up and appointed in Canada, was opened last night under most promising auspices. The new Palace is a credit to Peterborough and a commendable tribute to the energy and enterprise of its proprietors.

Gratefully Acknowledged.

The Children's Aid Society acknowledge with thanks the receipt of $10 from Mr. T. S. Cole on behalf of the committee in charge of the services at Otter Island, Stoney Lake, last summer. This sum was from the collections at the services.

A Serious Accident.

Mrs. Eyr, a young woman residing in Port Hope, met with a terrible accident on Thursday. While putting on a cloak, a pin which had been carelessly left in the garment, was drawn across her face and pulled one of her eyes completely out, severely injuring the other. Mrs. Eyr was formerly a Miss Austin.

The Body Found.

It was reported last night that the body of Capt. Reynolds had been found about one mile from the Buckhorn piers in 30 feet of water. Capt. Reynolds had on a heavy overcoat which, no doubt, impeded the attempt he had made to swim ashore. The report was received by telephone from Burlington and could not be verified at Lakeside Thursday night.

Look Out for Counterfeits.

It will be just as well for people handling money to look a little carefully at their $1 and $2 bills. The recent arrest of one of a gang of counterfeiters brings to light the fact that a good many of the bills put into circulation, though it is understood they are not of the highest kind of workmanship, and a very slight examination is sufficient to enable the forger to be detected.

New Goods

At Clegg's, now arriving every day for the fall trade. Not only fine and expensive furniture, but the cheaper lines as well. Good common chairs at 35c. Bedsteads, all hard wood and well finished, for $2. Mattresses, springs, pillows, etc. Cheap extension tables and sideboards. Four flats one hundred feet long filled full of furniture at bottom prices. A. Clegg's 47 George street.

Two-Cent Letter Cards.

At the request of several leading banks and Postoffice Department has decided to issue letter cards of the denomination of 2c. The banks state that they will be able to use several thousand of such cards in a year as they will be of great advantage to them for sending out notices to customers in reference to ordinary letters. The department has also decided to issue a one cent post card for use in towns where there is no delivery by carrier.

The C. N. &amp; P. Railway.

At a meeting of the Cobourg town council last week, a resolution was passed giving an extension of time to the bylaw granting a bonus to the C. N. & P. Railway. The resolution which created some discussion, reads as follows: "That the council extend the time for the final completion of the C. N. & P. Railway for two years from the 31st of December next; this resolution and extension not to take effect until the contract is signed by the contractor, Mr. Bowdler."

A Falling Wall.

On Friday morning last the side wall and ceiling of the back part of R. J. Stuart's store in Newwood came down with a crash. Workmen were excavating for Mr. Bowdler's new store and had weakened the wall. The wall was completely and it is little short of a miracle that no person was hurt. Mr. Stuart's sister was in the ill-fated part of the store just a minute before it fell. She remained in the store until she was killed. Providence has spared her no doubt to make some person a good wife.

Fire in Manvers.

Mr. Joseph Staples, of Manvers, who lives about midway between Frankville and Janesville, met with a very severe loss by fire on Friday evening last. His barn, stables and outhouses, together with contents, were totally consumed. In the barn was housed the season's crop, consisting of about 1,000 bushels of grain, and a large quantity of straw, hay, etc. A number of fine pigs were also in the barn. The fire was caused by a lantern. His son Lewis had gone out to fix up the horses for the night. Settling the lantern on the stable door, he took a pony out to water, and while at the pump he noticed a bright light and rushing back found the stable on fire. The remaining horses were saved with much difficulty. It is supposed that a hen knocked the lantern over. Mr. Staples' loss will be a severe one and will set up to over $3,000; insurance, $1,700.

An Evening Amusement.

A new form of evening entertainment is called a "heart party." A large heart, made of red flannel cloth, is pinned upon a chest hung from a door. In the centre of the heart is sewed a small circle of white. Arrows of white cloth, with pins placed therein, are given to the guests, each arrow bearing a number, the number corresponding to a hat wherein the names and numbers of the guests are placed. The point of the game, of course, is to see which person, when blindfolded, will pin the arrow nearest to the central spot of white. Four prizes may be offered, one each for the person coming nearest to the centre, and one each to those coming furthest from the bull's eye. The prizes may be a heart shaped pin cushion, a heart shaped photograph frame, a heart shaped pin and a heart shaped box of bonbons. The booty prizes may be a brownie holding a tiny heart and a pin cushion made of red satin and shaped like a heart.

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases"

THE ANDERSON CASE.

Sheriff Denton Leaves for Kentucky Without His Man.

The following in regard to the Anderson case, is taken from the Port Hope Guide:

Chief Douglas on being interviewed today, says Morrison is a fraud of the first water, and that he never received any paper from him in reference to the matter, and Mr. Douglas knows from most undoubted authority, that the suspected murderer is a very respectable mechanic, who has been living in Toronto for the past seven years, his wife and family residing there at present. He has been in the employ of Messrs. Cannon, builders, Toronto, for nearly four years, and is now working at the Trinity College School here.

Mr. Denton arrived here by 10 o'clock train from Peterborough last night, and after thoroughly satisfying himself that this was not the man wanted, left for home by the eight o'clock train this morning.

Morrison's record while in Port Hope, is not a creditable one, as when he came here first he stopped at the Royal Hotel, and beat the landlord out of his board; he then went to board with a poor woman on Broad street, named Mrs. Maxwell, and beat her out of $10; then to another poor woman in ward one, named Mrs. Firman, and beat her out of $10 also.

CRUICKSHANKS IS DEAD

TERRIBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE IN COBourg.

Lawyer Cruickshanks Murdered by Old Man Phillips Who Commits Suicide—The Motive for the Murder.

Special to The Times.

Lawyer J. W. Cruickshanks, who was shot by the man Phillips, died at Cobourg from his wounds at 6 o'clock Thursday night.

A despatch from Cobourg says John Phillips, an old resident of this town, walked into the office of J. W. Cruickshanks, barrister, of this town, about ten minutes to 8 o'clock Thursday night and deliberately fired two shots at him in quick succession. Phillips then, making the remark, "I will finish you this time," turned to go out. Mr. Cruickshanks said, "I guess you have finished me," whereupon Phillips turned and fired the third shot. The first bullet struck Mr. Cruickshanks in the neck, fracturing his wind pipe. The second one fractured his right cheek bone, while the third one fractured the right hand between the thumb and the first finger. The motive for the shooting is not yet known.

Cruickshanks is in a very critical condition this morning. So far the doctors have been unable to locate any of the bullets. The one which entered the neck and fractured the windpipe is supposed to be lodged in the spine, the others cannot be located and the doctors have given up the search.

THE G. T. B. OWNERS.

LIVELY TIMES AT THE MEETING IN LONDON YESTERDAY.

Mr. Baker, a shareholder from Bristol, Criticises Some of the Company's Expenses—A Kink on Behalf of Sir Henry Tyler—Mr. Hays' Appointment.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—At the Grand Trunk Railway annual meeting today, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson presided. He was well received by the shareholders assembled.

Sir Charles said he believed the trunk lines rates agreement was at last an achieved fact, and the board therefore today authorized Mr. L. J. Seargent, the retired manager of the road, to sign the agreement. He announced that the company had secured a return of the Armour Meat Packing Company's business in and out of Chicago.

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson paid a high tribute to his staff and board. He felt they and himself were the outlet of a very arduous task, but he refrained from any predictions. He, however, promised his best efforts and would especially guard against the great fault of the past—acquiring subsidiary lines. The many speeches were generally favorable to the board and new president.

The report was adopted as submitted. Mr. Baker, a shareholder from Bristol, complained of the manner in which the president of the company was elected, and called attention to the fact that he (Baker) had submitted at the last meeting an amendment to the by-laws, prescribing the mode of election.

Shareholder Allen interrupted Mr. Baker and reminded him that the motion he had submitted at the last meeting had been lost.

Mr. Baker, continuing his remarks, said the directors ought to set an example by accepting less in fees, and that smaller expenses should be charged to the London office.

He criticised the report of the accounts as scandalous. If any one had been badly treated, he declared, it was Sir Henry Tyler. This declaration caused a great uproar, in which hisses were mingled with cries of "Sit down!" "Let the cat out of the bag!" "What do you want, Baker?" etc.

When order was restored, Mr. Baker resumed his remarks, concluding by saying that there would be no better chance to consolidate the interests and capital of the company than the present.

Mr. Girdlestone, following, said there had been a very happy change in the governors of the company.

Mr. Haygate made a very charitable and optimistic speech amid continued stamping and cries of "Time!" and "Sit down!" etc.

Mr. Leade taxed Mr. Haygate with defending the previous policy, which, he said, was an absolute abomination.

The chairman, Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, replying to insinuations of extravagance, said that there had been no undue expenditure in London, and declared that it was totally inadvisable for the directors of the company to reside in Canada. Only twenty thousand pounds' worth of stock was held there. The company must be controlled in London.

Mr. L. J. Seargent, general manager of the company in Montreal, was elected a director.

Some criticism was provoked by a shareholder asking why an Englishman or a Canadian was not appointed general manager of the road, instead of an American, as recently announced. In reply, the chairman announced that the exigencies of the case demanded that the best man obtainable should be appointed, and therefore, Mr. Charles M. Hays, of St. Louis, Mo., recently general manager of the Wabash road, was selected.

W. C. T. U. PROGRESS REPORTED

Their ideas on Sunday Observance—The Liquor Question—Politics.

Special to The Times.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 31.—At yesterday's session of the W. C. T. U. discussions were held on Band of Hope work and on the franchise question. Sunday Observance was then taken up, and the dangers of Sunday electric cars open canals were criticised apprehensively.

Mr. Donaldson of Ottawa, suggested by Saturday shopping, so that the stores would not be too tired to go to work on Sunday and that men might as well in their cars going home form work at six o'clock. Mrs. Paton of Peterboro' thought that Sunday clothing was worse than Sunday railway trains and steamboats and that bloomers were utterly to be condemned.

A report on narcotics and tobacco and a Bible reading concluded the morning session. Scientific temperance and purity of literature, art and fashion were discussed in the afternoon, and hygiene, heredity and social purity interested the ladies.

Mr. May Thornley delivered the president's annual address, reviewing the work of the year and characterizing the spirit of secularization as the greatest menace to our national life. The establishment of insubordinate asylums was advocated. The political situation was discussed, and Mrs. Thornley spoke of "indefensible pandering to liquor interests" in this connection. The inebriate asylum was advocated. The political situation was discussed, and Mrs. Thornley spoke of "indefensible pandering to liquor interests" in this connection. The inebriate asylum was advocated.

Encouraging work at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition and the fair was reported, and evangelistic work, the curfew bell, young women's work and pastor meetings were all dealt with and progress reported along the lines.

PRICES TUMBLED.

Values on the Stock Exchange Affected by a Depression in Mining Securities.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 31, 3 p.m.—The slump of mining securities on the stock exchange yesterday and this morning affected other values, and prices tumbled in all directions. Owing to the forced sale of the holdings of the operators who failed yesterday, uncertainty over the Paris bourse settlement and political pessimism. By noon Russian securities were down 3/4, Turkish C's 3/4 and Turkish D's 1/2. Chinese, Greek and Italian securities had also fallen noticeably.

The political situation certainly affords no comfort to operators on the exchange.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 roses trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatory. Blooms are sent to Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these roses are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sales room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

FRANCE'S NEW PREMIER

Finds That Cabinet Making is no Easy Task—Impaling Conditions.

Special to The Times.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—M. Bourgeois in not progressing very smoothly in his endeavors to construct a Ministry. A number of distinguished and highly valuable military officers have threatened to resign if M. Bourgeois is assigned to control of the Ministry of War, and that the treaty just concluded between the Hova Government and France shall not be modified. This is directly in opposition to the views of M. Bourgeois and his friends, especially that of M. Hanotaux, who prefer the annexation of the island to the protectorate established by the terms of the treaty. Moreover, M. Hanotaux is not inclined to enter a Ministry, which includes extreme radicals in its membership.

Some embarrassment had been caused Secretary Olney by certain publications which indicated erroneously that himself and President Cleveland had not received the Canadian Ministers with courtesy. To-night Sir Julian and his Canadian associates will dine with Secretary Olney and Mrs. Olney.

There is nothing so involved or difficult in the settlement of the questions at issue as to justify the belief that any considerable time will be occupied in concluding the work.

MINISTERS AT WASHINGTON.

Discussing the Behring Sea Matter—Unfounded Rumors.

Special to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The negotiations looking to the preparation for a convention for a settlement of the seizure of Canadian vessels in Behring Sea, which were begun on Monday last by Sir Julian Pauncefote and Secretary Olney, were resumed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Sir Julian was accompanied by Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles H. Tupper, of Ottawa. Two hours were devoted to the consideration of the matter, when an adjournment was taken until this afternoon. The proceedings yesterday were characterized by the utmost good feeling and the work of completing the convention is proceeding in a satisfactory way.

Some embarrassment had been caused Secretary Olney by certain publications which indicated erroneously that himself and President Cleveland had not received the Canadian Ministers with courtesy. To-night Sir Julian and his Canadian associates will dine with Secretary Olney and Mrs. Olney.

A POLICEMAN KILLED.

SERGEANT COLEBROOKE, OF THE N. W. MOUNTED POLICE MURDERED.

He Was Chasing a Man When the Pursued Turned and Shot Him Dead—The Assassin Still at Large.

Special to The Times.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—A special from Duck Lake says: Last Tuesday an Indian with a companion was arrested on One Arrow's reserve on a charge of cattle killing. Prisoners were brought into Duck Lake during the night, and while Constable Dickson was on guard, one of the prisoners, a tough character, effected his escape.

Surmising that he would take a southerly direction, Sergeant Colebrooke, who had effected the arrest, started in pursuit. He was joined by Police Scout Mackay and they soon were on the trail which led in the direction of Touchwood Hills.

The second day they found their man had gone by Fort-a-la-Cours, and they followed this trail.

KILLED HIS CAPTOR.

Tonight news reached here that Sergeant Colebrooke had been shot and killed by the escaped prisoner yesterday morning.

No details can be obtained owing to the impossibility of crossing the river. Deceased was a married man and leaves a wife and one child. The arrest of the murderer has not yet been effected.

REJECTED THE ULTIMATUM

And King Premphab of Ashantee Will Now be Introduced to British Bullets.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Information has been received here that Capt. Stewart, who conveyed the British ultimatum to Ashantee, has returned to Accra, in the Gold Coast colony, from Coomassah, the capital of Ashantee. King Premphab, he reports, has rejected the ultimatum, and prefers to go to war, for which he is prepared. He allowed the king for reply to the ultimatum expires today.

MRS. KELLAR'S SENTENCE.

Convicted of Murdering Alex. Kempthorn—To be Confined for Life.

Special to The Times.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Kellar, who was convicted last night of murder in the second degree, for the killing of a man named Alex. Kempthorn, was sentenced by Judge McLennan to be confined for life in the State prison for Women at Auburn. She sobbed bitterly and left the court room in hysterics.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Doid's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

SAN FRANCISCO TRAGEDIES.

The Durrant Trial Drawing to a Close—The Judge's Charge the Next.

Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Judge Murphy has announced that he will deliver his charge to the jury in the Durrant case directly District Attorney Barnes has concluded his argument. If the District Attorney speaks until a late hour to-day, the charge will not be made until tomorrow morning. It is expected, however, that the prosecution will close its case by noon today, and before night the fate of Durrant will be in the hands of the jury.

"I AM AS WELL AS I WISH TO BE."

Miss Blake, of Hamilton, Ont., After Using Paine's Celery Compound, is a Picture of Womanly Vigor and Beauty.

A STORY FOR ALL WHO STAND IN NEED OF PERFECT HEALTH.

Miss Isabella Blake, of 303 Hughson Street, Hamilton, Ont., is one of the fairest and best known young women in the ambitious city. To-day, she is a picture of womanly health, vigor and beauty, and joyfully declares, "I am now a new woman, can enjoy life, and am as well as I wish to be."

When Miss Blake makes the declaration that she is a "new woman," she does not wish it to be understood that she has entered the ranks, and adopted the fad of the lightbrained women who would usurp the legitimate positions of men, and go through life clad in half masculine attire, with the fixed idea of altering the plans of an all-wise Providence, and turning the world upside down. Ah! no; this is far from what Miss Blake wishes to imply when she makes the statement that she is a "new woman."

The "new woman" that the world values is not the modern creature that does the open vest, exposed shirt front, four-in-hand tie, straight and high collar, stiff Derby hat, who walks out on our streets with cane in hand, giving evidence of empty brain and unsatisfied vanity. The true "new woman," is perfectly represented by Miss Blake, made healthy, vigorous, strong and active by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. This is the "woman" that sensible and rational beings honor and appreciate—the type of "woman" that blesses home, friends and the world at large.

Miss Blake, though a young woman, can relate a tale of sad experiences. In the past, she has stood in her way threatening destruction; she knows what sore afflictions are, owing to the rough grasp of disease; and at times, the cold touch of the destroyer, death, has made her shiver, and cause her to think of the dark gloom of the silent tomb.

When Miss Blake's heart was faint, sick and void of hope; when all the doctors and medicines failed to do good, and when threatened with that relentless foe consumption, an angel of mercy suggested the use of a remedy that has brought new life to thousands of poor sufferers in the past. Yes, it is Paine's Celery Compound that is recommended; it is used, and in a short time makes a "new woman" from the material that the grave had battled for.

These facts, dear reader, are not overdrawn or colored in the least. Miss Blake and her friends will gladly vouch for the truth of the statement that Paine's Celery Compound, and it alone, under God's blessing, was the agent that saved life at a critical juncture. The following letter from Miss Blake is surely of sufficient weight to convince the most hardened unbeliever:

"For years I suffered greatly, and was under the care of doctors who finally told me I was going into consumption. I was becoming worse through the use of medicines, and I gave up my doctors. While in a very critical condition, not able to sleep or rest always faint and weak, appetite and digestion bad, and my system run down and little life left in me, I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. After taking one bottle I felt much relieved. I have used in all seven or eight bottles, and am now a new woman, can enjoy life, and am as well as I wish to be. Many thanks for your great medicine."

THE GOVERNMENT'S TROUBLE

In electing a successor to Mr. Madill, of North Ontario, the government party see no hope of a securing a man that will be with them on the Manitoba School question. A nomination has been made, that of John A. McGillivray, Q. C., of Uxbridge, better known as the supreme secretary of the Independent Order of Foresters, whose chief commendation lies in his stand of "non-interference" in the Manitoba school question. Cardwell may elect a conservative in lieu of Mr. White, but he will also be against the government on the school question. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the federal government should be anxious about the answer the Manitoba government will make to its second appeal for suggestion or compromise, looking to the removal of the issue from dominion politics. This repudiation of the government's stand by its nominees in conservative strongholds is a very remarkable circumstance, and adds not a little to the trouble of the government.

THE ELECTIONS

Laurier has had his innings, and now the government party goes to the bad. All of which goes to show that the elections are not far off. Who will be the candidate in West Peterborough? It is probable that Mr. Stevenson is to be the conservative nominee, but who will take the field for the Reformers? It is said that Dr. Goldsmith would accept the nomination, if unanimously tendered him by the Reform party. Mr. Richard Hall is also spoken of, and should he be prevailed upon to accept would make it decidedly interesting for the people's Jimmy. Should the Reformers fail to secure a candidate, Mr. Henry Denne, will undoubtedly be requested to take the field as an independent, in which event there will be wigs on the green.

There are six bye-elections on the carpet before the House meets. There are other things Sir Mackenzie would prefer just now to a bye-election.

Our ever bright and newsy contemporary, the Hamilton Herald, puts it this way: In view of the facts brought out at the Holmes trial in Philadelphia about that mysterious Chicago castle of crime it is probably true that

Through pleasure and palaces, where're one roams,
Be it ever so humble there's no place like Holmes.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper have reached Washington safely. That is some consolation. But, as the Hamilton Herald puts it, there is still the awful fear that it was unwise to let them stray so far away from home without a nurse.

In our editorial remarks in our issue of yesterday, under the head of "The Elections," the type makes us say "Laurier has had his innings and now the government party goes to the bad." The error is in the last word, which should read "bat."

If Britain gets into war with Russia and France the support which the United States will give to England will do much to cement the bond between the motherland and the republic, and will eradicate the many petty jealousies which now tend to strain relations between the peoples.

LIME JUICE CLUB

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

The President Arrives Late, But Satisfactorily Explains Himself—Prize Poetry—Fall Rates A New Branch—Other Important Business.

Contrary to his usual custom the President, who is the soul of punctuality, did not put in an appearance at the usual hour last night at the Hall of Wisdom. Bro. John Mervin was telling Bro. Billy Gould how he had for years fought shy of the Lime Juice Club, but eventually when things had run low and business became depressed, he concluded to join the Club. The result was that he was now prosperous, and half the young ladies in the country wore smiles in his presence. Bro. Ed. Brown was also explaining to Bro. Salsbury how he once bid 40 without a king and cleared the number with two to spare.

At this juncture the President arrived, and as soon as he had ascended the platform and caught his wind, he explained: "My friends, I owe you an apology for the lateness of my sojourn. I was on my way to the hall when I was stopped on Charlotte street by Colonel Hamilton, who was rejected here about two months ago on the ground that he didn't believe a whale ever swallowed Jonah. It appears he laid his failure all to me, and had made up his mind to get satisfaction. He pitched into me before I knew what was up, but I soon realized the situation. You will observe that I have lost a small piece of skin off my nose, and that I am happy to say, is the extent of the damage to me. As for the Colonel, I smashed in his parietal bone, upset his esophagus, dreadfully injured him in the fibula region, and left him for dead in front of Bro. Snowden's. Bro. Dr. Pitcher, who temporarily domiciled at the Snowden House, said his subclavian artery would never be of any more use, and that his radius and carpus, and metacarpus was a complete wreck. We will now proceed with the regular business the same as if nothing had ever happened."

PRIZE POETRY.

Bro. Threeply Tyrel, who is seeking the position of the poet to the club, then reported that the time set for receiving competitive poems for the prize of $5 had expired. He had received 122 poems in all, and all composed by members of the club. These ranged from 1 to 68 verses, and every single one of them had merit as a poem. He had always known that the club had a streak of poetry in it, but he was surprised to discover how prominent the streak was. He had carefully read every poem forward and backward, and while he had a word of praise for all, he should award the prize to the composition sent in from a local member. It read as follows:

The summer days have faded and the hotness has departed,
And the autumn winds are blowing cold and clear,
The potato bugs are dying, as the evening winds are sighing,
And the house-fly, he is getting out of here!

The frosty nights are with us, and I here the partridge cooing,
And he plays beneath the branches of the tree,
The bird leaves crack and bustle, as some brother makes a bustle
For to fill a bushel basket brung with he!

The pleasant summer evenings are no longer here to cheer us,
But we've got to let them go and be content;
The deer was never fatter for an honest hunter's platter,
And the drinks come rolling in without a cent!

Bro. Ed. Brown was glad that we had such talent as to be able to produce poetry such as this. The language was perfect, while the Harmony Club did ample justice to the music.

Bro. Peter Henry took a totally different view. The man who wrote such stuff was not entitled to anything more than a job on the outfall sewer. And as for the music, he thought it was severe enough to give one the toothache.

Bro. Darkness Carig was about to launch into a speech 27 feet long when the President interfered and called for the next order of business.

FALL RATES.

Bro. Jimmy Harper, chairman of the committee on decorative art, announced a new scale of prices to be adopted for the fall and winter season, and after some debate they were accepted. The increase over summer rates is about ten per cent. Stove pipe will be blacked and put up at the rate of $24 dollars per mile with extra for elbows. Wood-sawing will remain at the same figures, whether the sawyer is asked to eat dinner with the family or not.

ANSWERED.

The Secretary read the following letter: To the President and Members of the Lime Juice Club:

GENTLEMEN,—The undersigned most respectfully petition your honorable body to send Jamied Jones to establish a branch in the part of the suburbs of Peterborough known as "Lick Skillet."

Your petitioners, of course, have some faults common with the most of us. Thirty-six of us have just interviewed Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald, the fishery inspector, who insists on us paying a fine of $2 each for indulging in a little pastime known as "netting." This has made many of us desirous of joining an order whose teachings tend to elevate mankind, giving us nobler thoughts and higher aspirations.

We desire your opinion on the following subjects:

1. Is it right for a person to borrow money to go a-fishing when he owes nine months house rent?

2. Who benefits by the town lawsuits—the people or the corporation lawyer?

3. Does belonging to the Anti-Poverty Society and working in the outfall sewer indicate that you are favorable to the Council's mismanagement of it?

Respectfully submitted,
DECORATOR CARTING, JACKPLANE DONNELL, GINGERBEER SNOWDING,
FAST EXPRESS BODY, JACKPLANE HAGGART,
STEAMBOAT YOUNG,
LEMONADE MCFARLANE,
(late President of the Young's Point Liver Complaint Society.)

"Firstly," replied the President, "if a man who owns every store in town has the face to borrow a plug hat and dress coat to appear at an evening reception, folks shouldn't be too hard on the working man who is a few weeks behind in his rent."

"Secondly, if it can be shown that the town ever got the best of any one lawsuit, I would like to have full particulars. I want to put it on ice and leave it as a curiosity to my grandchildren."

Thirdly, belonging to such anti-poverty societies as I have thus far heard of, don't extend a member any special privilege except cussin' the rich. This also applies to the sewer, for those who have to pay for it will not get round shouldered heaping blessings on the Council and its solicitor."

"As to establishing a branch club, I will appoint Bro. Bob. Fife, Peter Corkery and Mainspring Wasson as a committee to look into the matter with power to send for persons and papers."

EMPHATICALLY NO!

The Secretary then called attention to the following enquiries from Toronto: "Is it true that Cashup Montgomery has signed to play 'point' for the Toronto Hockey Club next season? We would also like to enquire whether the rumor that Hardware Phelan has gone on a starting long tennis tour has any foundation in fact?"

Yours very truly,
C. F. JONES.

"The Secretary will answer him with an emphatic 'No!' in both cases, sternly replied the President, as he pushed up his spectacles and glared around him. "When a member of this club signs with a Hockey Club he signs himself out of the Hall of Wisdom at once. As for Mr. Jones, I don't know him, but there sits Bro. Phelan, same as ever, and if he's got any cranky theories in him his face don't show it."

HE DID.

"Mister Chairman," said Boneyard Billyjim, as he slowly arose, "did I understand the chair to make use of the words 'cranky theories'?"

"You did sir!"

"Yes—um. I move that the language be corrected on the records."

"Do you? Then I shall put the motion."

It was defeated by a vote of 1497 to two, but while the President was getting off the platform Bro. Boneyard slipped out by the back stairs, and the meeting was then adjourned.

Market Reports.

PETERBOROUGH.

The dressed pork market is now open, and while the prices are far from encouraging to either buyers or sellers, all offerings will be taken at current prices, which range from $4.50 to $5.50 according to weight and quality.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, one of Peterborough's bustling live stock dealers, is still purchasing sheep for another shipment to the English markets. Hogs are being sold after for the home market.

The Wm. Irwin Co., lumber merchants in the North Bay district, are securing a large portion of their supplies from this market, through the agency of Mr. W. D. Conroy.

Quotations are as follows:

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 1 1895

OUR ELIGIBLE BACHELORS.

A LIST THAT WILL BE EAGERLY READ THIS WEEK.

There Are as Good Fish in the Sea as Ever Were Caught—Here is a Shoal of Them Worth Angling For.

In response to numerous requests we publish another list of Our Eligible Bachelors this week. In this list appears two handsome photo-engravings of two handsome young Peterborough bachelors. It is the intention of THE SATURDAY TIMES to produce one or more pictures of young eligibles each week. Our special artist on his rounds with his kodak for these pictures will go in disguise. He will also be armed with one of those terrible weapons which the county constables used with such terrible effect at the Curtis Cut battle, so it will not avail any of our young bachelors to lay for him with a club. The picture of one of our bachelors in this issue was taken while he was partaking of dinner at the Huffman House. The other was a snap shot from a maple tree in front of the Ontario Bank on Water street. Our list this week is as follows:

Stenson, Fred—28 years of age; $5,000. He is the son of Mr. J. T. Stenson, shoe merchant. Mr. Stenson is quiet, but very fond of the girls. He would make a first-class husband, and if signs go for anything, it will not be long before the cards are out.

Schneider, F. S.—29 years of age; $15,000. The well known George street jeweller is unmarried and it is really too bad, for he is a nice fellow and well able to keep a wife. Mr. Schneider has been thinking of marrying for some time, in fact his friends have been expecting "cards" for the last 15 years. But he has it put off and is still living a miserable life in the single state. However, there is no telling what a day may bring forth. Spring is coming, gentle Annie, and in the spring time the minds of men turn lightly to thoughts of love. It is to be hoped that his mind will turn thusly. Mr. Schneider is one of the best matches in town. He is handsome, good natured and very popular. Fortunate will be the young lady who lands him.

MR. MONTGOMERY.

Montgomery, W. J.—25 years of age; $7,000. The subject of this sketch, who is known to his host of friends as "Monty," is an all round good fellow, and an all round athlete. He is with the Ontario Bank, holding a responsible position, and we know of no better catch in Peterborough. The above portrait is an excellent likeness of him, and he will doubtless be recognised by those who do not know him, on the football grounds this afternoon, where he will be one of the backs of the home team against Trinity. It is rumored that "Monty" is matrimonially inclined and there is no telling what may happen this winter.

Morrow, R. F.—30 years of age; $7,000. The subject of this sketch is a dentist and pulls teeth with or without gas. He has seen so much of women's tongues that he has never married and is now passing out of the hard shell stage into the next. If he isn't caught before the general elections we fear he never will be. Here is another case of a popular, wealthy, kindly dispositioned creature who should marry and won't. It is the duty of some nice young lady to catch him. He cannot "extract" much pleasure from single blessedness.

Conall, Thomas—22 years of age; $15,000. Mr. Conall is with the Peterborough Hardware Company. He is six foot in height and therefore can light the gas without standing on a chair. He is still growing. Mr. Conall is a very desirable match. The absent-minded look which he carries is misleading. He possesses splendid business abilities and is well able to maintain a wife. He is one of the many young men in Peterborough who should marry, and is exposed with the sole idea that some nice young lady will immediately set her cap for him.

Forty, Thomas H.—40 years of age; $10,000. Here is a noted bachelor. He is a traveller for the lock factory, and has many friends both here and on the road. He is very fond of ladies' society. He business frequently takes him to Windsor and it is learned that on these trips he never fails to cross over to Detroit. It is, therefore, inferred that he has an eye on some Detroit damsel. His friends will be pleased to receive cards.

Hurley, J. P.—29 years of age; $10,000.

This is probably the last time we will be forced to draw attention to the single state of the popular Grand Trunk ticket agent. It is said that the happy event will take place when the warm winds of spring once more breathe life into the leafless tree-tops. We extend congratulations in advance. Mr. Hurley is genial, and courtly and will make an A. No. 1 husband.

MR. HAMILTON.

Hamilton, Stewart S.—25 years of age; $5,000. Mr. Hamilton, whose picture is produced above, is keeper of the liability ledger of the Ontario Bank. He has held this responsible position for two years, coming to Peterborough from Toronto. He is a most eligible young bachelor, handsome and genial, and is very popular with both sexes. He is an admirable catch and we predict that it will not be long before the matrimonial hand will grab him.

Brown, Charles N.—30 years of age; $10,000. He is an all-round good fellow. Mr. Brown is in the flour and feed business on Simcoe street. The "boys" don't consider any of their gatherings complete without the presence of this gentleman. Mr. Brown is a good comedian, an excellent elocutionist, and an author of no mean merit. He is also the composer of that touching and beautiful lyric inspiration, "Climb up that Hill, Children," which was sung by the Peterborough minstreis, and which when it first came out, created quite a furore in musical circles. Charley would make a model husband.

Clarke, Dr.—40 years of age (standard time). Here is a confirmed bachelor, whose existence in the single state, has been a subject of much wonder. Dr. Clarke is a most desirable match. He drives a fine horse and turnout and when it is considered that there is nothing that will so quickly ripen the apple of love as buggy riding, it is really surprising that Dr. Clarke is single today. He also owns a palatial residence—handsomely appointed—a royal cage for any bird. The "pulse" of Madame Kumer indicate that the genial doctor has the notion and will shortly summon courage to put it in execution.

Hall, Kelsey—36 years of age; $12,000. This is the popular president of the Peterborough Stamp Club. Mr. Hall is a law student and erstwhile collector of rare stamps. He is now the proud possessor of the greatest and most costly collection on this continent. Matrimony would not interfere with this occupation and Mr. Hall will very likely come to the same conclusion soon. There is a possibility of Mr. Hall disposing of his collection for a fabulous sum. This is given in strictest confidence as a pointer for the girls.

Phelan, Walter—24 years of age; $10,000. This young man, connected with the Peterborough Hardware Company, is still battling against the inevitable. The last time we took him in hand we gave him about six months of single life, but we erred—he is still single, lonely and miserable. Having withstood the witcheries of lawn tennis, tete-a-tetes, moonlight canoe rides on the Otonabee, and trips to New York, it now remains to be seen whether he can hold out until the hockey season is over. We do not believe he can. It is whispered that he left an order for housefurnishings in New York. His friends hope it is so. Walter is an exemplary young man, and would make a tip-top hubby.

Fife, Robert—29 years of age; $12,000. Here is one of the most popular young men in Peterborough, at present on a hunting trip to the back lakes. He is in the drug business and has been himself a drug on the matrimonial market for some years. The genial Bob should get married. He has all the qualities of heart and mind that go to make a responsible husband. Instead of the long walks he takes daily now, a snug home in the central part of the town would be much more convenient and felicitous. We trust he will join the ranks of the Benedicts before "Summer comes again."

MR. WHITE'S RESIGNATION.

What the Press has to Say Concerning the Matter. Special to The Times.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—The Grit Dufferin Advertiser is so filled with cogitations upon the subject of Bob White's resignation that it takes over a column of valuable space to discuss the matter.

The Advertiser is about as Gritty a sheet as there is in the country. Let this fact be remembered when the following is read:

The danger of losing Cardwell was probably the chief reason why White's appointment was deferred. Six months ago we would have said without hesitation that the opening of the constituency meant the election of a McCarthyite. But it is astonishing the change that has come over the political complexion of historic Cardwell in that short time. The conservative candidate, Mr. Willoughby, has gained ground rapidly. He has neglected a single opportunity of making himself "solid with the free and independent." The only point upon which he has not declared himself to the satisfaction of anybody is the Manitoba school question. This, of course, is the paramount issue. Mr. Willoughby has declined to commit himself until nomination day, but local politicians all know what he is likely to do then.

AS TO THE CATHOLIC.

He will declare against interference and pledge himself to vote against the Government if it attempts to coerce Manitoba. He calculates that this will pay, for two reasons. It will take the wind out of the ultra Protestant sails of the McCarthyite candidate, and it will bring Mono back to her first love. Mono was a hot bed of Conservatism in the days of Hon. Thomas White. It was dubbed the "banner township," because its Conservative majority was anywhere between four and five hundred. But the McCarthy boom brought a change. Mono is filled with Orange lodges, the membership rolls of which reach North of Ireland and the sturdy sons. Tory and all as they were the continual cringing to Rome at Ottawa was too much even for the stomach of an Irishman and one of the Mono brethren began to call themselves "Independents." Mr. Willoughby naturally would like to figure upon a 400 majority in Mono. The only way he can get a majority at all there is by pledging himself to vote against interference with Manitoba.

There are about 600 Catholic voters in Cardwell, scattered all over the township, Albion and Caledon townships. To whom are these children of the hierarchy to pin their faith in the approaching contest? They certainly will not vote for the hated McCarthy, and they can scarcely be expected to support the Government candidate after his pledge to vote against the interests of their church at the first opportunity. If the contest is confined to the two candidates at present in the field, the 600 Catholic voters may be relied upon to keep away from the polling booths on election day.

THE LIBERAL CHANCES.

But what about the Liberals? There are a few of them in Cardwell. If there had been 150 more of them in 1881, when Elgin Myers was their candidate, R. S. White would not have been elected today, so far as Cardwell is concerned. The Liberals do not owe Mr. Stubbs, the McCarthy candidate, anything. He said them at once for an empty promise. All he wants now is a seat in parliament or a Government job—the latter preferred. Under these circumstances there is no room for Mr. Stubbs' prospects. What the party should have is a candidate of its own. The weakness of the Liberal party in Cardwell at present is that it has no candidate. It is a pity that the party ought to have had a candidate before the election of Cardwell was fought and lost.

CAIN A WASHINGTON

Compared with Durant, the San Francisco Alleged Murderer. Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—District Attorney Barnes concluded summing up for the people in the Durant case this morning, and then Judge Murphy began upon his charge, which is said to be unusually lengthy.

The marvellous arraignment of the defendant by the district attorney concluded: "Theodore Durant," said Mr. Barnes, "stands forth in American jurisprudence today as the most brutal criminal of the century. He is a creature beside who Holmes, the multi-murderer, who is now on trial in Philadelphia, is a perfect gentleman and a scholar; beside who Prof. Webster, the Harvard instructor, who killed Dr. Parkman many years ago, was a king, and compared with whom Cain was a George Washington."

KILLED BY EXCITEMENT.

A Collingwood Farmer Dies During a Heated Discussion. Special to The Times.

MEAFORD, Nov. 1.—T. B. White, a highly respected farmer, 84 years of age, of Collingwood township, died suddenly at a meeting at White's school house, concession 10, Collingwood township, which had been called to discuss the question of some litigation affecting the council. Mr. White became excited by the discussion and suddenly fell to the ground dead.

INCENDIARIES AT DUNDAS.

Attempt to Burn the Stratford Tool Works Yesterday. Special to The Times.

DUNDAS, Ont. Nov. 1.—An attempt was made this morning to burn the Stratford Tool Works at Dundas. This is the third incendiary fire here in a week.

On Fire in Mid Ocean.

QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 1.—The Cunard line steamship Campanian, from New York on Oct. 28, arrived here this morning and reported that on Nov. 1st, at latitude 45 and longitude 45, at 8.15 p.m., she saw a burning wooden masted vessel. The Campanian bore down upon her and found she had been deserted. The burning ship presented a grand spectacle.

In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or rhinitis difficulty." E. M. CHAMBERLAIN, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

MACHINE TO MILK COWS.

A VERY WONDERFUL DEVICE

WHICH THE COWS CAN'T

KICK OVER.

And They Actually Prefer It—The Scotch Invention Has Several Advantages Over the Old Fashioned Method by Hand.

Milkmaids have a dangerous rival. A man in North Monaghan has a milking machine. From time immemorial the cow has swished her tail, kicked over the milk pail, and been mistress to a certain extent of the contained. But hereafter she will have to accommodate herself to a labor saving device which will pay little regard to her feelings in the matter.

The milking machine has been invented in Scotland. It is known as the "Thistle," and an English farm paper says of it: "The most successful milking machine yet invented was recently shown at the Darlingford Fair, where it attracted more attention than any other novelty on exhibition. The machine has been so thoroughly tested by experts that it is now considered to be almost perfect and it has given so much satisfaction as to warrant the erection of large works for the manufacture of the machinery. The construction is based on the principle of suction produced by vacuum in a teat cup, which, pressed against the teat of a cow, extracts the milk, which is carried off to a receiving pail. While the teat is drained of its milk, air enters the cup, allowing the former pressure to relax, and the teat is again drawn back from the udder. Vacuum is once more created in the teat cup, which again collapses, pressing out the milk into the tube, and it then passes to the receiver below. The exhaustion is, of course, effected by means of an air pump, which can be worked by the motive power most convenient.

"By aid of the glass receiver the attendant is enabled to see when the milk ceases to flow, and then removes the cups at once. Should the suction go on, however, after the milk ceases to flow, no injury will be done. This has been fully borne out by practical experiment. It is also worthy of note that the milk 'froths' up in the pail just the same as if done by hand. The friction is so gentle that the cows seem to enjoy being milked by it. "A hand machine for four cows, with a woman and a lad, is capable of milking thirty cows in less time than four women can do it. Larger machines are being fitted to milk large numbers at a time. "The most obvious advantage to be derived from a milking machine lies in the fact that a large number of cows can be milked with the employment of but few hands. This is a matter of greater importance in dairying than in most other lines where machinery is sought to be introduced, because, while in other lines it may cheapen production, in dairying the number of cows that can be kept is limited by the number of hands that can be kept busy on the farm outside of the milking hour. "An additional advantage is the absolute cleanliness that is possible with a properly constructed machine, it being admitted that even the most strictly clean and careful hand milkers cannot entirely keep impurities from the milk.

A Metal Breadboard

"THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN UP to the breadboard on the old fashion wooden breadboard knows what a better one to get them clean and how comfortable they are. When they begin to crack, check the almost impossible to clean off them, and they may easily become dangerous. They are a nuisance to the housewife, and a source of worry to the state of affairs. Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., patented a metal bread-board, which is the greatest labor-saver imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough, etc., and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is cheaper and of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to consider upon their wives' health, will be forever grateful, let them send $1 to the manufacturer, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

ALL HALLOWEEN.

The Usual Pranks were Played—Legions of the Night Recalled.

Last night being Halloween, the eve of All Saints Day, the young boys, following the footsteps of the old boys, were up to all the old time pranks, and although the evening was wet, the usual number of signs were taken down and placed in incongruous positions, the same number of gates were unhinged, and the jokes of former years were repeated. In no one instance however were the police called upon to act.

Apples and women seem to be indissolubly connected, and a hazy mist of mythical mystery hangs about them, which is ever brought to the fore in the pranks of Halloween. A man would give his kingdom for a horse, but Eve gave hers—for an apple.

To the peeling of an apple a young girl looks for the prophetic fulfilment of her future husband's name, as she twirls it carefully three times about her head on Halloween, and eagerly watches the shape it assumes upon the floor. Again, she will put some apples in a tub of water, naming each one after a male acquaintance, and the one she succeeds in grasping in her teeth she is bound to marry. The seeds of the apple she will stick upon her chest, and, naming each, the one that chinks loudest will be the happy, or, mayhap, disappointed man.

In all the festivities of Halloween the superstitions, religious, and all the old witch and fairy tales are brought to the fore.

"E. B. Burns" that night, as Bobbie Burns sang it. For some who are fortunate enough to have a large roomy house and an open fireplace, much fun is to be gathered out of the merry making. The house before midnight may be given up to games or dancing, and an amusing way to choose partners is for the girls to wrap themselves up in sheets with masks or grotesque head dresses, and then sit all in a row. The gentlemen enter one by one and try to guess the name of the lady he selects. The ladies do not unmask until all are chosen and in place for the opening dance.

Another amusing plan for choosing partners is the "vegetable garden." A tray full of vegetables—beets, carrots, turnips, potatoes, onions—as many as there may be gentlemen, is placed on a table. A card or slip of paper on which is written a gentleman's name, with an appropriate quotation, is tied, with a gay ribbon about such vegetable. The ladies in turn are blindfolded, and being led to the table select a vegetable, which decides her partner for the evening. The "vegetable garden" may also be used as a means of foretelling the future for each guest, with a mystical prediction written upon the card.

At the hour of midnight draws near, the lights should be lowered, and an atmosphere as ghostly as possible prevail, to make the various tests for the future as serious as can be. A row of chestnuts is placed in the open fire, and each one is named. Those who crack suddenly and hop about have inconstant hearts, and those who burn slowly and brightly they embody all that is good and true. Two nuts which burn closely side by side, if named for a lady and gentleman, will be joined in marriage before the year is out. Again we recall Burns in his excellent poem on Halloween.

The auld guld-wife's well-hooded wits
Are round and round divided,
And many lads and lassies' fates
Are there that night decided.
Some kindly, counthly, side by side,
And burn thegither trimly;
Some start awa' wi' saucy pride
And jump out o'er the chimble.
Most of the old Halloween tricks are familiar, like naming a lot of raisins and dropping them into a bowl of alcohol. Then it is set on fire and flaming, the raisins that is fished out without burning one's fingers will be the partner for life. Then lighted candles are placed in a row upon the floor a few feet apart. Each candle is named, and the girls jump over them in turn. The candle that is not put out by the swirl of the skirts will mark the faithful lover.

After all the tricks and games have been played, the guests adjourn to supper, which may include all the old-fashioned viands of colonial days, enhanced by soft candle light, and the festivities would close with a jolly contra-dance, the Virginia reel.

A Warrant Not Necessary.

By an Act of the Dominion Parliament, passed last session, there have been some important changes made as to arresting without a warrant. Now a Peace Officer may arrest without a warrant any person whom he finds committing any criminal offence, and any person may arrest without a warrant any one whom he finds committing a criminal offence by night. The owner of any property or with respect to which any person is authorized by such owner, may arrest without a warrant the person so found, who shall forthwith be taken before a Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law. Two Justices of the Peace have power, when sitting together, to try persons for theft, obtaining money or property by false pretences, or unlawfully receiving stolen property, when the value of the property alleged to have been stolen, obtained or received, does not exceed, in the judgment of the Magistrate $10.

Plundering Tramps.

The country is full of them. Four of them struck Trenton on Friday, selling jewelry. If a customer would not buy they demanded 25 cents for showing their wares. They met William Dion in front of the Corner grocery office and demanded 25 cents to buy bread. He demurred and one of them used insulting language. Billy gave him a slap in the face. The fellow then stretched Willie. He got up and as the fellow came again Willie gave him both feet in the stomach. He repeated the dose and the crowd gathering, Constable Glass arrested the four and Police Sergeant G. H. Gordon sentenced them as follows: John Blackie, three months each in the central prison, and R. McKenzie, one month in jail. Mrs. She's dwelling was visited and a chain belonging to Mrs. Weaver taken. She caught him as he was coming out of her room upstairs and found the chain in his possession.

HERE'S AN EAR PIERCER.

A WILD SCREAM FROM THE AMERICAN EAGLE.

A Tall Twisting Senator Thinks That With Russia's Aid the Great U. S. Can Gobble Canada and Whip the British Lion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A Concord despatch to the Sun says: In a leader in his newspaper, the Evening Monitor, tonight, Senator Chandler predicts war with England. He writes under the caption, "Our Coming War with England," a prediction, and summarizes and comments in this language:

"War between the United States and England is inevitable.

"It will arise on account of British disregard of our direct interests.

"It will also be forced by British encroachments upon other nations all over the world.

"It will be fought by us, having Russia as a European ally.

"As a war, offensive on our part, it may happen within 20 years. As a defensive war it may come sooner and should be welcomed.

"One sure result will be the capture and permanent acquisition of Canada by the United States.

"V.E.C.

"The above prediction Senator Chandler has frequently made since England began her fraudulent usurpations in Venezuela. She also proposes to seize from the United States a portion of Alaska. She is destroying independent governments in all parts of the globe. She treats American sentiment and remonstrance with INSOLENCE AND DEFIANCE.

"For the vindication of the Monroe doctrine in the western hemisphere and the protection of the independent governments in the eastern hemisphere and the islands of the oceans, it is necessary that the United States should prepare for and go to war with England. It is a serious business, but it had better come now and be over than 50 years from now. England's commercial ships now swarm every sea; we have almost none except in our own coastwise traffic. Before we rehabilitate our mercantile marine we had better settle our relations with the great land-grabbing nations, the foremost being England. We ought to define our position and say that if it is not assented to we shall fight to maintain it. It will take time to prepare for an offensive war; but a defensive war can come none too soon. Let England begin.

RUSSIA WILL BE OUR ALLY.

She is the great absolute monarchy and the United States the great republic of the world. But this is no question of interference in the internal affairs of nations. It is a question of the independence of small sovereign nations everywhere. Russia and the United States have no policy of colonization. The former needs and is entitled to a seaport in a warm region, of which England persistently deprives her, but she wants no more territory. The United States would only the Sandwich Islands and a foothold in the West Indies, both easily to be obtained in due time without adopting the English method of fraud and violence. Russia and the United States, the two non-colonizing great nations, are the hope of the small independent governments of both hemispheres. Together they can defy the world. They must and will restrain the of Great Britain. Let this be understood at once and let England strike the first blow if she chooses. A million of men and muskets will overrun Canada and England's commercial ships will be swept from the ocean. She cannot reach us to injure us except by sending ironclads across the Atlantic to capture our harbors. Little comparative damage will be done, while the waters and the land will see the ruin of the ships and the slaughter of the armies of the invader. Let England begin. We ought to begin, if it is necessary to save to Venezuela the mouths of the Orinoco."

BRUTALITY AND BLOODY AVARICE

BURNED AT THE STAKE.

How Justice Was Dealt Out to a Negro at Tyler, Texas.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 31.—A young negro was arrested yesterday at Long View, Gregg county, Texas, charged with the murder of Mrs. Leonard Bell near Tyler. He was taken back to Tyler and there by a mob taken from the officers, removed to the scene of his crime and slowly roasted to death. He was tied and blazing splints of light wood and small twigs were applied to various parts of his body and after fifty minutes of torture that would have done credit to the inquisitors of old, the negro died. He confessed to his participation in the murder of Mrs. Bell.

U.S. POSTAL CLERKS IN CANADA.

Canadian Government Asked to Permit Them to Pass Through.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Oct. 31.—It is stated here that the United States Government has applied to the Canadian Government for permission to run a postal car through the Dominion over the Michigan Central to Detroit, and manned by United States postal clerks. This is for the purpose of bettering the mail facilities between here and Detroit which are at present very poor.

Opening of the Campaign.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—Hon. Messrs. Foster and Oulmet have left for Oren Sound. At the banquet at the Sound is to be given by the Board of Trade, it is expected that the speeches of the Ministers will be of a non-political character. At London, however, on Friday, the keynote of the campaign will be sounded.

HOLMES' TRIAL PROCEEDS

GRUESOME EVIDENCE AGAINST THE MULLI-MURDERER.

Little Dossie Pitzel Tells Her Story—Holmes Coolly Conducting the Defence with Ashy Countenance.

Special to The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 29.—Holmes came into court on the second day of his trial as pale as a sheet, his face as white as a sheet, and his eyes as blue as a sky. He was dressed in a dark suit, and his hair was combed back. He looked at the jury with a cold, steady gaze, and his lips were set in a firm, straight line. He was the only person in the courtroom who did not look at the witness, Little Dossie Pitzel, as she testified.

For the first time in the history of a Philadelphia court, the judge wore a gown. The gown was long, loose and baggy and was made of cheap black alpaca. It hung loosely on the shoulders of the judge, but all the same the gown was there, and its presence meant a good deal. The judge tried to look unconcerned as he faced the curious crowd in front of him and he moved as if in his rustling robes with a very apparent effort to appear at ease. The lawyers in court looked quizzically at the gown and their curious glances were usually rewarded with a stare from the judge. The judge himself did not want to wear gowns, and it is likely that they will resist any effort on the part of the judges to force them to do so. At the same time it is nearly the unanimous sentiment of the Philadelphia bar that the judge has taken a wise step in donning black alpaca, as well as in deciding to enforce stricter discipline and decorum in their courts in future.

CHANGES IN THE COURT ROOM. Since court rose last night the internal arrangement of the chamber had been greatly modified. The prisoner's dock had been moved ten feet nearer the judge and there were a small table and writing material for the accommodation of Holmes who is determined still to conduct his own defence to the end.

TRIED TO MEMORIZE THE JURY. On being placed in the dock Holmes arose, faced the jury box and during a minute of most intense silence gazed at the puzzled twelve as if endeavoring to memorize them.

District Attorney Graham addressing the court, stated that the accused had been allowed an opportunity of consulting Miss Yoh.

LITTLE Dossie's TESTIMONY. A long list of witnesses was called over and Janet Pitzel, better known as Dossie, a pretty girl of eighteen, was sworn.

At this juncture, Holmes interrupted to ask that he be furnished with plans of the Callowhill house and some recent work on toxicology. These were promised and Dossie's examination began. On being shown a life size bromide photographic enlargement of Pitzel she exclaimed, "It is a perfect picture of my father."

A DRAMATIC SCENE. Advancing to the dock Graham held the photo before Holmes and asked: "Would you like to look at it sir?" Holmes gazed at it intently for a few seconds and then turned away without remark. John Townsend, photographer, identified a picture produced as one of Holmes taken by witness before the prisoner had his present beard.

William Hermann Ran, an enlarger, identified life-size pictures of prizefighter made by him from the first-named photos.

THE MAN WHO FOUND THE CORPSE. The first witness of special interest was a middle-aged man, named Eugene Smith, an inventor, who found Pitzel's corpse in a Callowhill street house on August 22, 1894. His eye fell on a sign announcing that B. F. Perry was a patent solicitor. Witness entered, talked business and left in ten minutes. On the following Thursday witness returned again, transacted further business and departed. On the following Monday Smith returning found the door unlocked, Perry absent and the furniture demoralized. He called loudly, but obtaining no response he went away.

A GROSS DISCOVERY. Next day he discovered the house still in disorder and on ascending the stair was horrified to find Perry, that being the name given to witness by the deceased, dead on the floor, and the room apparently shattered by an explosion. Broken bottles of nitro-glycerine were on the floor. The police were summoned, an inquest held and the corpse buried in Potter's field. The witness detailed the circumstances of the subsequent exhuming of the body in the presence of insurance men, Lawyer Howe, Holmes, Alice Pitzel and others.

WANTED TO SAVE TIME. Holmes asked to defer cross-examination for some time. It is simply to save time, of course, he explained.

"Your life is on trial," remarked Graham. "Time is of no consequence and you should not consider it."

Holmes thereupon began his examination.

THE STRUGGLE TO SEE THE PRISONER.

It is Holmes everywhere today. The whole city is discussing yesterday's sensational developments in this remarkable case. So in spite of judicial orders, that only those having business with the case should be admitted to the court room; in spite of the presence of a phalanx of big reserve policemen and an increased force of court officers to keep away the morbidly curious, the public surged and struggled and kicked its way along the corridors of the big City Hall in an effort to at least catch a glimpse of the outer door of the room in which the strangest criminal narrative of the age is being gradually unfolded.

THE PRISONER TODAY. Holmes showed no change in personal appearance or demeanor from yesterday, and while the cry was pronouncing the stereotyped formula which declares the court open, Holmes stood up in the dock, his hands clasped in front of him and his head slightly inclined. He busied himself for some moments afterwards arranging his papers in lawyer-like fashion on the desk in front of him and reading over notes, or perhaps his defence, so far as arranged by him last night in the dismal solitude of his cell.

After the prisoner had asked that a plan be produced of the Callowhill street house in which he is alleged to have murdered Benjamin F. Pitzel, he continued, "I also asked that a quantity of the liquor which Mr. Graham said I used in my efforts to exterminate the Pitzel family be submitted to an analysis. I want to prove that while it contains a small quantity of nitro glycerine, it is entirely harmless and is sold in every drug store."

"Do you mean the liquor you left with Mrs. Pitzel, in Burlington, Vt.?"

"Yes."

"That has never been in my possession."

"Then some other person had it."

Jeannette Pitzel "Dossie," the daughter of the dead man was the first witness called. She is a slender, pale girl of about 17, and was neatly attired in dark gray. She was called merely to identify several large crayons of her father which she did.

"Cross examine," said the District Attorney.

HOLMES' CROSS EXAMINATION.

"I have no questions now," replied Holmes, but when told that "now or never" was the time to question the witness, at least on the picture question, he asked: "Are these good pictures of your father as you last saw him, or two years before?"

"As I last saw him."

John Townsend, photographer, employed in the detective service, and William H. Rau, a private photographer, then identified photographs of Holmes, taken by them after his arrest. Eugene Smith, who found Pitzel's body in the Callowhill street house on September 1th, 1894, then told a detailed story of his discovery, which has been already fully published. He had become acquainted with the man on August 22, 1894, through business concerning patents which Pitzel was supposed to have held. He saw him several times during the following week.

HOLMES' CURE A POINT.

The witness drew a packet of paper from his pocket when he came to the dates. Holmes objected to his referring to them unless they were in his own handwriting. Smith admitted that the papers had been "prepared," and the court sustained the objection.

MONDAY AFTERNOON'S PROCEEDINGS.

After counsel for the prosecution had outlined his case Monday afternoon a tilt occurred between Holmes and the District Attorney. Holmes said that he desired to have an interview with his wife, whereupon Mr. Graham, who had referred to Holmes' alleged bigamy in his opening address replied "Which wife do you mean?" "I mean," replied the prisoner, "the lady whom you designed as Miss Yoh, and by so doing cast a slur upon her and myself." Holmes augmented this with a statement that "Miss Yoh" was his legal wife.

Mr. Graham told Holmes that the lady did not want to see him; that she had told him so in his (Graham's) presence.

Finally Holmes asked that a note be sent to his wife and a reply received, which "shall not be seen by the District Attorney." The court granted his request.

The court will hold sessions daily in order to finish the case as early as possible. It is believed that the fate of Holmes will be in the jury's hands in about a week.

After the adjournment of court Judge Arnold stated that he would not press the case of disbarment against Messrs. Shoemaker and Rolan, in view of the fact that Holmes had refused counsel and would conduct his own case.

DIABETES IS CURABLE.

A WELL KNOWN MAN WRITES A GRATEFUL LETTER.

Given Up to Die He Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured of Diabetes.

Special to The Times.

KIRKFIELD, Ont., Oct. 29.—About two years ago I left Kansas, returning to Canada, my native land. I am a miller and own a saw and grist mill in this village. I knew before that I was not a well man, but one day in trying to lift a bag of grain, I discovered that my strength had failed. My wife induced me to take medical advice. Our medical doctor, as clever as most of them, did all he could for me, diagnosed my case, as did a Toronto specialist, and both pronounced my disease to be Diabetes. Getting no benefit from the doctors, I was reading one of your advertisements of Dodd's Kidney Pills. At this time my skin was a yellow, sticky color, I had lost all ambition, and was so weak that I could only trail myself along a mile's walk being too much for me.

Well, I commenced using the pills and got well inside of two weeks. This was the latter part of November last. I took eight boxes in eight weeks and am now completely cured—not a symptom left, general health good and all the color returned to my face. My weight had been during my illness as low as one hundred and twenty pounds; it is now one hundred and seventy pounds. I was bothered with my heart and liver but these troubles have been cured along with my diabetes. My cure is perfect, I can now walk briskly for miles, and I am as well a man as ever. I was although I am now past sixty-two years old. I am well known in all this country; have two sons in Toronto and I am a brother of Wm. McKenzie, President of the Toronto Street Railway Co.

I will answer all questions of any one desiring to write me if the writer will enclose a stamp for reply.

Gratefully, yours truly,
DUNCAN MCKENZIE.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world ever known to cure Diabetes.

THE BOUNDARY OF ALASKA.

Something Must Be Done Without Delay to Uphold Law and Order.

Special to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Alaskan boundary line question will be forced to a speedy determination by the action of Canada, if not settled by a move on the part of Secretary Olney. In case of trouble along the frontier, in the Yukon mining region, the United States District Attorney at Sitka has the authority to employ Deputy Marshals to preserve law and order, but it will take several months for the removal of the disturbances to reach him at Sitka, for his orders to be carried into effect. Officials of the Department of Justice say that he would not have the power to men along the line for police duty, or for any other purpose, except on special occasions such as riots. If this be the case prompt action by Congress this winter will be necessary to remedy the difficulty, and it is understood that a bill will be introduced to provide Alaska with a more perfect form of government.

Another Outbreak in China.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Morning Post will tomorrow publish a despatch from Hong Kong, saying it is reported in that city that an extensive anti-foreign outbreak in Canton is likely. Four hundred fighting natives have been enlisted presumably by the Viceroy, and have started for Canton.

ANOTHER FRENCH CRISIS

A MINISTRY RETIRED AFTER NINE MONTHS' LIFE.

The Ribot Ministry Defeated in the Chamber of Deputies Yesterday on a Question of Public Morals.

Special to The Times.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—For attempting to shield the guilty in the Southern Railway scandals, the Ribot Ministry was overthrown in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

The Ministry which has just gone out of office was constituted January 27, 1895, ten days after the election of M. Felix Faure as President of the republic.

The excitement caused by the overthrow of the Government was all the more intense as the defeat of the Cabinet was totally unexpected.

The vote by which the motion was adopted was 310 to 211. The motion was as follows: The Chamber of Deputies, considering that it was proper to interdict its members from taking part in the operations of financial syndicates, is resolved to throw complete light on the affairs of the Southern Railway, and invites the Minister of Justice to fulfill all its responsibilities.

Immediately upon the adoption of the motion the Ministers fled out of the Chamber for the purpose of proceeding to the Palace of Elisee, the residence of President Faure, and placing their resignations in his hands. The downfall of the Cabinet has caused great excitement in the city.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Journal Des Debats, the Dix Neufieme Siecle, and other Moderate papers deplore the fact that the Chamber of Deputies did not accept the statement of the Ministry regarding the Southern Railway scandals instead of voting the Government down. The result is, these journals say, that the Chamber has afforded the country a spectacle of inconsistency and recklessness, the consequence of which it will probably be the first to regret.

The Radical and Socialist press are delighted at the result. The Conservative papers declare that the Ministry has fallen on the question of public morals.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—President Faure had an interview with Premier Ribot at the Palace of the Elisee this morning and will consult with M. Challemeil-Lacour and Brisson, respectively president of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, this afternoon.

A YOUNG WIFE'S DEATH.

Crushed in her House Which Accidentally Caught Fire.

Special to The Times.

LUCA, Ont., Oct. 29.—At 4 o'clock this morning the dwelling of Mr. Francis John Niel, an inmate from here, the township of Osborne, was burned to the ground. Mrs. Niel perished in the flames and Niel was badly burned on the hands and arms.

The fire originated in the kitchen from some unknown cause, and the entire house was aflame inside before Mr. and Mrs. Niel, who were sleeping upstairs, were awakened.

Niel managed to find his way down stairs. Not finding his wife, whom he supposed had followed him downstairs, he made desperate efforts to save her, but being alone he could do nothing. This morning her charred remains were found.

Mr. and Mrs. Niel were married last spring. She was a dressmaker and both were residents of Osborne.

MURDER IN VANCOUVER.

J. H. Freeman Killed and His Body Thrown into the Inlet—Robbery.

Special to The Times.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 29.—J. H. Freeman, Union Steamship Co's. wharfinger, was murdered and his body cast into the inlet last night, where it was found this morning. Robbery seems to have been the motive, as the murdered man's pockets were rifled. There is no clue.

SIR OLIVER CENSURED

For Not Having Put into Effect the Recommendations of the Prison Commission.

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—At the annual meeting of the Prisoners' Aid Association to-night, a resolution was passed censuring the Ontario Government for not having adopted and put into effect the recommendations of the prison commission appointed by it.

LOCK'S BRIDGE ACCIDENT.

Engineer, Fireman and Brakeman Dismissed For the Affair.

Though no official notification has been received from the staff of the Grand Trunk railway, it is known that the driver, fireman, and brakeman of the passenger train which went through the open bridge at the locks on Thursday, October 10th, have been dismissed from the employment of the company. It will be remembered that the accident was caused by some misunderstanding regarding the signal at the semaphore west of the bridge. Bridge-keeper Jackson contended that the signal was against the train, while the crew of the train, which was the local to Belleville, affirmed that the signals were for them to move on.

An investigation was held and the evidence of several parties, taken and as a result it is learned on good authority that the company has dismissed three of the crew from the company's employment.

The three men were engineer, D. Andrews; fireman, Geo. Haines, and brakeman, Geo. Brown. The three men reside in Belleville and have been employees of the company for some time.

It is understood the fireman and brakeman would not have been discharged had they not taken up the defence of the engineer.

The bridge tender still remains in the employ of the railroad and his story that the signal was against the train was believed by the company. The contrary statement of the crew was not satisfactory.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens believe that in

NOW THE BRAZILIAN!

THE ALLAN LINER IS ASHORE NEAR MURRAY BAY.

She Could not be Floated at High Tide and Her Forward Hold is Full of Water—Discharging Her Cargo—Safe From Storms.

Special to The Times.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29.—EWS of the stranded Allan liner Brazilian was received from Capa L'Aigle, near Murray Bay this morning, says: The steamer "Lord Stanley" arrived alongside the S.S. Brazilian at midnight and returned to Quebec to obtain pumps, taking in tow a schooner with over two hundred sheep aboard. The wrecking steamer Relief arrived this morning and the surveyors think she will be sufficient to lighten the Brazilian; and if the weather continues fair the prospects of floating the ship are good. The stranded vessel lies about five miles east of Murray Bay wharf, headed east north-east. She has a slight list. The divers who have examined her report that the starboard side is all right. The tide was too strong to examine under the port bow, but they will try again later.

LEFT MONTREAL ON SATURDAY. The S.S. Brazilian, Capt. Whyte, left Montreal on Saturday morning, passed Quebec about five o'clock the same afternoon and ran around early Sunday morning. One of the foreholds has water in it. The tug Lord Stanley with schooners having a diver and Messrs. Davie, E. C. Fry, Lloyd's surveyor, Wm. Simons, J. Piper, and J. Sheridan, of the firm of Allan Rae & Co., and a crew of laborers on board, left Quebec at 2.30 Sunday afternoon, to render assistance to the Brazilian, with the above result. The ship struck in a snow storm, which obscured the course.

FORWARD HOLD FULL. MURRAY BAY, Que., Oct. 29.—The Brazilian lies ashore, about six miles east of this village. She could not be floated at high tide. The first forward hold is full of water. The other holds are dry. The steamer is lying on a level plane, and is safe from storms. There are no rocks upon which she would founder. The work of discharging is going on today. Pilot M. Poultot was in charge of the Brazilian when she went aground.

In a rounding curve, the outer wheels travel faster than the inner wheels, which have not so much distance to travel. If they do not travel the same distance, the car will not travel straight.

The solution is as follows:
The outer rail on the curve of the car line is longer than the inner rail on the street cars are on to the axle and are supposed to be together. In a rounding curve, the outer wheels travel faster than the inner wheels, which have not so much distance to travel. If they do not travel the same distance, the car will not travel straight.
In order to overcome this difficulty, the wheels are made in the shape of a cone, being larger at the flange, the car being in motion on round curves, it inclines to move on a line which causes the outer wheels to turn on its largest part next to the inner track to its smallest part. This causes the circumference of the wheels to be the same in the case of the wheels as in the case of the car will move around

AFTER A MURDERER.

A Kentucky Deputy Sheriff in Town After a Fugitive.

IS MORRISON THE MAN?

HE WIRED THE SHERIFF THAT HE HAD THE MURDERER AR-RESTED. AND IS NOW IN HIDING HIMSELF.

Deputy Sheriff Lincoln Denton, of Somerset, Kentucky, arrived in Peterborough on Saturday night in search of a murderer. Whether he is on the right scent, or is the victim of a costly hoax, he was not able to decide last night. The story of his chase and the cause of his being in Peterborough was told a "Times" representative last night by Mr. Denton and the Chief of Police.

In 1892 John C. Anderson was chief of police of Somerset, Kentucky. At the same time Joseph B. Rucker was editing a paper there, to be referred to Anderson in his paper in no complimentary terms. Anderson made the statement that he would kill Rucker. Not long afterwards Rucker was found murdered. Certain parties had seen Anderson near the spot where Rucker's dead body was found, at about the time the murder was supposed to have been committed, and as Anderson suddenly disappeared from Somerset on the same day of the murder, suspicion was fixed to an almost positive certainty upon his head. Rucker, the murdered man, had many wealthy and influential friends and a great deal of money was spent in a futile endeavor to detect and bring Anderson to justice.

In September of this year, Mr. Denton received a telegram from Port Hope asking if he still wanted a man by the name of John C. Anderson for the murder of Joseph B. Rucker, in September of 1892, at Somerset, Kentucky. The sender of the telegram gave all names and dates, and said he had Anderson located. He signed himself "John A. Morrison, detective." Mr. Denton immediately wired back that he wanted Anderson and to arrest and hold him. Several weeks passed and nothing further was heard of the matter until last Thursday when Denton received a telegram from Morrison stating Anderson had been arrested and was in the Cobourg jail, and to come at once. The telegram was sent from Peterborough.

Deputy Sheriff Denton left Kentucky at once and reached Cobourg on Saturday morning only to find that there was no prisoner in the jail by the name of Anderson, nor did any of the officials know of Morrison. As Mr. Morrison had sent his last telegram from Peterborough the deputy sheriff concluded he must be here, so he came to Peterborough on Saturday night and enlisted the services of Chief Russell, to find Morrison. They found out that Morrison lived in a double house in the township of Smith, west of Smith street and just outside the boundary line. A visit was made to the house between 12 and 1 o'clock on Sunday morning. The knock on the door was answered by a woman who in reply to the questions put to her, stated that Mr. Morrison lived there, but that time was out in Cavan. She expected him back in the morning.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, another visit was made, but Morrison did not yet return. The woman expected him at any moment, so word was left for Morrison to meet Mr. Denton at the Hoffman house at 8 o'clock.

Denton waited until 9 o'clock, but Morrison did not show up. It was decided not to make any more visits to Morrison's house.

MORRISON INTERVIEWED.
The police had an interview with John Morrison, the alleged detective, and the man who was thought to be Anderson, the murderer of Joseph Rucker, at Somerset, Ky.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock Monday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Denton bought a ticket at the C. P. R. station for home, and was waiting for the train, when he received a telephone message from Chief Russell, asking him to come to the station. Mr. Morrison was at the police station. She came down to find out if Morrison would be arrested, and having been assured that he would not, said he was in town and was willing to meet the Chief and explain matters.

The Chief sent Morrison word that he would like to meet him in his private office at 30 last night, and in the meantime Denton put up at the Morgan House, and a few minutes before Morrison was expected, went to the Chief's office. Morrison arrived on time, and while on the way to the room where Denton was, professed great regret that he had not returned from Cavan in time to see Denton. A minute later he was ushered into Denton's presence and introduced to him. Morrison almost collapsed.

When shown the telegram that Denton had received, he denied sending the last one, stating that Anderson was in the jail at Cobourg. He claimed he had no such message and laid the blame on the telephone company. The story he told the chief was in substance as follows:
"I had met Anderson in Port Hope. Anderson was working on the Trinity College. He learned from him that he was an ex chief of police, and finally learned the story of the murder and Anderson's connection with it. He sent the first telegram to Denton, and when he left Port Hope for Peterborough he had placed the indictment and papers which Denton had sent him, into the hands of Chief Douglas. He said Chief Douglas refused to arrest Anderson because there were no extradition papers. He also claims he and Chief Douglas took the matter before Judge Benson and the latter said nothing could be done until extradition papers were secured. He claims he sent this information to Denton instead of the telegram that Anderson was in jail.
Deputy Sheriff Denton left Port Hope last night. Chief Douglas informed the police that Anderson was there, and no doubt he is under arrest by this time. Denton made arrangements with Morrison to meet him at the G.T.R. station at 9 o'clock last night to go to Port Hope together. Morrison did not show up.
Morrison's part in the case is easily explained. The sum of $1,500 was offered for the arrest and conviction of Anderson. Morrison was out for the reward and evidently intended to use the deputy sheriff to secure the papers and make the arrest, and then claim it. Anderson, however, seems to have suspected Morrison's scheme, and is looking for his scalp for his breach of trust, and Morrison was afraid to arrest him.
Chief Douglas, of Port Hope, has a poor opinion of Morrison."

THE PIPES WENT OUT.

BUT BEFORE THEY DID HONG GAP TOLD A FEARFUL TALE.

It Was About Jin Kang And His Cat With The Transparent Red Horns And Hong Gap's Sturdy Grandfather, Who Was Scowling At A Man Himself.

The door of the Simcoe street laundry had been locked for the night, for it was well upon 12 o'clock. The hanging lamp in the room was not burning, but a glow from behind the partition was apparent to passers in the street. The Chinese never hire careful carpenters. Few whites see Chinese life except before the partition, and that is not Chinese life, but a crude imitation of American business methods as the Chinaman picks their up from his neighbor.

Behind the partition the Chinaman is himself. The night may be busy, and there may be scores of shirts and hundreds of handkerchiefs to iron out. Don't picture to yourself the Chinaman at the wash-tub, if you would be realistic. Unless he is absolutely poverty-stricken, he hires a woman to wash the clothes. He starches and irons them. That is his art. But this was Saturday night. That was the busy night in the Chinaman's week. At 11 o'clock the work is over and the Mongol has a prospect of two nights and a day free. He keeps the Sunday better than the rest of the week, and a supper of his keep it, if you may call abstinence from work keeping the Sabbath. There is plenty for him to do on Sunday. There is a long-a-long game on a remote street in the afternoon, and a supper of his cousin's in the evening, besides the pleasant alternative of song and dominoes in the joss house, or an adventure on the street.

Once a month Hong Gap's almost-eyed friends from Port Hope and Cobourg and sometimes Toronto, visit him. The visitors bring their pipes. Four times out of five they will bring tobacco pipes. Tobacco is as strong as opium, though it doesn't "dope" so quickly. The Chinese loll on the great wide palette which is a low platform, covered with matting. The alcohol lamp is set in the middle. The heathen sprawl about it. They smoke slowly and luxuriously, and do not go off in the dose that is generally supposed to accompany the inhaling of opium smoking.

They tell stories. Hong Gap, who wears an emerald bracelet, as he is well educated and, of course, tells the story in Chinese, there will be no pigeon English in this poor translation.
"I should not tell you this tale," he says, "for my elder brother, whom I regard as a book seller in Hong Kong, once wrote a very beautiful account of it. It is the story of my paternal grandfather and his adventures with the English in the province of Yunnan. Our family lived until the last generation, on the mountain near Pien Ping, not far from the Kiang Se border. This illustrious relative, Hong Bin was a farmer and well to do. In all the mighty province of Kuang Tung there was none with a bolder heart. Jin Kang was the robber chief of the range, but until the time of my story he had never been in the direction of Pien Ping. He sprang from the race of savages that breed where the mountains touch the province of Kiang Si, and his atrocious acts in Kuei Choo and northern Kiang Se had been winded for hundreds of miles.

Jin Kang was a man of great size and a perfect barbarian. He was said to be devoid of an iota of mercy for his victims. It was common talk that he went about accompanied by a hideous horned cat. The animal had been blinded with young by his savage master. It was described as the size of a small panther. The horns were sharp and transparent red. Jin Kang, it was told the country people, headed his deer with the English at the coast. The grandfather was the only man upon the plantation, for I do not count as men the cowardly servants whom he employed. At the first rumor of the approach of the bandit they fled to places of concealment.

"The terror of the mountains came sooner than he was expected. It was learned early one evening that he had escaped upon the mountain trail about a mile from my grandfather's house. The old man is said to have taken the news with a strange calmness, though his lips were drawn tightly over his teeth. According to my neighbors who passed in their flight of terror what they knew about the horned cat of Jin Kang. Few of them knew anything of the strange beast, except that he was the most horrible thing in the world.

"One evening one of my aunts went into the garden to find her father, and was carefully picking weeds and stuffing them into his pocket. She spoke to him and he told her to return to the house and with her mother and sisters, conceal themselves in their rooms.

"It was dark when the bandit came. The old man knew his methods. Jin Kang would come up without using his weapons, and then, with a smile, enter the house and slowly and carefully butcher its occupants. Hong Bin was sitting in the main room of the house when the light step aroused him. The hairy, horned giant entered. In one hand he bore his war club, and with the other he held the leash of the horned cat. It went far beyond grandfathers' most vivid imagery. The horns were a foot long and very sharp. It was blind and tailless. It snarled when it smelt my fine old grand sire.

"What do you wish?" asked Hong Bin.
"What I wish for is in the west," replied Jin Kang.

"Where are your savage companions?" I have not seen fit to bring them to night. One likes pleasure alone now and then."
"Then—"
"I must tear you to pieces so slowly that even Gansu will be impatient. How hungry he is! Where are your daughters?"
"Jin Kang" said my grandfather, rising "it is many a year since my eyes have come to a man of your size. It would be an easy thing for you to tear me to pieces, away with your club thrown away and without the aid of your congenial devil."

"Jin Kang grinned, laid down the club and tied the cats leash to the bamboos. Then he folded his arms and surveyed my grandfather with a look of piteous pleading. He ran toward Jin Kang and fell on his knees as though to beg for his life. But as he fell, his knife came from his sleeve and he hamstrung Jin Kang in the twinkling of an eye, dodged between the giant's legs, seized the club and raising, smote the giant dead as he lay roaring upon the ground.

"Then from his pocket he took cord and bound Jin Kang leg and ankle. He stripped the wolf's skin from the bandit's breast and left it bare. The demon roared and the blind cat snarled, but Hong Bin went quietly about his work. From his between his hands and rubbed them gently over the giant's body as he lay and howled. A strange smell arose. The leashed cat uttered a howl that rang through the house.

"Then Hong Bin walked to the door, opened it, leered derisively at the bound bandit, cut the cat's lash and leaping out closed the door. At that moment the Mandarin's troops came up to rout Jin and his band, arrived. Hong Bin called to the captain to come to him.
"There were clinks in the loor. And so for a full hour they watched and laughed with their eyes to the peep-holes. And the noise within was sickening. The bound cat, blind and starving, was going its catnip-venered master to death, with his beautiful, transparent-red horns. The pipes were all out.

CAPT REYNOLDS DROWNED

UPSET IN A CANOE NEAR THE PIERS AT BUCKHORN.

His Disappearance Not Noticed For Hours
After the Accident Occurred—Grasping For the Body Tuesday Night—Canoe, Paddles and Hat Found.

The startling news of the sad death of Captain Samuel Reynolds, of the steamer Golden City, by drowning, reached Peterborough Tuesday, and partial particulars were received last night.

Capt. Reynolds left Buckhorn at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon in a canoe to go to the steamer which was at Deer Bay Creek. His friends at Buckhorn thought he had reached the steamer safely until Tuesday morning when the canoe was found drifting on the water three or four hundred yards from the piers at Buckhorn. Near the overturned canoe the paddles and Captain Reynolds' hat were found floating on the water.

It was at once feared that Captain Reynolds had met with an accident and a party was at once despatched in boats to Deer Bay Creek, to see whether he had reached the steamer in safety. The crew on the Golden City had not been alarmed at the captain's absence, thinking he had remained at Buckhorn all night. They were horrified to learn that he had left Buckhorn at 2 o'clock on the previous afternoon.

The only conclusion to be taken was that Captain Reynolds had been drowned, and as the hours passed by and darkness came on, the hopes that were entertained at first that he might have gone ashore at some point and the canoe drifted out into the lake, were dissipated, and it became a sorrowful certainty in the minds of the crew and his friends that he had met a watery grave.

Early yesterday morning several parties, supplied with boats and grappling hooks started out from Buckhorn and Burleigh Falls to find the body. At a late hour last night the search had been fruitless. The Golden City left Deer Bay Creek at 7 o'clock last night and proceeded to Lakefield, where the news of the drowning of Capt. Reynolds had proceeded it.

The Golden City left Lakefield, Capt. Reynolds' home, 10 days ago and has been engaged towing wood and ties to Chemung and Lindsay. Capt. Reynolds left the steamer on Monday morning in a canoe and spent the forenoon at Buckhorn. It is supposed the canoe ran afoul a snag and upset. He was not an experienced canoeist.

Capt. Reynolds was in his 45th year and leaves a son and daughter, both grown to manhood and womanhood, and a widow to mourn his terrible death. Less than a year ago he was married to his second wife. He was the owner of the Golden City which is one of the favorite excursion boats on the back lakes. Deceased was widely known in this section and was a popular and much respected gentleman.
Less than two weeks ago, Captain Reynolds was in Peterborough, shaking hands with his host of friends, who will be deeply pained to learn of his unfortunate death.

THE LOCK WORKS.

It is reported that the Lock Works' matter will be reopened on account of the mortgages of the present buildings—The Bank of Montreal—having evinced their willingness to make a substantial reduction in the rental. The Lock Works management, when interviewed by a "Times" representative last night, stated that no such offer had been received from the mortgages.

Mr. Carnegie has told the Council that the present buildings are not large enough for their business and that the location is not suitable. The Lock Works were aware that a reduction in rent could be obtained, before negotiations were opened with the town. It is not likely, therefore, that the offer from the Bank of Montreal, at this late day, will induce the Lock Works to remain in their present buildings.

The council having accepted Mr. Carnegie's offer, and the latter having promised to urge its acceptance upon the shareholders of the Lock Works, cannot now withdraw without breaking faith with the council. By the acceptance of the council's offer, or rather by the Council's acceptance of Mr. Carnegie's offer, the Lock Works secure exemption of taxes, free site and free power, to the extent of 30 horse power, for a period of 10 years. It is not likely that the Lock Works will give this up for a reduction in rental.

No such good luck to the town council is apprehended. The Lock Works have secured numerous inducements from the council to remain in Peterborough. It will be in the interests of the town if the matter is re-opened and the town can escape the fulfillment of promises that

THE TRIAL OF HOLMES.

ANOTHER DAY AT THE GREATEST OF TRIALS.

The Plaintiff's Last Wife Takes the Stand—The Story of Mrs. Pitzel's Search for Her Murdered Children.

Special to The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Holmes is in fine trim today. Yesterday's rest, though somewhat counterbalanced with most damning testimony, was apparently refreshed him, and as he stepped into the low dock, which resembles a wirework elevator cage with upper half cut away, his demeanor was almost jaunty.

As he bade Dock Guard Wolf cheerful good morning, briskly sat down and began reading letters and newspapers which were handed in, he looked like a down town business man beginning his daily labor rather than the central figure in what District Attorney Graham had called the most wonderful criminal trial on record.

The opening scene today was in Texas. The first witness was a slim young Fort Worth advocate, Sidney L. Samuels, typical southerner, keen, derry, clever, long haired, a Holmes hater. His first sentence set the court astir. The drop of a handkerchief could have been heard while he told of sudden appearance at Ft. Worth in April, 1894, of a man named H. M. Pratt, who launched out into building schemes, borrowed money and gave notes.

THREE HE STANDS.

"And where is that man now?" asked Graham at length. Witness turned full on Holmes, gazed at him a moment, stretched out long, thin finger at him and exclaimed "There he is; that's the individual right there. His face is more pallid now and he is not embellished with whiskers then, but I easily identify him as the same individual. To my sorrow I know him, and a serene smile escaped over the Southerner's face to see his enemy in the dock."

Holmes snatched him out of several thousands of dollars. In one transaction Samuels wrote out a five thousand dollar note and gave it to Holmes to sign. The latter took it away to sign, but returned, saying it was lost or misplaced. A second note was written out and signed properly and the money handed over.

PALMER ON MR. PITZEL.

The missing note had really never been lost. Holmes had it safely all the time, and palmed it off on poor Mrs. Pitzel for its full value.

MRS. HOLMES'S STORY.

Following the Texas came a woman in a sent fainting condition who was none other than Mrs. Yoh, alias Mrs. Holmes, alias Mrs. Howard, the woman who accompanied Holmes to Toronto, who lived with him at the Palmer House and was there when the children were murdered on St. Vincent street.

Her voice could not be heard a yard away, and Crier Hart leaned over her and, repeated in a clear voice her complicated recital of her wanderings with the prisoner from State to State and city to city, adopting aliases to suit the occasion and assiduously consenting to all his schemes, though unaware of the true villainy which underlay most of them.

She is a pronounced blonde but was clad in deepest mourning. To all her evidence Holmes listened with his customary coolness.

DETAILS OF THE TRIAL.

AN IMMENSE CROWD THROUG THE COURT ROOM—THE INTEREST UNABATED.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 31.—Holmes was placed in the dock at 10 o'clock, his counsel, Messrs. Shoemaker and Rotan, promptly went to him and a long and earnest colloquy ensued.

Holmes did most of the whispering and was apparently offering suggestions. He appeared to be brighter and more cheerful than at any time since the trial began and after his counsel had resumed their seats, he chatted and laughed with two court officers stationed next to the little golden-barred cage in which he sat.

There was a trifling delay before work was resumed, because of the disappearance of District Attorney Graham, who did not come into court until 10.20 o'clock.

The taking of testimony was resumed promptly, and the first witness of the day proved to be a lively one. This was Sidney L. Samuels, a member of the bar of Fort Worth, Texas, a young clean-shaven man with a twinkling eye and the most perfect self-possession. He spoke quickly and sharply and invariably referred to Holmes as "the individual."

This amused even Holmes, who smiled broadly whenever the witness identified by Mrs. Pitzel yesterday as the one Holmes pretended to pay at the St. Louis bank, and for which purpose he took $5,000 from her. Mr. Samuels said the body of the note was in his handwriting.

PROVING THE HOAX.

Inspector Gary, of the insurance company, was recalled. Mr. Graham saying he proposed to prove by him that Holmes was a much-married man and that Mrs. Yoh was not his lawful wife, as he asserts, and is therefore competent to testify against him. Mr. Gary said he had seen at the prisoner's house in Williams, Ill., a woman representing herself as Mrs. H. H. Holmes. He identified a photograph of her. Last December witness saw Holmes in Moynihan's prison, this city.

Holmes then said he wanted to write a letter to his wife and did so, asking the witness to mail it. Subsequently witness had spoken to Miss Yoh, known as Mrs. Howard. She was not the woman he had seen in Williams.

The defense entered a formal objection to all the evidence and Mr. Gary concerning Miss Yoh, but were overruled. The latter was read to the jury.

Two other letters were offered, written by Holmes, one from Columbus to H. M. Case, Chicago agent of the insurance company, giving him a detailed description of Pitzel for the purpose of identification.

HOLMES'S WIFE TESTIFIES.

At this point, side door in the room was opened, and Miss Yoh, or Mrs. Howard, was ushered in. She was at once called to the stand, and gave her testimony in a whisper, which was interpreted by the crier. For the first time Holmes broke down. He gazed steadily at her for a few seconds, while his hands twitched nervously and his lips opened and closed, but she carefully avoided meeting his eyes.

HOLMES WEEPS IN COURT.

Then he suddenly bent forward over the little desk in his dock, and the tears began to trickle down his cheeks. He drew his handkerchief out and for a moment or two sobbed.

Then, quickly recovering himself, he dried his eyes and bowed his head, busily engaging himself with his notes, but still occasionally giving way to a sob.

Miss Yoh testified that she was in St. Louis in June, 1891, when Holmes was in the drug business. She engaged attorneys for him when he was in jail.

Miss Yoh came to Philadelphia the first week in August. At that time Holmes said he was in the copying business, looking after leases, etc.

FIXING HIS WHEREABOUTS.

Mr. Graham then put a series of questions, to fix Holmes whereabouts on the day the murder is supposed to have been committed—Sunday, September 2, 1894.

MRS. PITZEL'S STORY.

CONTINUATION OF WEDNESDAY AFTER-NOON'S PROCEEDINGS.

The general interest, which had lagged somewhat, was suddenly raised to fever heat as Mr. Graham turned to his assistant, Mr. Barlow, saying: "Call Mrs. Pitzel." Absolute stillness pervaded the court room as the poor, broken down woman came through a door near the head of the hall and feebly ascended the two steps into the witness box. Her face was wan and haggard, her cheeks hollow, eyes sunken and encircled with dark rims which told only too eloquently of the awful suffering and anguish of the past year. She was neatly dressed in a black gown, with hat and cloak to match. Her voice was so low and weak that no one more than two feet away could possibly hear her answers, and at the request of the court Crier Hart stood close beside her and repeated her words that all might hear. As she turned in the witness box and faced the dock so that her eyes fell upon the man whom she and probably 99 out of every 100 people in Philadelphia believe to be the slayer of her husband and destroyer of three of her five children, a shudder passed through her emaciated frame and she sank in a half fainting condition into the chair provided for her. But the prisoner sat absolutely unmoved, and while Mrs. Pitzel was in the box busied himself still more diligently with his papers and note-making, carefully avoiding catching the eye of either Mrs. Pitzel or Attorney Graham.

The witness told again the pathetic story of her exposure to length selected to the prisoner. Beginning with her first meeting him in a Chicago restaurant in 1893, she narrated the history of the insurance deal with the Fidelity Company of this city and of her husband's movements in conjunction with the accused in various parts of the country. She spoke of the note for $5,000 which Holmes claimed was of Fort Worth property, and which was subsequently taken up with part of the proceeds of the policy, and also of her giving a power of attorney to Jephtha D. Howe, after her husband's supposed death, upon advice of the prisoner.

THE MOTHER'S SEARCH.

With evident anguish witness continued telling the pathetic tale of the disappearance first of her husband, and then of Alice, and lastly of her complicated, followed by her own aimless wanderings from city to city under Holmes' guidance, promised each day that she would see her dear ones, and put off as certainly by some specious excuse until length she decided she could stand it no longer, for she knew he was lying to her. In her journeying to and from she went from Galva, Ill., on Oct. 5th to Detroit, thence to Toronto, Prescott, Ogdensburg, N. Y., Burlington, Vt., and Boston, in which latter place she was arrested on a charge of complicity with Holmes in the insurance fraud. In all the sad story no incident was more pathetic than that in which, in Toronto, Holmes, to quiet her persistent cravings for some news of her children, brought her a scrap of paper with figures on, which he alleged was a letter from the children, and which he pretended to translate as follows:

"Dear Mamma,—We're all well and going to school; Howard won't mind Alice but will get dirty. We have plenty to eat and the woman is real good to us."

This he pretended was from the little ones in Indianapolis, when at that very moment the remains of the slaughtered girls were rotting under the cottage at 16 St. Vincent street, Toronto, and little Howard's ashes were in the self-feeder at Irvington, Ill.

IN TORONTO.

All the details of the stay in Toronto including the sudden meeting face to face in T. Eaton Company's store, were told, and then the sudden flight cast under the pretence once more of meeting the husband and father. Having concluded this part of her story, and having added that she wrote often to her parents, her husband and her children, but never had a line in reply. Mr. Graham asked her to identify a number of letters which he handed to her. This she did with tears running down her cheeks, letters couched in loving terms of childish endearment from the children, and letters from herself to them and to her parents. These the commonwealth will prove were found in Holmes' possession on his arrest, and disposed she gave them to him to mail.

In conclusion she was asked: "When did you see your husband last?"

"On July 26, 1894, I saw him from him last August 26. He was then in Philadelphia."

"When did you hear from your children after Holmes took them away?"

"Never."

"Did you ever see them again?"

"I saw them in Toronto in the morgue side by side. However, saw only what belonged to him in Indianapolis."

THE SCARLETT FAMILY.

Once of Toronto, Now of Oakland, Cal.—A Happy Re-Union.

Special to The Times.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 31.—Among the overland passenger arrivals in Oakland Monday morning was Edward Scarlett, of Toronto, Canada, who had been hastily summoned to this city by a letter from his sister, Miss Kittie B. Scarlett, whom he had mourned as dead for some years.

Edward is the son of the late Sir James Scarlett, formerly a wealthy and influential citizen of Toronto. The family of Sir James left Toronto some 14 years ago, taking up their residence in South California. The father died shortly afterward, and Edward returned to Toronto.

Through some misunderstanding Mr. Scarlett received no tidings of his absence and was led to believe he was dead. He in turn thought the same of his family, as letters to their Southern California address failed to reach them. Yesterday there was a happy re-union.

The Times

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 2 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LEGAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probs.—Fresh to strong north to north-west winds; generally fair and colder.

Football To-day.

The Peterborough Rugby team will play with Trinity College on the Driving Park grounds this afternoon. Being the first game of the season in Peterborough, there will doubtless be a large attendance.

Not Yet Found.

The steamer Golden City left Lakeside at 10 o'clock for Buckhorn to continue the search for the body of Captain Reynolds, the efforts of the grappling party in that direction having proven fruitless on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Twenty Dollars for a Story.

"Our Monthly" published by the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, Toronto, offers $20 the best argument for life insurance in the form of a story not exceeding fifteen hundred words. Particulars from editor "Our Monthly," 63 Yonge street, Toronto.

Fortnightly Club.

An open meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held in the County Council Chamber, Court House, Tuesday evening, November 5th, at 8 o'clock. The subject of the paper to be read by Mr. Sheriff Hall, is "When the World was Young." The citizens are most cordially invited to be present.

A Fight With a Lynx.

While hunting in the rear of Coe Hill, Dr. D. H. Platt had a thrilling adventure. Camping out in the woods on a recent cold night he was attacked by a hungry lynx and he and his dog fought for some time before he succeeded in killing the animal, but he succeeded in crippling the old one, and in killing one of the kittens, and so made his escape. The old lynx was about the size of a Chihuahua dog. He has expressed the plain kitten to a taxidermist to have the skin stuffed.—Pilot Times.

It is Misleading.

An item which is going the rounds of the press, and which also appeared in THE TIMES, defining the rights of citizens and peace officers to arrest without warrant is misleading. A peace officer can arrest without a warrant for any offense, in cases where he has good and probable reasons or suspicions. As long as he has these he is not liable for action for damages. If he has made a mistake, A. even if he has made a mistake, A. citizen can, in certain cases make an arrest but he is liable for an action of damages in case he can not prove the charges. The article referred to would lead to the conclusion that a citizen had more power than a peace officer.

A Liquor Spy.

On Tuesday last the village had another exhibition of the natural outcome of the abominable spy system so maliciously and persistently carried on in this our otherwise peaceful and prosperous village, says the Port Perry Observer. The night hawk not satisfied with his prowling around while honest people sleep, must violate the Sabbath by dragging his drag net on that day.—An information was laid against the "St. Charles" for having sold liquor on Sunday. The case came up on Tuesday before Squires Crandell and not a word was found to be a myth and of course was dismissed. Lawyer Chapple from Uxbridge defended. Why should people be annoyed and put to cost in defending themselves against a careful inventory of complaints of some spiteful spy.

A Warning to Farmers.

The attention of THE TIMES has been called to the fact that "runners" intercept farmers on their way to market, and purchase their produce. The average farmer will not doubt jump at the opportunity for an early disposal of his wares, but he should not lose sight of the fact that "runner's" prices are invariably less than those current on the market. Then the market is provided and maintained by the law for the convenience of the citizens, and it is an act of injustice, and one not countenanced by the authorities, to deprive them of the opportunity of purchasing direct from the producer. It would therefore be in the interests of both the farmer and our citizens, if the importunities of the "runner" were ignored and all product taken to the market for disposal.

Hunting Notes.

Mr. Gardiner Boyd, of Toronto, passed through town yesterday en route for the north country to join Mr. W. T. C. Boyd's hunting party in Snowdon township. Mr. W. S. Hutchinson, of Peterborough, passed through town yesterday to the north country, says the Lindsay Post. He will spend the ensuing two weeks with Dick Scott, one of the most experienced sports in Kilmount district, at White Lake, Galway.

A party composed principally of railway men, and including Conductor Heston, of Lindsay; James Donohue, Geo. Robinson, G. R. agent, Bathurst; John Hamilton, Bathurst; John Hawkins and Henry Reynolds, Port Hope, and a gentleman from Montreal, left yesterday afternoon for Hamilton, and will hunt on a lake about nine miles from that village.

Caught at Last.

Early last spring it was discovered that a number of cottages at Sturgeon Point—Lindsay's well known summer resort—had been entered by parties then unknown, and miscellaneous articles of considerable value were missing. A careful inventory of contents had been taken. The cottages were so empty that some energetic steps should be taken to discover the thieves and make an example of them in order to ensure the future safety of property left at Sturgeon Point six months of the year, and they placed the matter in the hands of the police, who have been working quietly ever since, with the result that on Tuesday last a man by the name of Newman Tripp was brought before Magistrate Deacon by County Constable Crawford, charged with having in his possession property that had been stolen from Mr. E. A. McGaffney's cottage. He was remanded until Saturday. We understand that a number of others have been implicated, and warrants have been issued for the suspected parties who will be arrested in a few days.

WILL RACE TODAY

For the Records Up to Five Miles—The Track Drying Fast.

Harley Davidson will go for the records at 2.30 this afternoon. The dry weather and wind of yesterday dried the track, and if it does not rain this morning the track will be very fast this afternoon. Davidson will be paced by the quadruplet and will try for the one, two, three, four and five mile records. It will be a splendid exhibition of fast riding.

Yesterday four of the party were out on the quad and the slight was witnessed by the citizens with interest. In the fore part of the afternoon the party took in the town in the Irish jaunting car. Mr. Payson Davidson, brother of Harley, is with the party. Mr. Davidson is manager and trainer of the Brantford team and has had considerable experience having managed teams from Battle Creek to Montreal and Sarnia to Drayton, Ont., on Canadian and American circuits. He has also visited Springfield, Ashburnham Park Waltham and other fast American tracks in that capacity. The accompanying cut is an excellent picture of him.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Serious Position in Which Two Young Men are Placed.

Messrs. Allan and James Bronson were arrested on Saturday last in Madoc on the very serious charge of having caused the death of one Harry Barber, of the township of Rawdon, on the 28th day of September last.

It appears that the parties all met with many others at a "husking bee" at the residence of Mr. Tobias Forestal, township of Rawdon, and that the usual sports and amusements were freely indulged in, the prisoners and deceased having had several wrestling encounters and also amused themselves by tumbling and rolling about the barn floor amongst the husks and corn. It appears also that the deceased was in a weakened condition of health and complained somewhat that night of feeling a severe pain in his chest, but nothing further transpired until the afternoon of the 11th day of October, when Barber died. Dr. Sargent, who attended the deceased a short time before his death, swore that the deceased died from inflammation of the lungs, and could not say what the exact cause of this was, that there was nothing to show that this fatal attack of sickness was produced by natural or unnatural causes, that there were no marks of violence on the body, and nothing whatever to indicate that the deceased had been injured.

A MAN GOT SHOT.

TERRIBLE AFFAIR ON GEORGE-ST. LAST NIGHT.

Thrilling Incident in a Hardware Store—The Victim's Brother Got Blown up Only Last Summer.

A man got shot in a hardware store on George street last night. The affair was witnessed by a dozen or more customers who happened to be in the store at the time. The story is a very common one, repeated almost every day in some part of the world, but only the horror of it is realized when the scene of action is within the corporate limits of our town. A TIMES representative was early on the scene and learned the following terrible details of a very peculiar affair. It might be very pertinent to state at this juncture that at midnight the man was stretched out on his bed, and anxious eyes watched him. The doctors were of the opinion that he would not regain consciousness until morning. So far no arrests have been made, but probably all the guilty parties will be taken into custody today.

About nine o'clock last night a man was noticed walking furiously along Brook street carrying a gun over his shoulder. The moon shone brightly at that time (pronounced "ehon," and the features of the man, drawn up into a most ferocious expression were plainly discernible to the few pedestrians on that street. He walked with the jerky twitching of a man in a terrible mental struggle, and the opinion was generally shared that he must have just put on his fannels for the first time (this year of course) or that his chest protector had slipped around to the back of his neck, and he was trying to shift it back again.

At the corner of Brook and George streets, he turned the corner, which showed him to a man of terrible muscle. Then he walked deliberately down the street and entered the first hardware store he came to, and going up to the clerk, said something to him in a low voice, at the same time handling his gun in a significant and nervous manner.

The clerk immediately dodged behind the scales. In a few minutes he returned and said:

"Did you say a pound?"

"Yes," responded the stranger.

The clerk handed him a pound of shot. Having got shot he went home and went to bed, and will be up bright and early this morning.

He is a brother to the man who was blown up last summer, when the wind caught the balloon.

SLOPEVILLE.

One of the most interesting meetings of the Lime Suice Club that was ever held in Slopeville since Adam was a boy was held in the village Monday last.

The Hall of Wisdom was filled with enthusiasts from both sides of the earth. President those that were present were Bro. Lemoges (step-brother of the late President Carnot of France) Bro. Sin-Twa and Sing-Waw, (Nephews of the Makado of Japan), Bro. Moscovi, (31st cousin of the Czar of Russia) and more than fifty of the other royal families of both the Eastern and Western Hemispheres were liberally represented.

President McBride took the chair at 3.59 p. m. One minute later the hall door, facing Irish Island opened admitting Bro. Quinn of Little Ireland to the presence of the assemblage. He at once introduced to the audience his old friend Prof. Ricelake (step-brother of the late President Carnot of France) a man of medium height, carrying in one hand a basket of porridge which he had left after the Douro fair and tickets for lunch in the other. He also said that the Professor was a naturalist and was anxious to prove to the audience that a relation existed between a Californian pumpkin and a South Carolina Cranberry.

It was moved by Bro. Whiplash Barry, that Two-Forty O'Brien should be dismissed from the meeting for two nights for looking him square in the face, but the President said it was his first offense he would leave him off light with a fine of 50c to be paid up his back dues for the last three months.

Prof. Ricelake was called to the platform to solve the Pumpkin Cranberry Mystery, but was unable to root out the nature of them. He muttered some sad lamentation in great anguish and big dew drops began to fill his eye sockets, when Bro. Quinn prompted him.

"Wally, why don't you say a pumpkin is an animal, and a cranberry is an insect, and don't make a liar of me before this large audience?"

Presently Bro. Wm. E. O'Brien, with his face in a glow of perspiration, rushed in with a document written by himself in red ink, which he "swiped" from Anvil McCann's ink bottle. Having obtained permission to read, he mounted a large soap box, which Bro. J. Casey had brought for the occasion, and read the following poem:

A pedagogue once hailed from Kenna,
Who thought himself a charming being,
He sought his truth-hap pump-porridge
Washed up with Cutler's salve.

He played "big dog" among the dogs,
"On me, thought he," "there is no fiercer."
My wit renewed is known afar,
I shall shine as a Niagara star.

My heart and handsome maid will greet
To hold for ever in reticence.

To love, poor lad, a vic-lin came
His heart, love heartache's name
He sought his luck, made heart to win,
His fate lamenting I pen.

To the meadow east of Niagara Town
He pointed evening's windows
In search of "Cap" his puddle dog
His seat, indeed, he took from Kenna.

Seven times in all, he weekly made:
On love explicit, as I have said,
Till lost in love he had got,
The shock of which he never forgot.

He never can speak, when e'er he meet
A lady that has come that street
And ever since that sad mishap,
He never went back in a sack of "Cap."

Reading being over all was still, and several of the members declared that they heard spooks in the stove pipes, and one of the Antipodians faintly; but Skibbereen Tom announced that it was impossible for spooks to get to America, as they would be unable to swim 2000 miles of sea water, and they would not be allowed on board of a ship. But this did not quiet the tumult, and as the crowd was last dispersing Bro. Anvil McCann ascended the platform with a piece of green paper in his hand. By this time the audience that remained did not amount to over 500 souls. Bro. Anvil stated in a very excited manner that he had been checked by Bro. Whibbs because the last two lines of his last weeks poem did not harmonize. He said "war" and "far" did not work in concord he thought he had made an improvement in it that would sound more poetical to the ear and taking up the emerald paper he read.

This meeting held in Slopeville town has made J. F. red hot and brown; Vanquished in love, his wishes are odd now: "The Times" from Kenna afar.

All at once Bro. Hustler Towns arose exclaimed:
"I shall show for Slopeville boys you bet,
We hold our Lime Juice Meetings yet!"
Cheers were readily given and the President dismissed the meeting.

THE DEAD RAISED UP.

EXCITEMENT IN A CANADIAN TOWN RUNS HIGH.

A Former Resident Thought to be Dying of Bright's Disease. Used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Appears on the Street in Perfect Health.

Special to the Times.

LISTOWEL, Nov. 2, 1895.—"The press dispatch, first read here in a Toronto paper, but dated from Neepawa, Manitoba, has caused quite as much local furore as in the town of its origin. The subject, Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly lived here and has a large circle of sympathizing friends who had for months past believed her to be dying or dead. A recovery from Bright's disease and re-appearance so remarkable—so much past common belief—naturally resulted in many enquiries for confirmation of the facts."

Similar press despatches having been of such frequent occurrence, during the past few months, coming from various parts of Canada, the management of this paper had decided not to permit their publication without verification.

To this end every despatch hitherto published has been investigated with a most gratifying result. In every case where we have written we got prompt replies, very friendly in their tone, and in many cases stating that their case has been under, instead of over, stated. It is found also, they state, that from those remarkable cures the sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the surrounding country has doubled and quadrupled during the past year, and that these pills are being successfully used in as many cases as there are names of diseases in the catalogue.

The proprietors of Dodd's Kidney Pills were equally prompt in placing all the data for the successful issue of our investigation and we have ourselves become convinced of the sterling merits of this wonderful medicine.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine or treatment in the world that has ever cured Bright's disease.

INS AND OUTS.

The maple leaf is destined to be more popular in song these wet days than on the sidewalk.

The condition of George street today must be a sight that certain councillors can look upon with feelings of pride.

If Trilby has to walk on George street when she comes here the Opera House will be full of mud.

What with the escaping gas on George street from the laying of the mains, and the gas that will escape from the Council Chamber on Monday night, the air will be thick.

A secular paper in the United States lately gave a severe rebuke to the ministers of religion in Buffalo who are in the habit of advertising sensational topics as the themes of their Sunday addresses to their flocks. The writer represented a farmer as visiting Buffalo with his wife, and on Saturday, looking over the newspapers to discover where he might possibly worship on the next day, he found that the following were the "scriptural" subjects which would be discussed in different city pulpits:

"Is the Trilby craze dying out?" "Fitzsimmons v. Corbett." "How the pastor spends his vacation." "Should our daughters marry foreign noblemen?" "High sleeves and theatre hats." "The Gold Brick saloon." "Canal street on Saturday night." "Fifty-third Congress." "Rights of motormen."

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 2, 1905.

THE ENGLAND OF THE EAST.

Japan is investing in ironclads the indemnity which is the hard earnings of her war with China.

All the force in more than one British shipyard is employed night and day in the construction of battleships and cruisers for the Japanese navy. The money with which Russia and France supply China to meet the war indemnity all goes to build up the naval strength which may enable Japan to oppose the designs of Russia in the far Pacific.

Japan has no interests at variance with England's interests, and Russia's ambition is a menace to the interests of both nations. Japan is an island empire against which Russia cannot effectively use the overwhelming power of her land forces. The Jap, man for man, is a better sailor than the Russian, and when the war indemnity paid by China is all spent, Japan will have a navy equal to that which floats under the Russian flag on the Pacific ocean.

French interference against Japan upon behalf of Russia might be decisive unless England aided Japan, or Germany took steps to ensure the neutrality of France.

If the boy is the father of the man in Chicago the outlook for some of the sons is not very good. A seven-year-old Chicago boy is locked up on a charge of horse stealing. It is his third or fourth experience of the sort. A nine-year-old Chicago boy has been arrested for snatching $1,800 from a woman in a downtown bank and making off with that booty. "He seems to take great pride in his achievement," reports a Chicago paper.

Mr. A. R. Colquhoun, who has been looking at the Panama and Nicaragua canal schemes for the London Times, reports that not more than one-third of the work necessary to complete the Panama canal has been done, and remarks that the cost of the remainder will be largely in excess of $200,000,000, even if the project be feasible. But the Chagres river and the Culebra cut appear to him to be insurmountable obstacles. As to the Nicaragua project, however, which he studied thoroughly, he urges that the work should be done under the auspices of the United States government, and estimates the cost of the completed canal on that route at between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000.

Saturday Night says that we see repeated newspaper paragraphs which allege that Major Chapleau, brother of the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, is likely to be made collector of the port of Montreal—the position so long promised to Mr. Robert S. White. If after convincing evidence that all, or nearly all, the principal offices in Montreal have lately been given to French Canadians, and with the recent appointment of Mr. Curran to the bench—in spite of the protests of the Protestant business men, who know what it is to have the church come before everything else even in the courts—fresh in memory, the collectorship is given to Major Chapleau, the anger of those who have been slighted, though they pay the principal part of the taxes, will be apt to rise to boiling point. It is understood that if Hon. Mr. Chapleau will return to the Government the office will be given to his brother. The Government must be in a hard hole if it has to make bargains like this in order to get men like the ex-Secretary of State to consume office.

Do not take any substitute when you ask for the one blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Insist upon Hood's and only Hood's.

Few Can Walk Straight in the Dark.

In a small gathering the other evening some one proposed a trial of locating oneself in absolute darkness. Lamps and lights were extinguished, and then the first "victim," who had previously "taken the center of the stage," attempted to reach the door. No blindfold was employed, and the four or five "spectators" sat silent in their places awaiting the result. The "blind" groped for several minutes unsuccessfully and then bumped into a window quite opposite to the door from which he was to exit. Each person, with wits collected and all the "bearings" taken, made as bad blunders, and it was proved to these experimenters that locality is a faculty that grows with actual loss of vision, and that no one who is normally gifted can walk straight in the dark.—Boston Herald.

Gabrielli's Voice.

Gabrielli had a charming voice, but was so capricious that no one could tell when she was going to sing, even when cast for a part in opera. Once in Naples she became offended and refused to sing above a whisper. The king sent her to prison, where for 12 days she feasted the prisoners, entertaining them with her choicest selections. Set at liberty, she became more of a favorite than ever. It was she who asked Catherine the Great to pay her 5,000 ducats salary. "Why, that is more than I pay my field marshals!" said the empress. "Then your majesty would better get your field marshals to sing for you," was the saucy reply.

The Gladstonian Theory.

Mr. Gladstone is a believer in the theory that a man can do better mental work every year to extreme old age if he takes care of his body. He claims that the mind grows stronger and clearer as the body loses vitality, and that it is only disease of the latter that can prevent an intellectual progress that will go on to the end. He is certainly a good illustration of his working theory.

Electrical Treatment

210 Cowan Ave., Toronto.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well

Hon. Messrs. Foster and Oulmet were banqueted at Owen Sound last night.

John Mitchell, of Dorchester township, yesterday celebrated his 102nd birthday.

An incendiary attempt was made this morning to burn Bertram & Sons tool works at Dundas. Loss about $500.

A. D. Macdougall, a brakeman on the T. & E. B., was probably fatally crushed between cars at Brantford yesterday.

Brantford police found a horse tied in the street some weeks ago and sold it by auction yesterday for a dollar and fifty cents.

Mrs. W. C. Macleod of Woodstock, has given $2,500 to Chalmers' Presbyterian church, and $1,000 to Woodstock's general hospital.

It is estimated that 4,000,000 bushels of wheat are now stored in Manitoba elevators. About the same quantity has already been shipped.

Hamilton.
Police Commissioners last night appointed H. A. Bettles, John Miller, J. Clark, Alex. Macdonald, to the staff of police-men.

An inquest has been opened to ascertain the cause of the sudden death of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Keyes of Birge street.

Mrs. Ann Turk has entered suit against Contractor Ouderdonk for $10,000 damages for the death of her husband, killed on the T. & E. B. tunnel last week.

United States.
It is now certain that the Durant jury at San Francisco, will not retire from the court room until late this afternoon.

Masons of Mississippi have made a rule preventing any Mason in any capacity selling liquor as a beverage, under penalty of expulsion.

The Booth Packing Company, of St. Paul, Minn., intend to erect at Selkirk the largest refrigerator or freezing plant on the continent, to cost $300,000.

Lord Salisbury had a long interview at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon with Sir Philip Currie, British Ambassador to Constantinople.

The west shore of Lough Swilly, on the coast of County Donegal, are strewn with wreckage, which it is believed have come from a large steamer.

The Prince of Wales attended a requiem mass celebrated in the Russian chapel in Welbeck street yesterday, the first anniversary of the death of Czar Alexander III.

JAIL FOR A PICKET.

He Hit a Man Over the Head With an Umbrella.

Special to The Times.
TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Before Magistrate Dalton this morning Torrence Mullen, a tailor at present, was accused of having assaulted a trunk maker named J. E. Doran at the corner of King and Bay streets last night. The evidence showed that the two men got into an altercation and when Doran jumped onto a Parliament street car Mullen ran after him and hit him over the head with his umbrella.

IS HE A PICKET?
Mr. Curry endeavored to show that Mullen was the chief of the pickets who watch for "scab" tailors and that that was the reason why he assaulted Doran. After Mr. Curry had finished questioning the defendant, who voluntarily went into the box, his Worship said: "I suppose the union or organization with which you are identified would pay your fine?" addressing Mullen.

TEN DAYS IN JAIL.
Before the latter had an opportunity to answer the Magistrate's query the Colonel said: "For fear of that I'll send you to jail for ten days hard labor." This sentence fell like paralytic stroke upon Mullen. It fairly took his breath away. He walked slowly to the dock and down to the cells without saying a word. There was a number of journeymen tailors present and they were all of the opinion that the penalty was most severe.

CAIN A WASHINGTON

Compared with Durant, the San Francisco Alleged Murderer.

Special to The Times.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—District Attorney Barnes concluded summing up for the people in the Durant case this morning, and then Judge Murphy began upon his charge, which is said to be unusually lengthy.

The merciless arraignment of the defendant by the district attorney concluded: "Theodore Durant," said Mr. Barnes, "stands forth in American jurisprudence today as the most brutal criminal of the age. He is a creature beside who Holmes, the multi-murderer, who is now on trial in Philadelphia, is a perfect gentleman and a scholar beside who Prof. Webster, the Harvard instructor, who killed Dr. Parkman many years ago, was a king, and compared with whom Cain was a George Washington."

INCENDIARIES AT DUNDAS.

Attempt to Burn the Bertram Tool Works Yesterday.

Special to The Times.
DUNDAS, Ont. Nov. 1.—An attempt was made this morning to burn Messrs. Jno. Bertram & Sons' tool works about four o'clock.

The fire was got under control after $600 damage had been done. This is the third incendiary fire here in a week.

AIR A STORAGE BATTERY.

A Theory That It Can Be Tapped For All the Electricity Needed.

Elias B. Dunn, the weather observer at New York, has been studying atmospheric electricity for a few years. The sergeant, as they used to call him; the farmer, as they call him now, said the other day that he will live to see the day when electricity collected from the atmosphere and stored by some means which an Edison or a Tesla will have to devise will revolutionize the world. The prophet expects that cities will be lighted and heated by atmospheric electricity; that every train and car will be run, lighted and heated by it; that coal will become a curiosity; that steam heating will be a granny talk to the children of the next generation; that the telegraphs and telephone companies will lose their monopolies; that war will become a farce, because a touch of electricity will make the British Grenadiers or the German Uhlans or the Scotch Highlanders sit down on the cold ground powerless.

Even the dreams of communication with the inhabitants of Mars will become realities, and a man will be able to strike up electricity as he does a parlor match. There will be no more trolley strikes, because there will be no more trolleys. Mankind will tap the atmosphere for almost any convenience except food and clothing, and even the clothing will be woven and the food cooked by atmospheric electricity; street cleaning will be as easy as the magician's "Presto, chango!" and everybody will live comparatively happier over after.

Mr. Dunn is sure that his ideas are practical and probable. The atmosphere is his constant study, and having introduced general humidity to the public as the principal element in uncomfortable days, he has determined that the potent element for good in the air we breathe shall no longer be wasted. Why, he said, the whole atmosphere is soaked with electricity.

The earth, as is well known, is a storehouse of electricity. That it passes from the clouds to the earth we can see in every thunderstorm. The earth is a good conductor, especially damp earth, and water is the best conductor possible. Every person is possessed of body electricity. The vital force is all in the electrical powers you contain in your body. When the day is damp, you become weakened through the loss of your bodily electricity, because the atmosphere is a greater conductor of the electrical fluid than your body, and consequently what is in your body will pass to this moist, damp air. That is the cause of that tired feeling.

This passing of electricity to the atmosphere enervates you to such a degree that a person in a naturally weak state will collapse or become much worse by the loss of this bodily electricity. The atmosphere being charged with electricity and the earth being a storehouse for it, if there were some controllable method of storage devised by which you could draw off a moderate amount of electricity at will and keep that force on tap all the time, with an appliance by which power could be generated—and there's no reason why that can't be done—then the atmospheric electricity would make all the wheels in the world go around. The barons would be done up. There would be no more need for coal. There ought to be enough electricity in the atmosphere to supply light and heat as well as to do all the work.—Boston Transcript.

Graven on Her Memory.
She had been a widow a year or so, and she was dicker for a tombstone for the departed.

"Of course," said the tombstone man, "you want the date of his death on the shaft—the day of the month and the year?"

"Well," sighed the widow, "I suppose other people may like to read them, but I don't need such reminders. They are indelibly engraved on my heart and memory."

"What was the date?" asked the tombstone man.

The widow hesitated. Then she turned a riotous scarlet; then she said: "Gracious goodness! I can't remember whether it was Jan. 26 or 27. I'll go home and find out."—New York Tribune.

Louis XVI.
Louis XVI had a very heavy, red, sensual face, with large Roman nose, full cheeks and lips and a double chin. There was no trace of more than ordinary intellect either in his face or conversation, the latter being always commonplace, often dull. He gave his contemporaries the impression of a man who habitually ate and drank more than was good for him.

Willing to Learn.
"You are at your best now, Cyrus," said his uncle, "and just at the right age for marrying. You ought to make hay while the sun shines."

Cyrus immediately put on his hat, went out of the house and proposed 15 minutes later to a grass widow.—Chicago Tribune.

TWO ABSENTMINDED INDIVIDUALS.

One Forgot His Invitation, and the Other Forgot His Wife.

An absentminded person can spread chaos all around, but when two absentminded people try to work together may heaven help the poor creatures upon whom the consequences fall. A prominent lawyer from an inland city met in London a distinguished British author, whom he invited to visit him during a tour of America, already planned. The lawyer came back home and shortly forgot all about his English friend and his own invitation, but was reminded of both, in good time, by a letter announcing the date of the celebrated Briton's arrival. This, too, he forgot in a few minutes, and when the appointed day came it found him living in a hut up house, getting his meals there as he could, while his wife made an extended round of visits among her relatives.

When the distinguished visitor drove up to the house on the evening of the day set in his letter, he met a single servant, who explained that the master was at a club meeting, over two miles away, and would be back about midnight. Sending his wife, who was tired and ill, back to the railway station, the Englishman started in pursuit of his delinquent host. The latter was found with a company of pleasant people, to whom the great author was promptly introduced, and the two absentminded friends finished up the evening at the club meeting, forgetting all about their lack of suitable quarters for the night and poor Mrs. Distinguished Author sitting in the railway station.

When the meeting broke up in the small hours, they recalled these awkward circumstances and rescued the weary woman, whose comments upon the situation did not reach me. Then they drove to the home of one of the lawyer's relatives, who kindly got them all to bed before dawn.—Kate Field's Washington.

The Tongue.
The perfectly healthy tongue is clean, moist, lies loosely in the mouth, is round at the edge and has no prominent papillae. The tongue may be furled from local causes or from sympathy with the stomach, intestines or liver.

The dry tongue occurs most frequently in fever and indicates a nervous prostration or depression. A white tongue is diagnostic simply of the feverish condition, with perhaps a disordered stomach. When it is moist and yellowish brown, it shows disordered digestion. Dry and brown indicates a low state of the system. When the tongue is dry and red and smooth, look out for inflammation, gastric or intestinal. When the papillae on the end of the tongue are raised and very red, we call it a strawberry tongue, and that may mean scarlet fever. A sharp, pointed red tongue will point to brain irritation or inflammation, and a yellow coating indicates liver derangement.—Family Herald

THE LAW ABOUT TIPPING.

What a Visit to an English House Will Cost a Guest.

Let me attempt to throw a ray of light into this cavern of darkness and try to suggest what are the sums generally given by knowing people in England under various circumstances. To begin with, let us take the simplest case—that of an unmarried man who stops from Sunday till Monday in the house of a friend who keeps only a parlor maid or single manservant. Here half a crown should be quite enough for the servant. In the case of a married couple, the lady, if without a maid, adds half a crown for the housemaid. The coachman, if there is one, must have his clearing up after driving home to the station. If the visitor stops for a week, he should make his donation 4 shillings. He should allow, that is, about sixpence a night and sixpence over as a sort of ground tax.

We come next to the case of Saturday to Monday in a more elaborate establishment—i.e., where a butler and a footman are kept. Here the Saturday to Monday stay must distinguish. If the footman looks after him, the butler should have half a crown, and the butler also half a crown, in consideration of the fact that the butler will probably order your fly for you and look out for your trunks. If, however, the footman is kept in the background altogether and the butler valets you, the butler takes the whole 5 shillings. If you stop for a longer time—say a week—these sums should be raised to 4 or 5 shillings in each case.

If the visitor brings a man of his own, the tip to the footman, of course, disappears, but that to the butler usually remains. When the really great establishments are reached, different rules prevail. The ordinary bachelor guest need perhaps only trouble himself about the special footman told off to wait on him. Unless the butler is an old friend or has to be asked to do something out of the way there is no cause to tip him.—National Review.

Why She Never Married.

When a man tempts fate by reminding a spinster of her condition, his punishment is generally swift and sure. In a county of Ireland where the Quakers were numerous the entire body on one occasion gathered together for one of their quarterly meetings.

After the exercises of the morning a public luncheon was held, at which all the Friends attended. The conversation turned to matrimony. "Bridget," said an unassuming youth, a member of the society, speaking across the crowded table to a prim, elderly maiden lady, "will you tell me why thou hast never married?"

"Certainly, Friend William," responded the ready Bridget in a voice audible over the room. "Tis because I am not so aley pleased as thy wife was."—London Tit-Bits.

The Edible Bird's Nest.

In the Andaman Islands the principal industry is that of collecting, cleaning and preparing edible birds' nests for shipment. The species of bird which builds this queer nest arrives in the islands about the 1st of December and immediately commences to build its nest, which is constructed almost wholly of a gelatinous substance, which is a secretion from the salivary glands of the bird's mouth. The finest quality of these edible nests resembles pure lingual. They are worth their weight in silver in many countries of the orient, especially in China, Borneo, Korea and Siam. They are usually built in caves and clefts along the coast, but are frequently found in trees.—St. Louis Republic.

Physiology and Fortness.

Mr. Verytrab—I weigh 154 pounds, and do you know that in a person of that size analysis has shown that there are 95 pounds of water, 8 pounds of albumen, less than 1 pound of pure glue, 84½ pounds of fat, 8½ pounds of phosphate of lime, a pound of carbonate of lime, 8 ounces of sugar and starch, 7 ounces of fluoride of calcium, 5 ounces phosphate of magnesia and a little salt. What do you think of that?

Miss Keene—I think it is all right except in this instance in the matter of the salt.—Detroit Free Press

The Times

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 1 1895

BLANCHE LAMONT'S SLAYER.

Guilty of Murder in the First Degree—The Jury's Verdict.
Special to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The jury in the Durant case were out only 20 minutes when they arrived at the verdict on the first ballot. As there was no recommendation to mercy, the punishment was fixed at death.

While the jury were out Mrs. Durant and the prisoner talked and laughed together, as if an acquittal were a foregone conclusion. They were surrounded by half a dozen friends, and the conversation was animated.

When it was whispered around that the jury had arrived at a verdict, a hush fell upon the little circle that had gathered around the prisoner. Durant's face, always pallid, assumed a ghastly hue, and his mother was speechless.

Intense excitement followed the entrance of the jury. Judge Murphy was summoned from his chambers and the clerk asked the usual question as to whether the jury had agreed upon a verdict.

Foreman Warren Dutton arose, and replied in the affirmative. "We, the jury," said he, "find the defendant, Wm.
Henry Theodore Durant, guilty of murder in the first degree."

As the aged foreman, pale and trembling, read the words that fixed Durant's fate, a low rumbling noise like the roar of a mob arose from the rear of the court room. The next moment men were cheering wildly, while women wept hyperbolically excited. The bailiff rapped loudly for order but the tumult continued for a minute before anything like quiet could be brought out of the disorder.
When District Attorney Barnes arose and asked that a day be set upon which the sentence of death should be passed upon the prisoner, Judge Murphy said that sentence would be passed next Friday, upon which day he would also set the day for the trial of Durant on the charge of murdering Minnie Williams.

As the last words of the verdict were uttered Durant made a spasmodic effort to arise to his feet, but before he could do so his mother, with a half sigh, half moan, threw her arms around his neck and sunk back into her chair.

GOING WITH A GIRL.

Charles Domville, Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Tunnel Elopers.

Special to The Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 2.—A special from Port Huron this morning says a sensation in local society circles has just come to light.

Three weeks ago Charles Domville, superintendent of the Grand Trunk tunnel here, left the city, ostensibly on a vacation. This morning his wife received a letter from Domville postmarked
New York, in which the writer says that he is leaving the country and taking with him a girl who had formerly been a house maid in his father's house in Hamilton.

Domville said he had found he could not be happy without the woman whom he loved better than his wife and children.

INTO BAD HABITS.

Mrs. Domville has this to say concerning the affair: "Charles was superintendent of the tunnel, and was drawing a good salary up to three months ago. He was a model husband but at that time fell into dissolute habits, frequently staying away from his family for a whole night at a time.

"I was informed that he had been fre-quenting a house of ill-repute and that he had brought an English housemaid from his father's house in Hamilton and was keeping her at this house. This is the woman who is with him now."

LEFT MANY BILLS.

Domville left behind him many unpaid bills and borrowed money right and left.
He also mortgaged his household furniture. Domville's father is well known throughout the country, he being superintendent of the Southern Division of the Grand Trunk.

The younger Domville's parents were very much set against his marriage in Hamilton to the lady who is now his wife.
After the wedding it is said that they refused to recognize either party to the affair.

ASSUMES THE BATON.

Lord Wolsey Takes the Command of the Army —Issues a Special Order.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Field Marshall Lord
Wolsey, on assuming the commander-ship-in-chief of the British army, in succession to the Duke of Cambridge, resigned, has issued a special army order, in which he makes a kindly reference to the Duke of Cambridge.

He avows his intentions to maintain the traditions of the army and to better the condition of the forces. He declares

A Kentucky Duel.

LONDON, Kentucky, Nov. 2.—News has just reached here of a bloody duel in Leslie county. Wednesday Hon. W. T.
Bentley, who was a member of the Kentucky Legislature in 1887 and 1888, and the most prominent man in the county, fought a duel to the death with Bigs Hignite, a man of bad reputation, who killed his brother about one year ago. Hignite died immediately and Bentley lived about eight hours.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS: Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching.
If allowed to continue, hemorrhoids, which often bleed and cause, becoming very sore.
SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcers, and in most cases removes the tumors. All druggists, or by mail

OLD SCOTTISH CURES.

Remedies That Were Recommended in the Days of Auld Lang Syne.

A baldheaded man would hesitate before following Sir John Moncreiff's advice to "make a lee of the burnt ashes of dove's dung and wash the head well," although there is some consolation in learning that the same beneficial results would accrue from using "the ashes of little frogs." The hair, according to this authority, may be changed to a golden tint by using a simple lotion composed of the ashes of the ivy plant. Ladies who sigh for a fair complexion may secure it by such a pleasant method as washing the face with "the distilled water of snails," and the application of "liver of a sheep, fresh and hot,"
will make the whole face well colored.

Should the nose unfortunately bleed and the familiar remedy of thrusting a bunch of keys down the back of the neck fail of the desired result, then the assured styptic is to put into the nostrils a mixture of the hair of a hare and vinegar. Sir John bears testimony, "I myself know this to be the best of anything known." Blood flowing from a cut may be instantly stanching by simply holding a Jasper in the hand or by putting cow's blood into the wound. The reader will be apt to remark that neither of these is a handy remedy for such an emergency. An ointment made of earthworms will cure paralysis if the affected parts be anointed with the compound.

Sleeplessness, so common an ailment in our own time, can be removed, according to Sir John, by applying "living creatures" to the head to dissolve the humor," and Sir John narrates that for moles "many keep an ewe or wether in their chamber or on the bed, because these creatures are easily infected and draw the venom to themselves, by which means some cases may happen to the sick person." In a similar manner, if the trouble be a live duck or frog applied to the part "draws all the evil to itself and dies." Epilepsy may be prevented by wearing a girdle of wolf's skin. Should any one have been so negligent as to omit this necessary precaution,
"powder of a man's bones burnt, chiefly of the skull that is found in the earth, cures the epilepsy." The bones of a man cure a man. The bones of a woman cure a woman.

Lethargic individuals should follow the sage Moncreiff's advice: "Burn the whole skin of a hare with the ears and tails.
The powder thereof, being given hot, cures the lethargy perfectly." Doaness may be removed by pouring a mixture of onion juice and ants' eggs into the ear, and "the blood of a wild goat given to ten drops of carduus water doth powerfully discuss the pleurisy."—Gentleman's Magazine

PECULIAR CHINESE DISHES.

Some of Them Are Palatable, but More of Them Are Not.

Some of the dishes were extremely nice,
notably the little shreds of roast mutton, excellently seasoned, such as I learned ever after to call for with confidence at Chinese inns. On the other hand, the chicken was made unpalatable, and the eggs on this occasion, I am bound to say, were inexpressibly nasty. The taste for them as eaten in China and need to be acquired no doubt, for I had been told at Victry of the wonderful pains and expense at which Chinese gormandises preserve their eggs till they are black and putrid, and of which they are as proud when many, many years old as an English squiro of his crusted pork. I have, moreover, a vague impression, which for the moment I cannot verify, that I somewhere tasted these ancient delicacies and found them good, but on the present occasion my notebook condemns them utterly.

The rissoles of pork sausage were tasty, and so were the French beans, peas and hearts of cabbage stalks, and the mandarin oranges preserved in sirup. We helped ourselves to these delicacies as we pleased, but our host every now and then with his chopsticks placed on the plate of one or other of his three guests a choice morsel, which, mercifully, it was not a matter of unbending etiquette that one should eat. It was polite, of course, occasionally to return the compliment and help him to tidbits with one's knife and fork.—Philadelphia Times.

Swamp Plants.

It should be well known by this time that swamp plants, as a rule, will do much better in comparatively dry land than in the swamps where we naturally find them. Even the rice plant, which usually grows in water, will grow well and produce a fair crop of seeds in common garden ground. The reason for this has been fully explained in scientific serials. It reads oddly in a report just issued by the United States department of agriculture, suggesting that the common swamp rose mallow, Hibiscus moscheutos, usually grows in water, but in an experiment was made to test this fact on the Delaware river 35 years ago. The plant is growing in every well ordered herbaceous ground and is one of our most popular border plants. It is a weakness of the United States department of agriculture that it is so often behind the times in its publications. One of the best tasks for that department would be to make an index of what has been placed on record in the many serial publications of our country during the last half century. Dr.
Franklin B. Hough did something of this work in forestry when he was in this department. It is much to be regretted that such an undertaking, if it were given a broader scope.—Mechan's Monthly.

A Horse Has Little Brains.

The mental peculiarities of the horse are much less characteristic than its physical.
It is indeed the common opinion among those who do not know the animal well that it is endowed with much sagacity, but no experienced and careful observer is likely to maintain this opinion. All such students find the intelligence of the horse to be very limited.

Although some part of this mental defect in the horse, causing its actions to be widely contrasted with those of the dog, may be due to a lack of deliberate training and to breeding with reference to laborious accomplishment, we see, by comparing the creature with the elephant, which practically has never been bred in captivity, that the equine mind is, from the point of view of rationality, very feeble.—Professor N. S. Shaler in Bodner's Magazine.

How She Sold Grace.

Little 4-year-old Ida was visiting her aunt. She was always reticent at the table during the silent blessing, so her aunt explained to her why they bowed the head and kept quiet before eating. One day little Ida kept unusually quiet during grace. Finally she lifted her little head and looked up in her aunt's face and said:
"Aunt Emily, do you know what I was saying? I was saying, 'Ready, set, your hair dyed, hair dyed green.'"—Philadelphia Record.

Nervous Diseases

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Senile Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, etc., that the ordinary methods of treatment fail to cure. There is a lot of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drug is pursuing a dangerous practice. The only way to restore this power is by the use of the Owen Electric Belt.

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 5 1895.

THE VALUE OF AN AUDIT.

The necessity for a systematic audit of municipal accounts is exemplified in a striking way by the report of Special Auditor Powis on the civic accounts of Guelph, says the Journal of Commerce. In fact there is some regret that his investigations should have been confined to the transactions of the past two years and that they were carried still further back; for, although nothing in the least bordering upon criminality was discovered, it is evident that the city has made losses through a loose system of book-keeping which would have been obviated by a regular and systematic audit. That it paid the city to have it made is proved by the fact that through his investigations the sum of $505 has been recovered, and as the experience of Guelph is presumably not a singular one, it might be equally profitable for other towns and municipalities to have their books properly audited at regular intervals by an expert accountant.

A New Jersey judge has defined drunkenness as "voluntary illness."

According to a Paris paper the crown of the King of Portugal, which was recently repaired by a jeweler, is the most costly in the world, being valued at $6,000,000.

Princess Maud, the brightest and prettiest of the daughters of the Prince of Wales, is going to marry her first cousin, Charles, grandson of the king of Denmark who is three years younger than she. A nice young lady like Miss Maud ought to be able to get a more suitable husband even if she had to import him from Canada. Marriage of cousins is bad enough, but taking a boy to bring up is worse.

A verdict of manslaughter has been returned in Toronto by a coroner's jury against a Mrs. Beer, a Christian Scientist, under whose care or lack of care a child died of diphtheria. Mrs. Beer testified that she used to pray over the child. That was faith. St. Paul tells us that faith without works is dead, and it is really difficult to understand why Christian Scientists should object to add to their faith the work of careful nursing and intelligent application of remedies.

There will be much interest in the experiment soon to be made with a horseless vehicle at Chicopee Falls, Massachusetts, by a well-known bicycle manufacturer of that place. This particular experimenter says he is convinced that the Continental manufacturers have attacked the problem at the wrong end, basing their experiments on vehicles very similar to the old-fashioned horse carriage, while he will approach the question from the standpoint of the bicycle. His motor vehicle will have bicycle wheels, and in other respects will be as light as possible, will be run by standard gasoline engines, and ought in the near future, he believes, to be selling in the market at $250.

HALLOWEVE VANDILISM.

Editor of the Morning Times.

DEAR SIR,—It is about time the Council should take notice of in protecting the Town against wanton destruction of property. Not much harm could be done by boys, but if such as claim to be men find amusement in causing loss to property, such deserve treatment as thieves. Serious consequences may be the results if property holders have to protect their property against vandalism, which has to be done in future, if our Town guardians do not take notice thereof. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
L. A. W.

WEAKNESSES OF GENIUS.

Great Men Who Have Been Conspicuously Deficient in Mental and Moral Health.

Dr. James Weir observes that mechanical geniuses, or those who deal mainly with material facts, do not, as a rule, show any signs of mental degeneration. In proof of this one need only instance Darwin, Galilei, Edison, Maxwell, Watt, Rumsey, Howe, Morse, etc. It is only the genius of aestheticism, the genius of the emotions, that is generally accompanied by unmistakable signs of degeneration. Swinburne's poems show the mental bias of their author, who is described as peculiar and eccentric. Many of the men who have aided in making the world's history were victims of epilepsy, as was Julius Caesar, military leader, statesman and author. Many men of genius have suffered from epineurotic and choreic movements, notably Lemaire, Montesquieu, Buffon, Dr. Johnson, Santelli, Thomas, Campbell, Napoleon and Socrates.

Suicide, essentially a symptom of mental disorder, has carried off many a man of genius, including such immortals as Chatterton, Blount, Haydon, Clive and David. Alcoholism and morphinism are now recognized as evidences of degeneration and have had as victims Coleridge, Sheridan, Steele, Addison, Hoffman, Charles Lamb, Burns and many others. In men of genius the moral sense is sometimes obtunded or absent. Sallust, Seneca and Bacon were suspected felons; Rousseau, Byron, Forcola and Casanova were grossly immoral, while Casanova, the gifted mathematician, was a common swindler.—London Public Opinion.

Author of a Famous Song.

The author of the well known song, "The Sweet By and By," which has been sung in almost every language on earth, is a physician at Pueblo, and his name is S. Fillmore Bennett.—Chicago Record.

Unsound Teeth.

The belief that unsound teeth belong only to a highly civilized state of life seems to be a prevalent one. But J. Howard Mummary informs us that a very different conclusion was reached by his father more than 20 years ago after an inquiry extending over more than a decade. Over 2,000 skulls were examined, including all the available collections in Great Britain. Among 30 skulls of ancient Egyptians there were 15 with carious teeth; among 76 Anglo-Saxon skulls, 12; among 146 skulls of Romano-Britons, 41; and among 44 miscellaneous skulls of ancient Britons, 9. Several other collections gave like results. Examining skulls of savage races, 87.7 per cent of Tasmanians were found to have dental caries, 20.45 per cent of native Australians, 24.25 per cent of the natives of east Africa and 27.96 per cent of the natives of west Africa.—Nature.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well

TWO ABSENTMINDED INDIVIDUALS.

One Forgot His Invitation, and the Other Forgot His Wife.

An absentminded person can spread chaos all around, but when two absentminded people try to work together may heaven help the poor creatures upon whom the consequences fall. A prominent lawyer from an inland city met in London a distinguished British author, whom he invited to visit him during a tour of America, already planned. The lawyer came back home and shortly forgot all about his English friend and his own invitation, but was reminded of both, in good time, by a letter announcing the date of the celebrated Briton's arrival. This, too, he forgot in a few minutes, and when the appointed day came it found him living in a shut up house, getting his meals where he could, while his wife made an extended round of visits among her relatives.

When the distinguished visitor drove up to the house on the evening of the day set in his letter, he met a single servant, who explained that the master was at a club meeting, over two miles away, and would be back about midnight. Sending his wife, who was tired and ill, back to the railway station, the Englishman started in pursuit of his delinquent host. The latter was found with a company of pleasant people, to whom the great author was promptly introduced, and the two absentminded friends finished up the evening at the club meeting, forgetting all about their lack of suitable quarters for the night and poor Mrs. Distinguished Author sitting in the railway station.

When the meeting broke up in the small hours, they recalled these awkward circumstances and rescued the weary woman, whose comments upon the situation did not reach her. Then they drove to the home of one of the lawyer's relatives, who kindly got them all to bed before dawn. —Kate Field's Washington.

The Tongue.

The perfectly healthy tongue is clean, moist, lies loosely in the mouth, is round at the edge and has no prominent papillae. The tongue may be furrowed from local causes or from sympathy with the stomach, intestines or liver.

The dry tongue occurs most frequently in fever and indicates a nervous prostration or depression. A white tongue is diagnostic simply of the feverish condition, when it is moist and yellowish brown, it shows disordered digestion. Dry and brown indicates a low state of the system. When the tongue is dry and red and smooth, look out for inflammation, gastric or intestinal. When the papillae on the end of the tongue are raised and very red, we call it a strawberry tongue, and that may mean scarlet fever. A sharp, pointed red tongue will point to brain irritation or inflammation, and a yellow coating indicates liver derangement. —Family Herald

THE LAW ABOUT TIPPING.

What a Visit to an English House Will Cost a Guest.

Let me attempt to throw a ray of light into this cavern of darkness and try to suggest what are the sums generally given by knowing people in England under various circumstances. To begin with, let us take the simplest case—that of an unmarried man who stops from Sunday till Monday in the house of a friend who keeps only a parlor maid or single manservant. Here half a crown should be quite enough for the services of a married couple, the lady, if without a maid, adds half a crown for the housemaid. The coachman, if there is one, must have his shilling after driving you to the station. If the visitor stops for a week, he should make his donation 4 shillings. He should allow, that is, about sixpence a night and sixpence over as a sort of gratuity.

We come next to the case of Saturday to Monday in a more elaborate establishment. —I. e., where a butler and a footman are kept. Here the Saturday to Monday guest must distinguish. If the footman looks after him, the footman should have half a crown, and the butler also half a crown, in consideration of the fact that the butler will probably order your fly for you and look out for your trunks. If, however, the footman is kept in the background altogether and the butler valets you, the butler takes the whole 8 shillings. If you stop for a longer time—say a week—these sums should be raised to 4 or 6 shillings in each case.

If the visitor brings a man of his own, the tip to the footman, of course, disappears, but that to the butler usually remains. When the really great establishments are reached, different rules prevail. The ordinary bachelor guest need perhaps only trouble himself about the tip of the footman told off to wait on him. Unless the butler is an old friend or has to be asked to do something out of the way there is no cause to tip him. —National Review.

Why She Never Married.

When a man tempts fate by reminding a spinster of her condition, his punishment is generally swift and sure. In a country of Ireland where the Quakers are numerous the entire body on one occasion gathered together for one of their quarterly meetings.

After the exercises of the morning a public luncheon was held, at which all the Friends attended. The conversation turned to matrimony.

"Bridget," said an unassuming youthful member of the society, speaking across the crowded table to a prim, elderly maiden lady, "will you tell me why thou hast never married?"

"Certainly, Friend William," responded the ready Bridget in a voice audible over the room. "It is because I am not so easily pleased as thy wife was." —London Tit-Bits.

The Edible Bird's Nest.

In the Andaman Islands the principal industry is that of collecting, cleaning and preparing edible birds' nests for shipment. The species of bird which builds this queer nest arrives in the islands about the 1st of December and immediately commences to build its nest, which is constructed almost wholly of a gelatinous substance, which is a secretion from the salivary glands of the bird's mouth. The finest quality of these edible nests resembles pure isinglass. They are worth their weight in silver in many countries of the orient, especially in China, Borneo, Korea and Siam. They are usually built in caves and cliffs along the coast, but are frequently found in trees. —St. Louis Republic.

Physiology and Fortunes.

Mr. Verytrub—I weigh 154 pounds, and do you know that in a person of that size analysis has shown that there are 90 pounds of water, 8 pounds of albumen, less than 1 pound of pure glue, 84½ pounds of fat, 8½ pounds of phosphate of lime, a pound of carbonate of lime, 8 ounces of sugar and starch, 7 ounces of fibre of calcium, 6 ounces phosphate of magnesia and a little salt. What do you think of that? Miss Keene—I think it is all right except in this instance in the matter of the salt. —Detroit Free Press.

GONE WITH A GIRL.

Charles Domville, Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Tunnel Rioper.

Special to The Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 2.—A special from Port Huron this morning says a sensation in local society circles has just come to light.

Three weeks ago Charles Domville, superintendent of the Grand Trunk Tunnel here, left the city, ostensibly on a vacation. This morning his wife received a letter from Domville postmarked New York, in which the writer says that he is leaving the country and taking with him a girl who had formerly been a housemaid in his father's house in Hamilton.

Domville said he had found he could not be happy without the woman whom he loved better than his wife and children.

INTO BAD HABITS.

Mrs. Domville has this to say concerning the affair: "Charley was superintendent of the tunnel, and was drawing a good salary up to three months ago. He was a model husband but at that time fell into dissolute habits, frequently staying away from his family for a whole night at a time.

"I was informed that he had been frequenting a house of ill-repute and that he had brought an English housemaid from his father's house in Hamilton and was keeping her at this house. This is the woman who is with him now."

LEFT MANY BILLS.

Domville left behind him many unpaid bills and borrowed money right and left. He also mortgaged his household furniture. Domville's father is well known throughout the country, he being superintendent of the Southern Division of the Grand Trunk.

The younger Domville's parents were very much set against his marriage in Hamilton to the lady who is now his wife. After the wedding it is said that they refused to recognize either party to the alliance.

BUILDING NOVELS.

Mrs. Southworth Describes Her Methods, Which Are Partly Realistic.

"My stories always have a foundation in fact," Mrs. Southworth says. "To show you how they are evolved from small beginnings I will give you a history of the manner in which the 'Hidden Hand' was produced. I was in wretched health at the time, my sister was dying of consumption, and yet in the midst of these depressing circumstances the brightest and gayest of my novels came to me. One day, in the year 1857, my eye chanced to fall upon a paragraph in a New York paper, which stated that a little 9-year-old girl, dressed in boy's clothing and selling newspapers, had been arrested in that city. The item felt like a seed into my mind and germinated there. The little sister of newspapers was Capitola, but I must find an origin for her.

"Suddenly an incident which occurred in my childhood just across Benning's bridge came back to me. An old nurse was met and blindfolded one night by two masked men and carried into a house, where, a few hours later, a child was born. Bribes were offered the woman to destroy this child, but she refused them. The young mother was also bent upon the preservation of her infant, the result being that, braving the displeasure of her family and being disowned by them, she brought up her child. It lived and thrived and was afterward well known in Washington. This was the fact upon which Capitola's birth was founded, and almost every adventure of her life was similarly obtained. Her sparkling speeches to Old Hurricane were taken from conversations which occurred between my sister and a Mississippi uncle. Her duel was suggested by a like adventure of a Mississippi girl, who was misunderstood and offended by a British officer. The girl appealed to her brothers to avenge the insult which she had received. They treated the matter lightly, and she challenged the officer to a duel. Her challenge was received with contempt, and meeting him later and being armed she fired at him—not with dried peas, as Capitola did, but with bullets. He was severely wounded, and the girl gave herself up to the authorities, but when her case was investigated she was released.

"As to Old Hurricane—liberal, kind hearted, but blustering and overbearing in manner—you might meet him any time among Maryland and Virginia planters. It was when at work upon the 'Hidden Hand' that I contracted the habit of writing at night. My invalid sister lived in the extreme east end of Washington, I in the western part of Georgetown. My visits to her were made in the morning, so that I never got to my desk until noon, and I generally remained at it until midnight. Anxious as I was about my sister, when I took up my pen I became possessed of the spirit of Capitola, and care and sorrow left me. Although I have been such an indefatigable worker, writing every day for many years from 12 o'clock in the morning until the same hour at night and scarcely taking any time for my meals, I have never had a threat of paralysis. I have avoided it by increasing the size of my holder every year.

"I have used a typewriter to a limited extent, and it has relieved me as a tired child on a long walk is relieved by getting astride of his father's cane for a ride. I have taken my seat at this instrument sometimes to make a few notes, and the chance from my pen has been so grateful that I have frequently roughly jotted down as much of a story as would ordinarily have occupied me for several days. For 30 years I wrote exclusively for the New York Ledger, producing a novel for every one of those years. During that time I adapted my style to the tastes of its readers, but when my connection with it was severed—which occurred when the paper passed into the hands of Mr. Bonner's sons—I wrote with less embarrassment. I have never written a play, but many of my works have been dramatized, and the 'Hidden Hand' was played in three London theaters at once, with profitable results."

—Philadelphia Times.

The Ideal Nursery.

The ideal nursery should be on the top floor if more quiet, air and sunshine can be had there. It should, to be attractive, be done in light colors, but first be clean. Matting on the floor, with a carpet rug tacked over it, should cover the floor. The windows should have white curtains, and the walls should be papered with sanitary paper, which can be wiped off with a damp cloth. The bed—single iron ones if possible—should be placed away from the walls and have flat mattresses and very low hair pillows. Light, warm blankets are better than heavy comforters or quilts, healthier and more comfortable. As little gas as possible should be used in the children's sleeping rooms, and that little should be carefully shaded. Nothing is worse for a young child than a light shining in its face while sleeping. Cretonne is the prettiest material for nursery furniture, and cleanliness, sunshine and air the best medicine for the nursery's occupants. In winter a grate fire is a boon. It keeps the room warm and gives perfect ventilation.

Characteristics of European Cities.

An observer, says a correspondent of the Leeds Mercury, has drawn up a little tabular which he arranges the principal cities and towns of the world according to a classification which has at least the merit of novelty. Each town is considered from the point of view of the trades which are carried on in it. According to those statistics, in Paris there reside the most artists, upholsterers, bonnet makers, barbers, advocates and men of letters, men or women. In London we find the most cab and carriage proprietors, engineers, printers, booksellers and—though most people would scarcely credit it—cooks. In Amsterdam we find the most art dealers and money lenders. Brussels is celebrated as the place where the largest number of boys smoke. It is in Naples that we find the most street porters. We see the largest number of beer drinkers in Berlin. Florence possesses the most flower sellers, and Lisbon is celebrated as containing the most balliffs.

How He Read It.

The other day Mr. Toole entered a dairy, and in his most solemn manner addressed himself to the man as follows:

"I will take a boy," looking round at the shelves.

"A boy, sir?" asked the dairyman, fairly puzzled.

"Yes, or a girl," answered the actor.

The man, thinking him some lunatic, said, "Pardon me; this is a milk shop."

"Come outside," said Mr. Toole, and taking the man by the arm he led him to the door and pointed to the sign.

"I'll take a boy and a girl," repeated the humorist, with not a ghost of a smile.

"Read what your notice states," families supplied in any quantity. —London Tit-Bits.

BURNED TO A CRISP.

HORRIBLE DEATH OF TWO MEN ON A DREDGE.

It Takes Fire While They Are Asleep—One of Them Ex-Chief of Police Page of St. Cuneogone—A Terrible Fate. Special to the Times.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—A terrible death came to two citizens of Montreal on Saturday night on board the Government dredge which has just moored for the winter in the canal basin above Black's bridge. The dredge caught fire, and the men were burned to a crisp as they lay asleep.

The victims were Joseph Page, the watchman, formerly chief of the Police and Elie Department of St. Cuneogone, and Cyril Moquin, a butcher, residing at 535 Craig street.

The actual facts of the horrible occurrence may never be rightly known, unless some evidence now unknown turns up at the inquest, it will be almost impossible to tell how the fire originated. There are many theories as to what may have taken place, some believing it may have been caused by the explosion of a lamp.

About 10 o'clock Constable Martin, of No. 15 Station, who was on his beat in the neighborhood of Windmill Point, espied a blaze on the canal, which apparently came from the dredge. He at once rang the fire alarm, and soon the western section of the brigade was upon the scene. The tug boat St. Peter was promptly put in running order, and a party of firemen embarked, they rapidly steamed towards the now blazing dredge.

Immediately on arriving, the firemen commenced operations and soon the fire was under control. In the meantime search was made to discover if anybody was in the hold down below. On entering the cabin a man was discovered lying in the bunk and partly hanging over it and terribly burnt, his appearance affording a ghastly sight. The body was removed from the dredge to the tug, and on shore being reached, it was transported to the morgue. Although terribly disfigured, it was nevertheless identified as being that of the night watchman, Mr. Page.

The fire on the dredge having been entirely subdued, further search was made. About 2 o'clock in the morning a mass of charred substance, little resembling a human being, was unearthed, and was also transported to the morgue. Although it is impossible to identify the second body yet it was confidently believed to be that of Moquin, who was spending the evening with Page.

From the position in which the men were found it was quite evident that death had overtaken them in their sleep. They were probably suffocated by smoke before the flames reached them. The dredge did not suffer any great injury. About Mr. J. Page much could be said, for he was known for ten years as the life and soul of St. Cuneogone police and fire departments. It was in May 1894, that he resigned his position as chief, and since then he has been earning his living in many honest ways that came to him.

The chief when he resigned, expected an important Government position which never came. He was 48 years of age, and was a charter member of the Grand Lodge of Foresters. The funeral will take place Wednesday morning from his late residence, 1870 St. James street. It may be mentioned that Chief Page left a wife and five children, who are fortunately in good circumstances.

Moquin was 63 years of age. He worked for a butcher in St. Anne's market, and lived with his son, who keeps a tobacconist shop on Craig street. He was a widower, and his family are all grown up. His presence on the dredge is explained by the fact that he is an old friend of Mr. Page, and his family understood that for the past few weeks he slept on the dredge to keep his friend company during his lonely vigil.

An inquest will be held today at the morgue.

After Fitzsimmons' Money.

New York, Nov. 2.—Phil Dwyer today turned over to "Manny" Friend $5,000, Fitzsimmons' share of the side bet on his fight with Corbett, which the Florida Athletic club failed to pull off on schedule time. As soon as the money was turned over Messrs. Ide and Waters, representing the Syracuse law firms of Ide & Ryan and McLenahan, Waters & McLenahan immediately served an attachment against it for $5,000 for legal services rendered Fitzsimmons in his trouble in Syracuse. Another attachment of $2,500 has also been served against the money turned over by Dwyer to the Metropolitan Job Printing company. As Friend holds a $5,000 attachment against Fitzsimmons' share of the $5,000 credits by the Florida A. C. F. it will only be able to hold about $1,000 out of the $7,500.

Saved By a Switchman.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 4.—Arthur Gray, of Buffalo, who was going to Toronto to visit some friends, had a narrow escape from death last evening. He was told to change cars for the Grand Trunk train on the other side of the station. The young man, it is thought, became confused at the station, for the next thing seen of him he made an attempt to jump on the train he had just left, stumbled and fell under the moving wheels. A switchman named Whalen jerked Gray from the track in time to save his life.

CHINESE GIRL BABIES.

How They Are Hawked About in the Streets and Sold.

Miss Adele M. Fields recently lectured on "The Women of China." The manner of disposing of Chinese girl babies was first told of. It was said that they were taken to a foundling hospital, and when 12 days old were put in a covered basket and taken away by a huckster, who bore a long pole across his shoulders, with a basket hung on each end, and hawked his wares about the streets, the price of an infant being the same as that of a spring chicken. The infants were usually bought by mothers who had sons of about 2 years, and were brought up as future daughters-in-law.

A personal anecdote was told of a twilight walk at Swatow, south China, and an encounter with a huckster who was carrying three feebly moaning infants in his basket. He had been out since morning and had disposed of three. When asked to show his wares, he offered to sell the three girl babies for $1, which was, according to the usual rates, twice their value.

These children were married between the ages of 15 and 17 and were said to be happier many times than brides who met their husbands just previous to the marriage ceremony. Foot binding among Chinese women was said to begin between the ages of 6 and 12. The suffering continued for about two years, when the artificial feet were formed. It was said to be most remarkable that, although the women of successive families for 900 years had had bandaged feet, no child ever was born with unnatural feet. This was said to be the custom of all women of China, excepting the Tartars and highlanders. The latter work in the field, while the men care for the children. Few of the women, it was said, were able to walk more than a few steps and were taken about in sedan chairs, accompanied by their bondmaids, who were natural footed.

The women of China were said to be fortunate in their dress, as the style never changed, and they could afford much better quality than is used by the women here. A large and elaborate wardrobe might be packed in three cubic feet of space, and the more closely packed the smoother it would come out. Polygamy was declared to be lawful, but not usually practiced, the men of China asserting that it "took a very wise man to manage fish fry, a much wiser man to manage a raft and a wiser man than either to manage two wives."—New York Tribune.

The Microscopic Yeast Plant.

Antonius van Leeuwenhoek, the Dutch naturalist whose microscopic studies are familiar to scientists in almost every branch where the lens is a part of the apparatus used, discovered the yeast plant in the year 1680. Another student, Fabrice, in 1787 gave it as his opinion that the yeast plant was a vegetable animal organism, while later scientists, Thurnard, Desmazzieres et al., believed its functions to be chiefly of a chemical nature. In 1837 De la Tour, studying from outlines laid down by Van Leeuwenhoek, rediscovered the identical plant described by that authority in 1680. He subsequently studied it carefully and gave many odd facts concerning it. He declared that it was through its action that the molecules of sugar were broken up, thus permitting that substance to "sour." He measured the cells of the plant and found them to be only one-two-thousandth-five hundredth of an inch in diameter. He was also the first to recognize the fact that they developed by budding.

The investigations of Professor Mitsuherlich have led chemists to distinguish two kinds of yeast—"surface" yeast, which collects on the surface of fermenting fluids, and "sediment" yeast, which is found growing at the bottom. The former is propagated by buds, the latter by spores. Its use in the preparation of foods is very ancient, but today it is not known positively whether yeast is the "cause" or the "effect," or simply an accompaniment of fermentation.—St. Louis Republic.

Hume, the historian, was said to be the ugliest man of his time. His face was fat, coarse and vulgar, with no striking or pleasing feature.

Why She Never Married.

When a man tempts fate by reminding a spinster of her condition, his punishment is generally swift and sure. In a county of Ireland where the Quakers were numerous the entire body on one occasion gathered together for one of their quarterly meetings.

After the exercises of the morning a public luncheon was held, at which all the Friends attended. The conversation turned to matrimony.

"Bridget," said an unmannerly youthful member of the society, speaking across the crowded table to a prim, elderly maiden lady, "will thou tell me why thou hast never married?"

"Certainly, Friend William," responded the ready Bridget in a voice audible over the room. "Tis because I am not so alay pleased as thy wife was."—London Tit-Bits.

The Edible Bird's Nest.

In the Andaman Islands the principal industry is that of collecting, cleaning and preparing edible birds' nests for shipment. The species of bird which builds this queer nest arrives in the islands about the 1st of December and immediately commences to build its nest, which is constructed almost wholly of a gelatinous substance, which is a secretion from the salivary glands of the bird's mouth. The finest quality of these edible nests resembles pure isinglass. They are worth their weight in silver in many countries of the orient, especially in China, Borneo, Korea and Siam. They are usually built in caves and cliffs along the coast, but are frequently found in trees.—St. Louis Republic.

Physiology and Pertness.

Mr. Veryfresh—I weigh 154 pounds, and do you know that in a person of that size analysis has shown that there are 90 pounds of water, 3 pounds of albumen, less than 1 pound of pure glue, 34 1/2 pounds of fat, 8 1/2 pounds of phosphate of lime, a pound of carbonate of lime, 3 ounces of sugar and starch, 7 ounces of fluoride of calcium, 6 ounces phosphate of magnesia and a little less. What do you think of that? Miss Keene—I think it is all right except in this instance in the matter of the fat.—Detroit Free Press.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles. SYMPTOMS—Moisture; Itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed, and cause much suffering. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases, removes the tumors. At drug stores, or by mail for 60 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia Lyman, Sons & Co. ## Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. T. Hood's Sarsaparilla is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 56 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

OUR CARTOON SERIES.

Commencing with Saturday's issue THE TIMES will publish a series of cartoons on local and municipal topics. They will be cartoons in every sense of the word, executed by an experienced and competent artist. The effort and expense necessary to carry this out will not be appreciated by our readers, and we trust to an extent that will justify us in making our cartoon series a permanent feature of THE TIMES. Look out for Saturday's cartoon.

The Weather.

Probable—Strongest and southwest winds, fair and mild today, showers tomorrow.

Flower Social Tonight.

A flower social will be held tonight, 8 to 10, in the Forester's hall, Hunter street. Extensive arrangements have been made.

A Trip on the Launch.

The bicycle boys were given a ride yesterday afternoon on board Mr. Snyder's launch. They enjoyed the trip very much.

Fortnightly Club.

A public meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the County Council Chamber, Court House. Paper by Sheriff G. H. Subject, "When the World was Young."

Are You Particular

About the quality of bread you eat? If you want the best and most healthful ask for BAKER'S bread. It is the only reliable homemade bread in Peterborough. Sold at all grocers and at Emmerson's, Kerr's, Weir's and Doxie's, Ashburnham. Every loaf stamped large and plain B.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte street Methodist church have arranged to give a grand Thanksgiving dinner on the evening of Thanksgiving day. A first class programme is being prepared and the entire entertainment will be the very best that the ladies of this church can supply.

Gamut Driving Mittens.

The undersigned is prepared to manufacture a very superior driving gamut and mittens. Parties may either supply their own furs, or I will supply it. These mittens are superior to all others. Full particulars may be obtained by calling at 330 Aylmer street.
 GEORGE FIDGSON.

Decks and Bookcases.

At Clegg's. A large assortment of secretaries and bookcases. A splendid line of hall racks, no end of parlor furniture, the largest line of bedroom furniture we ever offered. Springs, mattresses, pillows, etc. A. Clegg, 472 George street.

A Patriotic Poem.

Mr. James Penny, of Montreal who has contributed many excellent poems and short sketches to THE TIMES, has composed a beautiful sketch on Valkyrie III, in which is told the story of the recent international yacht race, and in sarcastic style the yachtsmen to the boisterous fair play and freedom of the American sporting element. The sketch is handsomely printed and enclosed in a beautifully engraved cover. THE TIMES reviewers thanks for copy.

Exchange of Pulpits.

With The Hunters.

The LeBrun-Strickland hunting party left at noon yesterday for Strickland's Island. The following gentlemen composed the number: Messrs. H. LeBrun, Harry Phelan, Harry Morrow, W. H. Bradburn, J. D. Collins, Geo. Chocrona, Arthur Stevenson, and W. Gould. They joined at the island. Mr. Bates, Mr. R. R. Raddy and Mr. Strickland. The party will be joined today by Mr. R. A. Morrow and Mr. Henry Wines. The steamer "Undine" is at the disposal of the party. Their headquarters will be at Strickland's Island and "Bellechase" Island, the latter signifying good hunting. The party will doubtless bag plenty of game.

SEWERAGE OBTAINABLE.

Citizens Can Connect With The Sewer Upon Application.

At the council meeting last night Councilman Best stated that the sewer in the southern portion of the town was in readiness and residents could secure connection with it by petitioning the Council. By spring the sewer will be full, the sewage will be obtainable from the most important sections of the town. The creation of cess pools, therefore would only be of temporary use, and this is an all powerful argument against them.

The town has gone to great expense to put in a sewerage system. If this is not to be used what is the use of it? Citizens who go to the expense of putting in cess pools will use them longer than is necessary, and this is another reason why the council should put a stop to them.

The action of the Council last night was in the best interests of the town. Peterborough will be healthier without cess pools than with them.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF AN UNIMPORTANT NATURE.

A Request For a Cess Pool Voted Down—Communications. Reports and Accounts—A Short Meeting.

The town council met last night in regular monthly session, with Mayor Kendry presiding and the following council present: Messrs Cahill, Best, Deane, Mills, Dawson, Cobb, Sawers, Brady and Mason.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read: From the town solicitor stating that he had written the C.P.R. regarding the freight sheds on Wolfe street, and had received no reply. Property Committee.

From Robert Grant enclosing a copy of transfer of his sewer contract to the Board of Toronto. Mr. Winch having transferred his contract to him. Received.

From Denis Donovan asking for rebate of taxes. Court of Revision.

From William Beckenridge, that a crossing be placed on the west end of Chamberlain street. Street and Bridge Committee.

From Wm. J. Martin, street and bridge inspector, reporting work done on streets amounting to $500.12. Street and Bridge Committee.

From Ledger Letellier stating that dogs had worried and destroyed six sheep in a field behind his slaughter house. He valued the sheep at $2.50 each and asked the Council to recommend him. Referred to Town Solicitor.

From T. Farrington, bailiff to the collector of taxes, asking for a grant. Finance Committee.

SEWERAGE COMMITTEE.
 To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—Your Sewerage Committee as authorized has arranged with Messrs. Rutherford and Bogue, the contractors for No. 2 section of the outfall sewer, to construct that portion of their contract from Rink street to the bridge of brick instead of pipe. This portion is to be paid for pro rata with the other portion of their contract, namely at the rate of $3.32 per foot.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY BEST, Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the following accounts be paid:

|                   |         |
|-------------------|---------|
| P. Grady          | $ 3.00 |
| Chas. Gurnea      | 3.00    |
| T. L. Robinson    | 4.00    |
| T. Fitzgerald     | 3.00    |

| Greer & Bradburn  | 2.10    |
| J. & W. Matherall | 10.85   |
| King & Allen      | 20.20   |

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOS. CAHILL, Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.

A GRANT WANTED.

Mr. Callum, of the Mechanics Institute was heard in the interest of a $200.00 grant which was asked for some time ago. The $200 was wanted to purchase a machine and models for the class, which was composed entirely of mechanics. The class could be made a lasting benefit and become the nucleus of a technical school.

Councilman Best and Dawson moved that the matter be referred to the finance committee. The motion was carried.

CESS POOLS.

Councilman Cahill moved that Rev. Dr. Torrance be granted permission to erect cess pools on King street, under the direction and to the satisfaction of the street and bridge inspector.

Councilman Best stated that all property owners could have connection with the sewer, by petitioning to have the pipes laid, which would be cheaper. The cess pools would only be temporary.

Councilman Dawson arose to get himself right on the cess pool grant to Miss Grundy. He thought it preferable to have the cess pool in the street than in the yards where it would contaminate wells.

Councilman Mason said the quicker a stop was put to the cess pool grants the better. The walls in yards could be protected in the pools were made lined with cement. It was only a matter of time before the cess pools would give way and the streets would be broken up and health of citizens would be endangered.

Councilman Mills took a strong stand against cess pools. The petition of Miss Grundy was acted upon without considering it, referred it to the health committee. These pools were bound to be no nuisances, and if people could use the streets for their sewerage, they would be in no hurry to petition for connection with the sewer.

The motion was put and defeated by 5 votes to 4.

On motion a cheque for $100 was issued to Mr. R. S. Davidson on behalf of petitioners for Gilmour street drain now completed.

On motion Mr. Saunders was heard in reference to his license. He paid for the privilege of selling in town, and others were allowed to come in competition with him without paying any license. He wanted protection or his money back.

The matter was referred to the License Committee.

School Board To-night.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education will be held to-night.

Head's Wonderful

No less than wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other preparations and physicians' prescriptions have failed. The reason is simple. When the blood is enriched and purified, disease disappears, and good health returns, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier.

HOOD'S PILLS are prompt and efficient and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

FIRE PROTECTION TOO COSTLY

So Agreed the Council of the Village of Ashburnham Last Night.

The council of the village of Ashburnham met in regular session last night. There were present: Councilors Calcutt, Craig, Rutherford and Smith. Councilor Calcutt acted in the capacity of reeve in the absence of Reeve Burnham.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed.

ACCOUNTS.
 The following accounts were submitted and ordered to be paid:

|                           |         |
|---------------------------|---------|
| Dickson Co.               | $30.80 |
| G. A. Craig               | 1.50    |
| Jno. Kerr                 | 4.50    |
| Pay sheet, No. 30         | 6.25    |
| " 31                      | 6.75    |
| " 32                      | 74.32   |
| Peterborough Hardware Co. | 74.32   |

A NEW HEALTH OFFICER.

Councilor Rutherford moved, seconded by Councilor Craig—that Dr. Clark be appointed Health Officer for the village of Ashburnham at a salary of $3.50 per annum commencing on the first day of September, 1905.—Carried.

PREPARING FOR WINTER.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for snow ploughing.

FIRE PROTECTION.

In compliance with the council's request at a former meeting, the following accounts were received from the town of Peterborough, for fire protection to the village of Ashburnham:

To 10 per cent. of cost of maintenance of fire department for 1893 exclusive of hydrants as per auditor's report, pages 31 to 35. $356.29

To 10 per cent. of cost of maintenance of Fire Department for 1894 exclusive of hydrants, as per auditor's report, (pages 31 to 35). $390.50

78.79

Objection was raised to the amount of this account rendered as not being within the terms of agreement between the two corporations.

We herewith publish the clause in by-law of 1871 in connection with this matter, and upon which the council have raised their objections:

"The corporation will aid the corporation of the town of Peterborough in the purchase of a steam fire engine and the necessary quantity of hose to the amount of one tenth part of the cost of said engine and hose, and that this corporation will also aid the corporation of the town in a like proportion of the annual cost of keeping the said engine and hose in repair, and paying the salary of an engineer or caretaker of the same, provided that this corporation shall have a voice in the management of the said engine."

Councilor Smith drew the council's attention to the fact that they have never since the inception of the by-law been consulted with reference to the management of the said engine.

Councilor Smith moved that the council's attention be called to the fact that they have never since the inception of the by-law been consulted with reference to the management of the said engine.

The council decided to refer the matter to the village of Ashburnham for their consideration.

HIS SHOP OPENED UP.

CLOSED FOR TWO MONTHS IN THE EXPECTATION OF DEATH.

A Richmond Ont., Harness Maker Unexpectedly Turns Up and Resumes Business at His Old Stand After Being Cured of Bright's Disease With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Richmond, Ont., Nov. 5.—This not very distant suburb of the Canadian capital has been highly wrought up during the past few days over the recovery of a well-known business man here, Mr. J. McCarthy, who being declared to be in an advanced stage of Bright's disease of the kidneys, had been given up to die.

Curious to know the particulars of a case creating so much local interest your correspondent made haste to call and introduce himself to Mr. McCarthy, and found him in his shop and willing to talk of his case.

"I have called to see Mr. McCarthy; are you that gentleman?"

"Yes, sir," said he, "what can I do for you?"

"Hearing that there was something very unusual about your recovery from a seemingly fatal illness I have called to learn the facts," said I.

"Well, sir, replied he, "I am never too busy to talk about my doctor, I mean Dodd's Kidney Pills, for with the blessing of God, they have saved my life."

"Is it true that you had been given up to die, and that your doctors both named your trouble Bright's disease?" asked I.

"Yes, sir," he answered, "although ailing for some time it was only about seven months ago that my case became serious. After doctoring here and in Ottawa about four months I had to close my shop fearing that I must die of Bright's disease."

"About ten weeks ago Mr. McCord, a farmer living out near here, advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills as they had cured him of diabetes, and so I commenced. After using two boxes all distress left me. I have used twelve boxes in all; have just re-opened my shop and expect to do business at the old stand for some years yet, as I am just coming 50 years of age. There is no use trying to describe my sufferings. You can understand when I tell you that my weight ran down from 165 to 120 pounds. I am nearly up to my weight, but feel as well as ever in life, and I am perfectly cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine ever known to cure Bright's disease.

THE TRACK STICKY

And the Record Breakers Had to Postpone the Trials.

Harley Davidson went to Buffalo yesterday morning to secure the "Globe" quad, and will return at noon today.

The track yesterday was not in condition for fast time. About one quarter inch of sticky mud covered it. This was raked off yesterday and with good weather today it is expected the track will be in good condition this afternoon. It is very probable that Davidson will start for the records this afternoon, and no doubt a large crowd will attend the exhibition.

Tickets for the several day's races have been issued by the Bicycle Club, and can be secured at the Hoffman House and from members of the club. The price of admission for all the trials, extending over several days, has been fixed at 25 cents, which is a low charge, when the nature of the riding is taken into consideration.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 6 1895.

TO BUSINESS MEN.

Have you faith in your ability to believe that you can induce people to buy your goods if you can obtain the attention of three-fourths of the population of Peterborough every day and on Saturday fully three-quarters of the reading population of all the wealthy and populous country surrounding the town?

Have you faith enough in your goods to believe that if you can get people to buy them the merit of the goods will secure permanent customers?

If so, call at this office and secure advertising space in one of the brightest and best papers published in Ontario. THE MORNING TIMES is now acknowledged to be the leading newspaper in Eastern Ontario, as those who advertise in it can testify.

Durrant, Holmes, Shortis—the week seems to have been peculiarly unfortunate for murderers.

Holmes, the murderer, was not convicted of the murder of B. F. Pitzel on the evidence submitted. He was convicted by the force of public opinion. The verdict in his case was not strictly just, but few will care to find fault with it. His conviction in Philadelphia will save a lot of trouble and expense, for his conviction either in Indianapolis or Toronto on other charges would have been certain.

Out of total revenues of $300,000,000 Germany spends $118,000,000 for army and navy; England $180,000,000 out of $488,000,000, and France $174,000,000 out of $670,000,000. Dr. Mendes, who gives the figures, estimates the annual military expense of the United States at $80,000,000, but this omits $140,000,000 for military pensions. When these are included its total military expenses are greater than those of any other country, with the possible exception of Russia.

A rehearsal of a wedding ceremony is somewhat absurd and decidedly unbecoming. The silly proceeding which is to take place in New York to-night is enough to make old John Churchill and Sarah Jennings turn in their graves. Whatever may have been the faults of the first Duke of Marlborough and his wife, frivolity was certainly not among them.

A school difficulty has made its appearance in the towns of the Freedom and Little Chute, Wis. There the Superintendent of Schools has annulled the licenses of five Catholic sisters in districts which are exclusively Catholic. The only charge against them is that they wear their religious garb in school. Bishop Messenger of Green Bay has instructed the sisters to continue teaching, despite the order, and the matter thus will be brought to a legal test.

The manner in which the innocent sometimes suffer for the offense of some one else was exemplified in a street row in New York on Monday night. Mike Crowley and John Murphy met. Murphy was partly intoxicated. Crowley owed him $400. Murphy asked for it. A row followed and Crowley knocked Murphy down. As Murphy fell, a number of persons ran up. Then Murphy got on his feet and began firing a revolver. When the shooting was over, it was found that one shot had struck Patrick Murphy in the back of the neck, a second had hit Patrick Monahan in the thigh, a third had struck a stranger in the back of the head, two shots went wild, and Crowley, the cause of Murphy's anger, had got off without being hit at all.

Shakespeare's Young Men.

There are between twenty and thirty young men in the non-historical plays, and an examination of their peculiarities and characteristics enables us to form some conception of Shakespeare's own ideal of young manhood.

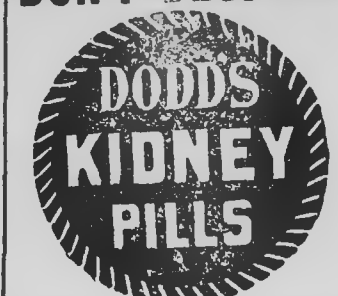

In the first place, it is noticeable what physical perfection they are all supposed to have. The poet's young hero should, as a general thing, "laugh merrily," like Valentine, "eat and drink heartily, walk manfully, and only look sad when his purse is empty." He should be able to "climb walls with Romeo, wrestle like Orlando, fence and fight pirates like Hamlet, or swim through the stormy waves like Ferdinand; and he should enjoy doing it."

Further, Shakespeare seems to lay stress on the young man's "being natural, unaffected, as if to him affectation indicated a weakness somewhere in the man's character." Indeed, no characteristic of Shakespeare's is more conspicuous than his thorough openness and honesty—his contempt for everything that savors of affectation or sham. Note his repeated sharp hits at false hair and paint in women, at foppish and aping of foreign fashions in men, at the small conceits of travelers who came home, as Rosalind says, "to lap and wear strange suits, disable all the benefits of their own country, and be out of love with their nativity," who have seen much, yet have nothing from it worth the getting. He has the same dislike for the affected and artificial style of the day in speech and writing. How he delights to show it up in his earliest plays no less than in his later ones! How he gradually freed himself from the rhetorical conceits and mannerisms of the time—the excessive playing upon words, the running of a metaphor into the ground, so to speak, the over-indulgence in classical allusions, and the like. How he prizes all swollen pretense and pomposity! How he burlesques the ranting of the actor, and the extravagance of the dramatist who furnishes him with the fictitious passion to tear in tatters! His dislike for Puritans, which crops out in a few passages, appears to have been due to their canting ways rather than their peculiar tenets.

Again, Shakespeare "seems to value very highly a decided capacity for friendship between men." This is also eminently characteristic of the man. As a friend he himself must have been capable of measureless personal devotion. The first 130 sonnets, most of which are addressed to one and the same friend—a man, not a woman—would suffice to prove this, if we had nothing else from his pen. But we have also the striking pictures of manly friendship in the plays; and some of these—for instance, that of Antonio and Bassanio, of Brutus and Cassius, of Hamlet and Horatio—are perhaps unsurpassed by any of his delineations of the love of man and woman.

CASH

We're about the same with business as the boys are with pie—always ready for more of it. We made a BIG HAUL the other day in the purchase of a large quantity of GOOD ALL WOOL TWEED, which we have decided to use up for Nobby Ordered Suits at the above Low Ebb Prices.

When we BUY a Bargain we SELL a Bargain. These Suits will be made up right—the quality of the cloth is right—the trimmings, sewing and findings will be right—and, most important of all, the fit will be right. So be sure of a fit, otherwise we won't sell you. We had to pay SPOT CASH to get these Tweeds and the prices we quote above for the suits made to measure will have to be Cash also.

See our show window for some samples of these new fashionable patterns.

WORSTED SUITS. We will also continue during the month of November to make to order Elegant Fitting Worsted Suits for $17, $18 and $20 cash.

Electrical Treatment

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

210 Concan Ave., Toronto.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well

The Inevitable Fall

Now by stream, through field and forest,
Nature throws a sombre pall;
Talisman of fading glory—
Even pride must have a fall.
Now the overcoat-less dudelet
Scans announcements, one and all,
That tell where those useful garments
May be purchased cheap this Fall—

And that puts in mind, right there; stop that idling, drop directly, from prosy "poetry" into profitable prose. Overcoats and Suitings in latest designs can be "purchased cheap this Fall"

WHITE IS COLLECTOR.

VACANCY SAID TO HAVE BEEN FILLED BY GOVERNMENT YESTERDAY.

Not Thought That the Minister of Justice Will Interfere with the Carrying Out of the Death Sentence.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—It is believed that the appointment of R. S. White as collector of customs at Montreal will be put through the Council today. Some say he will not accept the position, but this is discredited.

Discussing the probability of Executive clemency in the case of Shorlin, the Valleyfield murderer, on the ground of insanity a leading official of the Department of Justice says that the only kind of insanity that is regarded as justifying interference with a verdict is that which renders a demented person unaware of the moral effect of his act.

WILL THEY GET IT?

Removed Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N.Y.

Special to The Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assured very large proportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

EUGENE FIELD DEAD.

The Well-Known Poet Passes Away Suddenly in Illinois.

Special to The Times.

BUENA PARK, Ill., Nov. 4.—Eugene Field, the poet, died suddenly at 5 o'clock this morning after an illness of but a few days. He had expected to go to Kansas City to read tonight.

Field died in his bed, of heart failure, about five this morning. He retired last night in his usual health, and apparently slept soundly till daybreak, when his son, who occupied the room with him, heard him groan and going to him found him breathing his last. Mr. Field leaves a widow and five children.

WILL COME HERE WOUNDED

Terrible Accident to a Young Man Enroute to Toronto.

Special to The Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 4.—A young man named Arthur Grey, of Buffalo, was going to Toronto to visit some friends and came to the Suspension Bridge on the New York Central. The young man, it is thought, became confused at the station, for he made an attempt to jump on a train he had just left, stumbled and fell headlong under the moving wheels. Patrick Whalen, a Central switchman, was standing beside him, and, grabbing him by the leg, jerked Grey from the track in time to save his life. The wheel, however, caught his right arm between the shoulder and elbow, cutting it off. Grey was quite low from the shock today, but it is thought he will pull through.

FOUR LIVES LOST.

Fatal Fire in a New York Sweat Shop Building.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Four lives were lost in a fire which started about 1 a.m. today on the second floor of the six-story brick building at 7 Pelham street, owned by Well and Meyer, and used as a sweat shop. Three charred and almost unrecognizable bodies were taken from the ruins and one man, who jumped to save his life from the flames, was so injured that he died in Gouverneur Hospital, whither he was taken suffering from a fractured skull. The fire, which originated from some unknown cause, spread with great rapidity and the buildings numbering three, seven and nine were completely destroyed. The loss will be about $88,000.

WILL BE MADE COLLECTOR.

Mr. White's Appointment to be Confirmed at the Coming Cabinet Meeting.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—All the Cabinet Ministers will be home tonight and attend a Privy Council meeting on Monday, when Mr. R. S. White's appointment to the collectorship of customs at Montreal will be confirmed. It is not improbable that several vacancies in the Senate will also be filled on Monday. There is no longer any doubt about Mr. White's appointment. Today a largely signed petition from Montreal asking that W. J. O'Hara, deputy collector, be appointed to the position of collector. It will have no effect on the already agreed upon decision of the Cabinet.

Funeral of Mr. J. Reynolds. MARTINTOWN, Ont. Nov. 4.—The largest funeral procession which ever took place in this country, accompanied the remains of the late Mr. Jas. Reynolds, ex-M.P. for Glangarry, from his late residence in Lancaster to St. Andrew's Church cemetery here for burial yesterday. The procession was fully two miles in length, there being about 300 carriages in line. The coffin was covered with beautiful wreaths from a number of his many friends of Arran, Kingston, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

THE WALLED HERD.

STRANGE STORY OF AN INACCESSIBLE BAND OF CATTLE.

A Pyramid of Bones Marks the Spot Where Their Ancestors Fell Over a Precipice Twenty Years Ago—Dwell in Safety Where Man Has Never Trod.

In the wildest portion of the west, 71 miles northwest of Meeker, where, in 1875, the Utes massacred the Meeker family and every one at the agency, is the most wonderful cattle ranch in the world. Within a space of five miles in length and three miles in width roams a herd upon whose sides the branding iron has never been placed and around whose horns the lariat has never tightened. But a score or even fewer of them have ever been seen by man or horse or other animal of their kind, and, in fact, their kin except at a distance of nearly 600 feet high above them. The Indians call them "P'chek up," or red buffalo. And yet if an Indian who has seen them should be asked about it, he would laugh and shake his head, and all the information obtainable would be, "P'chek up; 'em red; no ketel 'em." There are more than 1,000 of this herd, and yet no man owns them, nor is there a man, white or black or copper colored, who has ever been able to possess a single hoof of these fat and tempting beasts.

The cattle are in a prison. Out of it there is one method of escape, but to travel that road means death to the adventurous ones. There is no way to get in except to be by use of a rope 1,000 feet in length. As the Indians say: "Hear see 'em; no ketel 'em; no come away." On the two long sides of the oblong space in which these cattle roam rise precipitous and overhanging cliffs for 500 or 600 feet—yawning, black and insurmountable. At either end a scathe and rushes the Yampa or Bear river. For miles above and miles below it plunges and stumbles on into headlong haste to reach the arms of its parent, the scarcely less tumultuous but deeper Green river. Like the wonderful flat top mountains of Colorado, this home of the imprisoned herd has no likeness in the world. It recalls in its inaccessibility the marvelous stories of the valley of verdure, into which Mayne Reid's adventurers only found their way by the assistance of the balloon.

The story of the way in which these cattle came there is as strange as their existence is curious. Over 20 years ago, when the government troops were pursuing the Mormon murderers of the innocent victims of the Mountain Meadows massacre, the Indians, or, according to the legends of the Mormons, for their lives into what was then literally the wilderness. A few of those who had been the blind followers of Lee, the Mormon head incoherent, whose hands were red with the blood of women and children, found in their wanderings a valley or stream, which flows from the Wasatch range into the Green river. They stuck their stakes, built their campfires and during the night their sagacious leader had a vision, which told him there to stay. They could hardly have chosen a spot more fertile or more isolated spot. They called it Ashley, and about them have since gathered more of their sect until where the refugees posted their pickets on the lonely nights of the first summer has grown a thriving village. It is 140 miles from the Union Pacific railroad south and 148 miles north of the Rio Grande Western. Until within a few years past it has been isolated entirely, but now it is but 30 miles from the Ute reservation, and furnishing supplies for the agency forms quite a business for the community.

It is a tenet of the Danites that robbing or theft from a gentile is no crime. So it was thought to be only a cunning trick when John Wyckliffe, one of the Mormon settlers of the new town, and his three sons made a night sortie on Henry's fort in Wyoming and carried away 800 head of cattle ranging there. This was in 1874. The owners of the cattle discovered their loss a few days after they were gone and started in pursuit.

The thieves and the stolen herd had reached a mass of icy granite at sundown one day and halted to camp for the night. A terrific storm arose. The lightning flashed incessantly, and the thunder pealed and cracked with intermittent fury. The four men desperately held the terror-stricken cattle by riding around them constantly and chanting some weird tune. But the wild fearlessness of the furious storm excited the brutes beyond measure. They surged and ground, every moment growing less subject to control. All at once, as if by one mad impulse, they stampeded.

John Wyckliffe and his sons met their fate amid the lightning's glare and the thunder's roar. They endeavored to head off the stampeding herd. Instead they and their horses were swept on and driven in the terror to escape the charge of the maddest animal over the brink of the awful precipice which trowns up from the waters of the Bear. After them plunged the whole fright crazed herd, and down to the bottom of the fearful fall went horses, riders and horned creatures. Out of this strange plunge of life to what was seemingly certain death to all a few of the herd were not killed. Those which led gone ahead formed a cushion of death. Maimed, stunned, but still invested with a spark of life, when the dense storm was over the living cattle crawled out from the mass beneath them and formed a nucleus for the herd which now roams at will within its rocky confines. On the bank of the river, stretching back a few hundred yards, grow succulent grasses, and upon this the cattle have propagated and thrived. In looking over the edge of the precipice one can see that they are much and as wild and agile as deer. They have been shot at to see the effect and have learned to regard the appearance of a man, whether Indian or white, as a menace from which they flee, clambering over rocks and through underbrush in the chase to a point of concealment.

The place where the thieves and their horses and the herd fell is plainly marked by a pyramid of bones, which rises to the height of 30 feet. The ghastly reminder and relief of the human and animal victims of the terrible fall shine forth, white and glistening when the sun is high and reaches that spot with its full glare. The progeny of the surviving animals from the fall are fat and sleek, though, and have their sunny beds, dewlike, where they lie for warmth in the winter, and to them the monument of skeletons is no source of disquietude. There is no deer mountain (or more dangerous bear, nor, in fact, any other animal thing within this cow garden of Eden. As yet, too, no man has been able to reach or disturb them.—San Francisco Examiner.

According to Muller, the total number of words, or, rather, ideas, expressed by Chinese characters is 48,000.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

that existing arrangements be continued until after the New Year. It might be well, however, to make an exception in the case of the Division under charge of Mr.
Yennie. With the two large classes, (about seventy pupils in all) now in his room it is impossible to do justice either to himself or the pupils. If the Third Class could be placed under charge of an additional teacher, as soon as a room is ready, we are convinced that better progress will be made.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALEX. WHEAT, Inspector.

SUPERVISOR COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN:—Your Supervisor Committee beg leave to report in reference to the matters referred to them as follows:—
1. Your Committee have made careful inquiry into the question of purchasing works of reference for the public schools, and being of the opinion that such works would add greatly to the efficiency of the schools, by affording the teachers the means whereby the pupils may be trained in the habit of obtaining knowledge for themselves, and as sources of information for both teachers and pupils.

We are of the opinion that Blackie's encyclopaedia and dictionary are well adapted to the wants of the schools, and that the offer by the Bryant Company to supply four sets of the work, and four dictionaries, is reasonably low; we would therefore respectfully recommend that the purchase be made, and each of the four schools be supplied with a set of works.

2. Your Committee would recommend that the classes for 1896 be arranged as follows:

(a) That the senior third class, of seventeen pupils, be removed from the West
Ward school to the Central school.

(b) That the boundaries remain as at present for that school.

(c) That the boundaries remain unaltered for the Central and South Ward schools (as shown on the map), but that all the pupils living in the part of the town known as Gore, be required to attend the South Ward school.

(d) That all the pupils of all classes living in the district prescribed for the South Ward school attend that school, thus relieving the Central school of the following:
Six senior fourth class pupils, thirty-three junior fourth class pupils, fifteen senior third class pupils, eleven junior third class pupils, also about twenty pupils in the lower classes. This distribution would make it possible to relieve the primary rooms in the South school, the West school and the Central school, and as there are now in each of these divisions about 90 pupils, and relief will be timely, both in enabling the teachers to do justice to the pupils, and in providing accommodation for those who will enter during the spring months.

With these few changes to classes in the four schools might be advantageously arranged as shown on the accompanying sheet.

3. Your Committee beg leave to submit the following report in reply to the questions of the Hon. the Minister of Education—respecting the truancy of the town:

1. Truancy though it prevails to a limited extent among the children of the town, is not general, being confined to the cases of some dozen incorrigibles.

2. The practice is owing in a few of these cases to the indifference of the parents. In by far the greater number of cases, however, the parents are anxious to keep their children at school, and fall in doing so, solely through their inability to control them.

3. (a) We are of the opinion that it would be unwise and unjust to punish the children since the parents are at fault in not exercising sufficient firmness. It is inadvisable to make many pupils and parents having been brought before him, against whom the charge of violating the act was clear, but in no instance was a fine imposed.

(b) The Board of Education take an active interest in enforcing the law. For two years a Public School Inspector has been employed solely for the purpose of seeing that the law is enforced, and that the attendance of the pupils and report promptly to the Board of Education, the number that have occurred during the month.

(c) Your committee are of the opinion that, if enforced, the penalties would be sufficient in all except the cases of the few habitual truants, and that these in the interests of the other pupils, should be removed to some other school specially provided for them.

(d) The duties of the pupils respecting compulsory attendance are read to them by the teachers from time to time.

(e) Your committee are of the opinion that the visit of the trustee officer—usually a policeman—would have an injurious effect upon the pupils, nearly all of whom are well disposed—a tendency to make them feel that they were suspected and placed under police surveillance.

We are of the opinion that while the plan of setting apart one school as a truant school could be operated successfully and beneficially in large cities, it is impracticable in the small ones; (1) because the smallness of the number of truants would not warrant the necessary outlay, and (2) because the incorrigibles coming from all grades, and not to be taught efficiently by one teacher. As a more practicable plan we would suggest that each county join with the cities, and towns, situated within it in providing one such school, the cost being borne jointly by the county, and these separate municipalities. 5. The following plan now in operation in the schools of this town in our opinion, operates efficiently, so that the pupils registered are concerned.—The teacher on modifying the absence of the pupil at once sends a written inquiry to the parent as to the cause of absence. If the answer is not forthcoming, it is unsatisfactory, she immediately reports to the inspector, who in return reports the case to the trustee officer, in this way truants are quickly discovered and brought to book, one day usually suffic-ing.

In the case of the pupils who do not enter school, no provision is made under the Act, by which the trustees are enabled to detect cases of its violation except once a year, through the returns of the census-taker. In the interim between censuses a whole year advances from school is possible.

We are of the opinion the defect might be remedied by inserting in the Act a clause making it compulsory for every parent or guardian to register with the clerk, the names and ages of all minors, under his charge at least twice a year, say in March and September.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. M. CHAIRMAN.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN:—The Property Committee beg leave to report that, agreeable to instructions received from your Board, we have purchased the school desks required to furnish the rooms requiring desks in the South Ward school. The following report which we received from the Public School Inspector, guided us as to the quantity required. In addition to the desks purchased he recommended the purchase of four teachers' tables, also one large pendulum clock for Principal's room and three small ones for assistants rooms which we would recommend.

We can scarcely say positively that the new South Ward school will be ready for school purposes on 1. December 1, but we would hope that it will be in such a shape that at least the entrance class will be able to take possession of their room, as at present the presence of two large classes in the Principal's room, and over 90 pupils is detrimental to the pupils both mentally and physically and does not permit of the Principal giving reasonable attention to the work required.

The insurance on the South Ward school expired on the 1st of November. We have had the building reinsured for $10,000 and contents $4,000. In estimating this amount due consideration was given to the new edition.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

PETER HAMILTON, Chairman.

A FEW MOTIONS.

On motion a grant of $15 was made to Janitor Laing for extra services during examinations.

On motion of Messrs. McEln and Hamilton the Property Committee was reinstated to have a fence erected around the South Ward School and to make the necessary repairs to the gymnasium.

On motion of Messrs. Hill and Ferguson the secretary was instructed to write to Contractor Bathford and inform him that the Board was not at all satisfied with the progress of the erection of the South Ward school, and to give the contractor notice that the Board would exact the full penalty of the contract if the work was not completed by the specified time.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Danlop's conservatories, Bloor-st.
west, Toronto. Visitors are always well come. Mr. Danlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

It is reported in Paris that the articles of food and money supplied by the public for the troops in Madagascar were not distributed, as intended, but sold to them at exorbitant rates.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SWITZERLAND:—Monsieur: intense itching and
stinging; most at night; worse by scratching.
I allowed to continue longer form, which often bleeds and ulcers, becoming very sore.
SWATON'S OINTMENT stops the itching and stinging, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumours. At drug stores, or by mail

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever."

The members of the George and Charlotte street Auxiliaries are cordially invited to attend, and also all interested in mission work.

"A Cat's Paw."

(Advertiser, London, Ont., Nov. 1.) "A Cat's Paw" was produced at the Grand last night to a delighted and highly appreciative audience. The night was a most disagreeable one for theatre-goers, but Mr. Edwards and his admirable company were nevertheless greeted with a "fair weather" house. Mr. Edwards is no stranger to London audiences, but it is doubtful if he has ever been seen here to better advantage than in the role of Jonathan Perkins, a retired glue manufacturer on a tour through Switzerland. The entire company is a brilliant one, and from start to finish the fun never flags. Mr. Edwards' address was a spontaneous and spontaneous outburst of applause from all parts of the house, and at the end of the second act the curtain had to be run up after repeated calls. Miss Goldie Edwards and Miss Lydia Knott, in their respective parts, were both original and refreshing. Miss Annie Bodden in the austere role of Mrs. Capt. Upson formed a striking and highly amusing contrast to Mr. Edwards. The other members of the company were worthy of a comedy which for subtlety, wit, humor and mirth-producing incidents has not been equalled in London for many a day. This company will appear in the Opera House here on Monday evening next.

LATEST FROM LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence Morning Times. Social gatherings and entertainments are becoming frequent with the shortening days. The Klansmen last week in the Town Hall marked the opening of the winter concert season and owing to various circumstances was not so largely attended as the excellence of the programme deserved.

A large number of new books have arrived and have been placed on the shelves of the public library.

The Halloween pranks were this year confined to the removal of a few gales, etc., and no harm was done owing to the vigilance of the constable.

A large number of hunters from the village went to the northern lakes and woods last week. R. C. Strickland and party had two fine bucks in Stony lake on Saturday. Several cases of farm stock are taking place in this vicinity, but prices are low. H. Mallinoy, son of and co-owner to the late Geo. ## THE BODY IS FOUND.

REMAINS OF CAPT. REYNOLDS FOUND YESTERDAY MORNING.

Found in Eight Feet of Water Near the Spot Where the Paddies were Picked up.—The funeral will take place tomorrow.

The body of Capt. Samuel Reynolds, who was drowned between Ruckhorn pier and Deer Bay, has been recovered.

For over a week a relentless search has been going on for the remains of the unfortunate man, and all hope of finding the body had just about been given up, when the searchers came upon it most unexpectedly.

Messrs. James and Andrew Montgomery were dragging the waters in the vicinity of where the paddies were found. At one o'clock their grappling hooks caught, and they drew to the surface the body which was wonderfully preserved considering the length of time it had been in the water. The water was 8 feet deep at this spot.

They immediately started for Lakefield and reached there last night. The body was immediately placed in the hands of the undertakers.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock under the auspices of the Masonic Order there. The members of the Peterborough Lodge are requested to attend, if possible.

THE RECORDS TODAY.

The Racing for Them Will Positively Begin This Morning.

At 10 o'clock this morning Harley Davidson will try for the records. The track was thoroughly rolled last night and is in excellent condition, if not positively fast. Davidson returned from Buffalo yesterday noon, but did not bring the "Globe" quad, as he was unable to secure it. However, his pacers are in good condition, and feel confident they can carry him at a pace that will make that lower the present records. Mr. J. C. Penfeyres, a fast rider, has joined the team here.

Peterborough's chances of getting the big C.W.A. meet next year, rest largely on the time that Davidson will make today. If Davidson breaks records here it will be published throughout Canada, and the fastest track will be established.

Had Peterborough been able to demonstrate last year that the track here was a fast bicycle track and not merely a horse track, as was generally believed, we would have secured the meet of 1905. Payson Davidson made the assertion at the American circuit races here, that the track was as fast, if not faster, than any track in Canada. He has proven the sincerity of his words by bringing his brother here to try for the records.

The boys have been well received in Peterborough and made hosts of friends.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN.—In submitting for your consideration a statement of the condition and progress of the schools, during the month just ended, it affords me great pleasure to report a very satisfactory month's work.

The attendance of pupils has been excellent, the average, as is shown in the accompanying statement, reaching over ninety per cent. of the total number enrolled. Under any circumstances, this would speak well for the vigilance of the teachers, and the seal of the pupils. When the inclemency of the weather is taken into account, even greater credit must be accorded.

The absence of truancy during the month affords still further ground for congratulations. Except in two instances—and those occurred toward the first of the month—all cases of absence have been satisfactorily explained as due either to illness or unavoidable detention by the parents. While much of the credit is due the parents for this satisfactory state of affairs, unstinted praise must, in justice, be awarded the pupils for their promptness and regularity. I have strong hopes that the unwearied efforts of the truant officers in tracing and securing delinquents, and the promptness of the teachers in reporting cases of absence, have taught the few habitual offenders a wholesome lesson; and that, guided by their own good sense, these boys will be among the most regular in attendance.

The order and discipline in the schools, except in the instance referred to in my last report, are really excellent. In these cases, however, further experience has fully confirmed my first impression, both as to the seriousness of the laxity and the cause of it. And, though it is a somewhat hopeful sign that improvement has been made, still the children are led to attribute the change to the outside influence, and neither teacher nor pupils are possessed of the idea of the moral necessity of order. It is, therefore, a matter of great importance that the teacher may bring about a more desirable condition.

In my former statement reference was made to the subjects of reading and mechanical arithmetic, and I have since had no occasion to change my opinion, as then expressed, that these subjects had not been well taught. The pupils are lamentably backward in both. The teachers, however, have taken the matter vigorously in hand, and a most encouraging

KEEP OUT ENEMIES.

POISONS IN THE BLOOD ARE OUR MOST DEADLY ENEMIES.

The Kidneys Stand Like Sentinels to Guard the Citadel of Life—When Weak and Failing Relieve These Guards by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Most diseases are caused by poison in the blood.

The poison should be kept out. The kidneys are supposed to do this. That is what they are there for.

And they generally do. But when they are sick they can't; and then we get sick.

The kidneys may get sick from overwork, worry, excess, high living, etc. The reason so many of our great men die from Bright's disease is that so many overlook themselves.

Bright's disease is only one of the many diseases the root of which lies in the kidneys.

Other folks suffer from diabetes, rheumatism, gout, gravel, sleeplessness, anaemia, nervousness, headache, neuralgia, etc.

All these diseases would go if the poison could be got out of your blood. If the kidneys would only do their work.

If you would take Dodd's Kidney Pills your kidneys would brace up and recommend to do their work.

It is not the fault, but the overworking of the kidneys that does the mischief.

You should do the best you know to help them.

It is such an easy piece of knowledge to remember.

Your kidneys are simply filters. They need looking to now and then like other filters. If they are kept clean and healthy, they will keep your blood clean and healthy, and you will be strong and healthy.

Dodd's Kidneys Pills give fresh life and power to the kidneys. They cause the kidneys to purify the blood, to make it redder and healthier and more nourishing. They put new life into your body, new color into your blood, new ambition into your mind, new youth into your joints and muscles.

They do not work miracles. But they cure diseases. A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

We can refer any victim of Bright's disease to hundreds of people who were given up to die, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them.

ing feature is the marked improvement made during the month. Still a heavy task remains to be accomplished, and even with the most strenuous efforts a long period must be required to bring the pupils to a state of efficiency.

In this connection I would respectfully suggest that a principle which is already in operation to some extent in the schools might profitably be made of more general application. I refer to the plan of allowing teachers to interchange classes, each teaching the subjects in which he is most proficient. It is the plan so successfully adopted in all the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province, and which business men apply with good results in the shop, the office, and the factory. It has already been fully tried and proven in the case of the two entrance classes in the Central School, and to a more limited extent in the classes under charge of Mr. Yanny and Miss Mark. With your approval I will endeavor to make it more general.

A matter which I cannot but regard as a serious defect in the organization of the schools has lately pressed itself upon my notice; and as it seems to demand immediate adjustment, I would respectfully point it out as worthy of your consideration. I refer to the congested state of the primary classes. As proof of the deplorable overcrowded condition of these classes, a plain statement of the facts will, I think be sufficient.—Of the 1400 pupils now enrolled, (including the Kindergartens) but 744 have got beyond the first book while 740, or over 50 per cent. are still in these classes.

The statistics of the statistics given in the reports of the minister of education for the last two years, shows that, while in Peterborough the pupils in these primary classes, contribute 48 per cent. of the whole they reach but 39 per cent. of an average in nine other places about equal in population. That is the first book pupils with us are about half of the whole, while in other towns the similar advantage they do not exceed twofifths. These facts tell most unfavorable against our schools; for no better test can be had than the progress of the pupils, and where progress has been made there cannot result such a stagnation in the primary divisions. After a careful examination of the circumstances, I am of opinion that the cause is to be found in the bad distribution of the teachers. Considering the fact that in these classes the 740 pupils are distributed among 12 teachers giving to each an average of 63, while in the higher classes, the 15 teachers have each an average of but 49 pupils, and remembering that small pupils are enabled to make progress only when they receive much individual attention from the teacher, I think the wonder is that matters are not even worse than they are. Experience has demonstrated clearly that no teacher can secure good results with an infant class numbering above forty. Both the interests of the children and economy of outlay, demand, I am sure, a rearrangement upon this basis. With such classification, under a good, energetic teacher, pupils should reach the Second Book in two-and-a-half years, after entering school. Now, as a matter of fact they spend five, on the average, in covering the same ground. Two years, however, is an important item in the child's life; and, if it is remembered that by reducing the time required for each child to pass through the Public schools, we reduce the cost proportionally, the economy of progress will be evident. The additional accommodation which will be afforded by the opening of the new rooms, renders an arrangement of the kind suggested quite practicable. Indeed, in my opinion, it would be unwise to neglect it.

As any alteration in the classes just before the close of a term would injure the prospects of the pupils at the examinations, I would recommend, in view of the fact that several weeks must still elapse before the new building is ready for occupation,

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

The "immortal declaration of President Monroe," which is a cardinal doctrine of United States politics, has received a rude shock from the action of Britain in the Venezuelan dispute. The jingo papers on the other side of the border are crying themselves hoarse in a demand for war. The following from the New York Morning Journal is a fair sample of the cries that are going up:

"Are we to relinquish the old watchword 'America for Americans' and let the English walk over us and establish a new India in South America, cutting us off from fruitful commerce there, and endangering our sole control of the Nicaragua Canal? Or are we to accept the defiance, to adhere to the doctrine of the fathers, and to make England back square down? What has arbitration to do with a case like this? We want action—immediate action, against the encroaching policy of England."

There is a striking agreement between the Journal man and Joseph Chamberlain, British Secretary for the Colonies in their views as to what is required in the emergency. Action is the thing. There is this difference, however, that Joseph took action while all the other fellow can do is to stand on his hind legs and yell for it.

TWO EVIL EXTREMES.

We agree with the Toronto Telegram that Canada is cursed with the extremes represented by people who thought that J. J. Curran, Q. C., should not be appointed because of his creed, and by papers like the Catholic Register, which insist that Mr. Curran shall not be criticized because of his creed.

If Mr. Curran were qualified his religion should not have counted for or against him with the Government, and that he is appointed, why should his religion protect him against criticism meant to show that he was not qualified for the high rank to which he had been raised? Just as the Orange Sentinel cheapens Protestantism by identifying it with the fortunes of ambitious partisans, the Catholic Register cheapens Roman Catholicism by associating its greatness with Mr. Curran's lack of greatness.

Substantially the Globe asserted that Mr. Curran was glib rather than great. As much was said in print often enough, and more has been said in private conversations by Conservatives and Liberals—Protestants, yes, and Catholics, who, if they will forward their names to the Register, will be denounced as enemies of the Pope, because they are not admirers of Mr. Curran.

Hamilton Spectator: Many stamping politicians take their wives along to please the ladies. Laurier went one better in his Ontario trip; he was accompanied by both his wife and his sweet Tart.

Mrs. Della T. S. Parnell, mother of Charles Stewart Parnell, will probably leave Bordentown, N. J., in a few days to make her home permanently in New York. All the household effects belonging to Mrs. Parnell were sold on Wednesday and brought only about $500. Mrs. Parnell prized highly some of the articles disposed of, and told her neighbors she would never part with them were she in a condition to retain them. She is in feeble health, never having recovered from the effects of the assault upon her last winter by scamps whose identity never has become known. For several years she has been receiving the interest of a pension fund, the principal of which is kept in trust.

WILDCATS CAPTURED.

An East Luther Farmer Traps Two Fine Specimens in the Great Marsh.

Wildcats have been creating havoc for some months past in the vicinity of the great marsh in East Luther, says the Orangeville Advertiser. The depredations of two of them were very suddenly stopped one night recently, when a neighboring farmer placed a couple of traps on the carcass of a dead horse, and some hours later found them occupied by two large wildcats, a male and a female. The male was of extraordinary size, measuring about 8½ feet from tip to tip, but was so ferocious that he could not be taken alive. The other was secured in a box, and was uninjured, except where the jaws of the trap had closed on her leg.

A Colossal Bottle.

At the Bordeaux exhibition, which will be opened shortly, will be seen the largest bottle ever made. It will be no less than 35 metres, or nearly 115 feet high, and it will represent a bottle of tonic bitters. To the Bordeaux exhibition it will be what the Eiffel Tower was to the Paris Exhibition of 1889. The bottle will be in the centre of the grounds, and people will be admitted to the interior. Two enormous floors will give access to the ground floor, where there will be a large refreshment room. Leading to the first, second and third floors there will be two spacious staircases, each of 100 steps. They will end about half-way up, after which there is to be a winding staircase leading to the neck of the bottle, at the top of which there will be a terrace, with room for thirty-five people upon it, whence a fine view of the exhibition grounds and the city will be obtained. The whole will be surmounted by a kiosk in the guise of a cork, which will afford a shelter from the sun or rain.

An Inviting Prospect.

The Landlady—Yes, I have a piano in the house, but it won't be no worry to you.

The New Boarder—Oh, I don't expect to be worried by music. I am fond of it.

The L.—Yes, but some people are such poor players that they do aggravate one.

The N.B.—That's true.

The L.—But my daughter won't trouble you that way; she can't play any yet; she's only learnin' and all she does is practices.—Boston Courier.

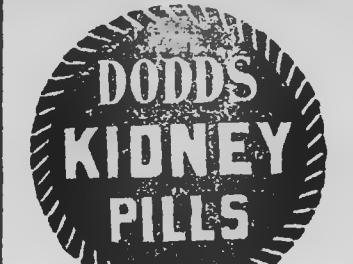

He Was All Right.

Aunt Cynthia (as her husband and nephew go out the door)—That's just one reason I hate to bring Josiah to town to visit any of his nephews. The very first night they allers take him out to see the sights of the city.

Her City Niece—Oh, don't worry, Aunt; he'll be all right.

Aunt Cynthia—Yes; but he allers has to bring his nephews home in a carriage.

Electrical Treatment

410 Cowan Ave., Toronto.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

THE MURRAY CASE.

OUR REPORTER INTERVIEWS MR. MURRAY, OF GRAVENHURST.

His Case is Verified—The Grand Trunk Railway Actually Paid His Claim and He Afterwards Recovered from Paralysis by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Newspaper readers will remember a case much talked of about three years ago—that of Samuel Murray, of Gravenhurst.

The story was to the effect that from a neglected injury blood poisoning had finally resulted in paralysis; that after being confined to his bed for a year, he was pronounced incurable; that he had been paid total disability insurance by the Grand Trunk Company, as well as that he was finally given up to die.

Later on his fellow townsmen were surprised by his unexpected reappearance apparently as well as ever.

All these alleged facts were published by the proprietors of a patent medicine appearing in the papers all over Canada.

Quite recently another series of such reports of alleged cures have been crowding the columns of city papers, and in the public interest we had determined to investigate whenever possible. Our first opportunity presented itself on noticing the name of this gentleman on the register of one of the city hotels.

A man in the prime of life was pointed out, to our reporter, tall, hale, and wiry and much bronzed by the sun and weather, with nothing to suggest a history of any great constitutional strain.

"You will pardon me, I know," said our reporter, "but we think it due to the public to be assured of the exact truth of the statements made in your case; that you re-affirm or deny them; and state your motive for permitting them to appear in the newspapers."

"Most certainly," smilingly answered Mr. Murray; "there is an inaccuracy in the statement, but I think it was unintentional. The Brotherhood paid me benefits, but not for disability, as I was getting better when it was offered, and I refused it. The other points are simply far short of the whole truth. The whole can never be told. I was expecting the end—almost hopefully—until my wife urged me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"I felt benefit soon after commencing, and twelve boxes made a complete cure. People were surprised, pleased and wondering."

"I am glad to hear it," said our reporter. "But your motive?"

"Well, it was not to see my name in print. I always hated that part of it. I thought to do some poor sufferer some good, and I hope it will induce others to try these pills," said Mr. Murray.

"But you don't look as though you ever had a day's illness in your life."

"No," he replied. "I am well, and I stay so—have lately passed examination for life insurance. I am a lumberman and work the year round in wet, snow and heat. But thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills, I never feel any twinge of the old trouble. I have never since needed or taken either this or other treatment, and I owe my life to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only treatment that has ever cured Paralysis at such a stage.—Toronto "Star."

BRIEF WIRELETS.

The Turkish Government has again given instructions for the protection of American missionaries at Beirut.

Forty-five invalid soldiers died on board the Casbah, which arrived at Algiers yesterday from Madagascar.

Premier Bourgeois read the declaration of policy of the new Ministry in the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

The British steamer Cuban, from New Orleans, arrived at Liverpool yesterday with her cargo on fire. The vessel was saved.

The death is announced at London of Mrs. Mary Ann Everett, nee Wood, a well known authoress. She was born in 1818.

The French Radical and Socialist press are enthusiastic in their approval of the address delivered in the Chamber yesterday by Premier Bourgeois.

A portion of the newly constructed Savannah passenger steamer at Maitland collapsed with a dreadful crash this morning, burying 15 workmen under the ruins.

Blood and nerves are closely related. Keep the blood pure with Dodd's Sarsaparilla and you will never be nervous.

They Put Him Asleep.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Amie Gauthier, the murderer of Collin Coudray, continues to give eccentric conduct. For some of the guards he is quite rebellious, while others have an ascendancy over him and with them he is most docile. Last evening he refused to go to bed for some time, and energetic action had to be taken to make him comply with the prison regulations.

A MORNING BATH IN MAUI.

From cloth of gold of eastern looms
And whirl and glare of city rooms
She fled away to woodland blooms.
In softly swaying holokas,
Her bare feet wet with morning dew,
She strayed upon the hills she knew,
She climbed among the waterfalls
Where streamlet unto streamlet calls
Amid the spongy canyon walls;
And at some placid pool between
Where forest trees together lean,
Making untaught a perfect screen,
She staid and listened for some sound
Of man or beast that, lingering round,
Might trespass on her chosen ground.
The oos sang their roundelay,
As Ulua flashed a crimson ray
Above the shadows of the day,
A lizard rustled in the sod,
The bamboo swayed its slender rod.
None saw her but the birds and—God,
Like an expectant chrysalis
She shed her clothes as things amiss
And radiant stood for winds to kiss;
She shook her dark hair to the breeze,
And so arrayed unto her knees
She stole among the whispering trees
And climbed among the rocks that lie
In primal masonry on high
And stood outlined against the sky.
The sun shone on her body fair,
The trade winds frolicked with her hair,
All nature did her homage there;
And she, there standing in the sun,
Was with all other nature one
And felt its currents through her run.
Too soon, alas! in sinuous grace
She ran with swiftly flying pace
And boldly sprang from that high place,
And like a meteor in its flight
Or unbreathed knightly saber bright,
She flashed one moment in the light
And then in watery eclipse
From velvet toes to finger tips
Went out that sweet apocalypse!
—Hawian Gazette.

Trickery of the Camera.

One of the most eminent architects in the kingdom once showed a photo of a column and capital to a number of his colleagues. Had they ever seen such a capital? They had not, and they said so. Then arose disputes as to the precise nature of the architecture. Finally sundry big wagers were made, and then the architect proceeded gravely to explain the structure of the column and its capital. This he did by producing his Malacca walking stick and a few sprigs of succulent broccoli. Naturally enough, however, after many abstruse disquisitions on medieval architecture had been given on the subject of the mysterious pillar, this explanation of the photograph was received in silent disgust.

An equally amusing case of the duplicity of the camera was found in a law case in London when suit was brought to tear down a court, which, it was maintained, was dingy, dirty and haunted by loafers of questionable character. The counsel on the other side, representing merchants having offices in the court, represented that the passage was well lighted and eminently respectable. Photos were handed in from both sides. The first showed a narrow, disreputable looking alley, strewn with rubbish and fallen hoarding. The other picture, however, showed the court in dispute to be a fairly broad, well lighted city thoroughfare, frequented by merchants of thriving appearance.—Strand Magazine.

Modernized Holy Land.

Whatever romance and poetry were in olden times associated with pilgrimages to places reputed sacred are rapidly being destroyed by the prosaic spirit of this very progressive and matter of fact age. Thus those who with pious intentions now visit the Holy Land are transported by rail from Jaffa to Jerusalem, where a funicular line conveys them to the summit of the Mount of Olives, while comfortable hotels on the American plan are to be found at Bethlehem and on the site of the garden of Gethsemane. A hydraulic elevator has been established at Mar-selles for the purpose of hoisting pilgrims to the much visited shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde, perched on the summit of the higher east rock overlooking the city and bay, and to which sailors and travelers on starting out or upon returning from sea voyages have from time immemorial been wont to ascend by the thousands of steep steps or ruelle on their knees.—New York Tribune.

The Main Thing.

Mrs. de Fashion—My dear, I've picked out a husband for you at last.
Miss de Fashion—Very well, but I want to say at once, mother, that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I am going to select the materials myself. So there!—London Tit-Bits.

Never did any soul do good but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. Never was love or gratitude of bounty practiced but with increasing joy, which made the practice still more in love with the fair act.

It is curious that men are not generally ashamed of any form of anger, wrath or malice, but of the first step toward a nobler nature—the confession of a wrong—they are ashamed.

Our natural and happiest life is when we lose ourselves in the exquisite absorption of home, the delicious retirement of dependent love.

Nervous Diseases

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, etc., that the old remedies of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drug is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure.

Brother Crossley doesn't think that skill is important in card-playing. If he would sit in with the boys just once he would probably have good reason to reverse that opinion with neatness and dispatch.

The burning of ten persons by a Mexican mob because they were suspected of heresy is not likely to strengthen the position of those who hold that the education of the people is a duty which should be left to the church, and to the church alone.

The Hamilton Herald says: It is announced now that Manitoba will reply to the remedial order shortly. Orders are usually issued to be obeyed. The purpose of this one appears to be to see how many different ways Premier Greenway can invent of telling the Ottawa authorities to run away somewhere where the heat is hot.

M. Louis de Gramont, a French writer is seriously agitating the project of a baby market in Paris. He argues that a great many people who have no children envy those who have to many. He desires to form an exchange at which parents may bargain for the sale of their offspring to people who are desirous of obtaining a ready-made family.

Cows were milked by machinery at the recent London dairy show. A pulsating vacuum, imitating the sucking of calves was created by an air pump in a series of pipes connected by rubber caps to the cow's teats. Ten cows were milked at once, the milking lasting from three to five minutes, and only two pints and a half of strippings being left.

The Philadelphia common council has been debating the question of employing a chaplain to open the meeting with prayer. One of the members, Thomas Meahan, the well-known gardener and writer, said: "I am opposed to the resolution, because I think that every member should pray for himself, and not shuffle the awful responsibility off on some other man, praying at the public expense. Let us take five minutes at the opening of each session and every fellow pray for himself."

One of the best evidence of the progress of Manitoba and the Northwest is furnished by the returns of the land sold by the Canadian Pacific Railway during the past month. There were nine thousand acres disposed of for an aggregate $30,000, which is four times the quantity sold for the corresponding period of last year. This nine thousand acres will be a substantial addition to the cultivated area of the Territories.

The old Temple Farm in Yorktown, Va., on which Lord Cornwallis surrendered to Washington in 1781, has been sold to a man who has lived in Columbus, O., but who now will make the historic spot his home. Next to Jamestown, Va., the Temple Farm is said to be the most interesting farm in the way of traditions to be found in the United States. Some of the buildings standing in 1781 are still there. The price paid for the place, which contains about 500 acres, was $45,000.

WILDCATS CAPTURED.

An East Luthier Farmer Traps Two Fine Specimens in the Great Marsh. Wildcats have been creating havoc for some months past in the vicinity of the great marsh in East Luthier, says the Orangeville Advertiser. The depredations of two of them were very suddenly stopped one night recently, when a neighboring farmer placed a couple of traps on the carcass of a dead horse, and some hours later found them occupied by two large wildcats, a male and a female. The male was of extraordinary size, measuring about 5 1/2 feet from tip to tip, but was so ferocious that he could not be taken alive. The other was secured in a box, and was uninjured, except where the jaws of the trap had closed on her leg.

A Colossal Bottle. At the Bordeaux exhibition, which will be opened shortly, will be seen the largest bottle ever made. It will be no less than 85 metres, or nearly 115 feet high, and it will represent a bottle of tonic bitters. To the Bordeaux exhibition it will be what the Eiffel Tower was to the Paris Exhibition of 1889. The bottle will be in the centre of the grounds, and people will be admitted to the interior. Two enormous doors will give access to the ground floor, where there will be a large refreshment room. Leading to the first, second and third floors there will be two spacious staircases, each of 100 steps. They will end about half-way up, after which there is to be a winding staircase leading to the neck of the bottle, at the top of which there will be a terrace, with room for thirty-five people upon it, whence a fine view of the exhibition grounds and the city will be obtained. The whole will be surmounted by a kiosk in the guise of a cork, which will afford a shelter from the sun or rain.

An Inviting Prospect. The Landlady—Yes, I have a piano in the house, but it won't be no worry to you. The New Boarder—Oh, I don't expect to be worried by music. I am fond of it. The L.—Yes, but some people are such poor players that they do aggravate one. The N.B.—That's true. The L.—But my daughter won't trouble you that way; she can't play any yet; she's only learnin' and all she does is practices.—Boston Courier.

He Was All Right. Aunt Cynthia (as her husband and nephew go out the door)—That's jess one reason I hate to bring Josiah to town to visit any of his nephews. The very first night they allers take him out to see the sights of the city. Her City Niece—Oh, don't worry, Aunt; he'll be all right. Aunt Cynthia—Yes; but he allers has to bring his nephews home in a carriage.

A. NORMAN, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—We think we ought to acknowledge in some way that may become public, the very great benefit our daughter has derived from the use of your Electro-Curative Belts, and your application of Electricity in the Bath and from Dry Treatment: When we brought her to you she was a picture of unhealthiness, her limbs were shriveled up, and as thin as limbs could be; she had no strength even to play with other children, in fact she was dying of consumption. Besides this, there was a hard lump on her spine at the nape of her neck, which caused her neck to be so stiff she could not move her head. Although it is only three months since we brought her to you she is sound and well.

BORROWED SEX.

WOMEN WHO HAVE MADE THEMSELVES FAMOUS AS MEN.

Queen Christina of Sweden Exhibited Many of the Masculine Vices as Well as Virtues—"Sir James" Barry of the British Navy Was a Woman.

Instances of girls receiving the training and education of boys and of women disguising themselves as men are not as rare as may be supposed. Strong-willed women with features masculine have found it easy to deceive their own as well as the other sex. In some cases the assumed character became a second nature and assumed the common characteristics of the stronger sex.

Perhaps the most noted woman brought up as a boy was the famous queen, Christina, of Sweden, the daughter of Gustavus Adolphus. The king's disappointment at the birth of a daughter instead of a son was so great that the little girl was dressed as a boy and had tutors and valets instead of maids and governesses. She also received a boy's education, being well grounded in the sciences, the ancient and modern languages and in staccato. She proved her knowledge of this last by bringing to a conclusion the disastrous Thirty Years' War in 1648, contrary to the advice of her ministers, the treaty of peace being in every way a most advantageous one for Sweden. She encouraged the development of the arts in her kingdom and did her best "to rule and be respectable," as is publicly put by one high authority. Declaring her determination not to marry, in 1650 she "solemnly took to herself the title of king."

Her education having been opposed to the development of the feminine instincts, naturally Christina exhibited many of the masculine vices as well as virtues; she lavished wealth and dignities on worthless favorites, and finally resigned the crown in 1654, at the age of 33, to travel over Europe in masculine garb, creating a sensation wherever she appeared.

Her entrance into Paris was made on horseback, with an escort of a thousand men. She rode astride, had a cane in her hand and pistols in her boots. During a visit to the theatre she wore, sprawled on her chair, throwing her legs over the arms, and assumed positions never seen except in a man. After making herself a nine days' wonder, Christina outraged all Europe by having her favorite, Mondolochi, put to death—it is said by some in her very presence. Cardinal Mazarin having notified her of the king's displeasure, she replied in a haughty letter that "Christina was a queen wherever she might chance to reside," and advising "Julius" to so conduct himself as to meet her favor. She died at Rome in 1689, aged 63.

"That impudent woman, the Countess of Shrewsbury," as Evelyn calls her, the "wanton Shrewsbury" of Pope—made herself the talk of all England in the reign of Charles II. by disguising herself as a page to follow the Duke of Buckingham. She was said to have held the duke's horse thus attired while he fought with and killed her husband, the Earl of Shrewsbury, in a duel.

Those who doubt the possibility of a woman being able to keep a secret should read the story of "Sir James" Barry, who died July 26, 1895, on the retired list of the British navy as senior inspector general of the medical department. This person, at the age of eighteen, became a hospital assistant in 1818 and two years later was made assistant surgeon. After serving with skill in different successive grades she was made inspector general in 1838 and retired on half pay in 1859. On her death in 1895 word was at once dispatched to the department that the late inspector general was a woman. The landlady in whose lodgings she had lived for years and her black servants were equally ignorant of the fact. Lord Albemarle, who met death in 1819 at Capetown, at the house of the governor, Lord Charles Somerset, described her as "the most skillful of physicians and the most wayward of men." She had the appearance then of a beardless lad of the Scotch type with reddish hair and high cheek bones; her style of conversation was decidedly superior. She actually fought a duel with an officer who called her effeminate and expressed his belief that she ought to wear skirts.

Who she was still remains a mystery to the general public; she was said by some to have been the granddaughter of a Scotch earl, and to have chosen the medical profession in consequence of her love for an army surgeon, but the truth of this is not known.

Instances of borrowed sex have been numerous in every war. Two sisters, Fellicie and Theophile Ferner, the only thirteen, lived in the village of Montange during the French revolution. Finding that their soldiers were insufficient in number to repel the attacks of the enemy, one night they slipped on the clothing of a brother and charged in the front rank of the national guards. Their intrepid behavior brought them to the notice of Gen. Dumouriez, he discovered their sex, and attached them, with their father and brother, to his staff. They were in every action that followed, and always in the front rank in a charge. Theophile killed a general officer in an engagement near Brussels, while at the battle of Jemappes she disarmed and captured a gigantic Hungarian, carrying him off to the hospital. The two sisters aided the general in his escape after Jemappes, and they retired, resuming their maiden garb. The younger married a Belgian general, but Fellicie died single.

Some years ago a gentleman who was investigating revolutionary records in Belgium discovered the names of two persons of the name of Kane, who had received pensions for services during the revolution. One of these names being that of a woman, he was curious enough to inquire about her until he found a descendant. The two proved to have been maid sisters. Kane had enlisted in the battle of the war in the French army, and having been severely and faithfully wounded by a soldier belonging to the same company. Having recovered, naturally the two became devoted friends and the terms of their enlistment having expired, they re-enlisted together, and were sent to Gen. Napoleon's army in Germany. In the camp of Charleston the woman was wounded; not until then did Kane discover the sex of his devoted comrade. He, in turn, became a nurse, and she recovered and married him. She had been in love with Kane since his enlistment, but made no impression upon him. When he entered the army she ran off from home and became "a soldier's little" that she called so long.

THE BOILERS BURST

AND THE BUILDING OF THE DETROIT EVENING JOURNAL COLLAPSED.

Several Lives Were Lost—Shocking Catastrophe in the City of the Straits—Dead and Injured Taken From the Ruins. Special to the Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—At 9 o'clock this morning the boilers in the Journal building, corner of Second and Shelby streets, exploded with terrible force. A portion of the building about forty feet wide immediately collapsed, burying scores of people. Four dead and several injured have already been taken out. A great many girls and women were employed in the building.

The members of the editorial department of the Journal are all reported to be saved. There was probably a hundred or more persons in the wrecked portion. Shortly after 9 o'clock the ruins broke out in flames and the great clouds of stifling smoke seriously impeded the firemen in their work of rescue. It is positively known that at the time of the collapse the stereotypers engaged on the fifth floor were Michael Ward, Arthur Lynch and James Ross. All three went down in the wreck. In the third story was the Habbitt Electrotype Foundry, in which there were some half dozen men. In the top story were the Journal's stereotyping department where four or five men were busy.

THE BUILDING CUT IN TWO. The large building is cut completely in two from the front to the rear by a gap of forty feet, at the bottom of which is an almost solid pile of timber, bricks and debris, into which the first floor or two's work of search for bodies made but little progress. The John Davis Company, grocers' sundries, occupied the ground floor and basement of one end of the building. The firm's list of employees is not large but it is doubtful whether all escaped. The gap in the building extends through about half of the Davis' establishment. The Journal's mailing department on the first floor was demolished, and the few employees who were there at the time are not yet accounted for. At least a dozen persons are believed to have been at work in Biller's bookbindery on the second floor. Some of those who escaped from the wreck report that they heard screams of some of the bindery girls as they fell and were pinned in the wreck. The Habbitt type foundry on the third floor and the Journal's stereotyping department on the fifth floor each contributed human victims. The members of the editorial staff on the fourth floor, however all escaped, many scrambling in the brick and debris, but the fire which is burning makes it probable that some of the bodies at least will be incinerated. Up to 11:30 a.m. three dead bodies had been recovered from the ruins, two men and a girl, all unidentified. At least two of the injured will probably die.

A MOVEMENT IN THE RUBBISH. About fifteen minutes after the explosion those standing at the east side of the wrecked building saw a movement in the rubbish. A hand appeared followed by an arm, and helpers ran to the rescue. A moment later John M. Winter, an employee of John Davis' spice and mustard mills was dragged out. Albert Lynch, one of the Journal's stereotypers, was removed unconscious, but not seriously hurt. Several others were later rescued with but slight injuries.

H. C. Kohlbrecht, owner of the Kohlbrecht Engraving Company, whose rooms were on the third floor, said at eleven o'clock that two boys, each about sixteen years old, worked for him and were in the wreck. They were John Bowman and Henry Welch. They were the only persons at work for him today. Those known to be injured thus far are: Cornelius George, stereotyping, Journal mailing room; Frederick Webster, of the Journal, both legs and arm broken, supposed fatally injured; Tom Williams, assistant foreman Journal, struck on head by steam pipe, not seriously injured; Frank G. Lester, artist, seriously cut about head with glass; Miss Annie O'Donoghue, arms broken, taken out unconscious; Martin Meyer, editor-in-chief, cut on head; Evening News, badly cut in neck and head. At 10:30 the dead body of a young girl was taken out. She is unknown as yet. A body supposed to be that of William Lynch was dragged out about the same time. He ran a small machine shop in the building, his business being repairing typesetting machines.

THE CAUSE A MYSTERY. As yet the cause of the explosion is a mystery. Thomas Thompson, the engineer, came out of the wreck painfully injured. His clothes were all torn off and blood was running from scores of cuts. He said he knew of no reason for the explosion and was too excited to talk coherently. The work of rescue is progressing slowly. M. Jacobs, a paper dealer, who had just left Filler's bindery when the explosion occurred, says there were fully 30 employees in the bindery.

Blood and nerves are closely related. Keep the blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla and you will never be nervous.

NEW YORK'S FIRE

Was Still Burning at Ten O'clock—A Valuable Building Wrecked. Special to the Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The big fire at Broadway and Bleecker street of last night and this morning was still burning at 10 o'clock. There were at one time one fire, the Manhattan, the Empire State and the old Bleecker street bank. The eight-story stone building owned by the Manhattan Bank, a building supposed to be fire-proof, is very nearly a complete wreck. It cost half a million dollars to build five years ago. There were about twenty different firms in the place, nearly all of which will suffer total loss of their stocks and office furnishings. The total loss is in the neighborhood of $750,000.

SALA'S MOTHER.

Her Experiences With Paganini and Malibran In Giving a Concert in London.

In the "Life and Adventures of George Augustus Sala," written by himself, the following concerning his mother, a gifted songstress and pianist of her day, appears: In addition to her annual concert in London my mother used to have a yearly musical recital at Brighton either just before Christmas or just before Easter. She always took care to engage the brightest musical talent, both vocal and instrumental, that she could possibly secure. Sometimes she had to pay the great artists she engaged, but in a great many more instances they generally gave their services quite gratuitously to the poor widowed gentlewoman with the five children, "clamoring," as Lady Combermere used to tell me in after years, "for large slices of roast mutton." For one of her concerts my mother had the hardihood to engage the greatest cantatrice of her day and perhaps of this century, Maria Felicia Malibran, the daughter of the famous Spanish tenor, Manuel Garcia.

To show the difference that existed between artistic remuneration in 1855 and that which now prevails it will be sufficient to say that Malibran's fee was only 30 guineas. Paganini, the mere announcement of whose name was sufficient to sell half the tickets for the concert, consented to play a solo for 50 guineas, but my parent nourished a fond hope that both artists would waive their rights and decline the money she offered.

My mother, a lady of great sagacity and fertility of resource, thought that something might be done in the way of exciting lenitive influence in the minds of the two great musicians if she took me with her when she called to pay her dues. So I was duly washed and waxed and polished up, and in a new skeleton suit and a very large white cambric collar with a frill round it I was taken first to the hotel where Malibran was staying. The renowned singer smiled, patted me on the head, chuckled me under the chin, told me to be a good boy and very calmly took the £31 10s. which, with trembling hands, my mother placed on the table. She had a good cry, poor woman, in the fly which conveyed us to the Old Ship, where Paganini was staying.

I can see him now—a lean, wan, gaunt man in black, with bushy hair—something like Henri Rochefort and a great deal more like Henry Irving. He looked at me long and earnestly, and somehow, although he was about as weird looking a creature as can well be imagined, I did not feel afraid of him. In a few broken words my mother explained her mission and put down the 50 guineas on the table. When I saw that he washed his hands in the gold—that he scrambled at it as David of old did at the gate—and grasped it and built it up into little heaps, panting the while, I am not in any way exaggerating.

He bundled it up at last in a blue pocket handkerchief with white spots and darted from the room. And we, my poor mother, convulsively clasping my hand, went out on the landing and were about descending the stairs when the mighty violinist bolted again from the bedroom door. "Take that, little boy," he said; "take that," and he thrust a piece of paper rolled up almost in a ball into my hand. It was a bank note for £50!

Little Things Tell.

We wonder, we who are the most wasteful nation in the world, how it is that the French and German housekeepers become owners of the large markets and the fashionable restaurants of the city. I will tell you why it is. They consider the day of little things. Not long ago I asked in an American bake-shop that three of a certain kind of rolls be sent to me. I was told that unless I ordered 12 it would be impossible. It was not a question of cost, but I didn't want them. Leaving the place, I went to one kept by a German. He was civil, perfectly willing to send me the small quantity that I asked for, thanked me very politely for the few cents handed him and said he would be glad at any time to take an order, no matter how small. His civility and courtesy made me his permanent customer.—Philadelphia Times.

To Loosen Your Plaster.

One of the small things to remember is that alcohol will quickly remove an obstinate porous plaster whose period of usefulness has expired and will also cause all unsightly traces of its use to disappear. As soap and water are often entirely inefficient in such offices, a valuable agent should be noted.—New York Recorder.

Her Name.

"Henry Ritter Emma Ritter Dennis Ritter Sweet Potato Cream A. Tarter Caroline Otto" was the name of a 3-year-old negro girl buried at Wetumpka, Ala. The name is inscribed in full upon a marble slab in a local cemetery. The slab gives the further information that she was the daughter of Bob and Snakey Cotten.
